Moore criticizes voter preference poll

ARCH MOORE

Two GOP hopefuls for board

A single policy-making board for higher education in West Virginia drew support Wednesday night from two Republican candidates for governor.

U. S. Rep. Arch Moore, R-W. Va., and former Gov. Cecil Underwood expressed their views when asked this question:

"There is a substantial rivalry between West Virginia University and Marshall University for prestige, financial resources, etc. Would each of the candidates comment on this rivalry. . .?"

Underwood, former governor of West Virginia, said, "There is no reason why they should be in mortal conflict. . . I see no reason to penalize one at the expense of the other."

On the question of reorganization of higher education, Underwood said, "I would favor a single board of regents — some sort of policy-making group for higher education in West Virginia."

"Marshall," said Congressman Moore, "should be permitted to grow and progress as fast as possible."

At a recent conference the congressman said that he told the WVU president that WVU "need not fear a board of regents."

Moore continued, "I subscribe to the approach suggested by the West Virginia Committee on Higher Education — a single board of regents for West Virginia. . . I believe we have to bring some order out of the disorganized approach to higher education."

Both candidates are seeking the Republican party's nod in the May primary and both were guest speakers at a meeting of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism fraternity. Democratic candidates for governor will be invited to the March meeting of Sigma Delta Chi.

Congressman Moore, who is from the Northern Panhandle, says that this geographical fact "is a slight liability to my candidacy."

Sharp criticism of a poll of voter preference undertaken by students of a Marshall University professor was voiced Wednesday night by Congressman Arch Moore, R-W. Va., who is seeking the Republican gubernatorial nomination in the May primary.

Students in a political science class taught by Dr. J. Melvin Miller, assistant professor of political science, have been polling voters in three of the five congressional districts in West Virginia. The results of two polls have been announced so far. Both show that former Gov. Cecil Underwood has substantial leads over Mr. Moore, his political rival.

Congressman Moore charged Professor Miller is working for the election of Underwood. "Just call up Underwood's headquarters in Huntington and find out who answers the telephone," the congressman said, in answer to a question put to him by The Parthenon.

Mr. Underwood, who, like Congressman Moore, was guest speaker at a Sigma Delta Chi professional journalism fraternity meeting, said: "Miller is not on my payroll, as Moore has charged."

The former governor said he knew nothing about how the poll was being conducted or how the sample was selected. "I understand that students poll voters in the students' home areas," he said.

Mr. Underwood said he thought the poll would be valid

Senate approves a record budget

A $12,203 budget, the largest ever, was approved for second semester by Student Senate Wednesday night.

Business Manager Jim Wooten, Beckley junior, attributed the increase to "larger plans for activities such as Homecoming and increased enrollment which brought greater financial returns."

A budget breakdown includes such major items as $4,625 for Impact, $3,750 for Winter Weekend and $350 for the Leadership Seminar, scheduled for Mar. 15-17.

The balance as of Jan. 29 was $7,612.37 and anticipated receipts for this semester are: $2,500 from student activity fees, $2,000 from Winter Weekend ticket sales and election filing fees, $100.

President Mike Farrell announced a student lobbyist group will go to Charleston Tuesday. Lobbyists are especially interested in the "package bill" which proposed a separate board of governors for MU. Farrell expressed disappointment about the shortness of a 30-day session.

Frank Cummings, Huntington junior and commissioner of academic affairs, urged the Senate to "review plans for the new student union, making sure it will be adequate and not outdated within a few years after its construction."

Cummings, along with Jim Slicer, Impact commissioner, and Dean Olen E. Jones, went to West Virginia University over semester break to attend part of the Festival of Ideas which is comparable to the MU Impact.

Cummings also urged greater participation of students in the student government, noting the "dorms are sorely lacking in representation."

In other action, a resolution was passed to send a letter to the Registrar's Office requesting an explanation of why "an outstanding number of seniors who pre-registered did not get first choice of classes."

President Farrell announced tickets for basketball games will now be available four days before each game. In a letter to the Senate, Athletic Director Eddie Barrett expressed satisfaction with the ticket policy which "avoids the 5 p.m. rush and the 7 p.m. rejection."

Farrell announced plans for a Leadership Seminar Mar. 15-17 at Cedar Lakes. The seminar will be selected from both schools.

SAE limitations lifted

Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity was taken off social probation by a unanimous decision of the Judicial Cabinet of the Interfraternity Council at a meeting held Wednesday.

Olen E. Jones, dean of student affairs; George O. Fraley, financial aid officer, and Norby Ore, Huntington senior and IFC president, presided over the meeting.

Three of the four limitations placed on the fraternity at the beginning of the first semester were removed at the meeting.

