Bruce, Frost Discuss Administration

Inauguration Scheduled For Tomorrow Morning

The Parthenon

MARSHALL UNIVERSITY STUDENT NEWSPAPER

Vol. 65 HUNTINGTON, W. VA. WEDNESDAY, MARCH 23, 1966 No. 47

By DAVID PEYTON
Editor-In-Chief

With the elections only a week old, the new president and vice-president have begun to re-shape the government, even before their inauguration tomorrow at 11 a.m. in the Campus Christian Center.

Vice-President David Frost, Huntington junior, made two announcements about Senate activities last week. Frost said that as a standing policy for their administration, all legislation presented to the regular Wednesday Senate meetings must be brought to the Student Government no later than Monday noon preceding the Senate meeting.

In doing so, Frost said he hoped that the proposed legislation can be published in "The Parthenon" on Wednesday previous to the Senate meeting.

In addition, Frost has explained a new program of implementing the planks of his platform using the Senate. Frost said that each senator will either choose or be given a plank of the platform as a personal project for the year to come. In addition, each Senate committee will be given a project that originates from the Bruce-Frost platform.

The platform contains 54 planks and Frost said he felt most of the objectives in the platform can be accomplished.

Students streamed into the Student Government Office Thursday to apply for positions in the new administration. Many of the applications were for Cabinet positions. President Larry Bruce, Huntington junior, says he has big plans for the Cabinet in the year to come.

He said that the Cabinet's first job will be to establish a lobbying committee that will go to the West Virginia Legislature to lobby in Marshall's interest.

Bruce said that he wants the best informed students on the campus to work in the lobby group.

Last year, President Bruce served as an attache and a page-master at the 60-day Legislature session.

Both Bruce and Frost said that they did not promise any cabinet positions during their campaign. "We are looking for commissioners who are responsible and can get the job done," Bruce commented.

Bruce urged all interested students to stop by the Student Government Office in the Student Union to fill out a civil service application for a Student Government position.

Speaking about the theory of student government, Bruce commented that he felt the government can provide a service that no other campus organization can provide.

"This is a government of the students," he said. "This is the main outlet for student expression and I know of no other organization that can provide the services that student government can provide."

Both Bruce and Frost urged all students to come to the Student Government with their complaints about campus matters. "If they don't complain, we may never know the students' wishes," Bruce said.

Speaking as president of the Senate, Frost said that the most critical time for the Senate is coming up within the next two weeks. He commented that almost all the senators are new with three exceptions. "I'm glad to see all the new faces," he said.

Frost went on to say that his administration is not out to prove that student government should exist. "Here in the Student Government," he commented, "there is machinery already established for benefiting students. We already have the channels of communications. This is the place to come when trouble arises."

Frost also promised that in the future "it's going to be easier to get things accomplished."

All Hail The Conquering Hero(ine)

IT'S THE OLD question of who is conquering whom in the University Theatre's production of "She Stoops to Conquer". Marlowe, played by Bill York, Huntington sophomore, is the unsuspecting victim of Miss Hardcastle, no matter what the picture shows. Miss Hardcastle is played by Anne Turkovich, Charleston sophomore. The play will be presented today through Saturday at 8:15 p.m. in Old Main Auditorium. Students will be admitted by activity card.

Theatre Play Opens Tonight

By PATTI ARROWOOD
Staff Reporter

When an old English mansion is mistaken for an inn it can lead to trouble, as the cast of tonight's University Theatre production will prove when they present "She Stoops to Conquer" by Oliver Goldsmith.

The central character is Marlowe, played by Bill York, Huntington sophomore, who is betrothed to a girl he has never met. The mistake comes when the girl's step-brother directs Marlowe to her house, telling him as a practical joke that it is an inn. From that point the complications begin to pile up.

The production will be presented tonight through Saturday night. Some parts have been double cast and the players in these parts will alternate nights.

The cast for Wednesday and Friday, Kate Hardcastle is Ann Tourkovich, Charleston sophomore; as Tony Lumpkin, Mike Fesinmeier, Huntington freshman; as Hastings, George Stewart, Huntington freshman; as Mrs. Hardcastle, Janet Willy, Huntington sophomore; as Pimple Opal Rose, Pt. Pleasant sophomore, and as Jeremy, Don Wright, Follansbee freshman.

