It's Do Or Die For Marshall In NIT

This Is It . . . Officially

ATHLETIC DIRECTOR NEAL B. Wilson smiles happily after receiving the official telegram informing him of Marshall's bid to play in the National Invitation Tournament tomorrow. Marshall will take on Villanova at 7 p.m. in Madison Square Garden. (See other stories pages 1, 4, 5.)

Transportation For New York Trip Includes Plane, Train, Cars, Thumb

By SAM NEAL
Staff Reporter

Modes of transportation to New York for the Marshall-Villanova National Invitation Tournament basketball game tomorrow night are as varied as the number of students who are planning to attend.

Planes, trains, buses, cars and hitch-hiking will all be in use beginning this afternoon and continuing through tomorrow.

For the most part, students will probably be gathering into car pools for the twelve to fourteen hour trip. President Stewart H. Smith has sent out a memo informing students to tell their instructors that they are going to the game, and their absences from class will not be counted against them providing they make up the work missed.

The two major bus lines serving the Huntington area have no special buses travelling to New York during the NIT playoffs, and according to company spokesmen, there are no special student rates.

A round-trip bus ticket on either Greyhound or Trailways is $43.05. However, students may charter buses for the excursion. Rates vary slightly between the two companies, but basically start at about $650 for 38 passengers on Greyhound and $799.80 for 37 passengers on Trailways.

This averages out to about $20 per student for a chartered bus to New York and back, and includes a waiting period in New York of up to three days.

Triple A (AAA) the automobile club, and Travel, Incorporated, both travel agencies in Huntington, are also making reservations for travel to New York for the game.

AAA is handling airline reservations for Eastern, or Allegheny from Tri-State Airport in Huntington, and United or American Airlines out of Charleston. Each individual airline is also handling its own reservations.

Airline rates for round-trip tickets vary only slightly between each airline, but the difference is greater if the flight is out of Huntington or Charleston.

Eastern Airlines from Huntington to Washington to New York, first class (only one price) round-trip is $82.95.

Allegheny Airlines from Huntington to Pittsburgh to New York, first class (only one price available) round-trip, is $81.95.

Flights out of Charleston on either United Airlines or American Airlines are direct to New York, and either first class or tourist rates can be used.

The prices are the same for both airlines, $74.55 round-trip first class or $60.06 round-trip tourist class.

The triple A office in Huntington, airlines reservation desk, said that there are still spaces available on all flights, but that they are filling up rapidly.

Travel, Incorporated, another agency in Huntington also handles plane reservations. There is scheduled a charter plane to New York that will leave Tri-State Airport at 1 p.m. Thursday and return after the ball game, leaving New York at 12 a.m. Thursday.

The cost for the round-trip ticket on this chartered flight will depend on the number of passengers using it. There is room for 85, and if the plane is filled, a round-trip ticket will cost $55.00, which includes meals served in flight.

In case there is less than 85 passengers scheduled, the cost of the flight will be pro-rated to the number of spaces filled.

Mrs. Wanda Hughes at 523-6431 has all the information concerning the chartered flight.

Some students have considered chartering their own smaller plane flights with three to five passengers. The rates for these type charters are fairly close between the services listed in and around Huntington.

Huntington Downtown Airport in Chesapeake, Ohio, has a charter service and Tri-State Aviation at Tri-State Airport in Huntington also has such a service. Both agencies charge about $300 round-trip for three passengers, or about $100 each. Extra money will be charged for waiting time in New York for both services.

President Smith authorized a special meeting to be held yesterday at noon in order to determine student interest in a special C&O train to the NIT in New York, according to James R. Vander Lind, associate dean of students. The company would need a $12,950 guarantee by sometime late yesterday afternoon in order to add a special train or cars to trains already scheduled.

Trains available out of Huntington include the George Washington which leaves Huntington at 9:40 p.m. Wednesday and arrives in New York at 1:50 p.m. Thursday. The only other train available

WSAZ Will Televis Herd-Villanova Contest

By TIM BUCEY
Sports Co-editor

Do or die.

