New hearing on election controversy set

By MARTI HILL
News Editor

Larry Sonis, Charleston sophomore, petitioned the Student Court Tuesday to 1) nullify the election results of March 13 and 2) direct the Student Senate to call for a new general election "as soon as is practical."

A formal court session will be held at 5:30 p.m. today to hear the case. As of Parthenon deadline Tuesday, a place for the hearing had not been found.

Men must be wearing coats and ties and women must wear skirts to be admitted to the gallery, according to Caroline Massey, Ashland, Ky., senior and Chief Justice of the court.

According to Sonis, his case is taken from a completely different standpoint than was the one submitted last week and ruled against by the Student Court. The case is new and will contain different points and arguments.

"Students are weary of extended controversy," he stated, "and would like to have this matter quickly and justly resolved."

"I (the petitioners) hope to present several basic facts and obtain a fair decision."

Sonis commented that he felt a new election is the only solution to the controversy. He said, "I feel that, although the court may have committed errors in the last trial concerning the election, it was nevertheless sincere in its attempt. They didn't have this new material, though, and with it I expect a civic decision."

"In a democracy the people can and do disagree with the government, but the goal of the system is constructive and honest debate."

"I hope that my case will be more legal and abstract and that the quality of the trial will be above that of the last case."

According to the Student Government Constitution, the defense, which will probably be headed by Mike Farrell, Huntington senior and student body president, is allowed five days to prepare its case after being given a petition.

As of Tuesday's Parthenon deadline, Farrell had not received a copy of the petition and was not available to comment whether he would request the case be postponed.

Farrell objects to appeal policy

By RON JAMES
Staff Reporter

Mike Farrell, Huntington senior and president of the student body, thinks the appeal of the Student Court's decision to validate the March 13 election is illegal.

He said, "President Smith has set up special rules concerning appeals on this campus. I disagree with him on this."

According to national and state laws only the person or persons who brought the original case may make an appeal, Farrell said. He said that this rule was not followed in the appeal of the March 20 Student Court decision.

Betty Duffy, Moundsville junior; Carolyn Willis, Richwood wood sophomore, and Pam Bufington, Pt. Pleasant junior, originally sought to have the election invalidated. Jim Johnson, Huntington senior; Dan Fields, Lavalette senior; Larry Sonis, Charleston sophomore; Claude Doak, Camden, N. J., junior, and Bill Evans, West Lake, Ohio, senior, are the students appealing the case.

Farrell also said that since President Smith has postponed the inauguration the present administration will remain in office. He said the constitution has no provision concerning such a case, and that "this is the only thing we can do."

Commenting about causes for trouble at the polls, Farrell said, "We had more students voting than ever before, and we had write-in ballots. I think the election officials did a fantastic job considering over 1,600 students voted."

Poet-novelist here Thursday

Writer Howard Nemrov, acclaimed as one of the most exceptional literary figures of the generation, will speak at Thursday's convocation.

He is presently on the faculty of Brandeis University and is poetry consultant to the Library of Congress.

He has written three novels, "The Melodramatists," "Federigo, or The Power of Love," and "The Homecoming Game."

Violation charged against fraternity

Olen Jones, dean of student affairs, charged the Alpha Sigma Phi fraternity Monday with a violation of section seven of the Interfraternity Council drinking policy.

The charges were brought at a preliminary hearing before the IFC Judicial Board.

Dean Jones alleged that the Alpha Sigma Phi housemother's signature had been forged on a house party request form.

Another hearing will be held today at 4 p.m.

FIRST GIRL to go through the Red Cross blood donor line Tuesday was Donna Herald, Logan sophomore. Equipment was set up in the Shawkey Student Union as part of the semi-annual blood donor drive.

Student teacher increase prompts policy

By SUZANNE WOOD
News Editor

Why will out-of-state students and residents outside the immediate area receive student teaching assignments away from the area while Huntington students continue to receive positions here?

