Budget Increase Pleases Dr. Smith

By LLOYD D. LEWIS
Editor-in-Chief

Marshall has a happy — and hopeful — president today.

President Stewart H. Smith says he is "very encouraged" over the Board of Public Works' increased recommendation of $1.7 million over last year's MU budget.

Late last week the BPW tentatively approved a $6.1 million 1967-68 budget. This, however, was still $600,000 less than the administration requested.

Noting this, Dr. Smith said, "We will continue to work for the entire $6.7 million budget when the Legislature opens its session next Wednesday."

The president said that it was possible that the Legislature could find additional revenue during its session as it has done in the past. He cited last year as an example, when the legislators gave Marshall an extra $148,218 appropriation above what the BPW recommended and then granted MU another $125,000 for educational television.

Also last year, the BPW authorized $313,652 more than its previous year budget compared with $1.7 million this time. Last year's budget — under which the University is currently operating—amounts to $4,377,570.

President Smith said, "We need to catch up in our budget appropriations because they have been inadequate for a number of years. In the past, the Board of Public Works has come up with their sympathies and apologies that they knew we needed money but they just didn't have it."

In working for the complete budget, the president says he plans to appear before the finance committees of the House of Delegates and Senate.

Legislators from Cabell and Wayne Counties previously indicated that they will continue to press for the full $6.7 million request.

Delegate Robert R. Nelson, D-Cabell, termed the board's action "a good beginning" but he said the local legislators want to see Marshall get the full amount.

After the Legislature acts on the proposed budget—and raises it, lowers it or keeps it the same as the BPW recommendation—final approval will be made the Board.

Secretary of State Robert D. Bailey, a member of the BPW, said last week the Board realizes Marshall has not had enough money and it is trying to provide as much for higher education as possible.

University Students Called For Wilson Interviews

DIANA WALDRON

ARLENE ROUSH

By ANN JOHNSTON
Staff Reporter

Two nominees for Woodrow Wilson Fellowships have been called to Washington, D.C., for personal interviews with a Fellowship committee.

Arlene Roush, Letart senior, and Mrs. Diana Waldron, Huntington senior, will leave Friday for their interviews Jan. 14 in Washington.

Miss Roush is a graduate of Wahama High School. She is an English and Spanish major in Teachers College with a 3.83 overall scholastic average.

Mrs. Waldron, a native of England, is enrolled in the College of Arts and Sciences as an English major. Her scholastic average is 3.975.

Dr. N. Bayard Green, professor of zoology and department chairman, who handles Marshall's Woodrow Wilson applications, said, "The personal interview is brief and is before a committee of four scholars, of which one or more must be from the applicant's area of study."

The personal interview is the second step in winning a Woodrow Wilson Fellowship. Miss Roush and Mrs. Waldron have passed the initial elimination of applicants based on their application, references and 1,000-word statement of intellectual interest. From the interviews, applicants will either be eliminated, receive honorable mention or win Woodrow Wilson Fellowships.

"From West Virginia," said Dr. Green, "six applicants have been called for interviews. Marshall University is the only college in the state to have two applicants called to Washington. West Virginia University, Wheeling College, West Virginia State College, and West Virginia Institute of Technology each have one."

Pre-Registration Is Problem For Students and Computer

If you did not receive your second semester schedule after pre-registration or your schedule was returned marked "unable to schedule", there is a good reason.

Students were to present receipt for payment of fees to the registrar's office and fill out a mailing address form as a last step in advance registration. This was to enable the registrar to send your schedule directly to you during the Christmas vacation.

If you failed to fill out this form your schedule was not mailed and you may pick it up between Jan. 9 and 13 in the Computer Center by presenting receipt and I.D. card.

Schedules were returned to students marked "unable to schedule" for three reasons, said Luther E. Bledsoe, registrar. The reasons are:

1. Classes were closed.
2. Students made errors in making out schedules, causing conflicting class meetings. This, said Mr. Bledsoe, happened mainly when students signed up for science courses and failed to leave time for labs. Other classes were scheduled during labs, making it impossible for the schedule to go through the computer.
3. Failing to list alternate courses. If all sections of a course are filled and no alternate courses are listed, then the schedule is returned without the course rather than to sign the student up to a class which he may not need or want.