That's the only way it can be tomorrow night in the 30th annual National Invitation Tournament at New York's Madison Square Garden when the Thundering Herd challenges the Wildcats of Villanova.

It will be Villanova's fourth appearance in the NIT. The Wildcats were third last year and runners-up the year before. It is Villanova Coach Jack Kraft's sixth consecutive year to take his team to a post-season tournament.

The Villanova-Marshall encounter will be the opening game of the nine-day basketball event and following the opener, St. Peter's of New Jersey takes on Southern Illinois University.

Three of the five men in Villanova's starting lineup are sophomores, but Johnny Jones, one of the sophomores, is the Wildcats' leading scorer with an 18.1 game average.

Jones was praised by Coach Ellis Johnson as "a boy who does a real fine job."

Terry McGuire, a 6-5 senior, and Joe Crews, a 6-4 junior, are veterans of the NIT.

Villanova (17-8), is ranked seventh in the nation in defense with a 59.8 average, while the Thundering Herd is ranked 15th in offense, averaging over 85 points per game.

Playing against a nationally ranked defense will be nothing new for the Herd, since Miami University was fifth in the nation defensively when the two teams battled it out last month.

Miami was then yielding an average of only 56 points per game, but MU scored 66 points in the first meeting, winning, 66-61. In the second game the Herd won handily, 77-62.

"Not much is known about Villanova's style of ball," Johnson said after watching movies of a Villanova game. "But we do know they like to play a zone defense. They also try to keep possession of the ball on defense and even more so on offense."

The Wildcats have already defeated four of the teams invited to the NIT — Marquette University, Memphis State University, St. Peter's and Providence.

In the 55-52 victory over Providence, Villanova's stout defense held the All-America scoring whiz, Jim Walker, to five points. Walker

Parthenon, WMUL To Cover Tilt

The news media of the Huntington area will give Marshall students full coverage of the Marshall-Villanova game, the opening game in the NIT.

The Parthenon will send four representatives to the game for full coverage in the campus paper. The staff members, Lloyd Lewis, Princeton senior and editor-in-chief,

"Students planning to attend the Marshall-Villanova basketball game should inform their teachers before leaving and arrange to make up work missed. No penalty should be given for these absences unless the student fails to make up his work."

DR. STEWART H. SMITH
President

Dan Fields, Lavalette junior and managing editor, Paul Smith, Whitesville senior and sports co-editor, will accompany Doug Dill, assistant instructor in news photography and staff photographer to the game.

They will fly with the team to New York and stay with the team in Lowe's Midtown Motel.

WMUL Broadcasts

Bill O'Brien, Beckley sophomore, will be covering the game for WMUL. Broadcast coverage will begin at 6:45 p.m. and be delivered from a telephone booth at the Garden. If Marshall wins tomorrow, O'Brien will stay in New York and broadcast as long as the Herd keeps winning.

Sir Tyrone Guthrie, Producer, To Speak On 'Theater Today'

By SHERRY ALLEN
Staff Reporter

Sir Tyrone Guthrie, a distinguished producer in the theater world, will speak on "The Theater Today" at the Convocation in Old Main Auditorium at 11 a.m. tomorrow.

According to Curtis Baxter, professor of English and director of the cultural program, Guthrie's appearance marks the highlight of the Convocation series this year. In recognition of his contributions to the theater, Guthrie was knighted by Queen Elizabeth in 1962.

Dr. Guthrie's appearance at the influence in the English-speaking theater through a career which spans four decades. He has achieved critical acclaim not only in drama but in grand opera and the musical theater as well.

Dr. Guthrie's appearance at the Convocation is a part of his first coast-to-coast lecture tour which will take him to 50 cities during a nine-week period.

He lives in Ireland where he serves as the Chancellor of Queens University in Belfast. His recent publications include "A Life in the Theater," "A New Theater," and "In Various Directions."

Letters To The Editor

To the Editor:

Within recent weeks, there has been a great deal of criticism directed at the "letter policy" of your newspaper. It seems as if there are some people on campus who believe you are denying the student body certain freedoms of expression.

As one who has written many letters to you, and as one who has been criticized for it, I would like to take this opportunity to defend The Parthenon and to support its newly adopted letter policy.