Tomorrow's and Saturday's cast with the roles in the same order includes Carol Hart, Huntington senior; Richard Jackson, Huntington sophomore; Don Wright, Follansbee freshman; Charlotte Davis, Bluefield graduate student; Bonnie Sharp, Waverly freshman, and George Stewart, Huntington freshman.

The play will begin each evening at 8 o'clock in Old Main Auditorium. Students will be admitted by showing their activity cards at the door, while other tickets will be sold for $1.

Directing the play is Clayton R. Page, associate professor of speech, who feels that Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer" is "a milestone in dramatic literature."

Myths Affect Our Lives

"The myths of utopia and racial superiority are having their effects on current problems in this country," said Dr. Edward Brandabur at the fourth annual Honors Convocation Thursday morning.

Dr. Brandabur who is director of the Honors College at the University of Illinois, spoke on the subject "The Life of Mind" to more than 600 university and area high school honor students.

Modern man, who is thought to be more enlightened, is still susceptible to myths, according to Dr. Brandabur. He defined "The Life of Mind" as the individual thinker and the free thinker in a free society.

His topic was keyed to the questioning of myths that control human behavior and included references to myths of racial superiority. He discussed their effects on current American problems and especially those in Europe prior to and during World War II.

Students attending the Convocation were those enrolled in the University Honors Seminar, those enrolled in departmental honors programs, all students who earned a 3.5 or higher grade point average during the past school year and honor students from the following area high schools:

Barboursville, Ceredo-Kenova, Chesapeake (Ohio), Fairland (Ohio), Fort Gay, Huntington East, Huntington High, Milton, St. Joseph, Vinson and Wayne.

Dr. Brandabur, a Huntington native, was introduced by Dr. J. Stewart Allen, vice president of academic affairs.

A luncheon in the University Cafeteria for invited guests followed the Convocation after which Dr. Brandabur spoke on the administration, organization and planning of a university honors program.

Qualifying Test April 2, May 14

The second semester English Qualifying Examination will be held April 2 and May 14, according to Dr. A Mervin Tyson, chairman of the English Department. The test will be given at 9 a.m. in the Science Hall Auditorium.

Students eligible to take the examination are engineering majors who have completed 68 or more hours, students in four-year programs who have completed 58 or more hours, and students in two-year programs who have completed 45 or more hours. Persons who have failed the examination must complete the English Composition Clinic before retaking the examination.

Passing the examination is a requirement for graduation and all Teachers College students must pass before being admitted to student teaching. Students who had an "A" or "B" in English 102A and foreign students for whom English is not a native language are exempt.

No prior registration is necessary. Students must arrive promptly and be seated by examination time.

Students whose last names begin with "A" through "L" will take the test April 2, while students with last names beginning with "M" through "Z" will take it May 14.

International Club Chooses Adviser

Nicholas C. Contopoulos, instructor of economics, has been chosen as the new adviser for the International Club replacing Dr. John Martin, professor of Spanish. The announcement was made by Pil Young Choung, Korean junior and president of the club.

A native of Karytaina, Greece, Mr. Contopoulos received his B.A. and M.A. degrees from Indiana University. He was formerly a research economist for the University of Michigan and for the state of Michigan.

The International Club is open to all students, Choung said.

'She Stoops To Conquer' Opens Tonight

MARLOWE, played by Bill York, falls for Kate's yarn. Kate is played by Carol Hart, Huntington senior, in the University Theatre production opening tonight.

'She Stoops'

Parthenon Photographer Mike Bell sat in on a dress rehearsal of the University Theatre's production of Oliver Goldsmith's "She Stoops To Conquer" and came up with these interesting results.

The play, the final one by the theatre this semester, will open in Old Main auditorium at 8 p.m. today.

Bill York, Huntington sophomore, is cast in the leading role of Marlowe all four nights. All other leads are double cast.

HASTINGS, played by George Stewart, Huntington freshman, comforts his loved one, Constance Neville, played by Nancy Loven, Warwick, R. I., freshman.