These students must re-register during the regular registration period and their schedules will be processed before the others in the regular registration.

A request for permit to register, which is available in the registrar's office, must be filled out. The permit will be mailed several days prior to the registration date, and the student must bring this permits as well as his receipt of fees to registration.

Supplemental Grant Okayed

A supplemental grant of $178,172 has been awarded by the U. S. Office of Education to help cover remodeling and construction costs of an addition to the James E. Morrow library.

According to Harold W. Apel, librarian, the new addition of the library is scheduled to open for use in the fall of 1967 and will cost about $2,071,000 in state and federal funds.

The Office of Education approved a $500,000 grant for the project earlier last year. The aid allocated amounts now add up to about one-third of the total cost of the addition.

Announcement of the grant was made by Senators Jennings Randolph and Robert C. Byrd and Representative Ken Hechler.

50 Student Jobs Affected In A&S

Workstudy funds allocated to the College of Arts and Sciences were nearly exhausted Wednesday forcing Dean J. Frank Bartlett to notify department chairman to terminate the employment of approximately 50 students effective immediately.

The college was allocated $32,500 during the fiscal year (July 1, 1936 to May 31, 1957) for the work-study program. Dean Bartlett said that approximately $30,000 had been used through December.

As a consequence, he instructed department chairmen to terminate the employment of work-study students who earn $1.25 an hour for up to 60 hours a month.

The work-stoppage order does not affect students in the A&S College who are employed as departmental assistants, Dean Bartlett emphasized. These students are paid out of funds appropriated by the state.

Teachers College and the College of Applied Science are not affected.

Among the hardest hit departments in the A&S College are English and Chemistry, the latter employing "in excess of 20" work-study students.

Dr. A. Mervin Tyson, chairman of the English Department, said, after he had been notified to terminate work-study jobs:

"For some of our students, the work-study jobs were their only means of staying in college. Unless they can find other jobs, they'll have to drop out.

Dr. John Wotiz, chairman of the Chemistry Department, termed the action "deplorable."

Dr. Wotiz blamed the business office for "not informing us of the standing of the budget . . ."

However, a lump-sum allocation was made to each of the colleges earlier in the fiscal year.

George O. Fraley, financial aid officer, said "about" 50 students were affected in the A&S College. He also said that Dr. John E. Shay Jr., dean of student affairs, was primarily handling the program.

Dean Shay was off campus Wednesday and could not be reached for comment.

About 300 students are participating in the work-study program throughout the university.

Publisher To Reprint Student Directories

New student directories will be printed at the expense of the publisher, according to Dave Frost, Huntington senior and student body vice-president.

Frost made the announcement at the student Senate meeting at 4 p.m. Wednesday.

The new directories should be distributed in February, said Frost, and refunds will be made on the previous edition—at that time.

The publisher is assuming full responsibility for the omission of a large number of names in the edition published earlier this semester, added Frost.

Frost also reported that he is working with President Stewart H. Smith and Joseph S. Soto, vice-president of business and finance on the allocation of funds from the student activity fee.

Formerly, $16.10 of the fee had not been definitely apportioned to specific purposes. The money had been placed in a general fund, said Frost. The money is now being allotted to specific purposes pending the consideration of President Smith, Vice-president Soto and Frost.

A campus beautification project is being sponsored by the Student Government, according to Frost. Linda Pepper, Parkersburg junior and commissioner of social affairs is chairman of the project. Various area garden clubs are being contacted in connection with the effort, said Frost. The proposed campus beautification is a plank of the platform of the Student Government leaders presently in office, added Frost.

The Homecoming coordinator may be appointed this year instead of next fall in order to allow the new coordinator more time to plan Homecoming activities. If the coordinator is appointed this year, said Frost, it will be his or her duty to contact all of the Greek organizations to acquire a written statement of participation in next year's Homecoming. After the statements are acquired, said Frost, the coordinator and various campus leaders will make recommendations to IFC concerning float building or house decorations for the fraternities.

