Clay and Foy win on write-in vote

By ANITA GARDNER
and
NANCY HINCHMAN

Jane Clay, Charleston junior, using a last-minute write-in campaign, captured the student body presidency yesterday and her running mate, politically unknown Carey Foy, Huntington junior, was elected vice president.

They will succeed Mike Farrell, Huntington senior, incumbent president, and Paul Matheny, Charleston senior, vice president.

Miss Clay and Foy teamed up as candidates less than 12 hours before voting began yesterday morning. They kicked off their campaign after the Student Court ruled about 9 p.m. Tuesday that the presidential election be held yesterday.

Miss Clay, a member of Alpha Chi Omega sorority, had been a vice presidential candidate, running with Frank Cummings, Huntington junior, former candidate for president. He was disqualified by the court, which ruled he had not been a student at Marshall long enough to run for president.

The court's ruling left Gregg Terry as the only candidate on the ballot for student body president and Lynda Clay the only candidate for vice president. Both are Huntington juniors.

Two amendments to the Student Government Constitution also were approved yesterday.

The "loyal opposition" amendment was adopted by a 73.6 per cent vote. This provides for the runners-up for student body president and vice president to become senators, making Terry and Lynda Clay senators.

Others elected yesterday were:

Linda Eakle, and Jane Braley.

BOB ALLEN FOUND himself in a different role Tuesday night — that of speaker. Allen, backed up by Head Coach Ellis Johnson and Assistants Stewart Way and Larry McKenzie, addresses applauding students at the pep rally in Gullickson attended by about 400 students. The rally was a send-off for the Herd cagers, who will play in the National Invitation Tournament tonight. Below is one of the many signs put up on and around campus wishing the team well.

Support WVU until . . .

400 at pep rally hear Dr. Smith

By MIKE MEADOR
Staff Reporter

"We (Marshall) should let WVU know that we want them to win . . . until they play Marshall!"

With this statement, President Stewart H. Smith urged 400 students at a pep rally Tuesday night to "be good friends" with WVU, and to show the "New Yorkers that West Virginians stick together."

"It's been a great season and I think the best is yet to come. Boost both universities and then if we play them — you know what to do!"

Sponsored by Lambda Chi Alpha, the rally was held in Gullickson Hall because of bad weather. Original plans called for a bonfire on the intramural field.

President Smith also cautioned students to drive carefully because of snow forecast for the Northeast.

Claude Doak, Camden, N. J., junior and rally coordinator, introduced several other speakers including Athletic Director Eddie Barrett, Sports Information Director Bob Campbell, Alumni Affairs Director Harry Sands, and Coaches Ellis Johnson, Stewart Way and Larry McKenzie.

Barrett surprised everyone with the announcement that his wife "was expecting a new tax deduction and possibly a new cheerleader for MU." The Barretts have four boys.

Four team members were present and Bob Allen acted as their spokesman — reiterating President Smith's statements and adding, "We can beat WVU wherever we play them."

Four other players had night classes and Bob Redd, Dan D'Antoni and George Stone were refereeing a ball game between the Doctors and the Lawyers at Huntington East High School.

This game netted $137, which will be used to help finance the majorettes' trip to New York.

Exam views due Tuesday from faculty

Faculty members will have an opportunity to voice their opinions on the English Qualifying Examination at a hearing at 2 p.m. Tuesday.

The Academic Planning and Standards Committee will conduct the meeting in the same manner as the student hearing held March 5, according to Dr. Edwin A. Cubby, professor of social studies and committee chairman.

The committee, comprised of seven faculty members, is studying the examination with an open approach applied to the problem. At the student hearing, 24 students spoke in favor of abolition of the present exam. These students also stated possible alternatives.

The committee Tuesday will seek additional information on which to base a recommendation to the faculty. Dr. Cubby said he did not know when the recommendation would be made. The deadline extends to anytime before the end of the semester.

Students may attend the faculty hearing as observers. Location of the hearing will be announced.