MRS. HARDCASTLE, played by Charlotte Davis, Bluefield graduate student, pleads for her life from what she thinks is a highwayman. In reality, he is her husband, played by Ralph Hensley, Ashland, Ky., graduate student.

"ASK ME NO questions and I'll tell you no fibs," Tony tells Hastings, played by Don Wright, Follansbee freshman, as he shows him Constance's family jewels. Now Hastings and Constance can run away together.

Prepared For The Fire Next Time?

THIS FIRE HYDRANT could drive both firemen and dogs out of their minds. Photographer Mike Bell was passing by the corner of Fourth Avenue and 18th Street and ran across this dilemma—a fire hydrant located behind a padlocked fence. Let's hope that, if there ever is a fire, the Huntington Fire Department carries wire cutters. As far as the dogs are concerned, they'll just have to find other "facilities".

Letters To The Editor

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Last year, just before the spring term ended, Jack Hill, Huntington senior, submitted a resignation to the Student Government. At that time, it was not printed in The Parthenon. Hill has requested that the resignation be printed in the newspaper.)

To the Editor:

It is with profound regret that I find it necessary to tender my resignation as president of the Senior Class, effective immediately.

In February I was informed by the Office of the Dean of Arts and Sciences that I would have accumulated enough credit hours to qualify as a senior at the conclusion of this semester. I solicited this information to insure that I would be legally qualified to serve as class president, should I be elected in the March 17 election. Receiving this assurance, I ran for and was elected to that office. I have been active and sincere in my position since my election.

Today (May 21) I discovered, quite by accident, that I will not be officially classified as a senior when the fall term begins. This obviously requires that I vacate my office, since I cannot legally represent a constituency to which I do not belong.

Certain acquaintances have suggested that I put aside prior commitments and personal conviction and attend summer sessions in order to raise my standing to senior before the fall term begins. I have been too long concerned with private responsibility and personal morality in our student government for my conscience to allow me to choose this path of concealment and subterfuge—although this might easily appear to many the easier road.

In addition, I had previously dedicated a portion of this summer to an extremely vital project which will benefit our entire community. Therefore, I must admit my tragic error and demonstrate anew my good faith to those who elected me by relinquishing my post.

Be assured that I will continue to be involved in campus affairs, and that whatever my "position", I shall always be dedicated to the improvement of our entire academic community and the moral strength that insures that improvement.

JOHN HILL,
Huntington Junior

To The Editor:

There was a basketball tournament in Huntington this weekend and high school students from all over the state came into town to cheer for their teams. Girls and boys whose whole identity is wrapped up in their schools — girls wearing letter sweaters and boys wearing blazers with their high school emblems on the pocket. These kids are West Virginia's contribution to the new generation that will follow the "new left" generation on college campuses all across the country. As I look at them now from my vantage point I wonder if many of them will even make it to college and, for those, who do, I wonder how many will be able to find their individual identities separate from a fraternity or sorority pin, and I wonder if those who do find their individual identities will be alienated or withdrawn from their society, or whether they will become socially aware individuals who feel some responsibility for initiating the social change necessary to create the democratic society most of us feel we already have.

K. F. Novak, state administrative officer from the U. S. Department of Agriculture, will conduct interviews on campus March 15. The interviews will begin at 9 a.m. in the Placement Office. Each interview will last about 30 minutes. Primary interest will be on civil engineering students who will be available for summer employment and students who will graduate in June and be ready for full-time employment.

Dr. Rollins Appointed A Danforth Associate

By BARBARA HENSLEY
Staff Reporter

Dr. Ronald G. Rollins, associate professor of English, was notified last week of his appointment by the Allegheny Regional Selection Committee of the Danforth Associate Program to a Danforth Associateship beginning September, 1966, and continuing for two years.

The purpose of the program is to improve faculty and student relationships and to recognize and honor the teacher-scholar.

Selections of the Danforth Associates are made on the effectiveness of the competent teacher-scholar both in and out of the class room, a strong concern for students as complex individuals and their awareness of the relevance of faith to our age.

The Danforth Foundation provides $225 for the associates to conduct student seminars in their homes.