Recently Dr. Lawrence Nuzum, director of student teaching, announced an increase in the number of Teachers College students necessitated a change in policy. Previously most students have been assigned teaching positions in Huntington and the surrounding area, and no distinction has been made regarding students' permanent residence.

According to Dr. Nuzum, those not having permanent residence here will likely be assigned an area away because of financial reasons. He said most Huntington students are not paying room and board whereas non-resident students must.

These students will be responsible for locating room and board where they are assigned. Teachers College Dean Robert B. Hayes, indicated the University will not aid in finding transportation.

Figures show Teachers College enrollment increased by 416 between the first semesters of 1967 and 1968. This included an increase of 155 seniors. Student teaching is done during the senior year.

Dean Hayes has estimated a 150 increase in (Teachers College) students next year.

In addition, Dr. Nuzum indicated several teaching fields were overcrowded. This semester in secondary education there are approximately 50 in social studies and 45 in physical education.

"I think to compensate for this problem, there should be better counseling for selection of major fields," Dr. Nuzum said. "Let the students know where needs are greater and better opportunities exist."

Prior to now, the majority of student teachers have been teaching in the immediate area, including Huntington schools, Cabell, Wayne and Ironton, Chesapeake, Fairland and Ashland. Two years ago a MU program was initiated in Kanawha County and this semester in Logan.

Students who live in the Kanawha and Logan County areas must plan to do their student teaching in these centers. As other centers are established, the same requirements will hold true for students living in those areas. Out-of-state students or outside the immediate area will be assigned to one of these centers.

A Multi-State Teachers Education Program (M-STEP) was organized with West Virginia State, Concord, Morris Harvey and West Virginia Tech. If a MU student teaching center is established in Wood County, a joint program may be adopted with WVU and Glenville State College, according to Dr. Nuzum.

Dr. Nuzum also said because of the variation in student teaching programs, students are not usually permitted to practice in other states, including the immediate Ohio and Kentucky regions.

The gradual phase out of the lab school has placed added pressure on the system. Students doing junior year practice teaching, a state requirement, must be placed in public schools.

Dr. Nuzum also noted students' supervisors must have a degree, be fully certified and have two years experience. He also cited a large number of turnovers in the teaching staff — causing a shortage of teachers with two years experience.

Dr. Nuzum said students would have better chances for placement first semester since almost twice as many do student teaching during second semester.

Vending machine money is stolen

Vending machines in Old Main, Science Hall and South Hall were the target of thieves during the weekend.

Campus police said coin boxes in two vending machines in the basement of Old Main were emptied Friday night and again Sunday morning.

Two machines in the basement of Science Hall were hit Saturday night and two machines in South Hall were broken into either Friday or Saturday nights.

The amount of money stolen is not yet determined.

None of the buildings was forcibly entered, campus police said.

New court trial said best route

An appeal was presented to President Stewart H. Smith Friday by five students asking that he order the Student Court to reconsider its decision declaring the March 13 election valid.

President Smith has the power to overrule the court's original decision and declare the election void; he can sustain the court's decision, or he can refer the question back to the court for reconsideration. It would be in the best interest of the student body to refer the question back to the court in hopes that body will show it indeed strives to achieve justice by reversing its decision and calling for a new election.

If the court's previous decision is sustained, the student body will be the victim of gross injustice. Irregularities which riddled the elections were also present in the court proceedings.

Last week many students voiced dissatisfaction with the court, its operating procedure and, most especially, its decision.

The best way for justice to prevail is for the court to conduct another hearing reconsidering its decision on the March 13 election, giving students the chance to express their opinions officially to the court at a hearing conducted in the proper manner.

It is also hoped the court will show it indeed has the capability of handing down a just decision which will clear the air for the next student administration.

Letters to the editor:

Students feel election unjust

To the editor:

I have spent the past week and a half sitting back taking a long look at the student body elections. I can not keep silent on this subject any longer.

In 1966 I ran a candidate's campaign for Congress in Fayette County. This experience in practical campaigning brought to me a new insight on the conducting of elections in West Virginia and more specifically in the southern part of the state. We hear John Callebs talking about election fraud and vote irregularities but we do not bother to look into his statements to see whether or not they are true. Believe me, they are true!