NIT advice given on housing, travel

Marshall's NIT headquarters will be located at the Hotel New Yorker, 34th Street and 8th Avenue, during the Thundering Herd's participation in the tournament.

Representatives from Marshall will be on hand to help students, alumni and friends. Olen Jones and Lillian Buskirk, Associate Deans of student affairs, will be in charge of the headquarters.

Room accommodations are available at the New Yorker for students at $8 a night for a single, $12 for a double, and $3.50 extra for a third person in the room. Other accommodations available include the Sloan House, 356 W. 34th Street. The cost is $3.15 a night for a single and $5.15 for a double.

Helpful hints: travel in pairs or more; be prepared for rain or cold weather; have your ID card; take your walking shoes.

LETTER:

Viewpoint on Vietnam

To the editor:

On Feb. 27, the Huntington Advertiser published an editorial concerning the recent Senate inquiry into the Tonkin Gulf incidents of the American destroyers Turner Joy, and Maddox. It appears as though the writer is again finding fault with the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in its efforts to bring out a further clarification of the original account on which the Tonkin resolution was founded. The noted journalist seems to have a naive trust in whatever the administration chooses to do. However, had he been of a more inquisitive nature, he might have been able to pick out the original faults in our foreign policy which lead to our present commitment in Vietnam.

If he were that way, perhaps he could have seen that the Tonkin Gulf incident was just a blatant excuse for the United States to commence the bombing of a sovereign nation. The total destruction wrought by U. S. bombing far outweighs the harm done by the few torpedoes fired by the North Vietnamese in their own territorial waters at ships that may or may not have been participating in acts of overt intelligence in the support of South Vietnamese raiding parties. The writer failed to bring that point out in his editorial. It is very conceivable then that the North Vietnamese might have had justification to act in the manner they did. I wonder if the Coast Guard would take action on a ship within our territorial waters, if it was demonstrated that there was a possible connection between it and a raiding party taking place on our own shore?

A further point of contemplation would be that if the country were to commence bombing of New York in retaliation, this country would reply with every means available. One then wonders why the North Vietnamese have not retaliated and it is then apparent that they have, in fact, done so. But the North Vietnamese do not possess aircraft carriers, or far flung military bases so it is easy to see why they do not bomb New York. But why are we bombing Hanoi and causing chaos and destruction among people whose only defense is the operation of anti-aircraft batteries, the token deployment of a few hopelessly outclassed aircraft, and the support of the N.L.F. in South Vietnam?

Admittedly the North Vietnamese were and are aggressors in South Vietnam, but if the United States Government chooses to carry out strategic bombing, it should say so instead of trying to make an excuse for itself. The purpose of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee could then be the illumination of this fault in our foreign policy, and a readjustment instituted for the sake of our nation's integrity. Furthermore the purpose could also be a readjustment instituted for the sake of our own constitutional integrity, versus the encouragement of the North Vietnamese alluded to by the editorial. The fact that the Gulf of Tonkin resolution is lacking in constitutional integrity has long been the point of criticism by many, and it is time for those who would like to "police" the world of "communism" to become aware of it.

Community Forum will present "Arizona Utopia," a cultural color film study by Robert Davis, Tuesday at 8 p.m. in Old Main Auditorium.

Students will be admitted by presenting their activity card.

Mr. Davis' lecture tour, from October through May, takes him over 40,000 miles in the United States and Canada.

During the summer months he produces commercial and educational films. Several of these have won awards in national film festivals. His still photographs have appeared in many popular publications.

Student teacher policy is aired again by Nuzum

Dr. Lawrence H. Nuzum, professor of education and director of student teaching, has clarified departmental policies regarding placement of senior student teachers in public schools.

Dr. Nuzum said the current placement program has become inadequate because of increased placement of Education 319 students in public schools where senior student teachers previously were placed. This is the reason for the following policy change, according to Dr. Nuzum.

"Only those students living in the immediate area will be required to do their student teaching in the Huntington area. All other students will be required to do teaching in assigned centers off campus as is necessary to fulfill the needs of the program."