Bridge Tourney Opens Wednesday

The national intercollegiate duplicate bridge tournament will be played in the University's Main Dining Hall at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Over 200 colleges and universities will be participating in their own areas to send winners to the regional tournament Feb. 1-27. The winners of the regional will take part in an all-expense paid trip to Peoria, Ill. for the national tournament.

This contest marks the 20th year of the nationwide tournament but only the third year of Marshall's participation.

Christmas Tree Has Seen Its Day

INDICATIONS THAT THE holidays are over are noted as Henry Ratcliff, custodian for the Student Union, throws a Christmas tree onto a pile of other discarded Christmas decorations.

Col. Land Appointed To Cabell Court Committee

Col. Rufus L. Land, retired economics professor, has been appointed chairman of a committee to redistrict Cabell County by the Cabell County Court.

Colonel Land explained his job is to talk with all interested people and gather their opinions concerning the redistricting and present these opinions to the Cabell County Court.

The idea for this committee began three months ago when Colonel Land and Frank Black, Cabell County Court president, were discussing ways to raise the Court's image. Colonel Land said he became interested in this project and volunteered to head the committee.

Colonel Land explained his job should be completed within two or three months although he is not setting any definite deadline. "The state will reregister voters later this year," he continued, "And the redistricting should be completed by that time."

The tentative plan of Colonel Land is to give the city of Huntington three to four districts and the surrounding area the same number. As it now stands the city 80 per cent of the county's population and is represented by two and two-thirds districts. The remaining four and two-thirds districts represent the less populated rural areas.

An interest in the current field of economics and political science in West Virginia has been a hobby for the retired economics professor.

Letters To The Editor

To The Editor:

Marshall basketball is off to a great start and I for one think it is great. Ticket sales are doing well and everything looks good for the athletic department to make some money this year. This brings me to my point.

I am a full-time student at Marshall and have an activity card to prove it. Now, when I go to a basketball game at 7:30 p.m. and the game doesn't start until 8 p.m. and I find that the seat I paid for in September has been sold to someone else, possibly you can understand why I am irritated.

I suggest that we use the same system as larger schools — have tickets at the school.

If you want to go, you present your activity card and receive a ticket just as you do for the artists series. Then and only then you put what tickets are left on sale to the general public. Let us not forget that this is a university function paid for in the first place by the students.

JOE McVAY,
Huntington senior

To The Editor:

Marshall University has long been labeled a school that has possessed little or no dorm spirit. This year's residents have proven the record completely unjustifiable. Robust and sound dorm spirit has finally become of age at Marshall University.

An example of the intensified dorm spirit that has been so typical of this year was apparent during Homecoming weekend. All but one of the five dormitories on campus constructed signs to decorate the University grounds with the Homecoming theme "As Years Go By." A great number of visiting alumni of Marshall, while touring the general area, stated that the decorations comparable to that of Fifth Avenue!

West Hall recently initiated a planned effort to raise money for the Ernie Davis Leukemia Fund Drive which met with tremendous success. This was the first time an independent organization has ever participated in such an activity at Marshall University. The "ice" has now been broken so that further activities of this sort can occur among all the dormitories on campus. The effect of the fund drive could have been even more stupendous had all the dormitories on campus participated in a joint effort.

Spirited South Hall captured the Athletic Department by forming a soccer team to represent our school. The residents helped finance the uniforms and balls while the players played for their own shoes. South Hall also sponsored a Winter Wonderland Christmas Dance, solely for their residents, which was another dormitory first. Congratulations for breaking some more "ice."

Although the Christmas spirit wasn't boosted by the weather, the dorm initiative to enhance enthusiasm met with immense success. Prichard Hall, just before the holidays, serenaded the mens' dormitories with Christmas carols in which South Hall climaxed the event by launching two aerial rockets.

The residents of the dormitories cannot be commended too highly for the enormous amount of enthusiasm and vivacity that they have exerted on behalf of Marshall University. I'm sure that this "Christmas Spirit" will progress to even greater heights in 1967. Keep up the excellent work!

