Three Proposals Eyed By Senators

The Parthenon

MARSHALL UNIVERSITY STUDENT NEWSPAPER

Vol. 64 HUNTINGTON, W. VA. Wednesday, February 10, 1965 No. 37

THE CONVOCATION TOMORROW features the "cultural ambassador" of Holland, the Netherlands Chamber Choir. In recent years the Choir has appeared at the Edinburgh Festival, Sainte Chapelle, the Sagra Musicale in Perugia, Italy, and the European Choir Festival in Vienna. The choir prefers singing a cappella, but it will include in its program music with orchestration, organ or piano.

Renovated Auditorium In Use

Netherlands Chamber Choir Here; Metcalf Films Scheduled Tomorrow

Newly renovated Old Main Auditorium will be used tomorrow for the first time since its "Face lifting."

The "cultural ambassador" of Holland, the Netherlands Chamber Choir, will present a program of music at the Convocation at 11 a.m. tomorrow. In recent years the Choir has appeared at the Edinburgh Festival, Sainte Chapelle, the Sagra Musicale in Perugia, Italy, and the European Choir Festival in Vienna.

Although the Choir prefers singing a cappella, it also includes in its programs music with orchestra, organ or piano, and ranges from Palestrina to Stravinsky.

Felix de Nobel, who was born in Haarlem, Holland, in 1907, founded the Netherlands Chamber Choir in 1937. Mr. de Nobel was, for some time, the pianist of the Amsterdam Chamber Music Society. He has also become well known as a commentator in radio broadcasts of musical programs.

The Choir's first performances were limited to radio broadcasts, but before long, they were making concert appearances in Holland and the leading cities of Europe.

When they appeared in America for the first time, the New York Times said: "Lovely as the choir's recordings are, they give no hint of many of the group's most engaging qualities. Missing from the discs, for instance, are the friendliness of the men and women who sing in the choir, the atmosphere they create and the whole-heartedness of their singing." The renovated auditorium will be getting a full day of initiation as the Marshall Forum presents a program at 8 p.m.

"Wings to Wonderland" is the title of a film to be presented by James Metcalf.

The movies which were taken from airplanes will carry the viewer more than 10,000 miles for aerial views of the Grand Fentons, the Great Falls of Yellowstone Park, and Old Faithful in eruption. From almost three miles above the earth the viewer will descend 800 ft. below the surface into the depths of Carlsbad Caverns. Also shown will be Isle Royale in Lake Superior and many other national parks from Maine to California and from the Pacific Northwest to the Virgin Islands.

The movie will be narrated by Mr. Metcalf who is also the pilot, the photographer and the producer.

Tryouts For English Drama To Begin Today In Old Main

Tryouts for the three-act romantic comedy "The Barretts of Wimpole Street" will be held at 3 and 7 p.m. today and tomorrow at 3 p.m. in Old Main Auditorium.

There are parts available for four women and 13 men. Any student is eligible to try out and no experience is required. Clayton Page, associate professor of speech and director of University Theatre, has placed copies of the play on reserve in the library for anyone wishing to familiarize themselves with the comedy before trying out for a role.

Aspirants for the role of Elizabeth Barrett will be required to read from her "Sonnets From the Portuguese". Try-outs for the part of Robert Browning should be prepared to read one of his poems.

The period comedy, written by Rudolf Beiser, concerns the struggle of Elizabeth Barrett, English poetess, to break free from her domineering Victorian father and marry Robert Browning. Although he is considered by many modern critics to be the more literary of the two, during their marriage he was known primarily as "Mrs. Browning's husband."

The play is slated for production March 18, 19, and 20 in Old Main Auditorium. William G. Kearns, associate professor of speech, is the director. Among his former productions are "Blithe Spirit" by Noel Coward, "Pygmalion", by George Bernard Shaw, "The Visit", by Friedrich Duerrenmatt, and "Hamlet" by William Shakespeare.

James McCubbin, associate professor of speech, is technical director and members of his Play Production class will assist in sound effects, lighting, and set decoration.

'Professor Of Year,' Forums, Mediator Board Discussed

By LLOYD D. LEWIS
Staff Reporter

Committee reports on three senatorial proposals—student-faculty discussion forum, "Professor of the Year" selection, and student-faculty mediatory board—were on the agenda at the Jan. 13 Student Senate session.

While mentioning several subjects that could be talked over in the discussion forum, Sen. Rick Diehl, Huntington senior, said, "There seems to be a lot of dissatisfaction with the student government on this campus. We'd like to organize this dissent and find out just what the trouble is."