Currently, three areas or centers serve the University's student teachers. They are the Huntington area, Logan County and Kanawha County. Another center in Wood County is to be established. Plans for this center are to be formalized at a March 22 meeting with Wood County school officials.

Prospective student teachers should contact Dr. Nuzum or one of his staff for further information.

Class cut airing set by faculty

Discussion of a revision of Marshall's class cut policy will be the major item on the agenda of the March 19 general faculty meeting, according to President Stewart H. Smith.

The meeting is scheduled for Old Main Auditorium at 4 p.m.

The Student Leadership Seminar passed a resolution last fall calling for a revision of the class cut policy. The resolution was slated to be discussed at the February meeting of the faculty, but was postponed because of the discussion on the English Qualifying Examination.

There is no official class cut policy. Students are expected to attend all classes, according to the Student Handbook.

Faculty members generally take the view, however, that absences totalling more than twice the number of sessions the class meets per week constitute excessive absences.

Mike Farrell, Huntington senior and student body president, said one of the alternatives to be proposed would be to leave class attendance policies to the individual professor.

He added that other proposals have not yet been finalized.

Farrell will represent the student body at the meeting.

H.S. group due at speech events

Region 10 competition in the West Virginia Interscholastic Forensic league will be held at Marshall tomorrow.

The competition will be held in various rooms in Smith Hall consisting of a preliminary round from which four or five contestants will be selected.

From the final round, the top two entrants will advance to the state finals at Morgantown to be held later this spring.

Region 10 high schools which have entered are Barboursville, Ceredo - Kenova, Chapmanville, Duval, Huntington High, Huntington East, Marshall, Milton, St. Joe, Vinson and Williamson.

High scoring game is expected tonight

By TIM BUCEY
Sports Co-Editor

If you like high-scoring basketball games, be sure not to miss tonight's first game of the National Invitation Tournament.

The first NIT game in the new Madison Square Garden between the Thundering Herd and St. Peters promises to be a hard fought battle.

St. Peters is determined not to be eliminated in the first round of this year's tournament, as the Peacocks have been the last three times.

But MU would like nothing better than to send the Peacocks scampering back home to Jersey City with its fourth NIT loss.

St. Peters leads the nation in field goal percentage and is among the top three in scoring with a 95-point average. The Peacocks shooting percentage is 53.7, which is more than 10 points better than Marshall's 42.7 percentage. The Herd is not far from the nation's top ten scoring teams with an 87-point scoring average.

Tie ends contest

Intramural basketball foul shooting ended with a tie for first place between Bill Byers of Exiles and Chris Hutchinson of Lambda Chi Alpha. Each made 41 baskets out of 50. Third place went to Exiles' Tom Hoskins, who shot 40 of 50.

Mike Allen, assistant intramural director, said, "This year the contest started with 36 individuals representing eight organizations. We used a qualifying round of 20 of 25 shots to make the competition keener."

Total intramural points will be divided between the two teams who tied for first, both receiving 25, Allen said.

An Associated Press story said one NIT official predicted the St. Peters — Marshall score would be 164-162 in three overtimes. It did not mention who would be the winner.

The Peacocks have scored over 100 points 10 times this season, with its high game coming against Stonehill of North Easton, Mass., when St. Peters scored 123 points. Niagara was the only team to reach the century mark against the Peacocks, when it took a 100-88 decision, mainly on the 50-point scoring performance of Calvin Murphy.

Marshall reached the 100-point mark twice, against Morris Harvey (101) and Old Dominion (131).

The two common opponents St. Peters and Marshall faced were Manhattan and Morris Harvey.

Marshall beat Manhattan by seven points, 85-78 and St. Peters beat Manhattan by 24 points, 102-78. The Herd up-ended Morris Harvey by 19 points, 88-69, and eight points 101-93, while the Peacocks beat the Eagles by nine, 94-85.

Despite the two-week layoff between games, Coach Ellis Johnson doesn't think this should hinder the Herd's play.