When comparing the average campaign in the Fifth District to that of the recent Student Government elections, it scares me. The reason for this is a striking resemblance between the corruption in Southern West Virginia Elections and that of our own elections.

Some examples of the past election that make me wonder are:

(1) I stand to be corrected if I am wrong, but I understand that before an amendment can be put on the ballot for student vote, it must have had ample publicity and also the students must have a certain amount of time to be able to evaluate the proposed amendment. This was not done. The publicity was very scarce and nowhere was there a truly specific explanation of the amendments.

(2) From talking to students on campus I have also learned one thing that should rightfully throw out the past election and that is that several students did not fill in their right-in ballot completely. The election laws specifically state that in order for a write-in ballot to count it must be filled in completely. I have found that some people voted partly on one type of ballot and then finished in the voting booth. This is one aspect of the election that can not be overlooked.

(3) Another example is the fact that people were handing out campaign literature inside the Student Union. Regulations state that no active campaigning can be done inside the union or even directly in front of the union.

(4) Voting twice was also part of the election. I am convinced that many more people voted more than once but did not have the "guts" to stand out as did

Betty Duffy and George Joseph. Why should they be the ones to receive a possible probation when it was the responsibility of the poll-workers to keep clean elections?

It is time now for the student body to stand up, be counted. John Callebs started the campaigning for better elections so let us show we are behind clean elections 100 percent by getting out and cleaning up our own mess.

If we do not do this then the people of West Virginia and surrounding states who believe in clean elections will not want to be associated with Marshall because they will feel we are not competent individuals and would think more than twice about supporting a graduate of Marshall who is running for office.

Anyone who feels as disgusted and as disgraced as I do should now let their conscience be their guide or sit back and watch corruption become the predominate factor in our elections.

Oak Hill freshman

To the editor:

The students who voted on write-in ballots between 8 a.m. and 8:45 a.m. March 13, unknowingly had their civil rights disregarded. These votes were cast aside because students had to write in their own classification. This disturbing fact was brought out in Pam Evan's testimony on March 20, in a Student Court trial. After Norwood Bentley asked Pam Evans, "You threw out how many ballots?" She answered, "I don't know maybe 45."

It was stated at the trial that the official classification stamp was obtained at 8:45 a.m. However my own vote (Sharon Ferrell) was cast at 3:30 p.m. that same day on a write-in ballot which did not bear the classification stamp. Evidently this vote was also thrown out.

Does the fault lie with the voters? We think not, but rather that it lies with the organizational procedures of the election. We ask, why wasn't the election delayed until proper organization was established? The fact that a simple key was not obtained to the room with the classification stamp until 8:45 a.m. could have helped lose the election for those senators who lost by the slim margin of 10 votes or less.

We discovered one week after the election that our votes did not count. We feel an injustice has been done not only to us, but to all students of Marshall University. Are you sure that your vote was counted?

Baseball Coach Jack Cook has put together what he calls "definitely a stronger team than last year," but hastened to add that, "right along with that will be a much tougher schedule."

"We've definitely improved, Coach Cook, who will begin his season as baseball coach, said, "but as far as winning more games we'll just have to wait and see."

Last year the Thundering Herd finished fourth in the Mid-American Conference with a 4-5 mark and was 11-12 overall.

The Herd will have four pitchers returning, including its two top winners, Paul Holley and Tom Harris.

Holley was the workhorse on last year's staff, pitching 70.3 innings which was 35 more innings than the runnerup in innings pitched. The junior lefthander also led the team in complete games finishing six of his nine starts, strikeouts, earned run average (2.05) and tied Harris with four wins against four losses.

Harris, who is also the kicking specialist on the football team, and the only senior pitcher, had the same record as Holley, 4-4, completing four of seven starts and finishing with a 4.40 ERA.