"Lecturers will be brought in to aid the students in discussions of topics such as faith in our world of today and existentialism," commented Dr. Rollins, "As you can tell I'm quite excited about this. All of the plans haven't been worked out yet such as how the students will be picked for the seminars, but I'm working on a method of selection now."

Books and materials will be bought with $200 provided by the foundation. These materials will be used by and for the students in their seminars.

"This foundation is to aid teachers in personalizing the educational process.

"There are 650 colleges and universities in the United States working with the foundation," said Dr. Rollins.

If at the end of the two-year period the Danforth Foundation is pleased with the work done, an Associate may be invited to become a Senior Associate. Senior Associates travel around the country lecturing and aiding in administrative work of the foundation.

Services Held For 2 Students

Funeral services for two Charleston area students killed in a week-end automobile accident were held Monday afternoon.

The students were Linda Carol Arnett, St. Albans junior, and Arthur Frederick Frampton, Charleston junior. Miss Arnett, 20, was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph D. Arnett of 849 Greenbrier St., St. Albans. She was a member of Sigma Kappa Sorority. Frampton, also 20, was a member of Kappa Alpha Order. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. C. Richard Frampton of 1712 Loudon Heights Road, Charleston.

The accident occurred Friday at 5:45 p.m. east of Danville, Ky., on U.S. 150. According to the account in the "Charleston Daily Mail", the two students were on their way to Centre College at Danville to visit friends when Frampton's 1965 Chevrolet Corvair went out of control on the rain-slickened highway and hit a bridge abutment.

Police reports said both occupants were thrown from the car and died at the scene of the accident.

Surviving Frampton, besides his parents, are two brothers, Charles Richard, Jr., a student at Hampden-Sydney College, and Harold Ritz, a student at Virginia Polytechnic Institute, and a sister, Kathryn Anne, at home. Miss Arnett had two brothers, Alfred and Dennis both at home.

Members of Sigma Kappa and Kappa Alpha Order attended the funerals.

WMUL On Lookout For Student Help

WMUL, the Marshall radio station, is on the lookout for news announcers and continuity writers who can start work immediately.

Paul Miller, Huntington sophomore, director of the station, said "No previous experience is needed to be an announcer. When someone wanting to apply has a few spare minutes, he or she can come to the studio and make an audition tape for us."

Carla Thompson, Huntington freshman, news director for WMUL, said "Continuity writers are needed and there are several openings in the department this semester."

The students are needed for daily newscasts as well as early afternoon and evening programming.

They Lead The Bowl-Down League

Science Winner Aided At MU

A West Virginia winner of a national science talent hunt was aided in her project by Marshall University.

Linda Powers, a senior at Woodrow Wilson High School in Beckley, was named one of 10 finalists in the nationwide Westinghouse Science Talent Search held March 2-7.

Miss Powers' project was carried out in Marshall's Chemistry Department under the guidance of Dr. Ned D. Heindel, associate professor of chemistry.

The project that won her the top award in chemistry was "Energy Induced by Color Transformation in Organic Compounds." It is a study of pressure, heat and intense ultraviolet light reacting with four or five compounds to produce color changes.

Linda won a $3,000 scholarship to a college or university of her choice. Also, as a result of winning a top award in chemistry, she has received many scholarship offers from various colleges.

Miss Powers started this project last summer while enrolled in a freshman chemistry course. Dr. Heindel suggested the project and provided guidance. Linda also received assistance from Dr. Edward S. Hanrahan, assistant professor of chemistry, and Dr. M. R. Chakrabarty, assistant professor of chemistry.

Alexander Named Peace Corps Aide

Robert P. Alexander, director of placement, has been named Peace Corps Liaison Officer for this semester. He is replacing Edward C. Glasgow, assistant professor of English.

Mr. Alexander's job is primarily promotional. He supplies information about the Corps to those interested conducts tests and talks to civic and church groups about careers in the Corps. Mr. Alexander will coordinate the Peace Corps Week, April 24-30, when a group of Peace Corps volunteers will be on campus. He plans to try to stimulate interest in the Peace Corps, for he feels that too few people are aware of its programs and benefits.

Rollins' Works Are Accepted

Dr. Ronald G. Rollins, associate professor of English, has had four articles accepted for publication by various literary journals.