"From watching the practice sessions, it hasn't seemed to slow us down any," the coach said, "but you never know about that."

The team was scheduled to work out in the new garden this morning "so the boys could get familiar with the floor," Coach Johnson said.

This year's tournament has 16 teams, compared with 14 last year, and Coach Johnson calls the NIT, "the strongest it's been in a long time."

Small college power Long Island University will go into the tournament with the best record of the 16 teams. Long Island (21-1) will meet Bradley (19-8), on Saturday.

The University of Dayton has the poorest record in the tournament, (17-9), but it has won its last 10 consecutive games. Dayton meets West Virginia University, (19-8), on Saturday.

"We've as good a chance in the tournament as anybody, if we play the kind of ball we're capable of playing," Coach Johnson said.

"Any one of the teams could win it," the coach continued, "but I'd say Duke, Kansas, Dayton and Bradley are probably the toughest."

Immediately following the Herd's battle with St. Peters, Oklahoma City and Duke battle each other.

Marshall or St. Peters will then face the winner of that game. "We're definitely not looking past the St. Peters game," Coach Johnson said. "You have to play them one at a time."

The Peacocks, whose average height in the starting lineup is barely, 6-1, may not have the biggest ball team, but they'll no doubt have the biggest cheering section of anyone since Jersey City is just across the river from New York.

Cadets visit post

ROTC junior class cadets went to Fort Knox, Ky., March 7-9 to become familiar with the mission, organization and day-to-day activities of a United States Army post and various army units.

Maj. James B. Carroll, assistant professor of the Military Science Department, accompanied the class.

INTRAMURALS CANCELLED

There will be no intramurals or recreation in Gullickson Hall on today after 6 p.m. due to the NIT. This procedure will continue on Monday if Marshall beats St. Peters.

Home Economics 405, Quantity Foods, prepares lunch Tuesday through Friday for approximately 40 people. The meals are served each day from 11:30 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. at the price of 65 cents in Northcott 101.

Anyone interested in lunch there can call the Home Economics Department that morning to make a reservation. This is so students will prepare enough meals.

Betty Jo Sullivan, assistant professor of home economics, is instructor. She stated, "The objective of the class is to acquaint the women in quantity food preparation and service which is somewhat different than those for the family."

"The women taking the class rotate jobs. Each is the manager, head cook, vegetable cook, baker, dishwasher, cashier, and hostess three times during the semester usually."

She said, "each student is to go to South Hall three times during the semester to observe quantity cooking on a large scale."

Coeds taking the class are home economics or dietetics majors. Meals are served cafeteria style. Several professors eat there daily.

One student taking the class said she found it a little difficult to cut the recipes down to fit the number of people served.

The students also have to figure the cost of each item in the recipe when they are manager.

The class has experienced relatively few difficulties. However, once a student used corn starch in yeast rolls instead of flour. Another time, a student cock put one and one-half cups of flour instead of one and one-half ounces in the pumpkin pie filling.

Singing groups' lineup disputed

The Temptations, Dionne Warwick, and The Supremes have not signed to appear on the Marshall campus next year, according to Harry Budden, Huntington senior and commissioner of social affairs.

Budden said, "The Parthenon story quoting Gregg Terry, Huntington junior and stating that arrangements have been made for certain entertainment groups (The Temptations, Dionne Warwick and The Supremes) to appear on the campus was misleading. It is too early to sign a good contract, and the only people who can sign contracts are the president of the student body,

Director lists human rights issues in state

By ASHOK MALHOTRA
Staff Reporter

The problem is that people do not realize there is a problem, said Carl W. Glatt, executive director of the State of West Virginia Human Rights Commission.

Mr. Glatt's speech entitled "Responsibility for Human Rights Progress" was given Tuesday evening at the Campus Christian Center.

He said there is a problem in this state, in this city. "City officials, business leaders, educators, and the clergy excuse away the problem by saying we have to educate them and saying we have no problem here."

