Who's Who On Campus

By ROSEMARY FLAHERTY
Staff Reporter

Thirty-six Marshall students have been named to the 1966-67 edition of "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges," according to Larry Bruce, Huntington senior and student body president.

Selection for this national honor was based on the number of points each student accumulated for scholarship and extra-curricular activities during his or her college career. Each student will be recognized with a short biography in the book and will receive a certificate during presentation of awards in the spring.

Huntington seniors who were chosen include: Tony Broh, Lawrence E. Bruce Jr., Donald Charles Cottrill, Rosemary B. Flaherty, David Frost, Carol Grace, Mary Lind Hagen, Jan Elise Jenkins, Giovanna Lombardo, Diana Sue Petty, Janet Gail Ratcliff, Carl Lawrence Schuler Jr., Jerry Kermit Shields and Mary Elizabeth Theis.

Other seniors are: Anna Catherine Call, South Charleston; Nancy Ellen Glaser, Howthorne, N. J.; Ben Hale, Chesapeake, Ohio; Nancy Hickman, St. Albans; Julia Annette Holbrook, Chesapeake, Ohio; Dorothy Ann Knoll, Pt. Pleasant; Lloyd David Lewis, Princeton; Rita Frances McCullough, South Charleston; Jackie Moss, Charleston; James Carl Nelson, New York; Arline Roush, Letart; Kathleen Sue Six, St. Albans; Janice Evelyn Tawney; Looneyville, and Jane Woodburn, Wheeling.

Eight juniors selected for Who's Who are: Bob Boesch, South Charleston; Ann DeBussy, Parkersburg; Charles Kincaid, Huntington; Linda Sue Lycan, Ft. Gay; Caroline Massey, Ashland, Ky.; Linda Pepper, Parkersburg; Gail Schneider, Washington, and Marilyn Wooddell, Beckley.

'Progress Being Made' On Stadium Dr. Smith Says After City Parley

President Stewart H. Smith recently conferred with Huntington City Council and City Manager Edward Ewing on the proposed Marshall stadium.

Dr. Smith said that "while Council took no formal action, it is being kept informed and is taking a great interest in the progress that is being made."

Two locations have been proposed for the new stadium, according to the president—one in the general area from 20th to 23rd Streets and from Third to Fifth Avenues, and the other at University Heights on Route 60 East.

Other progress on the stadium plans includes a Huntington Urban Renewal Authority survey now in progress on the 20th Street site to determine its eligibility for inclusion in the Urban Renewal area of Huntington.

The State Road Commission has also studied this location and the University Heights site.

"Although the Commission made no recommendations as to which of the two sites should be selected, the information furnished by the SRC indicates that Site No. 1 (the 20th Street location) has many more advantages than Site No. 2 at University Heights."

Student Committee Appointed To Discuss Cafeteria Service

A committee to periodically discuss student's comments and complaints about the University Food Service has been appointed by Jane Sterne, Point Pleasant senior and president of Laidley Hall.

Miss Sterne was appointed by President Stewart H. Smith at a meeting with dormitory presidents.

Committee members representing each of the dormitories are: Ron Horton, Princeton freshman, Rowley Hall; Cathy Evans, Jackson, Ohio, sophomore, Laidley Hall; Jane Dudash, Bramwell sophomore, West Hall; Pat Noterman, Cincinnati, Ohio, junior, Pritchard Hall; and Randy Henderson, Williamstown freshman, South Hall. The delegate from Hodges Hall has not yet been appointed.

The Food Service Committee resulted from a letter recently appearing in The Parthenon criticizing the service in the University Dining Hall. President Smith and Frank S. Willis, director of food service, agreed that a committee provides a student administration communication that will benefit both the University Food Service and the students.

The first committee meeting, according to Miss Sterne, will take place as soon as committee organization is completed.

Schlesinger Slated At Forum Tonight

Close Advisor To John Kennedy
Is Author Of Current Best-Seller

By SHERRY ALLEN
Staff Reporter

Arthur Schlesinger, the Pulitzer Prize-winning historian who wrote "A Thousand Days: John F. Kennedy in the White House," will speak at the Community Forum at 8 p.m. today in Old Main Auditorium.