A defeated resolution on University building policy by Sen. Andy MacQueen, St. Albans senior, announcement of the formation of a special committee to coordinate the World University Service on campus, a progress report on the student government publications committee, a motion changing the Senate's meeting place, and three shifts in office also made news.

Senator Diehl said that President Stewart H. Smith is "very receptive" to the idea of an "open end" (inquiry into any subject) discussion forum and he suggested the use of the North Parlor of Old Main for this purpose.

Diehl continued by saying that he wants to create a program of forums—one for each subject—if this one is successful.

"We want to challenge the apathetic students on this campus with interesting subjects," he remarked.

In his second report, on the "Professor of the Year" selection, Senator Diehl commented, "We have to handle this thing in a diplomatic way if we're going to handle it at all. This could create a lot of discontent and unrest among the faculty due to choosing one over another. Besides, some professors are well-known and teach subjects that students are required to take."

"We have a lot of problems," he continued, "that won't be worked out until the committee meets again, and some may never be solved."

Senator MacQueen then reviewed several suggestions for, and problems of, the student-faculty mediatory board. He said his plans include an open hearing for all interested persons to express their opinions on the proposal.

Later in the session Senator MacQueen introduced the following resolution:

"Be it hereby resolved that the Student Senate declare its vehement opposition to the proposed plan to build on the ground to the north of Old Main and to any other plan for the present or for the future which shall eliminate any of the traditionally decorative areas of the campus."

Sen. Dave Frost, Huntington sophomore, described the resolution as "this 19th century attitude" and Dick Smith, Huntington freshman senator and class president, said, "This is a nice, sweet idea but we have to be realistic."

In defending his measure Senator MacQueen then remarked, "I don't see how we're going to keep any beauty here if they start stacking up buildings everywhere. Maybe there's a 100 to 1 chance that the administration will pay some attention to this resolution."

The proposal was overwhelmingly defeated.

Midnight Watch Said 'No Fun' By Tired Coeds

Early time tickets for registration were accepted by tired and hungry coeds Thursday at 8 a.m., after an all-night vigil.

Approximately 25 men and 15 women spent the night there and it couldn't be estimated how many were in the stampede when the registrar's office was opened at 8 a.m.

The eight-hour vigil, which began about midnight and found the main corridor of Old Main and the boiler room full of students, sleeping bags, pillows and blankets, and a good supply of apples and cigarettes.

According to John Astle, Barboursville junior, "Most of the kids were in by midnight, and the others were there by 3 a.m."

Students went out for coffee and doughnuts, but few got any sleep at all. Although it was warm, some had dressed to stay outdoors if they had to do so.

The night watchmen were the only chaperones. They separated the men from the women, putting the men in the boiler room and leaving the girls in front of the office. Then about 5 a.m. the men were allowed to go upstairs.

The stampede began after the boys were released. There was no semblance of a line in front of the registrar's office, only a mob scene where the girls were pushed and shoved, and some were on the verge of tears.

"It was so crowded that I couldn't sit down or fall down. I was pushed and shoved until I ached all over," commented Barbara Fugate, Huntington sophomore.

When asked if it was worth it and would they like to do it again, some replied. "The last hour and a half was no fun. I wouldn't ever do it again unless things were better organized," Astle said.

Miss Fugate agreed, "I wouldn't go through that again for anything. I'll never do it again."

Miss CJ Contest Under Way Today

All interested coeds may pick up an entry blank for the Miss Chief Justice contest starting today at the Chief Justice office. Entry blanks will also be distributed among dorms and sorority houses. All entries must be returned to the CJ office by 4 p.m. Feb. 18.

Final judging will be done by either Buddy Ebsen of the "Beverly Hillbillies" or Dick Van Dyke of the "Dick Van Dyke Show."

DEAN OF MEN, John Shay reviews a student application for financial aid under the College Work-Study Program. The program, established under the Federal Economic Opportunity Act, will begin Monday.

Work-Study Program Will Begin On Monday

The College Work-Study Program under the Federal Economic Opportunity Act will begin on Feb. 15 with a pay rate of one dollar per hour, according to President Stewart H. Smith. The program, which provides part-time jobs for students from low-income families, is designed to assist those who could not otherwise attend college without incurring an unduly heavy burden of indebtedness.

Eligibility for the Work-Study Program was determined by reviewing all previous applications for financial aid. More than 200 eligible students were notified by mail and received an application blank before the second semester began.

This program, for which John Shay, dean of men, is directly responsible for establishing at Marshall, is similar to the student assistant program in that it creates part-time jobs for students. However, they are two different programs and student assistants are not affected by this newly developed one.