Sophomores have potential

The other two returnees to the pitching staff are Tom Stimpson and Steve Miller. Stimpson was 1-1 while Miller pitched only one game and did not figure in the decision.

"The two sophomores have potential to pitch good baseball on the college level," Coach Cook said of Hewlett and Stobart.

"They both were excellent in high school, but college is different so we'll have to wait and see," Cook added.

Both men are righthanders with Stobart standing 6-2 and weighing 191, while Hewlett is 6-4 and weighs 197.

"They're both big, they throw hard and were big strikeout threats," Coach Cook explained.

"Overall," the coach continued, "the pitching staff should be in good shape if the sophomores come through."

The team is set at all other positions, except first base and right field.

"At first base we have three kids trying out that all show potential and could do the job," the coach said. "Also in right field we have some sophomores trying out. If we come through at those positions we'll be pretty well set."

"We'll have a sophomore at third, one at first and right and two sophomore pitchers. It's hard to tell what a sophomore is going to do," the coach warned.

Roger Gertz of Huntington has won the job at third base although only a sophomore.

Infield termed strong

"We feel he can do the job at third with the glove but his hitting is a question," Coach Cook explained. "Our defensive field will be one strong point."

Marshall will also have its two top hitters back in the lineup in second baseman Bob Lemley who batted .306 and Horlin Carter who hit .268.

The Herd will open its season Thursday against West Virginia Tech, but does not begin MAC play until April 19 when it meets Bowling Green at St. Clouds Park.

Coach Cook said of this year's MAC race, "it will be the same as always—real tough."

"Every year Western Michigan is strong," the coach related. "They're nearly always in the top 10 in the nation."

"I'd say the MAC is the toughest conference in the nation except for maybe the Pacific Coast, which plays ball all year round." Coach Cook continued.

"We know anytime we play an MAC team it's going to be a tough game."

Carl Nelson, a former all-MAC second baseman for Marshall, will be a graduate assistant on the coaching staff and Jim Sylvius, instructor in physical education, is the pitching coach.

Herd is inexperienced

Golfers face Ohio Saturday

By JOHN BLACK
Sports Writer

An inexperienced Marshall golf team will open its season Saturday against tough Ohio University at Athens.

Captain Ken Bowen, South Charleston junior, and Vernon Wright, Huntington senior, are the only returning regulars from last year's disappointing team.

Frank Sexton, Barboursville sophomore, has been the top qualifier for the first two weeks of qualifying, shooting even par for 36 holes. Sexton is a former member of Barboursville's high school state champion teams of 1965 and 1966, and one of the area's top amateur golfers.

"Even with our inexperience, they've shown me that they are a lot stronger than I thought they were," said golf coach Roy V. (Buddy) Graham.

The 12 men who survived the qualifying rounds are staging a fierce battle for the six spots on the starting team. Coach Graham said that he is almost decided on the first five men, but there are still three or four battling for the sixth position.

This year's team will be minus four men who were expected to boost the hopes of recapturing the Mid-American Conference golf crown. David Carter, Huntington senior, has left the team for personal reasons, and Claude Hobbs, Barboursville junior, has decided not to play. Morgan Hargis, Huntington sophomore, and Barney Thompson, Barboursville sophomore, have withdrawn from school.

Coach Graham thinks Ohio will be one of the chief contenders for the MAC championship. The Bobcats have all six starters back from last year's team.

Due to the late Easter vacation, the golf team will not go to Florida this season. The Herd will travel to the Lexington-Louisville-Cincinnati area since its schedule will already be in progress.

This year Coach Graham has initiated Marshall's golf tournament, which is to be held at Guyan Country Club and Spring Valley Country Club in April.

$750 SCHOLARSHIP

The West Virginia State Bankers Association will award a $750 scholarship next year to an outstanding student in banking and finance. Interested students should contact the Financial Aid Office by April 15.

ARMY OPENINGS

Approximately 150 U. S. Army Reserve openings are now being filled at the Spring Valley Reserve Center, located at 1550 Spring Valley Drive (below the Veterans Hospital). Interested persons are required to register at the center as soon as possible.