As special assistant to President Kennedy, Dr. Schlesinger traveled extensively in Europe and South America, sat in on policy meetings, and was involved with many vital discussions.

It was this experience that prompted him to write the book, "A Thousand Days," which is a best-seller in this country and has been a Book of the Month Club selection. Currently the book is being translated and printed in many foreign countries.

During his career, Dr. Schlesinger has written articles for Life, Fortune, Atlantic Monthly, Harper's, Saturday Evening Post and other periodicals.

He received the Pulitzer Prize for his book, "The Age of Jackson." At that time, he was the youngest historian to ever win that coveted prize.

According to the New York Times, he now "ranks among the foremost in the new generation of vigorous social thinkers."

Other books the noted historian has written include "The Vital Center," a discussion of contemporary political and social problems, published in 1949, and "The General and the President," an analysis of the issues raised by President Truman's dismissal of General MacArthur. Written in collaboration with Richard Rovere, it was published in 1951 and republished in 1965 under the title "The MacArthur Controversy."

All students are invited to attend the forum. They will be admitted by showing their activity cards.

Martin Agronsky, NBC newscaster, had been scheduled to appear on the Forum next Thursday, but has been rescheduled to April 8 because of illness.

'True Believer' Selected Book For Semester

"The True Believer" by Eric Hoffer has been selected as the Book of the Semester by a combined student and faculty Book of the Semester Committee.

The book is a study of the mass movements from early Christianity to modern nationalism and communism.

"One reason we chose 'The True Believer' is that mass movements are prevalent in America today. This book delves into their underlying meaning and studies the people who participate in them," said Betty Kessler, St. Albans senior and coordinator.

Mrs. Louise Kirby, professor of English and chairman of the faculty subcommittee, said, "Mr. Hoffer is very well read. He has coordinated his knowledge and thinking in admirable form in 'The True Believer'."

"The book will be promoted on campus with posters, discussions, and, if possible, a program on WMUL-FM, said Miss Kessler. The book will be available in the bookstore.

Other members of the student committee are Patty Frye, Bluefield senior; Carol Asbury, Huntington junior; Gail Schneider, Washington junior and Vicki Phillips, Vienna sophomore.

Other members of the faculty subcommittee are Bernard F. Cleveland, professor of social studies; Simon D. Perry, professor of political science; Mrs. Barbara Stickman, professor of English and Mahlon Brown, professor of social studies.

This Time Lapse A Record-Setter?

Few students have had such an interesting story at Marshall as Virginia Dillon, Milton senior. Mrs. Dillon has a 30-year time span separating her sophomore and junior years.

She first entered Teachers College in September, 1934, where she enrolled in a rural education program.

Her goal was a standard normal teachers' certificate, granted after 68 hours of credit. She obtained this in four semesters. However, after her marriage in 1937, she let her certificate lapse.

In 1965 Mrs. Dillon resumed her studies at Marshall as an elementary education major.

She remembers her earlier classes here as much easier than today's. She credits this to multiple factors: her age, to the fact that she had entered college directly from high school, and to a belief—shared by many of her fellow students—that classes are rougher today.

A Ratty Problem Is Solved!

What could be worse than to have an experimental class and not have anything to experiment on? This was the situation when the Psychology 323 class could not purchase eight rats.

Their problem stemmed from a law recently passed which forbids a state institution from doing business with an out-of-state firm unless that firm has obtained a vendor's license. In this case the out-of-state firm would have had to pay more than $200 to allow Marshall University to order eight white rats — and it just wasn't willing to do it.

The problem was solved, however, when the Psychology honorary donated the rats to the class. Now the class is happy, but are the rats?

Retirement Ceremonies Honor Colonel Morgan

Lt. Col. Patrick H. Morgan, professor of military science, retired yesterday from the U. S. Army. He will remain at Marshall as a member of the faculty.

The military science department and the ROTC battalion held a ceremony at the weekly drill Tuesday honoring Col. Morgan.

