Tickets, buses ready for NIT opener

With the acceptance of a bid by sixth-ranked Duke University the field is now complete for the 1968 edition of the National Invitation Tournament (NIT).

Marshall opens the tourney Thursday at 7 p.m. going against St. Peters, N. J. WSAZ - TV will televise the contest as well as any other Marshall games.

Tickets for the MU-St. Peters game are now on sale at the ticket office in Gullickson Hall. Ticket Manager Jim Hodges said he ordered 500 tickets and will sell student tickets for $2 each. Tickets will be sold until today at 4 p.m.

Bus tickets may be purchased at the Alumni Office for $25 round trip. Buses will leave at midnight, tomorrow from the Science Hall parking lot and will return Sunday if MU loses, or in the event of a win buses will return immediately after the second round game Monday, March 18.

Approximately 60 per cent of the members of fraternities and sororities plan to attend.

Telephone interviews indicated the individual organizations will go in their respective groups and merge with other groups at the tournament to form a strong cheering section for the Thundering Herd.

Alpha Sigma Phi fraternity has chartered a bus and plans to leave tomorrow. The seats are reserved for members but others may ride in the event the bus doesn't fill.

Other Greeks are planning to charter trips and are waiting for the outcome of the first game.

Members of Zeta Beta Tau fraternity will go in cars but also plan to charter an airplane if the "Herd" is winning. Sigma Alpha Epsilon is making tentative plans to charter a bus; and Pi Kappa Alpha is considering a train. All groups will have huge signs attached to their mode of transportation advertising their organizations, Marshall University and their destinations.

Most of the sororities are undecided about how they will attend, but last year several of the sororities chartered buses and shared the expense.

President Stewart H. Smith has reiterated the absence policy in connection with the NIT. Dr. Smith said students should inform their teachers before leaving and arrange to make up work missed.

The President said no penalty should be given for these absences unless the student fails to make up his work. This policy does not apply to student teachers serving in public schools.

Election tomorrow from 8-5

Despite the postponement of the Student Body presidential portion of the election, voters will go to the polls tomorrow from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. to choose class representatives (senators and presidents). Seniors will only vote on two proposed amendments to the constitution.

The election will take place in the basement of the Student Union. All full-time students are eligible to vote upon showing their activity and I.D. cards.

Freshmen, sophomore and junior classes will vote for five class senators and a class president. The senator for each class receiving the highest number of votes will become class vice president.

The amendments concern loyal opposition and Senate reapportionment.

The "loyal opposition" amendment states: "Those candidates Government officials receiving the second highest number of votes for president and vice president of the student body may, after the inauguration of the newly-elected administration, assume the full status and responsibilities of student senators."

The Senate reapportionment amendment would allow two extra senators per class to be elected beginning in this election. The reapportionment plan would begin in March, 1969.

In this plan, each student would register as a voter with one of the following groups: Interdormitory Council, men; Interdormitory Council, women; Inter-Fraternity Council; Panhellenic Council; transient and unaffiliated, and other constituencies as deemed necessary.

Each group may have one representative in Senate for every 200 people it has registered. Students would vote for candidates from their group only. They would vote for as many candidates as their group had senators.

BULLETIN

Student Senate last night accepted a student petition bearing 1,540 signatures to place a proposed amendment on the ballot tomorrow which if approved would delete the part of the Student Government Constitution requiring a three-semester residency for candidates for president. If approved by voters Frank Cummings would be eligible to run for president.

However, Student Court Chief Justice Caroline Massey announced a hearing for 5 p.m. today before the court on a case brought by Senior Class President Nick McGrath. He requested an interpretation of procedure for placing amendments on the ballot and also questioned the power of the court to postpone the presidential election.

Student Court Sunday postponed the presidential election scheduled for tomorrow and declared candidate Frank Cummings, Huntington junior, ineligible to run.

However, elections for student senators and class presidents will be held as scheduled.

Article II, Section 7 of the Student Government Constitution, which sets forth qualifications for the president and vice president of the student body, states in Sentence C that a candidate must "have completed at least three semesters at Marshall University by the end of the semester immediately prior to the semester in which he files."

Cummings entered Marshall in January 1967.

He said he had read the constitution when he became commissioner of Academic Affairs and had seen the clause, but misinterpreted it to mean three semesters including the one in which he filed.