HARRY BRUNER,
Charleston Freshman

To The Editor:

What good is a fair weather fan?? It was depicable to see so many of Marshall's students walk out on our great team before the Morehead game was even over December 14. Just because a team is behind does not mean that they are not giving it their best try. How about the way our boys closed that 14 point deficit to 7 points in the last three minutes or so? If that isn't a great try, we don't know what is.

After all the effort on the part of some of our students — the cheerleaders, T. H. E. Group, etc. — to build up school spirit, why tear it down? Our boys didn't walk out on you, you walked out on them.

The leaving crowd also blocked the view of the people who had enough pride and loyalty to keep supporting and cheering the team on even when the chips were down. Although more people stayed than left, the people who did leave made the others somewhat ashamed of that part of the student body who give up so easily.

The team gave their fullest effort, and we should be more proud of their hard work and stick-to-itiveness than disappointed by one loss out of four.

To The Editor:

I want to thank The Parthenon for the excellent cooperation they have given the Alumni Office on alumni activities. Your many articles and pictures have boosted our programs throughout the year.

This brings me to the main reason for writing to the editor. In our continuing effort to cultivate and encourage students to become active alumni, the student assistants in our office decorated the big spruce tree near the ODK Circle as "Seasons Greetings" from the Alumni Office. The same night the lights were turned on, somebody stole two sets of lights right off the tree.

I'm almost forced to laugh about this. I don't know whether to congratulate the thief (or thieves) on his cleverness or kick myself in the seat of the pants for being naive. I am well aware that one night watchman could not prevent this same persons carrying off the spruce tree itself or possibly Northcott Hall if they took the notion.

To end this on a positive note, I hope our students will take President Smith's budget message to their relatives and legislators while they are home. Maybe next year when we have an adequate campus security force the campus Christmas tree will burn a "fully dressed" Merry Christmas to everyone. (Even the "light" fingered thief!)

Construction Begins On Dorm Renovation

By VICKI PHILLIPS
Staff Reporter

Construction on the renovation of South Hall began last month, when the first equipment was moved onto campus, according to Oscar "Buch" Adkins, residence director of South Hall.

Equipment and supplies were originally to have arrived Nov. 28, with construction scheduled to begin last Dec. 1. Because of inclement weather, excavation was delayed.

Initial stages for the renovation began with the drilling of 60-foot holes with a pressure drop pump. The concrete-filled holes will serve as supports for the staircases which will be added to each end of the dormitory.

Double Dorm Size

"During the Christmas break we were working on the pilings and concrete beams to support the stairway," said Tom Durden, job supervisor for the project.

When completed, the renovation and additions will double the size of the dormitory, increasing South Hall from four to eight stories. It will provide housing for 500 students.

Increased facilities will include additional office space, larger apartments for the residence directors, laundry and study rooms, a centrally located high-speed elevator, a ninth-floor lounge and wall-to-wall carpeting on the top four floors and the downstairs lounge and halls.

Loan Approved

The renovation and additions will be made possible by a $1,515,000 college housing loan approved Nov. 5 by the U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development. The federal loan will be supplemented by $35,000 of the University's own funds.

Southeastern Construction Co. of Charleston submitted the low bid of $1.3 million for the project at a bid letting when the addition was part of a project that included renovations of Laidley Hall and Hodges Hall. Work on Laidley Hall and Hodges Hall was shelved because bids were higher than had been expected.

Originally, the project would have been completed by next September. The new target date for completion is Feb. 1, 1968, said Adkins.

EXTENSION CLASSES

Marshall University extension classes are being established for the second semester at the various centers this month for all interested persons. Available courses will be determined by the organizational meetings. Area high schools and two state colleges have opened their doors to the project.

Two Marshall University journalism students have become the first Huntington Publishing Company Scholars, according to a recent announcement by Raymond Brewster, vice-president and editor-in-chief of the Huntington Publishing Company.

David A. Peyton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Creath A. Peyton of 3556 Mount Union Road (Cabell County), and William David Garten, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold J. Garten of Pence Springs (Summers County), will each be awarded $1,000 scholarships to pay expenses during their current senior year at Marshall.