In a certificate of appreciation, congratulations were conveyed by Gen. Harold K. Johnson, U. S. Army, Chiefs of Staff.

Cadet Col. John C. Wideman, St. Petersburg, Fla., senior, and battalion commander presented Col. Morgan with a token of appreciation from the battalion, a desk calendar.

Col. Morgan said the battalion has grown in number and quality in the four years he's been here and the battalion now has a higher calibre student as reflected in the ACT and Army RQ examinations.

Lt. Col. Morgan attended Sewanee Military Academy, Sewanee, Tenn., and North Carolina State College in Raleigh, N. C., graduating with a B.S. degree and an ROTC commission in the Army Reserve.

After graduation, he was stationed at Bard College and Long Island College of Medicine. He served with infantry replacement centers before joining the 43rd Infantry Division in 1945. He served in the Military Government section of the Army of Occupation in Japan until 1946, when he returned to civilian status.

Lt. Col. Morgan was recalled to active duty in 1950. Before coming to Marshall he was assigned to the Seventh Infantry Division in Korea. He was assigned to the ROTC Instructor Group at Marshall on June 15, 1962, arriving here as a major.

Lt. Col. Morgan's wife and three children attended the retirement ceremony, as well as President Stewart H. Smith, Dr. A. E. McCaskey, Dean of the College of Applied Science, and Dr. J. Stewart Allen, Vice President of Academic Affairs. Families of other cadet members also attended.

Cold, Faulty Pump Cancelled Classes

The Music Building went without heat for most of the day Tuesday.

The trouble stemmed from a faulty pump in the Science Hall. Heat for the music building is supplied from the Science Hall furnace by two pumps. One of these pumps malfunctioned.

Dr. C. Lawrence Kingsbury, chairman of the Music Department, said that two or three classes scheduled to meet on the west side of the building were cancelled because of the cold.

The pump was replaced, heat restored, and by the following day, the Music Building was back to normal.

STUDENT DIRECTORY

The Student Directory goes on sale Monday at the Student Union and the Student Government office for 25 cents. The Directory for this year has a bright new cover. Inside are the complete listing of the faculty, students, student associations and organizations. A new addition is the classified section in the back with a listing of places students usually go. A five year contract has been signed with the Institutional Directory.

WMUL POSITIONS OPEN

WMUL needs reporters, broadcasters and secretaries to fill positions in the expanding news department, according to Jim Slicer, Huntington sophomore and news director of WMUL. Students interested should apply at the station in the basement of the Science Hall.

SNEA Membership Enrollment Open

The Marshall chapter of the Student National Education Association is now taking new members, according to Sharon Bailey, Beckley junior and president of the organization.

Any student enrolled in Teachers College is eligible for membership.

The local chapter of SNEA, established in 1955, is a preprofessional association for college and university students preparing to teach.

Membership in the SNEA includes membership in the State Education Association and the National Education Association with all rights, privileges and responsibilities of membership in the professional associations.

"The SNEA offers opportunities for personal and professional growth," said Miss Bailey. She added that there is an opportunity to become acquainted with educational trends and with the major issues facing the education profession.

Professional publications are available to members, as well as May, are eligible to compete in auditions.

According to Dr. C. L. Kingsbury, head of the Music Department, other services of the NEA and the SEA. The NEA Life Insurance Plan is open to student members also.

This year's SNEA officers are: Miss Bailey, president; Marlene Roach, Parsons junior and vice president; Joyce Moore, Mullins sophomore and recording secretary; Sarah Bates, West Union junior and corresponding secretary, and Linda Lycan, Fort Gay junior and treasurer.

Membership blanks are available in the Student Teaching Center, M229 and information about the organization may be obtained from any officer of the SNEA or by calling 523-4214.

Special Film Set For December 9

"The Last Giant", a documentary color film about Michelangelo, will have a special showing at 8 p.m. Fri., Dec. 9, in Old Main Auditorium.

Kappa Pi, national art society, has arranged for the showing of the two hour film.