The qualification clause was first brought to the attention of candidate Gregg Terry, Huntington junior, by junior presidential candidate Larry Sonis, Charleston sophomore. Terry contacted his running mate Lynda Clay, Huntington junior, and they took the matter to Dean Olen E. Jones, dean of student affairs.

"We took it (the clause) to Dean Jones rather than student government or the court because we felt he would advise us," Terry said.

Dean Jones notified Student Body President Mike Farrell, Huntington senior, and Cummings.

Following Saturday's mock senate session for High School Visitation participants, an informal senate session was held to discuss the possibility of Cummings' disqualification.

At that time it was decided that the Senate could not act on the matter. Cummings said that he would take it before the Student Court for a decision on his eligibility.

Cummings originally planned to put the question in the hands of the student body in a referendum vote, but according to the constitution, there would not be enough time before the scheduled election. Terry voiced opposition to delaying the election.

Cummings appeared before the court Sunday for a ruling on his eligibility. He based his case on the "legislative intent" of the clause and its "conflict with various statements of university policy."

In his testimony, Cummings pointed out that disqualification would damage him personally, financially and politically. He not only felt that his integrity was in question, but he had "gone out on a limb" financially because he was under the assumption when he filed for office that he was a bonafide candidate.

He reviewed the history of Sentence C, tracing it to its origin in 1966 and inferring legislative intent at that time against candidate Jack Hill. Hill termed the clause a "manipulation and violation of fundamental law for political gains."

Cummings, in his discussion of the constitution, referred to it as "a puppet with a string . . . used only if needed — pull a string for your own benefit, and let it sit in the closet the rest of the time." He termed the constitution "souless" and asked that it be made strong enough to func-

Citation presented Dr. Smith

A special citation was presented to President Stewart H. Smith Saturday at a luncheon which climaxed the 33rd annual United High School Press convention.

The citation, presented by Parthenon Editor Dan Fields, praised Dr. Smith for recognizing the importance of freedom of the press and encouraging The Parthenon to print the news whether it is favorable or unfavorable to the University. The citation honored Dr. Smith for his defense of the rights and integrity of Marshall student journalists and the student newspaper.

John M. Allen, a senior editor of Readers Digest, was the speaker for the luncheon held at the Prichard Hotel and sponsored by the Huntington Publishing Company.

"I feel that journalism is one of the most exciting, hopeful and helpful professions to work in," he told some 450 students and teachers from 33 high school yearbooks and newspapers.

He urged his audience not to fear work, telling them "you've got to work in this world and you might as well enjoy it."

THE 'ART' OF EGG BLOWING

Egg project underway

By ELLEN SADTLER
Staff Reporter

Preparation for Easter is starting early this year as eggs are blown for the Proctor Project.

The Proctor Project is a recreational program held each Saturday from 9-11 a.m. for children in the third through sixth grades. These children will color and decorate empty egg shells which will be put on an Easter egg tree in the Campus Christian Center.

Miss Barbara Campbell, Kenova senior and originator this semester, is working with students from the 218 education classes to plan six different activities for the children. These are: arts & crafts, active games, quiet games, music and singing, cooking and gym.

"The program has changed over the years," according to Miss Campbell. "Each of the supervisors is captain of a certain activity and must write up a plan for the next week's program."

The project is named after A. T. Proctor, who was a leading photographer and civic leader in Huntington. This project came to Marshall in 1949 with the help of the late Otto Gullickson.

Any group or organization which is interested in blowing eggs for the Proctor Project may contact Miss Campbell at 453-1849 or see the Rev. Hardin King at the Christian Center.

Social work day is set today

The Department of Sociology and Anthropology will hold a social work day in room 529 of the Stewart Harold Smith Hall today, according to Dr. O. Norman Simpkins, Chairman of the Department of Sociology and Anthropology.

Professional social work as a career will be the topic of the meeting.

Speakers for the meeting will be: Mr. Johnny C. Linkous, President of the W. Va. Chapter of the NASW; Mr. Frand Gallagher, Executive Director of United Community Services; Mr. Julius McLeod of Lakin State Hospital, and Mr. Paul S. Nicholson, Director of Family Service in Huntington.

The meeting will be held in cooperation with the Huntington District of the W. Va. Chapter of the National Association of Social Workers.

All interested persons are invited to attend.

Flight course is rated high

Army flight training inspection was conducted last week by Maj. Neal R. Christenson, head of Army Aviation Training section at First Army Headquarters at Fort Meade, Md.