The scholarship awards were approved by the officers and the members of the board of directors of the Huntington Publishing Company.

Peyton, editor-in-chief last year of The Parthenon, expects to receive his A.B. degree next summer. Garten, former feature editor of The Parthenon, expects to graduate next May. Both are currently employed by the Huntington Publishing Company — Peyton as a fulltime reporter with the Huntington Advertiser and Garten as part-time TV editor for the Sunday Herald-Advertiser.

Announcement of the two Huntington Publishing Company Scholars followed the nomination of worthy students by the Marshall Journalism Department faculty. Selection of the two Scholars was made by Huntington Publishing Company in consultation with the Journalism Department.

Scaffold Worker Dies From Fall

William J. Overly, 38, of Sixteenth Street Rd. was killed Monday Dec. 19, after falling about eight stories while working on MU's new Academic Center.

According to E. R. Taylor, an employe of the Taylor Brick Cleaning Co., who was working with Mr. Overly, they had left the scaffold to get a hand caulking gun. After returning, Mr. Overly stepped on the scaffold and was waiting for the gun to be handed to him when a rope holding one end of the scaffold let go. Mr. Overly landed on a temporary wooden walkway which had been laid across a ditch.

In addition to other scholarship aid to journalism students, Huntington Publishing Company decided earlier this year to annually award two $1,000 scholarships to journalism students in their senior year at Marshall. These scholarships are intended for students who plan newspaper careers. Nominations are based on good character, professional proficiency, and potential dedication to newspaper work. No journalism student is excluded from nomination because of race, creed, sex, marital or financial status.

Upon graduation, Scholars will be offered positions, when feasible, on the editorial staffs at the Huntington Publishing Company.

The $1,000 scholarships will be administered through the Marshall University Foundation with payments made to the Scholars to meet their college expenses. There is no obligation for Scholars to perform any duties in connection with the awards.

"Both of the young men selected as Scholars have shown that they are worthy of the awards," Brewster said.

He added that Peyton served as an intern last summer at the Huntington Publishing Company and was then offered fulltime employment while continuing his education. Garten obtained an internship last summer with the Raleigh Register in Beckley, where he worked as a reporter. He later was offered a position with the Huntington Publishing Company.

"We are very proud of these young men," said Prof. William Francois, chairman of the Journalism Department. "Both students have done well academically and have frequently had their names on the dean's honor list. We know that they will be a credit to the journalism profession."

Both Professor Francois and Prof. W. Page Pitt, who is directing the Journalism Department's scholarship and student aid program, praised the Huntington Publishing Company for its strong support of Marshall's journalism program and its continuing interest in, and encouragement of, future journalists.

Smith Hopeful On MU Budget

He said the Marshall budget stands a good chance of a large increase over last year.

Last year Marshall requested $5,300,000 and the Board of Public Works trimmed it to $4,200,000 which amounted to only a $200,000 increase over the previous year.

Mr. Bailey said the Board has allowed three-fourths of the requested increase for West Virginia University, Marshall and the other nine state-supported colleges.

WVU asked for $20.6 million and received tentative approval for $19 million.

About 70 per cent of the increases would go into salary budget to provide pay raises and additional positions.

Three weeks ago a delegation of Marshall students went before the Board to ask for more money this time in addition to the Cabell-Wayne County delegation's request for the full budget.

ROONEY NAMED

The news department of WMUL-FM Radio announced Tuesday the appointment of Mike Rooney, York, Pa., junior, as special programming director. According to Rooney, starting second semester all programming at WMUL-FM will be increased with an emphasis on campus activities. Anyone interested in increasing campus activities should contact the news department any afternoon.

Scholarships Awarded To Pair Of Students

By ELLEN LAING
Staff Reporter

Miss Linda Nethercott, Huntington freshman, and Mrs. Norma Jean Smith, Barboursville junior, have been awarded the first annual scholarships of the graduating classes of 1963 and 1965.

These scholarships, and those of graduating classes since 1960, are continuing gifts to the University. Harry M. Sands, director of development and alumni affairs, said the scholarships were established by the senior classes to aid other students in obtaining a college education.