"The Last Giant" had its premier last season on television as a two part series. The Marshall performance combines both programs. The film is being made available to Kappa Pi by the United Fuel Gas Co.

The public is invited. There will be no admission charge.

Honors Students Hear South American Speak

DR. JOSE BAQUERO

By DONNA FERGUSON
Staff Reporter

Jose Antonio Baquero, South American-born professor of economics, spoke to Marshall Honors students Tuesday night on the topic "Political and Economic Highlights of the Mexican constitution."

Baquero has delivered lectures across the United States. He has taught at the Catholic University of Quito, Ecuador, University of Florida, and Mississippi State University. He is now a professor of economics at the Catholic University of America, in Washington, D. C.

Baquero began his lecture with a brief historical sketch of events which lead to the approval of Mexican constitution in 1917.

Although many provisions of the old constitution exist in the new one, some provisions have resulted in major changes in the political and economic structure of the nation.

"The Mexican Constitution is the climax of the historical struggles between the church and the state in Mexico," Baquero said.

As a reaction against the extensive role the church played in the colonial era and wealth accumulated in the name of the church, the trend was to curb the powers of the church.

A previous constitution had completely separated the church and state. Under the 1917 constitution this trend reached its climax.

The main purpose of the religious curbs, to abolish the church's political power, has been accomplished, but religious freedom has survived.

The 1917 constitution provides for the presentation of minority groups. It allows every national party with a representation of 2 1/2 per cent and a majority in less than 20 electoral districts the right to 5 to 20 representatives.

The Mexican Congress sessions last four months. However, extraordinary sessions can be called by a Permanent Committee, which consists of 29 members elected at the end of the regular session.

"The importance of this committee lies not so much in the actual power it exercises, but in the potential functions it may be required to perform," Baquero said.

The economic aspects of the constitution include provisions for the ownership of land, labor legislation and anti-monopoly legislation. Labor legislation was enacted in Mexico when such legislation was in the embryonic stages in the United States.

"The constitution, which is approaching its 50th anniversary, is considered as strong as ever," said Baquero.

The seminar was closed with a discussion concerning the Mexican position as a leader among the Latin American countries.

FOLK SINGER FEATURED

The Unitarian Fellowship at 1638 Charleston Ave., will feature Fred Coon, Huntington senior, in a program entitled "West Virginia's People as Seen Through Their Music" at the 11 a.m. Sunday service.

Orchestra Plans Sunday Concert

The University Orchestra will present a concert at 3 p.m. Sunday in City Hall Auditorium.

The concert, which is a "gift" to the city from the Music Department in connection with the Musicians Union Local 362 and the recording industry, will feature selections from the Children's Concert and additional material, said Alfred P. Lanegger, associate professor of music.

Some of the selections will be "The Poet and the Peasant Overture" by Suppe, "Symphonette in D" by McKay, "Air for Six Strings" and "Concertante Symphony" by Mozart, "Love of Three Oranges," a march by Prekofieff, "Syncopated Clock" by Anderson, and "1812 Overture" by Tchaikovsky.

A viola and violin solo is included in the "Concertante Symphony" by Mozart. Mrs. Paul Bromley, a member of the symphonic orchestra, will play the viola solo and Professor Lanegger will perform a violin solo.

The concert will be conducted by Professor Lanegger with Dr. C. Lawrence Kingsbury, professor of music and department chairman, as guest conductor.

Methodist Group To Meet Sunday

Methodist Student Movement will meet at 6:30 p.m. Sunday at the Campus Christian Center.

Featured speaker will be Dr. George Kelsey, professor of Christian Ethics at Drew University, Madison, N. J.

The subject of his talk will be "Social Tasks of Christians."

Dr. Kelsey is an author of many books. His latest work deals with the recent race issues in the United States.

Before coming to Drew, Dr. Kelsey was a professor at Morehouse College in Tennessee.

CCC LIBRARY

A Biblical and Theological Library recently opened at the Campus Christian Center, now has 130 books, and is constantly acquiring additional volumes. Future plans call for a periodical room, a circulation room, and a reference room.