The prohibition of social functions, the submission of a weekly written report to Dean Jones and the payment of a fine to IFC are no longer in effect.

The cabinet did not remove the restriction on the activation of the SAE pledge class. Dean Jones will decide in May whether or not the fraternity's first semester pledge class will be activated. This decision will be based primarily on the fraternity's action through this semester, according to Dean Jones.

for the three congressional districts, but it would not reflect statewide Republican voter preference.

"I suggest that I'm not going to run my campaign on any confidence built up by these polls," he added.

Mr. Moore, who did not volunteer criticism of the poll, was asked what he thought about it.

"It's difficult to attack he poll because of the Marshall University attachment" and because "students are conducting it."

"If anyone is responsible for my success in politics it is young people," he said.

The congressman said he has been unsuccessful in trying to obtain information on how the poll is being conducted. He left no doubt, however, that he was highly critical of Professor Miller's involvement in the poll.

An evident reluctance to criticize those connected with the poll stems, in part, from the fact Congressman Moore holds two degrees from West Virginia University.

"I'm slightly suspect in the Huntington area," he said.

Underwood received a master's degree in political science from WVU.

Not available

Dr. J. Melvin Miller of the Marshall political science department faculty was in Washington yesterday and could not be reached by The Parthenon for comments on his poll and criticism voiced by Congressman Arch Moore.

Last December, following the first poll, Dr. Miller said his students deserved all the credit for conducting the poll.

Coeds against beer in dorms

By GINNY PITT
Staff Reporter

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third in a series of six articles dealing with coed dormitory policies at Marshall and 27 other colleges and universities. Regulations governing use of alcoholic beverages and smoking in women's dormitories are discussed today.)

Marshall women's dormitory students for the most part do not want beer and alcoholic beverages permitted in the dorms.

More than 77.5 per cent of those coeds responding in a questionnaire concerning women's dorm policies stated they were not in favor of allowing alcoholic beverages in the dorms.

Of 28 colleges and universities responding, 19 administrators also expressed opposition.

The only Mid-American Conference school allowing beer in the dorms is Miami University which restricts alcoholic beverages to individual rooms. University of Toledo's dean of women favors this arrangement "if appropriate precautions are taken to prevent 'beer blasts'."

No schools in West Virginia permit alcoholic beverages in the dorms due to state law. Shepherd College's dean of women favors permission for beer only, and a Concord College administrator writes, "I would adjust to it, but I could not vote for it."

Of other area schools responding Duke University (as of February), Centre College of Kentucky and New York University (University Heights Center) permit alcoholic beverages in the dorms.

In most cases state laws which prohibit drinking by anyone under 21 limit the universities' power to establish policies concerning alcoholic beverages.

Few institutions have smoking regulations except for general fire precautions.

Shepherd College permits smoking only in individual rooms, and Ohio State University prohibits smoking in bed.

Various colleges restrict smoking to lounge areas or to private rooms, but for the most part they share Marshall's policy of general caution only.

Respondents expressed overwhelming support of this policy — 93.3 per cent in favor.

Marietta to host debate tourney

Marshall's debate team has been invited to the Marietta College debating tournament tomorrow at Marietta.

According to debate coach B. W. Hope, the tournament will consist of four rounds, each lasting one hour. Both a negative and affirmative squad in novice and varsity divisions will compete on the topic, guaranteed national income.

Also in the tournament will be a radio announcers' event, where a student will give a three minute news cast and then will be required to ad lib for a period of time.

Marshall's debate team, which has won 23 of 48 matches this year, consists of Harry Quigley, Elkview junior, and Dave Kasper, Clayton, N. J., junior, on the affirmative varsity and Sharon Sturgeon, Point Pleasant sophomore, and Sandra Malott, Huntington sophomore on the affirmative novice. The negative team is made up of Harold Bailes, Clay senior, and Edwin Gartian, Logan senior, on the varsity, and Diane Lentz, St. Albans sophomore, and Larry King, Leager freshman, on the novice.

Although it is well into the debating season, Professor Hope says that any interested student may still try out for the team if he is a full time student.

Dissent topic of talk

William Denman, instructor in speech, will lead a discussion on "The Right of Dissent" 9 and 11 p.m. today at the Campus Christian Center.

This will be the first of a series of discussions to be held at the center, according to Rev. Corky King, one of the three campus pastors.

Mr. Denman said that the value of dissent is the main point of the discussion.

"I don't think that Marshall students are aware of the role of dissent in society. The only way to arrive at the truth is by testing ideas and testing is done by opposition," Mr. Denman said.

This is the typical attitude across the country. A person is usually considered a beatnik or a "bearded idiot" if he dissents, according to Mr. Denman.