Ben Hale, Huntington senior and 1967 senior class president, is now organizing the class scholarship for 1967. According to Hale, seniors will be asked to contribute an amount of their choice or make a pledge which they will fulfill before June 30, 1968. This will provide enough funds to award the scholarship in the fall of 1968.

The scholarship fund will be replenished by annual gifts to the Alumni Association. Sands explained that through special arrangement, the Alumni Association will deposit one-half of the class member's contribution in the class fund and one-half will go to the annual giving campaign.

All seniors are urged to participate in the scholarship program with ideas and contributions, said Hale.

The College of Arts and Sciences leads the Honors Seminar in membership this semester. Of the 14 student membership, nine represent the College of Arts and Sciences and five are from Teachers College.

Under the direction of Dr. Jack R. Brown, professor of English, and Dr. John C. Plott, assistant professor of philosophy, this semester's seminar topic is "Mexico: The Country and Its People."

The meetings include guest lectures, films and general discussions of Mexico, plus the weekly reading required of each student. Approximately 100 pages of reading is required each week in addition to suggested material.

Credit of three semester hours is earned by Honors Seminar students. This may be applied toward hours required for graduation. A limit of two semesters of Honor Seminar is set on each student.

Qualifications for Honors Seminar are a 3.5 overall scholastic average, recommendation by a faculty member, and permission of the honors board. Juniors and seniors are given first consideration, with sophomores being accepted if room is available.

Intramural Standings Released

By LARRY MAXWELL
Sports Writer

With the near completion of the intramural basketball schedule, flight standings have been released by Dr. Robert Dollgener, assistant professor of physical education and director of intramural athletics.

The first and second place finisher in each flight will play in a single elimination tournament during the beginning of the second semester to determine the intramural champion.

Seven teams were leading their respective flights with a record of four victories and no defeats. The seven teams are Pi Kappa Alpha Team 1 in flight one, "The Bums" in flight three, Fire Team 5 in flight four, Sigma Alpha Epsilon Team 3 in flight five, Tau Kappa Epsilon Team 3 in flight nine, Hodges Hall Team 3 in flight 10, and Alpha Sigma Phi Team 2 in flight 11.

Four teams are leading their respective flights with three victories and no defeats. The four teams are "The Engineers" in flight two, "The Speedomatics" in flight six, Pi Kappa Alpha Team 3 in flight seven, and Zeta Beta Tau Team 3 in flight 12.

Sigma Phi Epsilon Team 4, Sigma Alpha Epsilon Team 2, and "The Wavers" are all tied for the lead in flight eight with identical records of three victories and one defeat.

"The intramural program here is not budgeted as far as intramural trophies are concerned," stated Dr. Dollgener. The money for trophies comes from the $1 entry fee that each team is assessed for participation in the major sports."

According to Dr. Dollgener, many teams have not paid their entry fee for basketball and football. As a result, no trophies have been presented this year to the champions of the various intramural sports.

"I strongly urge all teams which have not as yet paid their entry fees to do so as soon as possible in the Intramural Office, so trophies may be given," said Dr. Dollgener.

FORMER HERD STAR and last year's Little Herd cage coach, Sonny Allen, began his job as head coach of Old Dominion College of Norfolk, Va. in September. Allen came home to MU in October when his contemporary Hal Greer played exhibition ball with the Philadelphia 76'ers, and again last month when he led his squad to a respectable showing against the Herd, in his 105-103 defeat.

Johnson Optimistic About Road Contest

Thuundeing Herd Coach Ellis Johnson is optimistic about tomorrow's road game against the Falcons of Bowling Green.

"This game means a lot to us," said Coach Johnson. "I don't know what defense they will use against us but they do like the man-to-man."

"It's hard to say what they are liable to use against us," continued Coach Johnson. "We just might see any kind of defense. Coaches these days use them all."

Walt Piatkowski, a 6-8 forward and center, is averaging 20.4 points per game for the Falcons. Last year Piatkowski lead the Mid-American Conference in scoring with a 18.9 average.