ENTRY DEADLINE

The deadline for entries in the Kansas City Poetry Contests is Feb. 1. Marshall students are eligible to compete in three areas of the contest. Interested students may obtain further details from the English Department.

Delta Zetas Ready For Carnival

Symphonic Choir Schedules Opera

"Amahl and the Night Visitors" will be presented at 10 p.m. today at the Campus Christian Center.

The opera will be presented by the Opera Workshop Group of the Symphonic Choir. They will be directed by Dr. Paul Balshaw, assistant professor of music.

College President Formerly At MU

Mr. Melvin Scarlett, former Marshall journalism and English professor, was installed recently as president of Farmington State College, Farmington, Maine.

Dr. Scarlett is the ninth president of FSC since 1864 when the school was founded. In September he went to Farmington from Mankato State College in Minnesota where he served as academic dean and acting president.

He received his doctorate in college administration and instruction from Oklahoma State University. Dr. Scarlett served from 1951 to 1953 on Marshall's faculty.

FESTIVAL SUCCESS

WMUL's Folk Festival held Nov. 18 was a "rousing success," according to Carla Thompson, Huntington sophomore and continuity director at the station. The response to this program was so good that the radio station plans a similar one in the spring with more talent, Miss Thompson said.

Response Good For Rehearsal

A good turnout marked the first rehearsal of the Wind Ensemble and Concert Band according to Howard L. Bell, assistant professor of music and director of university bands.

Forty-two players were placed in the Wind Ensemble and more than fifty occupy chairs in the Concert Band. The smaller bands are also well staffed said Professor Bell; with 18 in the stage Band, 20 in the Brass Ensemble, and about 20 in the Pep Band.

Rehearsal times have been changed for the Wind Ensemble and Concert Band. The Wind Ensemble rehearses on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 3:30 to 5 p.m. and the Concert Band rehearses from 3:30 to 5 p.m. on Tuesdays and Fridays.

If any student wishes to join the Wind Ensemble or Concert Band next semester the student should contact Professor Bell immediately in his office in Music Building Room 110. He said one of these groups could be added to the student's schedule without difficulty with one hour of credit received for a full semester's participation.

'Mister Roberts' Cast Announced

"Mister Roberts," written by Thomas Heggen and Joshua Logan, will be this year's second University Theatre production in Old Main Auditorium Jan. 11-14.

Kathy Jo D'Antoni, Mullens junior, will be the student director, and Nausha Campbell, Huntington junior, will be stage manager.

The role of Mister Roberts will be played by Bill York, Huntington junior. Other cast members and their roles will be William Denman, instructor of speech, as Pulver; Ralph Hensley, Ashland, Ky., graduate student, as Doc; Lannes Williamson, Southside senior, as Captain; James Pack, South Point, Ohio, sophomore, as Johnson; Delbert Sellers, Vienna freshman, as Dowdy and Tom Busbee, Huntington senior as Insigna.

Peace Corps Placement Test Slated Monday At Post Office

Peace Corps placement tests will be given at 3:30 p.m. Monday in Room 22 of the Huntington Post Office Building.

The test will be given on campus during the month of February. The test date will be announced later by Edward Glasgow, associate professor of English and Peace Corps liaison officer.

Persons interested in taking the test, either in December or February, may get an application from Mr. Glasgow and present it at the time of the test.

To be a Peace Corps volunteer, a person must be at least 18 years old, a United States citizen, and free of dependents under 18. A college degree is not required. Married couples may also serve in the Peace Corps, both being required to qualify for the same project, though not necessarily for the same job. Engaged couples may also apply for service in the same area.

The term of service is normally 24 months which includes a two-to-three month training period. Most training programs are conducted at colleges and universities in the United States, according to the individual's assigned country. The test will be used in helping to determine country assignment by measuring the general aptitude and the ability to learn a language, not education or achievement of the individual.

"If you love your country enough that you want to share what it has with everyone else, then you'll be a good Peace Corps volunteer," said Mr. Glasgow.