"Modern Drama Magazine" will publish an eight page article by Dr. Rollins entitled "Form and Content in Sean O'Casey's Dublin Trilogy."

The "Arizona Quarterly" will publish an eight page article by Dr. Rollins, entitled "Synge and O'Casey's Irish Hero as Playboy and Gunman." It deals with the comparison of Synge's "Playboy of the Western World" and O'Casey's "Shadow of a Gunman".

A third article will be published in the "Mark Twain Journal" in June entitled "Huckleberry Finn and Christy Mahon, Playboys of the Western Worlds." It is a ten page article comparing Huckleberry Finn with Playboys of the Western World.

A ten page study of "Dramatic Symbolism in Sean O'Casey's Dublin Trilogy" will be published by "Philological" Papers in July.

The research that went into these articles by Dr. Rollins was made possible by a grant awarded to him by the Marshall Research Board.

Dr. Rollins has published 14 articles while at Marshall.

Linksmen Meet OU Tomorrow

Marshall's golf team will open its regular season tomorrow against defending Mid-American Conference champion Ohio University at Guyan Country Club.

Coach Buddy Graham's linksmen got off to a good start in their drive to unseat O. U. by defeating the Spring Valley Country Club All-Stars 13-5 in an exhibition match Sunday.

Leading the fight will be the defending MAC individual champion, Dick Shepard, Huntington junior, who posted an impressive 69 in his match on Sunday. Other members of the team will be Joe Feaganes, Huntington senior, team captain; Pete Donald, Huntington junior; David Carter, Barboursville sophomore; Vernon Wright, Huntington sophomore, and Robert Terrell, Huntington senior.

In the match on Sunday against the Country Club All-Stars, five of MU's linksmen came out on top in their individual matches.

Club Hears Speech On Cameroon

Felix Maiamo, Cameroon freshman, spoke on his native country to the International Club meeting Thursday.

Maiamo, majoring in English and French, is an exchange student from Cameroon. He told of his country's historical development beginning in 1858 when German missionaries came to the country to establish the Baptist faith. He further commented that later interests revolved around the establishment of industries.

Maiamo said his country was one which was under foreign rule. In 1884 it was a German Protectorate; later England and France ruled separate parts of Cameroon.

He continued by saying that even though Cameroon is influenced by modern times, it is a country of traditions. It still has tribal chieftans who are responsible for as many as 87,000 people.

Because of its history, he noted that Cameroon is officially an English and French-speaking nation. A native of Buea, a large city in Cameroon, Maiamo's native language is Bansa and in addition to learning English in elementary school, he was taught Latin, Greek, and French in high school.

Telling of the language barrier in Cameroon, Maiamo stated that one half of Cameroon was of English-speaking natives; the other half consists of French-speaking natives. To solve the problem of communication, during the summer trucks carried the English-speaking natives across to the French-speaking side of Cameroon, and the French-speaking natives to the English-speaking side.

When questioned on the education of the people of Cameroon, Maiamo said that presently there are Cameroonian, English and Dutch missionaries and the American Peace Corps teaching in the schools there.

His ambition is to finish his education and return to his native land.

Recreation Resources Is Topic Of Meetings

The West Virginia Recreation Society, a voluntary association of 150 professional and lay recreation leaders in the state, will begin registration at 2 p.m. Friday in Gullickson Hall for week-end meetings.

The society's membership consists of recreation leaders from both public and private organizations.

The meetings, which will be held at Marshall for the first time, will center on discussions of what can be done to preserve West Virginia's recreational resources.

Dr. Robert Dollgener, director of intramurals, said, "Few states have more natural resources than West Virginia. However, we are behind other states in preparations to preserve these resources. Taking into consideration the scenic beauty, scientific value and historical significance of West Virginia, we have the most beautiful state in the country."

The meetings are open to the public as well as to all special interest groups such as the Isaac Walton League and the West Vir-

Next Track Meet Will Be On April 2

The Thundering Herd track squad will open its outdoor season April 2 in a dual meet against West Liberty College at Fairfield Stadium.

Coach Mike Joseph's thinclads have competed in three indoor meets this season, the last being Saturday in the Dennison, Ohio Relays.