Mr. Glatt gave several examples of discrimination in West Virginia. He pointed out that on a city police force somewhere in West Virginia two Negro police officers are getting $35 less than their white counterparts. Mr. Glatt said he could not identify the city because the case is still pending.

He added that at a swimming pool Negro children are not allowed to enter. He reminded the audience more than once the year is 1968. He said in the coal industry and other industries Negroes are engaged in menial jobs.

Main problem of the Negro in West Virginia said Mr. Glatt is underemployment. Underemployment, he explained, means there are Negroes who are qualified for better jobs but hold menial ones.

Another problem in West Virginia, said Mr. Glatt, is housing discrimination in regard to Negroes, which is made worse by the fact that there is a housing shortage.

Methodist group dinner Saturday

A spaghetti dinner will be held at the Campus Christian Center Saturday from 5:30-7 p.m. The cost of the dinner is $1, and tickets may be purchased at the door.

The candlelight dinner is sponsored by the Methodist Student Movement to aid a former MSM member from Fairmont State College who is now working with a mission for underprivileged children in Bolivia, South America.

Funds will also be sent to the national MSM headquarters.

the business manager, and the commissioner of social affairs."

According to Budden, a contract for Homecoming entertainment will be signed by the end of this school term. He is hopeful the contract will be made through a block booking agency, although Marshall is not yet a member of any such agency.

Budden said he is also hopeful the Student Government can spend at least $10,000 for Homecoming. Last year's Homecoming cost approximately $6,000. The cost includes renting Memorial Field House, the Keith-Albee Theater and obtaining entertainment groups.

"A top-notch entertainment group will cost at least $7,000. I would like to see this type of entertainment on the campus, but cost is a factor," said Budden.

Budden believes the cost might be met by increasing the amount of money the student government receives from activity fees. "More of the activity fee money should be used for student activities," he said.

Terry was not available for comment, but Mike Farrell, student body president, said that when he asked Terry about the "arrangements" for entertainment groups, Terry refused to comment.

Logan Branch activities set

Logan Branch Campus Student Government is sponsoring several major activities this semester, according to John Arnold, Logan Branch Campus director.

The Student Government recently sponsored a spaghetti dinner to raise funds for enclosing Logan Campus display cases with glass. Area merchants donated the food.

Weekly mixes, sponsored by the Student Government, are popular at Logan, according to Arnold. He said, "Normally about 60 per cent of our full-time students manage to attend the mixes."

Another project of the Student Government will be a variety show, March 16.

Coeds obtain TV instead of dance

Prichard Hall residents have purchased a new television just in time to accommodate the coeds who were unable to go to New York for the NIT.

Jo Ann Haynes, Parkersburg sophomore and first vice president of the dorm, suggested in a council meeting, if it were agreeable with all the residents, that a television could be purchased with the social funds instead of having a dance.

Marshall was represented in debate by the team of Harold Bailes, Clay senior, and Harry Quigley, Elkview junior, and the team of Richard Nida, West Hamlin senior, and Edwin Gartin, Logan senior. Each team won two debates and lost four.

Tryouts for contest in oratory, extemporaneous speaking, after-dinner speaking, interpretation, and dramatic reading will be held soon to select Marshall's representatives for two intercollegiate competitions.

Drill unit takes 2nd in contest

Company N-1 of the Pershing Rifles placed second in its annual drill meet held last Saturday.

Other entrants in the meet were Company H-1 of West Virginia State College, Company S-1 of West Virginia University and the Ashland Rifles of Paul G. Blazer High School, an affiliate of Company N-1.

West Virginia University placed first, winning the straight platoon, squad and rifle competition. Marshall placed second in these events. West Virginia State College took first place in the exhibition squad drill.

In the individual competition, Pfc. Richard Williams, Woodbury, N.J., freshman and M. Sgt. Larry Carter, Dunbar sophomore, took first and second place respectively.

West Virginia University also won the postal rifle match competition and received the Honor Company trophy for this year.

An informal get-together was held for all visiting schools after the meet at the Pershing Rifle house.