Mr. Denman said that he thought that a lot of schools would be better off if students dissented more. "That's why we're here — to test ideas," he said.

Society needs an element to shake things up, an element of constant question, according to Mr. Denman.

Referring to civil rights marches, Mr. Denman said that we are now in a period in which more of this "shaking up" is done.

GOING TO MEETING

Dr. A. Mervin Tyson, vice president of academic affairs, and Robert Alexander, director of placement, will attend an International Education Conference at Concord College today. The topic discussed will be inter-institutional cooperation in establishing international educational programs for Marshall and four other state schools.

Letter to the editor

To the Editor:

Recently a friend and I were discussing the fact that anyone who reaches his 21st birthday between the primary and general elections may register now and vote in the May primary in West Virginia. My friend, who I am sure has some strong political convictions, took great pride in pointing out that he was going to be a non-party affiliate and register as an independent.

I am of the opinion that he is cutting off his nose to spite his face. In West Virginia independents are not permitted to vote in primary elections. Both on the state and national level the vast majority of candidates elected to office are from either the Democrat or Republican parties. It is my contention that anyone interested in any political objective could best serve that objective by registering with one or the other major parties and working in its already established framework. By doing this, one may vote in the primary and therefore help nominate a candidate much more acceptable to him than might otherwise be selected.

All shades of political thought, ranging from the Ku Klux Klan to the John Birch Society, may be found in both major parties. It would seem absurd, then, to say that these parties are not acceptable because of personal political convictions. If one does not like the platform of the party he chooses, he should try to influence it as well as the policy of the government.

So whether a hawk, dove, or redbird it is politically wise to register and work in one of the major political parties in order to most effectively pursue political objectives.

Barboursville Junior

LATE REGISTRATION

Late registration will continue until Saturday at 11:30 a.m., according to Registrar Luther E. Bledsoe. A late registration fee of $10 plus a dollar each additional day with a maximum of $15 for Friday and Saturday will be charged.

Worship program set

The Methodist Student Movement and the Episcopal Student Movement will have a worship-study experience at 6:30 p.m. Sunday in the Campus Christian Center.

The experience will consist of a worship service in which an explanation of the happenings of the service will be given participants. The hymns, sermon, prayer and offertory will be discussed in connection with their use in worship services.

According to the Rev. Bill Villers, Methodist campus pastor, the experience will provide an opportunity for persons to learn why church services are as they are.

Holy communion will be observed. The ritual for the communion service will be that of the Episcopal Church. Those who wish to participate are invited to remain at the close of the joint worship service.

"Everyone is welcome," said the Rev. Villers.

Falcons play here tomorrow

By TIM BUCEY
Sports Co-Editor

The Falcons of Bowling Green will put its five game winning streak on the line tomorrow night as they tangle with the Thundering Herd at Memorial Field House.

The last time Coach Bill Fitch and the Falcons lost was to the Toledo Rockets on Jan. 3 by a 73-69 score in overtime. Since then the Ohioans have reeled off five wins, all in the conference, including a 61-57 decision over Marshall which started the Falcons on their win skein.

Bowling Green has an 11-3 overall record with losses coming at the hands of Iowa, in the first game of the season, Manhattan in the Marshall University Invitational Tournament, and Toledo. The Falcons are 5-1 in the conference and are tied for the lead with Western Michigan.

The contest will be the final meeting between two old rivals, George Stone and Walt Piatkowski. Over the past three seasons, Stone and Piatkowski have carried on a personal scoring battle. During the five meetings between the MU and BG, Stone has a 27.2 average and Piatkowski has averaged 25.4.

Piatkowski, with a 23.3 scoring average overall, is third in conference scoring. Stone is seventh with a 20.3 average.

So far this season Bowling Green has been stingy on defense, as they are leading the conference in defensive average, yielding only 63.3 points per game. They are ranked sixth in offensive average at 70 points even, while Marshall is second only five percentage points behind Western Michigan with an 82.3 average.

MU wrestlers defeat Dayton

A draw kept Marshall wrestlers from a shut out victory last Wednesday in their 31-2 win over University of Dayton.

Dayton's only two points came when Marshall's heavyweight Dennis Caldwell battled to a 7-7 draw with John Greenborn.

"We were in fine condition and showed much improvement," said head coach Larry Coyer. The win gives the Herd a 3-5 record in dual meets.

Marshall travels to Oxford, Ohio Saturday to wrestle Miami University (Ohio) and Indiana University in a triangular meet.

Marshall's next home match is Feb. 7 with Ohio Wesleyan at 7 p.m. in Gullickson Hall. The following Saturday, Feb. 10, the Herd wrestles West Liberty in the Field House preliminary to the Marshall-Toledo basketball game. Match time is 11:30.