Miami Redskins win MAC swimming title

By DANNY HYRE

Teachers College Journalist

Miami University copped the Mid-American Conference swimming and diving championship held at Ohio University recently with a winning total of 149.5 points.

Marshall's lone entry, Jim Halleck, failed to make the qualifying round of the 16th annual event which was hosted by OU.

Other teams competing were

Bowling Green, Kent State and Western Michigan Universities.

Most impressive swimmer at the meet was a former Huntington resident, Bob Shaw, who set three meet records while competing for Miami.

Shaw set records in the 50 yard freestyle, 100 yard freestyle, and 200 yard freestyle. He was also the anchor man on two record-breaking relay teams: the 800-yard and 400-yard free relays.

April 1 dormitory deadline foils ace in hole tactics

By JACKIE McNEELY

And
DONALD SCAGGS

Students wishing to make reservations for a dormitory room for the fall semester will find that the full amount must be paid to assure the room, according to Thomas H. Doenges, housing director.

Mr. Doenges announced an April 1 deadline on all dormitory room reservations.

The new deadline resulted from students who did not honor their deposits last year. Mr. Doenges added many students used the deposit as an "ace in the hole" while looking for off-campus housing.

The new deadline was also established due to the 516 women and 315 men already on the waiting list for dormitory rooms. It is expected by May or June, there may be 200 to 300 more wanting rooms, according to Mr.

Doenges.

He said these students will seek out schools where they can get a definite answer regarding a dormitory room.

Difficulty meeting the April 1 deadline has been expressed by several students.

"I called my father," Charlotte Gailbraith, Hazlet, N. J., sophomore said, "and told him about the deadline. He said that he would send me the money, but then asked me if I would like to live in an apartment next year."

Denny Miller, Man junior, said, "The deadline is unfair to students who want to live here (in the dorms) next year. They should have waited at least until the first of May to instigate the deadline. I just finished paying board for the second semester which makes it rather difficult to muster the entire amount."

Jeanette Ross, Linside junior, said she thought she would be able to meet the deadline. However, she said if she met the deadline, she would not be able to attend summer school as she had planned.

"I can understand why the deadline was instigated," commented Tim Bucey, Paris, Pa., sophomore, "It would be hard to tell how many want to live in a dorm just by deposits."

Director of Financial Aid George Fraley reported those students wishing to receive aid and are sure they will return in the fall may be granted a waiver for dormitory reservation payment.

Mr. Doenges said if a student doesn't have the money to meet the deadline but wants a room, he is put on the priority waiting list.

A majority of contracts for room reservations have already been received, Mr. Doenges added.

Mother's Sing retains competition

Campus organizations will compete in Mothers Day Sing, May 12, according to Tandy Tully, Summersville sophomore and Panhellenic vice president.

Previously Panhellenic had wished to discontinue the competitive part, dedicating the entire program to President and Mrs. Stewart H. Smith. However, the final decision was left to the fraternity and sorority presidents who voted to have competition.

Bob Browning, Barbourville senior and Tau Kappa Epsilon president, said "Through competition the quality of the program will be better as you will have something to strive for—to win."

Other fraternity men felt that participation without competition would not compensate for costume and music expenses.

Organizations wishing to compete in the Mother's Day Sing must submit three song titles to Dean Lillian Buskirk, dean of women, today. First preference will be accepted unless conflicts occur. Dean Buskirk will make final decisions.

Panhellenic will accept applications for students interested in serving on the Mother's Day Sing Commission today and tomorrow. The commission is responsible for appointing judges and setting up rules.

As no official applications are available, students are asked to make their own applications including name, classification, address, phone number and activities. Applications are to be placed in the Panhellenic mailbox on first floor of Old Main.

Mother's Day Sing will be held on the west lawn of the Shawkey Student Union. All competing organizations will combine at the end of the program to sing a tribute to President and Mrs. Smith, according to Miss Tully.