After West Liberty, the Herd will have eight matches before entering the Mid-American Conference meet at the University of Toledo, May 20-21.

Coach Seeks QB As Practice Begins

The Thundering Herd football team opened its 1966 spring football drills Monday with Head Coach Charlie Snyder seeking replacements for quarterback and the defensive backfield.

Graduation took eight starters from the 1965 5-5 club. Lost at the signal-caller slot are Howie Miller and Alex Sansosti.

Miller, although having his fine career ended after the fourth game last year, is the school's all-time offensive record holder. His departure leaves Snyder with his biggest headache.

Gone in the defensive backfield, Snyder's other trouble position, are halfbacks Ray Henderson and George Kosanovich and safety Gary Marvin. Only junior safetyman Jim Heaton returns.

Another sore spot will be Tom Good's linebacker post. Good, All-MAC unanimous linebacker for two seasons, has signed with the San Diego Chargers of the American Football League. Sophomore John Kenney is the present leader at this position.

Snyder has 14 starters and 25 letterman returning from last year. Leading the returning letterman are senior-to-be tailback Mickey Jackson, senior-to-be fullback Andy Socha, junior-to-be end Ken Simpson, and guards Dennis Miller and Gene Gatrell, both seniors-to-be.

The fleet-footed Jackson ended fifth in the nation last season in scoring with 96 points and established a conference mark by scoring 54 points. He also led the Thundering Herd in rushing with 704 yards. Socha was second with 664. Both players are expected to lead another strong Herd ground attack in 1966.

Junior-to-be wingback Claude Smith is the third offensive back returning. He was a regular in five games last year until a broken hand sidelined him for the remainder of the season.

If Snyder finds an adequate quarterback by next year, he feels he could have his best backfield ever. Candidates include senior-to-be Lou Henry, junior-to-be Bob Hale, and sophomores-to-be Meline Serdich, Jim Gilbert and David White. Hale appears to be the best, but in two starts last season looked unimpressive. A year experience could help him.

The offensive line will be bolstered by returning regulars Simpson and guards Miller and Gatrell. Simpson led the team in pass receiving last year and more of the same is expected next fall.

Others besides Miller and Gatrell returning in the front-wall, will be juniors-to-be Chuck Rine and Jim Preston at center and guard respectively, and ends John Land and Parris Coleman.

Returning in the defensive unit are regulars Tom McLaughlin and Vic Ferrari at ends, junior-to-be Tom Wilkerson and at tackles and linebacker Dennis Parker.

Snyder has another fine group of sophs-to-be and among the best are tailback Charlie Jones, wingback Jim Brandt, center Gene Phillips, end Joe Rabusky, guard Gale Smith, tackles Benny Thomas, Dennis Caldwell and Harold Bennett, and defensive halfback George Hummell.

Two players, wingback Smith and soph-to-be defensive back Barry Scraggs, will miss spring practice because of injuries suffered last fall.

Within the required 30 day period during which his team can have 20 practice sessions, Snyder believes he can find replacements for his two present trouble spots. If he does, his fourth straight winning year could be in the process.

Virgil Craycraft, Tri - State area coordinator of the John Birch Society, will speak at the Campus Christian Center at 7:30 p.m. today.

A Kentuckian, Mr. Craycraft will discuss "Viet Nam" at the meet sponsored by the Young Americans for Freedom (YAF).

Other political views will be presented at YAF meetings later in the semester. According to Swanson, D. E. (Buz) Lukens, former chairman of the national Young Republicans Federation, will visit the campus in April to speak on "Young People in Politics."

Miss Manion participates in the radio - television broadcast "Manion Forum," a series of taped interviews with leading men in various fields. Her topic is "Politics and the Single Girl."

Herbert Philbrick, a counter-spy, whose exploits were recounted during the television series, "I Led Three Lives," is scheduled to speak in May.

Do Unitarian Universalists Believe in Anything?

The Unitarian Universalist Church believes in brotherhood. It believes in civil rights. It believes in the war on poverty. It believes in the United Nations. It believes in the nuclear test-ban treaty. It believes that religion should help people deal directly with the problems of today's world, not insulate against them. This is why so many people who do things during the week come to our church on Sunday.

How about you?