The purpose of the inspection was to determine if Marshall is adequately and properly conducting Army ROTC flight training according to government regulations and specifications.

Inspection was made of the students' training and knowledge, teaching methods, and financial records.

"The program was found to be one of the best," said Maj. Charles W. Jarvis, assistant professor of the Military Science.

Flight training program is offered to senior cadets for the purpose of producing candidates for Army Aviation.

Because of its success the program will be continued, according to Major Jarvis.

PLEDGES ACCEPTED

SENIORS MEET

All seniors graduating in May, who are interested in planning class activities should meet with Nick McGrath, Huntington senior and class president, in the Alumni Office at 4 p.m. today.

BUS BEING CHARTERED

Thirty two students are needed for the Journalism Department to charter a bus to the NIT. The price is $23.10 for a round trip.

Junior candidates

Due to oversight, the following students were omitted from the list of Junior Class senatorial candidates published in Thursday's Parthenon:

RICK NEWMAN, Huntington, Teachers College. Was a National Merit Scholarship semi-finalist in high school, served two years active duty in the Navy, primarily in the South Atlantic. At MU he is a member of the Young Republicans Club and president of the Veterans Club.

NANCY HIRZEL, Bridgeport, Teachers College. Athletic and Activities chairman of Delta Zeta sorority, Dean's List, women's varsity swim team, member of Women's Recreation Association and Physical Education Majors Club, chairman of Intramural Swim Meet.

REUNIONS PLANNED

Plans are being made for the reunion of the classes of 1958, 1943 and 1918 according to Harry M. Sands, director of Alumni Affairs. Mr. Sands said, "We encourage all other classes to have reunions and will be glad to help with all the details." These three classes will be presented at the 31st Annual Alumni Day Banquet, Saturday, May 25, in the cafeteria. Specific details may be obtained from Don Foose, class reunion coordinator, at 523-6301.

VISTA WILL VISIT

Volunteers In Service To America (VISTA) will distribute literature and applications to interested students today and tomorrow from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. in the Student Union. VISTA sends personnel throughout the continental United States.

STUDENT DIES

Ronald Byrd, South Charleston junior, died late Friday night when the motorcycle on which he was riding collided with a car on Interstate 64. Byrd transferred to Marshall from West Virginia State, where he had played baseball. He was a Pi Kappa Alpha pledge. Services were held yesterday.

BENEFIT GAME SET

A basketball game will be held between the doctors and lawyers of Huntington at Huntington East High School gymnasium at 7:30 p.m. today. Proceeds from the game will be used to send the Marshall majorettes to the NIT. Adult admission will be $1; students 50 cents, and children 25 cents.

Rough row to hoe for MU

By TIM BUCEY
Sports Co-Editor

It's going to be a rough row to hoe for the Thundering Herd to win the National Invitation Tournament.

Should it beat St. Peters Thursday night, it would then have to meet the winner of the Duke University-Oklahoma City game, and neither can be taken lightly.

Duke with a 21-5 record is sixth in the nation, while Oklahoma City is fifth in the nation in offense averaging around 92 points a game.

But the first big stepping stone is St. Peters.

The Peacocks last year were beaten in the first round of the tournament, by the eventual winner Southern Illinois by a score of 103-58.

St. Peters Coach Don Kennedy, with four of last year's five starters returning, is hoping to last more than one game in

Interest in Stone shown by Pistons

The Detroit Pistons have notified Marshall they are interested in George Stone.

The Pistons said in a letter they had scouted Stone on several occasions and would like additional information in order to make their decision.

When asked if he would play professional basketball if he got an offer, Stone said, "If I get a shot at the chance I will definitely take it. I've been poor all my life and this is a good opportunity to make some money."

Stone's answer to the question of the team he would like to play for was, "My teams, or the ones that I always like to see win are Philadelphia, Los Angeles and St. Louis. It's just according to the team that drafts me."

FRATERNITIES LEAD

Overall intramural standings show fraternities leading independents 1,143-852. Pi Kappa Alpha is in first place over Sigma Alpha Epsilon, 213-212. Kappa Alpha is third with 146, and Tau Kappa Epsilon fourth with 132. Fire leads independents with 295 points. South Hall is second with 65, Them third with 50 and Bowling Bums fourth with 40.

this year's tournament at the expense of Marshall.