To begin with, freedom of the press is not a blanket term which allows a newspaper to print anything it wishes. Though I am strongly opposed to censorship as such, I do believe that certain limitations must be placed upon written material. This is why libel laws exist.

It is also important to note the distinction between staff members and letter writers. Freedom of the press is a term which applies to newspaper personnel and which is guaranteed by the government; freedom to write letters to the editor is a term which applies to students in general and which is granted by the editor. Thus, the editor is completely within his rights to set the policy for letter writing. He is the one who creates the column in the first place.

As I understand it your new policy simply requires that (1) students identify themselves when submitting letters and that (2) they follow the guidelines of "good taste" as determined by you.

Nowhere does this policy hinder the responsible exercise of freedom of expression. It is only fair that a student be required to make himself known to the person who is going to print his material. Moreover, the term "good taste" is not actually a restrictive one in the sense that it squelches controversial ideas. Quite to the contrary, it does not affect the ideas presented but only the manner in which they are presented. In other words, it is an incentive to refrain from using obscene language in presenting obscene ideas. If a student wishes to press obscenity—and this should most certainly be his right—he simply must find another vehicle of expression.

I believe any student should have the right to speak openly about any topic he chooses—particularly in a paper he pays for; but the decision to let him "use" The Parthenon is one to be made by the editor. Freedom of the press is a journalistic matter, but the letter policy involves the freedom of the editor—a term which does not require a newspaper to spend money expounding any idea forced upon it.

I strongly advocate the expressing of controversial ideas in an academic climate, and I do believe this should be one of the goals of a university; but I also believe in freedom of the press — which permits a newspaper to choose and print those opinions from subscribers which it deems to be in "good taste."

LARRY SONIS,
Charleston Sophomore

To the Editor:

Election Day has arrived and the decision is being made. Candidates have made their last ditch effort, The Parthenon has and is doing a tremendous job of presenting the events and personalities and ideas that make up this day. The election committee has worked hard to make this the most efficient and best campaign and election the campus of Marshall has ever seen.

Only one element can and does make this democratic process complete — the exercise of the right and responsibility of voting. All it takes from an individual is a little time, the presentation of an ID card and Activity card, and the pulling of the levers. Remember it is free; any registered full-time student may vote. Booths are provided by Keith Arthur, Cabell County Clerk, in the basement of the Union until 5 p.m. this evening.

Stop by for a visit, we would be happy to demonstrate how simple and quick it is to vote.

See you at the polls?

Hope so.

RANDY WHITE,
Scott Depot Junior

To the Editor:

On March 2 I walked into the Registrar's office with several forms requesting transcripts be sent to colleges and universities at which I am seeking employment. I paid the required fee and mentioned in passing that I trusted the transcripts would be forwarded within the next few days (the form states "ALLOW THREE DAYS FOR PROCESSING"). The clerk looked at me and stated something to the effect that the transcripts would be forwarded in two weeks if luck was with them.

I became a little anxious since two weeks or longer could in my case mean the difference between getting or not getting one of the jobs I am being considered for. Unlike most public school systems, colleges and universities hire personnel on the basis of degree attained, major field, experience in that field, academic achievement, etc., but not nearly as much through interviewing. In other words, they rely mainly on what they receive from (in this case) the University.

I conveyed the above to the clerk. She stated that this is the "peak season" for the forwarding of transcripts and that a backlog always occurs. After making a few gestures and again showing a little anxiety, I decided there was little more I could do and little more she could do except to write "RUSH" across the bottom of the request forms.

In conclusion, if Marshall graduates are to have a chance in an already "dog eat dog" world, I think that a more efficient way of expediting the above duties should be investigated. Either there is just too much work for the Registrar's office personnel; they are not doing their job; or the method employed in handling these tasks is outmoded! Any and/or all of the above should be looked into. Let's give Marshall's grads all the help they require and deserve.

PAUL D. MESSERSMITH,
Berwick, Pa., Graduate Student

To the Editor:

The State Human Rights Commission has legislation pending in Charleston at this time which would seek enforcement powers in combating discrimination in the areas of public accommodations, equal employment opportunities and open housing.