Two secretaries resign

Miss Adrienne Arnett, secretary to the president, and Mrs. Maurine Roberts, secretary to the vice president of academic affairs, have resigned their positions after 43 years of combined service.

Miss Arnett and Mrs. Roberts said their resignations stemmed from a desire to relax and later travel. They were honored at a luncheon Tuesday given by their associates.

Miss Arnett, a former MU graduate and 20 year employe, described her job as a very pleasant and rewarding experience. Her most thrilling moment at the institution was when it reached university status in 1961.

Mrs. Roberts served a 17-year period at Marshall as secretary to the dean of Teachers College, quit her job to become a homemaker, and returned again in 1961 to a new position. A former Marshall graduate, Mrs. Roberts described MU as an interesting place to work and said she made many friends while here.

Both secretaries worked under President Stewart H. Smith in their respective times, and expressed regret of his coming resignation.

Miss Arnett is replaced by Mrs. Howard Haerberle and Mrs. Roberts will be replaced by Miss Willidean Chapman.

Do UFOs really exist?

Do UFOs really exist? Are they a figment of the imagination? "When I see one, I'll believe it," said Dr. Wasley Krogdahl, professor of astronomy at the University of Kentucky. During an interview following his lecture here Friday titled "Evolution of the Stars" Dr. Krogdahl discussed UFOs, saying he was "very skeptical about them."

He said that people tend to make things up at times, and unless he would actually see such an object, he wouldn't believe it. Cloud formations, air particles, or other atmospheric conditions could possibly be termed by observers as UFO's.

When asked about life on other planets, Dr. Krogdahl cited Mars or Venus as the only possibilities, if life could even exist there. These planets would be neither too hot nor cold for life, according to Krogdahl.

In his two lectures Friday,

Dr. Krogdahl discussed "Life on Other Worlds" and "Evolution of the Stars." He is currently writing a book, "Tensor-analysis," to be completed next year.

New president 'to better KA'

((EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third in a series of articles about fraternity presidents.)

Bill Leith, president of Kappa Alpha Order, said he hopes "to better KA from the standpoint of the community and campus" during his term in office.

Leith, Martinsburg junior, graduated from Martinsburg High School in 1965, and is now residing at the fraternity house.

Besides being elected president in December, Leith has been an Interfraternity Council representative, treasurer of the fraternity and has recently been pledged to The Robe.

Leith said his goals for KA were to "win the intramural championship and to engage more members in campus and community affairs."

Thursday is poetry deadline

Thursday is the deadline for poetry to be submitted for the Poetry Conclave set May 4 in the Campus Christian Center.

Norman Curry, conclave chairman, said that poems should be typewritten and accompanied by name, address and phone number.

Poetry should be sent to room 317 in Old Main.

Five students will be selected to represent the University.

Civil Service interviews set

West Virginia Civil Service System representatives will interview graduating seniors for a wide range of positions Thursday and Friday.

Interviews will be conducted from 9 a.m. to noon, and examinations will be given from 1-4 p.m. both days. Interested students may contact the placement office for details.

ROTC major goes to Vietnam

Maj. Bruce D. MacLean, assistant professor of military science, has been reassigned to Vietnam.

Major MacLean, who has been teaching senior cadets for the past one and a half years, left Tuesday for a 30 day leave before reporting for shipment to Vietnam, May 1. He has been assigned to the Military Assistants Command Vietnam where he will serve as an adviser to a Vietnamese unit.

Concerning Vietnam, Major MacLean has "mixed emotions" about being sent there.

"All my friends have been over there, but this is my first tour," he said. "I'm curious to find out just what is happening so I am looking forward to it in a way."

Pikes have Thursday forum

The Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity will have its weekly Pike Forum Thursday night at 7:30 p.m. at the fraternity house, according to John Bodo, president.

Speaker for the forum will be Roger Adkins, instructor of economics, discussing the topic of U. S. policies during the past two years. The purpose of the forum is to give fraternity members and invited guests an opportunity to express views on controversial issues.

This program will be held every Thursday night with MU professors speaking on various issues.