"SHE" IS MOVIE

"She" is the title of the movie to be shown in the Student Union at 7:30 p.m. today. The color movie stars Ursula Andress, Peter Cushing and John Richardson and concerns an ancient mountain kingdom and its beautiful ruler, who possesses the secret of eternal youth. Admission is 25 cents, and I.D. cards must be shown.

Leading Herd

GEORGE STONE, leading scorer for the Marshall basketball team is ranked seventh this week among the individual scoring leaders in the Mid-American Conference. His conference average is 20.3 points a game.

3 MU cagers among top scorers in MAC

Three of the Marshall cagers are listed among the top ten individual scoring leaders in this week's Mid-American Conference statistics.

George Stone, the conference scoring champion last season, is currently ranked seventh with a 20.3 average, while the two juniors in the Herd's starting lineup, Jim Davidson and Dan D'Antoni, are ninth and tenth, respectively.

Davidson is currently supporting a 17.1 average in all conference games and D'Antoni is averaging 16.4 per game.

Davidson is leading the conference in free throw percentage, hitting on 90 per cent of his shots from the foul line, and Stone is second with an 87.8 average. D'Antoni is sixth at 80.5.

In field goal percentage Davidson is fourth in the conference hitting on 52.6 per cent of his shots from the floor.

The rebound leader is Bob Allen averaging 13.1 per game, while Reggie Lacefield of Western Michigan is second with an 11.8 average.

All MAC teams will be in action tomorrow with Bowling Green facing the Herd at Memorial Field House, Ohio University at Miami, Kent State at Western Michigan in the MAC TV game of the week and Toledo will be at Virginia Tech.

CHOIR OPENINGS

All University choirs have openings for interested students. Interested persons should contact Dr. Paul Balshaw, Room 157 of the Smith Music Hall. Choir may be taken as a credit if added to schedules by tomorrow.

"Do they want me?"

"Do they really want me?"

This question may be answered in a film of the same title presented by Kappa Alpha Psi fraternity, 7 p.m. today at the First Baptist Church of Huntington. Equal opportunities for the Negro student in education and employment will be discussed by speakers Robert Alexander, placement director and Rev. Charles E. Smith, minister of the First Baptist Church.

According to John Kinney, Wheeling senior and president of Kappa Alpha Psi, "The main objective of the film is to help the Negro student become aware that he will encounter some problems, but also we will show how he might overcome these. There are jobs available. We want to remove the self-doubt in students' minds of the opportunities in employment and education."

The film is aimed largely at industrial employment and areas of education, mortuary science and the ministry Kinney said, "The Negro has been told for so long that all he can do is teach that he has accepted this attitude. This happens not only with the Negro, but with any group."

A discussion, aimed at particular problems, will follow the film.

All interested faculty members and students are invited to attend.

Indian professor here to instruct in English

Dr. Shiv K. Kumar, visiting professor from India, is teaching three English courses here this semester. These three courses are the English Novel to 1800, English Novel of the 19th century and Contemporary Indian Novelists writing in English.

Dr. Kumar is presently chairman of the Department of English at Osmania University in Hyderabad, India.

He received his Master's degree from Punjab University in northern India and received his Ph.D. from Cambridge University in Cambridge, England.

After obtaining his Ph.D. he took part in an International Literary Conference at Harvard in 1959. In 1961 he was invited by the British Council to visit Cambridge. From there he visited Yale at the Conference Board of Associated Press in 1962-63, and in 1966-67 he visited Elmira College in Elmira, New York.

Dr. Kumar has given special lectures at the universities of Moscow, Tokyo, Honk Kong, Utah and Minnesota.

"I am excited to be at Marshall," Dr. Kumar said. "I have found the people very warm and kind and I appreciate their willingness to help."

Dr. Kumar says he considers the United States his second home and he calls his visits here "annual pilgrimages".

Candidates view higher education

"Communications is our greatest problem in West Virginia," he said. "Transportation is a major problem. We've got to build routes of communication—make it easier for Northern Panhandle people to come to this area" — for people of any section to travel to other parts of the state.

Underwood termed sectionalism a major problem, noting a strong heritage that led to sectionalism. He urged the construction of a north-south highway as one important way of attacking the problem.

He, too, urged better highways as a means of facilitating communications.

"We should never tolerate a governor who would play one section against another," Underwood said. "Every act of a governor should be to pull the people together."

318 students take exams tomorrow

The National Teacher's Examination will be given tomorrow at 8 a.m. to 318 students, according to Registrar Luther E. Bledsoe.