I would like to express my appreciation to the members of the Student Government who, being cognizant of its importance, passed a resolution in support of this bill which was sent to the Governor and other pertinent leaders. This action will enable Marshall to occupy a seat of hegemony among the other state colleges and universities.

Warner Is Ruled Ineligible By Court

The Student Court unanimously upheld the Election Commission's decision to prohibit Doug Warner, Vienna junior, from running for Senior Senator at a session Thursday.

Warner had petitioned the court on the assumption that his 1.97 average could be rounded off to the required 2.00. The 12 justices decided that this could not be done.

The meeting, held in the conference room, was the second case the court has had this year. Anyone who wishes to bring a case before the court must file a petition in the Student Government office.

WHO'S GOT THE BUTTON?

I'm sure it has not escaped your notice that underlying the adorable whimsy which has made this column such a popular favorite among my wife and my little dog Spot, there is a serious attempt to stay abreast of the problems that beset the American college student.

Many a trip have I made to many a campus—talking to undergraduates, listening to their troubles, hearing their grievances, reading their buttons. (Incidentally, the second and third most popular buttons I saw on my last trip were: "WALLACE BEERY LIVES" and "FLUORIDATE MUSCATEL." The first most popular button was, as we all know, "SCRAP THE SCRAPE" which is worn, as we all know, by Personna Super Stainless Steel Blade users who, as we all know, are proud to proclaim to the world that they have found a blade which gives them luxury shave after luxury shave, which comes both in double-edge style and Injector style, which does indeed scrap the scrape, negate the nick, peel the pull, and oust the ouch, which shaves so closely and quickly and truly and beautifully that my heart leaps to tell of it. (If perhaps you think me too effusive about Personna, I ask you to remember that to me Personna is more than just a razor blade; it is also an employer.)

But I digress. I make frequent trips, as I say, to learn what is currently vexing the American undergraduate. Last week, for example, while visiting a prominent Eastern university (Idaho State) I talked to a number of engineering seniors who posed a serious question. Like all students, they had come to college burning to fill themselves with culture, but, alas, because of all their science requirements, they simply had had no time to take the liberal arts courses their young souls lusted after. "Are we doomed," they asked piteously, "to go through life uncultured?"

I answered with a resounding "No!" I told them the culture they had missed in college, they would pick up after graduation. I explained that today's enlightened corporations are setting up on-the-job liberal arts programs for the newly employed engineering graduate—courses designed to fill his culture gap—for the truly enlightened corporation realizes that the truly cultured employee is the truly valuable employee.

To illustrate, I cited the well-known case of Champert Sigafos of Purdue.

When Champert, having completed his degree in wing nuts and flanges, reported to the enlightened corporation where he had accepted employment, he was not rushed forthwith to a drawing board. He was first installed in the enlightened corporation's training campus. Here he was given a beanie, a room-mate, and a copy of the company rouser, and the enlightened corporation proceeded to fill the gap in his culture.

First he was taught to read, then to print capital letters, then capital and small letters. (There was also an attempt to teach him script, but it was ultimately abandoned.)

From these fundamentals, Champert progressed slowly but steadily through the more complex disciplines. He was diligent, and the corporation was patient, and in the end they were well rewarded, for when Champert finished, he could play a clavier, parse a sentence, and name all the Electors of Bavaria.

Poised and cultured, Champert was promptly placed in an important executive position. I am pleased to report that he served with immense distinction—not, however, for long because three days later he reached retirement age.

Today, still spry, he lives in St. Petersburg, Florida, where he supplements his pension by parsing sentences for tourists.

Here's a sentence that's easy to parse: Subject—"you." Verb—"double." Object—"your shaving comfort when you use Burma-Shave, regular or menthol, along with your Personna Super Stainless Steel Blades."

Students Urged To Leave Time For In-City Travel

from Huntington is the Sportsman. It leaves Huntington at 4:13 a.m. and arrives in New York at 8:55 p.m.