Cagers Open Tomorrow

Coach Ellis Johnson's basketball squad will open its 1966-67 season tomorrow night against the same team it faced last winter in its season opener — Morris Harvey College.

Coach Johnson is hoping for better results tomorrow night than he had last year when Morris Harvey edged the Herd, 83-82, in the opener. Action tomorrow evening at Memorial Fieldhouse begins at 8 p.m.

From the standpoint of team strength, both squads are reported stronger.

Coach Johnson has had the enjoyable problem of finding a starting lineup for the Thundering Herd. Tentative plans are for Bob Redd (6-3) to team with Danny D'Antoni (5-11) at the guard positions. Bob Allen (6-8) will be at

Coach Predicts Middle Rating

Mid - American Conference coaches have picked Marshall as a strong contender for the MAC Title. "I'm elated that they think that much of us. But I think we should be more in the middle," stated Thundering Herd Coach Ellis Johnson.

Johnson feels Marshall will be a contender, but added that no team in the conference could be counted out of the race.

He feels the strong suit of his team is in scoring.

"We are stronger at the guards this year than last. We have the same ones back plus additions from last year's freshman squad," he said.

According to Johnson, Jim Davidson, transfer student from Concord State College, has been a boost to the front court.

"I think Morris Harvey will be the toughest game on our entire schedule. They have the same boys that won 26 games last year," concluded Johnson.

Dallas Blankenship, sophomore guard from Pineville, said he feels the Herd cagers can meet the second place MAC rating.

"With a couple breaks we could take it all," he added.

center and George Stone (6-7) and Orville Stepp (6-1) will be at the forwards. If Jim Davidson starts at guard, Redd will replace Stepp at forward.

D'Antoni, Mullins sophomore, was singled out by Coach Johnson for his playmaking ability. "I am very pleased with him," replied the head coach. "I don't know what he will do when we start playing for keeps. After all, he is a sophomore. He doesn't look like he will scare easily."

GAME ON WMUL

Radio station WMUL will broadcast the Marshall-Morris Harvey basketball game tomorrow night. The broadcast will begin at 7:30 p.m. with pre-game show by Jim Slicer, Huntington sophomore. Slicer will also report the halftime activities. George Mills, Huntington senior, and Jim Summers, Huntington junior, will describe the play by play action.

Richard Meckfessel, head coach at Morris Harvey, also had high praise for D'Antoni.

"D'Antoni will help Marshall a whole lot, for he does a real good job as a playmaker. He is the kind of ballplayer we would like to have."

Coach Meckfessel also singled out Jim Davidson. "Davidson should help out a lot on rebounding," he said.

On defense, Coach Meckfessel plans to use the same tactics he used last year against the Herd.

"We will play man to man with pressure 93 per cent of the time and some zone," he explained. The Golden Eagles had a 92.6 scoring average last season, but Coach Meckfessel said he wasn't pleased with the accuracy (44 per cent).

Coach Meckfessel plans to start Roger Hart and Jim Hayes at guard, Gerald Martin and Ronnie Null at forward and Mike Curry at center. Hart was the Eagles leading scorer last year with an 18.2 average. Martin led the Eagles in rebounds with nine per game.

The freshman basketball team will entertain Morris Harvey's junior varsity at 6 p.m.

FORWARD BOB REDD, junior letterman from Louisville, Ky., will be in the starting lineup tomorrow night when the Thundering Herd opens its 1966-67 season against Morris Harvey at Memorial Fieldhouse. Redd was a top scorer and rebounder for last year's Herd.

Ticket Sales Jump

Marshall basketball season ticket sales seem to reflect the Herd's second place MAC rating, recently forecasted by conference coaches.

"It looks like the biggest season ticket sale in six or seven years," Neal Wilson, director of athletics, said earlier this week. "There's not much doubt that there will be a packed house tomorrow night," he added.

Ticket sales procedure will be the same as during the football season. Reserve seat tickets sell for $2 at the ticket office in Gullickson Hall. Extra student section tickets sell for $1.25. Students wishing to exchange their activity card tickets for reserve seat tickets may do so, provided they buy at least one other reserve seat ticket.