The Herd gets back in'o action Monday night at Morris Harvey. Wednesday night brings another conference game as the Ohio University Bobcats, once beaten by the Thundering Herd, hosts the Herd at Athens. Game time both nights is 8 p.m.

Since Dec. 14 the Thundering Herd has paced itself through a tight six-game schedule, dropping two of the games to strong non-conference foes and one to the MAC's cage leader, and posting two wins against Ohio and Virginia teams.

Morehead State University swept through Memorial Fieldhouse Dec. 14, taking a 84-77 victory over the Herd.

MU's only live spark in the first half was Jim Davidson, who had 12 points and nine rebounds before intermission. His services were lost, owever, with only 3:26 gone in the second half when he collected his fifth pesronal foul.

With Davidson's departure in the second half, MU couldn't put together a sustained attack despite the shuffling of personnel by Coach Ellis Johnson.

Bob Redd, Johnson's bona fide All-American, had his poorest shooting night of the young season. Redd hit only three of 13 from the floor but retaliated by making 14 of 15 free throws, giving him a 20-point performance for the night. George Stone took scoring honors for MU with 25 points.

MU led only twice in the ball-game. Its last lead was 25-22 with 6:13 left in the first half.

Both teams had poor shooting nights from the floor. MU hit only 23 of 73 shots from the floor for a 31.5 shooting percentage. Morehead netted 28 of 81 for 34.6 per cent.

MU led in the rebounding battle 68-54. Center Bob Allen led the Herd with 17.

Then, on Dec. 17, the Herd lost its first Mid-American Conference game, 101-93, to the University of Toledo at Toledo.

The Herd, behind the scoring of Jim Davidson, Logan spohomore, were in contention until the final five minutes of the game. Davidson scored 25 points. George Stone added 20, and Orville Stepp netted 18.

MU regained its scoring punch, making 35 of 69 shots from the floor, but the Rockets made 41 of 77.

Coach Johnson said he believed the constant shifting of Bob Redd was contributing to the forward's badly-slipping scoring average. Redd went into the Toledo game with a 24.5 scoring average, but he only scored four goals against the Rockets, and all of them during the second half.

Next, the Herd pulled off its fourth win in a thrilling 85-81 overtime victory over the Steubenville College Barons at Steubenville on Dec. 19.

The Herd was leading with only five seconds remaining when the Barons tied the game, 77-77, to force the extra period.

High scorer for the Herd was Bob Redd with 22 and Jim Davidson and George Stone hit for 17 points each.

Allen came down with rebounding honors with 11 grabs.

Five days before Christmas St. Francis College of Loretto, Pa. surprised the Herd with a 73-67 victory. But Coach Johnson saw some bright spots.

"Danny took charge and played like he has been doing in practice," said Johnson. It was D'Antoni that led the Herd in scoring with 18 points.

"Bob Allen also has been showing improvement and all he needs is a little confidence to become an offensive threat," said Johnson.

During the last 25 seconds, the shooting of D'Antoni and George Stone helped pace the way for a final Herd comeback, but it was too late as St. Francis converted several foul shots to ice the ball-game.

The Herd, which has had its problems at the foul line this year, hit only 13 of 23 during the game.

"We practice them just like everybody else," said Coach Johnson. "Maybe it's mental."

In the scoring department, D'Antoni tied for scoring honors with 18 points, and Stone was next with 17.

NCAA Says Follow Rules

By T. M. MURDOCK
Spotsr Writer

Nearly every season the rules of every major sport has some revisions. Basketball is no exception.

The Official Basketball Rules Committee has proclaimed that certain rules and duties shall be strictly enforced this year. The enforcing all of the old and new rules, said the Committee, will not only aid the players and officials but the spectators as well.

Rule 10, Secion five, of the Rules Committee requires that a player must raise his hand at an arm's length above his head upon being charged with a foul. If, for any reason, the player should raise his arm in a resentful manner, he shall be charged with a technical foul. George Stone, 6-7 junior forward, was caught on this new ruling in the Eastern Kentucky game, Dec. 7.