Traveling by train would mean leaving Wednesday as the Sportsman would arrive in New York too late for the 7 p.m. game time. The C & O spokesman said that meals would be available on both trains, but that they would be in addition to the price of the ticket.

The methods of transportation from Huntington to New York are numerous, and the price range for each different mode of travel is wide.

Each agency contacted urged that Marshall fans planning to attend should leave enough time for travel in the city getting from the airport, train depot, bus station or hotel to Madison Square Garden for the game.

Big Sports Week For Thundering Herd

BIG JIM DAVIDSON, teammates and some of the frosh cagers ran through a practice game last Thursday keeping in tone for tomorrow's NIT opener. The Herd was ranked 15th in the nation last week in total offense. Villanova, tomorrow's foe, is ranked seventh in team defense, thanks in part to the Wildcat's trapping zone defense, which uses only one guard.

GYMNASTIC EXHIBITION was presented during halftime at the MU-Kent State game Saturday by the gymnastic physical education class at Marshall. John Moore, Huntington junior, demonstrates a kit stand on the parallel bars. John Mishoe, kneeling at left, and Vic Ferrari, are also members of the class, which is directed by Marion Barone, instructor in physical education.

HOMECOMING DAY for eight of Marshall's National Association of Intercollegiate Basketball small college champs of 1947 was Saturday. Kansas City was the site of the Marshall victory. Bill Toothman, one of the Herd's all-time great ball handlers, predicted that Marshall should make a fine impression in New York.

Champs Notice Similarity Between Teams

'47 Cage Heroes Honored

It happened 20 years ago. Eight Marshall players, Coach Cam Henderson, and student managers returned from Kansas City as the national small college champions.

Several of these players and managers were back Saturday to watch another one of Marshall's great teams.

Beginning with a luncheon in the morning, then the game against Kent State, followed by a reception at the Hotel Frederick the players relived some of the glorious moments of their careers.

They talked about how similar Ellis Johnson's team was to the '47 team, the Herd's chances in the National Invitational Tournament which begins tomorrow, and a few of the changes basketball has gone through in the past 20 years.

Among those present were Bill Hall, who is ranked seventh on the Marshall all-time scoring list with 1,421 points; Bill Toothman, who scored 1,326 points and is ninth on the scoring list; Gene "Goose" James, ranked 13th in scoring with 1,092 total points; and Marvin Gutschall. Two managers, John Nellman and Dick Smarr, along with the athletic director in 1947, H. C. Lantz, also attended.

Smarr, a student manager on the team, said he was amazed at the similarities between the '47 and '67 teams. "This team is the nearest to our '47 club as I have seen. We were also a close knit team and always worked together."

James, a tall man in those days at 6-4, said, "We never had anyone like Stone who could hit from the outside, but we did have four men who scored over 400 points. We also had a player similar to Bob Allen. He was the unsung hero, Marvin Gutschall. That guy was always there when you needed him."

The Thundering Herd has been noted for its quick running game, but the '47 champs claim they were faster.

"The style of ball is much slower now," Hall recalled. "Sure, they play fast but our style was much faster. We used a fast break that made it that way."

When Marshall won the National Association of Intercollegiate Basketball Championship, they were a member of the West Virginia Conference and compiled a 32-5 record — the most wins for any MU team in a season. They played such teams as Eastern Kentucky, Morehead, Morris Harvey, Salem and the University of Hawaii.

"I remember the year we won the championship," one player pointed out. "There were 12 or 13 that went out for the team but only eight made it to Kansas City." (Kansas City was where the N.A.I.B. championship was held). "Practice was really rough and some just couldn't take it. The 1944-45 team had only four players when the season began and we had to get three off the intramural team."

Hall, who now lives in Huntington since moving from Washington, Pa., noted a difference in officiating.

"A team has to have depth the way they call fouls," Hall explained. "Officials call fouls everytime body contact is made. Our coach told us that if we were going to foul to make sure we laid the man prone."

What do they think of Marshall's chances in the N.I.T.?

"If they play the best ball they are capable of playing they have a chance to win that N.I.T.," Hall added. "That Stone has one of the finest touches of a ballplayer that I have ever seen. He is just tremendous as a shooter."