"As soon as it is determined how many students can qualify for the Work-Study Program, a decision will be made concerning the pay rate for student assistants for the remainder of this term," said President Smith. "Until that time," he added, "the hourly pay rate for student assistants will remain at 70 cents per hour."

Since the purpose of the Work-Study Program is to provide employment for all needy students, those who believe they may qualify are urged to apply immediately at the Office of the Dean of Men. The University is making an effort to provide a job for everyone who qualifies for the program. Eligibility will be determined by Dean Shay. Students having questions concerning the program should consult him as soon as possible.

The sophomore senators are looking for a candidate to fill the unexpired term of Larry Bruce. The term will extend to the end of the semester.

If you are a sophomore with a 2.5 overall average and have an interest in student government, contact Nancy Glaser, sophomore class president before 4 p.m., Monday, for consideration for this position.

President Glaser will make the appointment, and her choice must be ratified by the Senate before it is official.

President Smith Cites Student Costs At MU, Notes State's Contribution

By DR. STEWART H. SMITH
University President

A question has been raised concerning student costs and institutional finances. As stated previously, I will discuss issues relating to our University upon request.

College costs are rising from year to year, and from all indications they will continue to rise. The annual costs at many private colleges and universities already exceed $3,000, with tuition and fees running from $1,600 to $1,800. A resident student at Marshall pays $50 a year for tuition and a registration fee of $100 plus fees in certain academic courses and a Student Activity and Health Fee of $47.80. Non-resident students pay an additional $300 a year.

According to Dr. John F. Morse, a financial consultant to institutions of higher education, annual room costs at state-supported universities average $300 and board costs average $500. Marshall students pay from $198 to $244 plus state sales tax for dormitory rooms and $468 plus tax for board.

One of the major reasons for the low tuition and registration fees at Marshall is the financial support provided by the State of West Virginia. During the current year, the State contributes the sum of $645 toward each full-time student's education. Part-time students are subsidized proportionately.

Since 1956 all tuition money collected at Marshall has been used to finance buildings. In that year the State Legislature passed a bill establishing a Special Marshall College Capital Improvements Fund. From 1956 to June 30, 1964, the sum of $1,900,000 was collected and applied to the cost of building and equipping Gullickson Hall, building four tennis courts and a cinder track, and developing the football practice and intramural fields.

On February 22, 1963, the State Legislature passed a second bill authorizing Marshall to retain all tuition collections not to exceed a total of $5,700,000. The projects to be financed from this Special Fund include a Music Hall, a classroom and faculty office building, an addition to the Library, the renovation and repair of Old Main and the purchase of a site for the proposed new University Center. It will require from 10 to 15 years to

Positions Filled By Hayes, Plott

Dr. Robert B. Hayes will become dean of Teachers College April 1. Dr. Hayes is presently the chairman of the Division of Education at Taylor University, Upland, Ind. A native of West Virginia, Dr. Hayes is a graduate of Victory High School, Clarksburg.

Dr. John C. Plott has been named assistant professor of philosophy, replacing Dr. R. Lloyd Beck, professor of philosophy.

Plott received his Bachelor of Arts degree from the University of Oklahoma and his Masters and Doctorate degrees from Banaras Hindu University. He has had teaching experience at William Penn and Michigan State University.

collect sufficient tuition money to amortize this amount.

Another Capital Improvements Fund was established by the State Legislature in 1959 to provide for a long-range building program for the nine institutions under the West Virginia Board of Education. From 1959 to 1963, two-thirds of the registration fees collected were put into this fund. Since 1963, all the proceeds from registration fees collected at the nine institutions have been placed in it. From time to time, the West Virginia Board of Education establishes a Building Priority List and then allocates money from the fund for the construction of the buildings on the priority list.

Marshall has received $600,000 from this fund for the construction of the new Residence Hall for Women. This sum was supplemented by an HHFA loan in the amount of $650,000, making a total of $1,250,000 available for building and equipping the dormitory. We expect to receive an allocation of $350,000 from this fund to construct a Maintenance Building.

Our present budget amounts to $3,062,707. This is divided into five categories, namely, Personal Services, $2,787,272; Current Expense, $261,817; Repairs and Alterations, $86,903; Equipment, $123,515 and Flood Wall assessment, $3,200.

The above-mentioned funds are appropriated by the State Legislature. In addition to these funds is the budget of non-appropriated funds deriving from several auxiliary agencies such as the dining halls, dormitories, bookstore and Student Union. When the costs of payrolls, utilities, supplies and equipment of these agencies are added to the appropriated budget, the grand total exceeds $5,500,000 annually.