Proceeds from ticket sales go into the general athletic fund and may be spent for any athletic purpose.

Matmen Begin Season In Ohio Tournament

The Thundering Herd wrestling team will open its season tomorrow at 1:30 p.m. at Ohio State University in the Ohio Quadrangular Tourney.

The 12-man squad will go against Dennison, Morehead and Ohio Universities. Morehead is a new addition in the tourney this year. The Herd's first home match will be against Morehead Dec. 10.

Commenting on the Herd's chances, wrestling Coach Ed Prelaz said, "It all depends on who you draw in the tournament. I hope some of our men come through. Every match will be tough."

The wrestling team will be participating in the tournament with less than two week's preparation.

"We don't have the depth needed in our training," said Coach Prelaz. "You can't take a team in such a short time and get them ready." At least six to eight weeks is needed for preparation, estimated Coach Prelaz.

In practice Coach Prelaz drills his matmen one hour and 45 minutes each day to get them in shape. It is hard to remain on the mat for that length of time, said the coach. Later, the practices will be reduced.

"The conditioning must be more extensive," said Prelaz in relation to other sports. "You have to maintain weight control."

A new 191-pound weight class has been added this year.

"This is good," said Prelaz.

The new weight class will balance out the wrestling weight classes. It will enable some of the men in the heavyweight class to drop down to the 191 class.

A six-minute time limit on matches has been agreed upon by the other schools in all of Marshall's conference matches, instead of the nine-minute matches. This will speed up the match and force the wrestler to move more quickly to earn points, said Prelaz.

Sig Eps Are Tops In Scoring Stats

Sigma Phi Epsilon, intramural champion in volleyball and touch football, is currently in first place in intramural standings with 175 points.

Pi Kappa Alpha, second and third place holder in volleyball, is in second place with 91 points.

Thirteen per cent of the male student body participated in intramural football this year, reported Dr. Robert Dolgener, assistant professor of physical education and director of intramural athletics.

This year 515 participants on 44 teams played 192 games.

"These statistics illustrate that with the growth of the student body each year, there is also an increase in intramural participants," said Dr. Dollgener.

Senate Plans To Affiliate?

The Student Government is investigating the possibility of becoming affiliated with a national student government association.

Charolette Wilmer, Huntington junior, recently attended a regional conference of the United States National Student Association at Notre Dame University.

Another national organization, Associated Student Governments, is also being considered, according to Rick Jackson, Huntington junior and governmental relations coordinator.

Senate opinion will determine whether or not Marshall will become affiliated with one of these associations. Any student who wishes to express his views on the matter is requested to contact any Student Government representative, said Jackson. The reason that Marshall does not presently belong to one of these organizations is a lack of student interest, according to Jackson.

Some benefits of belonging to the USNSA include a student government information service, reduced rate life insurance plan, European tours at student rates, and association with other colleges and universities.

$500,000 ETV Matching Fund To Be Sought

Marshall University will apply this month for matching funds to finance the development of educational TV, according to Stephen D. Buell, professor of speech and chairman of educational radio-TV.

Before the application for $500,000 to the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare can be made, the University must apply to the Federal Communication Commission (FCC) for a construction permit for the ETV station.

Application for the FCC construction permit will entail a listing of all equipment to be used in the station and the location of the studios and transmitter.

Leonard Press, executive secretary of Kentucky Educational TV Authority, and Ronald Stewart, chief engineer of Kentucky Educational TV Authority, will prepare Marshall's applications for a $7,500 fee.

The Cabell County Board of Education allocated $1,500 as its share of the engineering costs in a meeting Nov. 23.

Kanawha and Wayne County Boards of Education also have allocated money toward the cost of the application. Marshall has agreed to put up $4,000 of the $7,500 cost.

CIVIL SERVICE TALKS

W. Va. Civil Service System representatives will be on campus Dec. 12 and 13 to talk with seniors concerning employment with the state. Interviews will be held from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the Placement Office and examinations will be at 1 p.m. Further information may be obtained in the Placement Office.