Hall, who once played in Madison Square Garden said the crowd could upset them at first but they will settle down once the game progresses.

Villanova Boasts Four NIT Starts

 made only two of 20 shots from the field.

Walker, along with Bob Lloyd of Rutgers University and MU's George Stone, are three players in the NIT who are among the top 15 in the NCAA in scoring.

Walker has been averaging 29 points throughout most of the season, Lloyd has a 27.3 average for Rutgers and Stone finished the season with a 24.9 average, including his 35-point performance against Kent State.

Toledo, the Mid-American Conference champion, beat Villanova earlier in the season by a 72-65 score in overtime. The Herd lost its first game of the season to Toledo, 103-91, in December, but on Feb. 4, Marshall defeated the Rockets, 96-81, which was the Rockets' only defeat of the season.

Should the Thundering Herd win tomorrow night, it would then meet the Big Eight Representative on Monday night, and regardless of the Herd's outcome in this game, MU would play one more game. If MU beats the Big Eight team, it will advance to the semifinals which begin Thursday, March 16. A loss then would force them into a consolation game.

Herd cagers are optimistic about their chances in the tournament, even though this will be the first post season tournament for any of the Marshall players.

"We're just going to have to go up there and feel our way around," said Bob Allen, Port Huron, Mich., junior. "It is a psychological factor playing in Madison Square Garden and it could affect us but it could also help us since we'll have quite a few fans going there ourselves."

Allen, at 6-9, will be the tallest man for either club in the starting lineup. Jim McIntosh, 6-7 sophomore center, is the tallest man for the Wildcats.

Marshall will have the height advantage at both the forward and the center positions. Villanova uses only one guard, sophomore Frank Gillen, who is 5-11. The starting lineup includes McIntosh, 6-7 at center, Crews, 6-4 junior forward, McGuire 6-5 senior and Jones, a 6-3 sophomore forward.

No Herd team has played in Madison Square Garden in 13 years but Redd explained, "The only way it could bother me is if I felt we didn't belong there, but I feel we are good enough to play in the NIT."

One of the big questions is how far can the Herd go in the tournament.

"With a couple of breaks and if we play the way we are capable of playing we could go nearly all the way," Allen commented. "And I don't mean by shooting 34 per cent as we did Saturday."

"I haven't thought about how far we could go," Redd added. "I've just been thinking about Villanova. I still don't know much about them except they slow the ball down, and I think they play a zone defense," the 6-3 forward said.

"We'll just have to play them like we played Miami—get out in front so they'll have to play our type of game, but the problem will be getting out in front of them."

Happy!

Kent State Downed By MU, 77-76

George Stone's 20 foot jumper with six seconds remaining in overtime play gave MU a 77-76 victory over the Golden Flashes of Kent State last Saturday in a regionally televised game at Memorial Field House.

The win over Kent gave the National Invitation Tournament bound Thundering Herd an 18-6 regular season record and a 10-2 conference mark.

Kent, with only three seniors on the squad, finished its season with a 5-18 over all record and was 1-11 in conference play.

George Stone, MU's clutch man, had quite an afternoon. Besides scoring the game winning basket Stone became the first man in MU history to score 1,000 points in his first two seasons of varsity competition. And with 16.03 left in the second half Stone scored his 18th point which gave him the MAC scoring championship over Bowling Green's Walt Piatkowski.

Stone's 447 points as a sophomore plus 573 this season gives him a career total of 1,020 points which makes him the 15th highest scorer in the school's history with one more season to go.

Without Stone's 35 point scoring performance, MU could have been in real trouble. The Thundering Herd shot a low 30.3 per cent from the floor in the first half and only 34.4 per cent for the game.

Huntington Makes NIT Preparations

 The Herald Dispatch and assistant sports editor of The Herald-Advertiser, will represent the Huntington Publishing Co. Rorrer will fly to New York with the team and stay with them at the motel. If the team goes to the finals, Rorrer will be joined by Ernie Salvatore, sports editor of The Huntington Advertiser and The Herald-Advertiser.