Upon calling a foul, the official also has certain rules that he must abide by. a) He must assume a position near and facing the player charged with the infraction; b) He must identify the player; c) He must hold his position for approximately three seconds so the player will have time to raise his hand properly for the information of the scorer, the press, radio, television, and spectators; and d) He must penalize any failure to comply with the rule. The official shall not ask nor motion a player to raise his hand.

Another rule that has arisen is the painting of basket rims. Rule one, Section 10, requires that the basket rim flange and braces are to be painted a bright orange. Many reports, said the Rules Committee, indicate that this requirement has been lax. The bright color causes the basket to stand out, increases the visibility of the player, and assists in shooting.

The Rules Committee also urges coaches to prohibit players from moving under another player who is in mid-air for a shot or is rebounding. Such action could result in serious injury to a player. This rule, said the Committee, will be definitely enforced this year.

Allen Wants To Play MU Again

By JOHN HACKWORTH
Sports Writer

Sonny Allen, one-time basketball star and freshmen coach for Marshall, and now the head coach at Old Dominion College had no regrets about bringing his team here to play the bigger Thundering Herd, despite a 105-103 loss.

Sonny said his team could have won and added, "I'd like to continue this series with Marshall and hope to do so."

Allen, who was quite busy after the game, greeting old friends and well-wishers, said he is happy at Old Dominion, where his chief goal is to "win them all."

Commenting on the Herd, he said, "Marshall is a good team with plenty of size. They have great potential and should be able to win a lot of games."

When asked about the Herds' chances of winning the Mid-American conference title, he replied, "The MAC is a tough conference and it will be a big struggle for Marshall to win it. The team that wins it will have to be able to win the away games."

"Marshall has a good team, even though they seem to be weak on defense."

"Stone and Redd are great. There isn't much else you can teach either of them. They're just as good as they want to be," Allen said of the two Marshall starters whom he coached when they were freshmen.

One of the odd things about the game was the erratic guard play by the Herd, while Old Dominion was kept in the game by its fine guards, one of whom is "Buttons" Speakes, former Huntington High star.

Speakes, however, was recruited by Allen to attend Old Dominion, where he became the first Negro to play varsity basketball. Allen feels that Marshall has good guards, and that with time, will begin to show more impressive play.

Rollins Gives Drama Lecture At Wesleyan

Dr. Ronald G. Rollins, former associate professor of English here, recently gave the annual Distinguished Scholar's lecture to the staff and students of the English and Humanities Departments, Ohio Wesleyan University, Delaware, Ohio.

Now teaching at Ohio Wesleyan University, Dr. Rollins has been asked to repeat his address, "The Hero In Contemporary Irish Drama," at academic convocations at Denison University and at Ashland College.

According to a University spokesman, Dr. Rollins was selected because of his significant publications, including a casebook, "Critiques of Contemporary Irish Literature," which dealt with modern Irish writers, especially Yeats, Synge and O'Casey.

Graduating from Glenville State College in 1951, Dr. Rollins received his M.A. degree in 1953 from Marshall and his Ph.D. degree from the University of Cincinnati in 1960.

From 1960-1965, he served on the Marshall faculty.

New Campus Fraternity Invited To Join Interfraternity Council

A new fraternity was recently recognized by the Interfraternity Council and invited to join the council, according to Ben Hale, Chesapeake, Ohio, senior and IFC president.

"Everyone in the IFC is excited about the formation of Beta Nu," Hale said, "Because it marks the first expansion in the fraternity system for several years."

Hale said that the prospect of having another fraternity on campus is important because it would solve two problems.

"We (the members of the IFC) have felt the need for a new fraternity for some time now," Hale said, "There are two reasons for this: (1) Because of the increased enrollment, the fraternities presently on campus are getting too crowded; and (2) The existence of a new fraternity will reduce the selectivity practiced by all the fraternities.

Andy Ronald, Silver Springs, Md. senior and president of Beta Nu described the aims of the new fraternity.

"Beta Nu was formed with the sole intention of becoming a chapter of a national fraternity," Ronald said, "And I intend to do my best to bring this about."

"I expect that Beta Nu will be a colony before February," Ronald said.