The Peacocks have lost only twice this season while winning 22, including a 70-59 win over the nation's top small college team and conference foe, Long Island University.

That loss was the only one Long Island suffered this year, but it knocked them out of the lead in the Metropolitan Conference. Long Island will have the best record going into the NIT (21-1) and St. Peters has the second best at 22-2.

Marshall will enjoy a decided height advantage over the Peacock's, as Pete O'Dea at 6-5 is the only big rebounder St. Peters has. O'Dea is averaging 15 rebounds a game and is among the top 20 in the nation in that department.

Elnardo Webster, (6-5), is among the top 15 in the nation in scoring with a 24.7 average, and is among the top four in the nation in field goal accuracy, hitting the hoops with 61 per cent of his shots.

Other returnees from last year's starting lineup are Harry Laurie (6-1), Ken Grant (6-1), both seniors and junior Bob Leckie (5-9).

Looking past the St. Peters game, Marshall would then have to face either Oklahoma City or Duke University.

Duke finished the season by dropping a 12-10 decision to North Carolina State over the weekend, and thus lost its chance to represent the Atlantic Coast Conference in the NCAA.

The Blue Devils are led by Mike Lewis, who is averaging 24 points a game and 15 rebounds to rank among the nation's top 20 in both departments.

Oklahoma City, an independent, with a 20-6 record is among the top five in the nation in offense, led by 6-1 Rick Travis, who is averaging nearly 30 points a game.

Year 1971 discussed at seminar

"We cannot afford to produce students who have a lack of understanding," said Duncan Williams, associate professor of English, coordinator of the Honors Seminar, and speaker for the sixth annual Honors Convocation Thursday.

His speech, entitled "Youth at the Helm," was centered on the year 1971, when "for the first time in history, a majority of the population will be under 25," he said. "Youth will indeed be at the helm."

Youth has vigor, enthusiasm, zest and courage, but does not and cannot have wisdom and restraint, according to Professor Williams.

He added that throughout history, youth has rebelled against the mores of the older generation. "The danger lies in the fact that youth can be trained and manipulated . . . to accomplish selfish goals."

He cited as examples the exploitation of youth in the Russian Revolution, Hitler's regime and Mao's Red Guard. He said that the ultimate was the Red Guard whose members "do not understand the society which they are attacking nor what they are fighting for."

He prophesied that the slogan "Never trust anyone over 30" will be changed to 25 in the future.

A problem of the age is the growth of violence and animalism, he said. He cited as an example one television station that showed 334 attempted or completed murders in one week of viewing.

Professor Williams sees another problem of our civilization as overpopulation.

Senior recital set for tonight

Patricia Somerville Stevens, Point Pleasant, and William Warfield, Cincinnati, Ohio, will present their senior recital at 8:15 p.m. today in Evelyn Hollberg Smith Music Hall. All interested faculty, students, and public may attend.

Mrs. Stevens' performing field is piano. She will play the following selections: Sonata Opus 31, Number 2 by Beethoven in Allegretto movement; Intermezzo Opus 117, Number 2 by Brahms; and Third Piano Sonata by Perichetti in Declaration, Episode, and Psalm movements.

William's major area of study is clarinet. He will present Sonata in E Major Opus 120, Number 2 by Brahms in Allegro mambile, Allegro appassionata, and Andante con moto movements; and Three Pieces by Stravinsky.

tion on its own.

Throughout his testimony Cummings maintained that his was not a single case, and that the decision of the court would set the tone for future action.

He expressed hope that students would take interest in these proceedings and be motivated to act.

The court's final decision presented by Chief Justice Caroline Massey, Ashland, Ky., senior, stated:

"It is the opinion of the court that Frank Cummings is declared ineligible to run for Student Body president of Marshall University, according to Article 2, Section 7, Sentence C of the Marshall University Constitution. It is also the order of the court that the election for president and vice president of the Student Body be enjoined."

Sonis, who was summoned to testify before the court, said, "It is a grave mistake to associate my name with this question. I had absolutely nothing to do with bringing this rule to the attention of the Senate, the Election Committee, the Student Affairs Office or the Student Court. I have played no part in this controversy. I felt it was my duty as soon as I saw the rule to mention this provision to both candidates. I then left it in their hands."

After the decision was read, Cummings said, "I am pleased with the decision. Now the question should go where it belongs —into the hands of the students."