TV Coverage

Live television coverage will be provided by WSAZ-TV, represented by Bob Bowen, the station's sports director. Coverage will start at 7 p.m.

The game will also be carried on WSAZ radio at the same time.

President Stewart H. Smith, who had originally planned to attend a Lutheran church meeting in New York City beginning at 9 a.m. Friday, will also be attending the Marshall NIT game tomorrow night.

Student Reactions

Although the popular reaction to the National Invitation Tournament bid consisted of "That's great!" some students had some original comments to make.

"I went to most of the home games," said Carol Henderson, Weirton freshman, "and I just hope they play as well in the NIT as they did here."

"We are all proud of our team," said Larry Bruce, Huntington senior and student body president. "This is a well deserved honor and I'm sure they will represent us well."

One student who preferred to remain anonymous was quoted as saying "What's the NIT?"

No Buses Planned

Sorority women, like everyone else, are looking forward to the Tournament. Many of them are planning to drive to New York, but no plans for renting buses have been made.

Enthusiasm has been high in sorority houses, as they make plans to watch the game on television.

"Like everyone else, we would like to go up for the finals if Marshall makes it, but it's too early to make plans now," said Kathy Foraker, Columbus, Ohio, sophomore and member of Alpha Xi Delta sorority.

Other Greeks also stated they would try to go to the finals in a group if Marshall plays and classes are dismissed.

Fraternities Attend

Many fraternities on campus are making plans to attend the NIT basketball tournament, also, but their plans do not include the renting of buses to make the long trip to New York.

Heavy cost was the reason for the cancellation of proposed bus trip hopes. Many members are planning to make the trip by car but no trips as a fraternity are being planned.

"Have you ever seen anyone walk on air? I'm just tickled to death! No one else could be happier except maybe the coaches."

These jubilant words are those of Harry Sands, director of development and alumni affairs upon hearing of Marshall's bid to the Tournament.

Civic Leaders Speak

Similar thoughts were expressed when civic leaders throughout the community were contacted.

R. O. Robertson, mayor of Huntington, said, "I think it's great—a well-deserved recognition for the team and the coaching staff. The city is proud of you and wishes you the best of luck."

"Oh, wonderful! We're real proud of the boys and all for them!" exclaimed Jack Amsbary, president of the Civitan Club.

President of the Jayettes, Barbara Flouhouse, remarked, "I think that's great. I think everyone's real, real proud of MU this year."

Douglas T. Fuller, president of the Kiwanis Club, echoed the thoughts of most people when he said, "We think it's fine. I hope they go far."

Marshall Host To Recreation Society Meet

The Annual meeting of the West Virginia Recreation Society will be held Saturday, March 11 in Gullickson Hall, announced Dr. Robert Dollgener, assistant professor of physical education.

Dr. Dollgener, a member of the Society's board of directors, said that the meeting would be open to anyone that expresses a desire to further the interest of recreation in W. Va.

"This group (the Society)," said Dr. Dollgener, "is primarily designed to give recreation a hoist at the state level."

The goals for the Society are the same as those of the Congressional established Outdoor Recreation Resources Review Commission. The authorizing act, Public Law 85-470, set forth the mission: (1) To determine the outdoor recreation wants and needs of the American people now and what they will be in the years 1976 and 2000. (2) To determine the recreation resources of the Nation available to satisfy those needs now and in the years 1976 and 2000. (3) To determine what policies and programs should be recommended to ensure that the needs of the present and future are adequately and efficiently met.

The meeting officially begins at 9 a.m. in Room 122. Tom Gray, director of recreation at Huntington State Hospital, and Bill Tully, director of recreation at the Veterans Administration Hospital, will speak on the topic of "Hospital Recreation."

RETREAT PLANNED

The University Christian Movement is sponsoring a spring planning retreat for March 10-12 at Camp Caesar near Webster Springs, W. Va., according to Rev. Hardin King, campus pastor.

WE THE PEOPLE

By BECKY THOMAS
Feature Writer

We the people will not have a Leadership Seminar this school year. Due to a conflict with "Greek Week" and a recommendation by last year's Seminar, the event has been tentatively postponed until next October, according to Larry Bruce, Huntington senior and student body president.

Contracts for "Greek Week" events were signed without investigation as to other events scheduled at that time, said Bruce. "It is unfortunate that the conflict occurred, but it may really be the answer to the recommendation made at the Seminar last spring," Bruce added.

He explained that recommendations were made at last year's Seminar to reschedule the event for the fall rather than spring.

However, the recommendation for a change of time was not seriously considered until the conflict arose. Plans had been made to conduct the Seminar the last weekend in March, said Bruce. But when it was recognized for that time, the Leadership Seminar coordinator, Penny Tully, Summersville junior, her commissioner, and Bruce made the decision to postpone the Seminar, said Bruce.

The decision was based on two points, according to Bruce, the conflict with "Greek Week" and the former recommendation that the time be changed.

"We don't know whether the Greeks would have chosen to attend Leadership Seminar or "Greek Week" because they were not given the decision to make," said Bruce. "At least 90 per cent of those attending Leadership Seminar in the past have been Greeks. If both events had been held at the same time, there is no doubt that both would have suffered." Bruce explained that Leadership Seminar is a great expense for the Student Government, and that they could not afford for it to be a failure. On the basis of the two reasons stated the Seminar has been cancelled for this year.

The Student Court heard the case of Doug Warner, Vienna junior, Thursday. Warner petitioned the court to rule on the constitutionality of his disqualification by the election committee as candidate for senior senator. The election committee disqualified Warner because his overall academic average is less than 2.0.

Warner based his case on the technicality that the constitution states that a candidate must have a 2.0 overall average. He said that he could technically round off his 1.96 average to 2.0 because the constitution only stipulates to the tenth of a point. The Court ruled that the constitutional requirement would not allow rounding off an average of less than 2.0 to meet the requirement. Thus Warner has officially been disqualified as a candidate, according to Ann Cyrus, Huntington junior justice.

This ruling will also apply to Harold Johnson, Point Pleasant, N. J., junior. Johnson's average is also less than 2.0. Johnson was also challenging his disqualification for candidacy for the senior class presidency.

Dr. Farnsworth Speaks Of Values

Dr. Dana Farnsworth, director of health services at Harvard University told the honors convocation last Thursday, "A college education can be only a passageway to a vocation or a profession, or it can encourage an individual to make the most of his personal traits and abilities."

Speaking in the Old Main auditorium at 11 a.m., Dr. Farnsworth was addressing honor students from Marshall as well as from area high schools.

President Stewart H. Smith introduced Dr. Farnsworth to the capacity audience, and Dr. Farnsworth then spoke on "What Society Should Expect of the College Graduate."

Referring to opinion makers and "those who control policy making of mass media," Dr. Farnsworth said, "Our present crisis in morals and values may be mild to what will come later if those in positions of influence continue to use their power irresponsibly."

He continued, "If our society is to maintain its vitality, our young people must be helped to attain individual values that are consis-tant not only with their own needs and aspirations, but with those of all persons with society."

The Marshall Honor Students who sat in the center of the auditorium were those who attained a 3.5 average or better last semester.

After appearing before the convocation, Dr. Farnsworth later spoke to a faculty luncheon on campus.

DO YOU HAVE WHAT IT TAKES TO BE A LEADER?*

If you do, don't settle for less.

If you will complete your first two years of college this spring and have not had ROTC training, you now have a special opportunity to earn an Army officer's commission in the next two years. You can qualify to fulfill your military obligation as an officer while you study for a college degree in a field of your choice.

Through a new two-year Army ROTC program you will receive leadership training and experience that will be valuable assets for the rest of your life, in either a military or a civilian career. You will receive an allowance of $40 each month during your Junior and Senior years. If you desire, you may request postponement of your military service while you complete your studies for a graduate degree.

Most large business and industrial firms prefer the college graduate who has been trained and commissioned as an officer—who has the ability to organize, motivate and lead others—and who has had experience in accepting responsibilities beyond his years.

You owe it to yourself to investigate this important opportunity.

For complete information on the new two-year Army ROTC program see the Professor of Military Science on campus.