From a financial standpoint, our University is a big business. Joseph S. Soto, vice president of business and finance, and a full-time staff of 27 employees are responsible for the preparation of budgets, budget control, financial accounting, collection of tuitions and fees, requisitioning, receiving, auditing and payment of bills. This staff includes the director of Food Services, and the managers of the Student Union and the Bookstore.

In addition to their regular duties, Mr. Soto and his staff do all the financial accounting, auditing and payment of bills for new buildings under construction, for major renovations and for the purchase of land.

As can be seen, the University's financial operation is most extensive and highly complicated. This article covers only a small part of our financial activities. Should there be any specific questions relating to finance, I will be glad to discuss them later.

Idea Three Years Ago Creates New Fraternity

By DANNY WATTS
Feature Writer

Three years ago Kieve Pearlman, Pittsburgh, Pa., had a fantastic idea. He wanted to start his own fraternity. He convinced nine other men and the idea culminates Saturday with the installation of Gamma Epsilon Chapter (Beta Tau Colony) into Zeta Beta Tau Fraternity.

Pearlman was elected president, and Kenny Cohen, Wheeling senior, vice-president in May, 1962. Although Pearlman conceived the idea and first initiated the inquiries to the national fraternities, Cohen was responsible for most of the planning and actual work that carried the colony through its uncertain infancy.

None of the original 10 members were fraternity men. They had no experience with "rush" or "pledges" which are the life blood of a fraternity.

Despite the difficulties encountered, their first year was fairly successful. They tried and usually succeeded in fielding a team in practically every intramural event although their victories were few and far between. They took 13 pledges the first semester and 11 the second semester of 1962-63.

That idea of Pearlman finally came true last November, when it was learned that the colony would be accepted as a full-fledged chapter of Zeta Beta Tau.

Pearlman is now vice-president of the ZBT chapter of the University of Pittsburgh, transferring there after his sophomore year at Marshall.

When notified by phone of the colony's acceptance as a chapter Pearlman congratulated the brothers and accepted an invitation to attend the installation ceremonies.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor,

In reference to the letter to the editor of The Parthenon written by Joseph Okunlola, administrative intern (Jan. 13), I would like to publicly apologize to Mr. Okunlola for any "embarrassment" he may have suffered.

In the story I wrote for The Parthenon (Dec. 18) concerning Mr. Okunlola and his internship at Marshall, I used facts gathered from a personal interview with him. If these facts were printed in a way so as to make him "misquoted and embarrassed," I must be to blame.

There is nothing in the story which is not fully explained, and I feel that paragraph 7 of the same article fully explains that which he had to say in paragraph 6.

If this can cause embarrassment to Mr. Okunlola, then I apologize to him, to his country, and to the readers of The Parthenon.

THOM CLINE,
Point Pleasant sophomore

Dear Editor:

This is just a note to express our appreciation and to let you know of the tremendous hospitality shown to us by Mr. Wilson during our recent trip to Huntington.

When you are treated the way we were, it almost makes coaching a pleasure.

Senator Calls For Anti-Poverty Action

Committee Established As Conferees Respond

U. S. SEN. Jennings Randolph and Dr. Stewart H. Smith, University president, confer just prior to the senator's keynote address to an anti-poverty conference held on campus last Saturday. The theme of Senator Randolph's talk was the need for action to develop anti-poverty programs.

"The status quo's are with us," declared U. S. Sen. Jennings Randolph, in issuing a call for action during an anti-poverty conference on campus last Saturday.

"There are people who thought Marshall University should have had 1,000 students then and always. These are the status quo's. They are with us today."

Senator Randolph, keynote speaker at a luncheon in the University Dining Hall sponsored by MU, West Virginia University and the Huntington District Labor Council, then pointed out to the more than 200 persons who attended that there are other people who believe in doing something—"like you people who join your hands together to move forward."

The senior senator from the Mountain State cited various facts to indicate how problems of poverty come into existence.

1. The displacement of large numbers of West Virginia miners by machines.
2. The federal government this year alone will spend $165 million for computing machines.
3. A county in West Virginia with 12,000 population, only one 85-year-old general practitioner to serve them, and no hospital within 50 miles.
4. There are 103,000 children in the state between the school ages of 5-17 who come from families with less than $2,000 income annually. This is 20 per cent of the total number of children in that age bracket, compared with 6 per cent in New York and California.

In Cabell County there are 4,250 children in this category. To help solve the complex problems of poverty, he said, unity of purpose is required. "You are facing up to the responsibilities, I hope, of bringing into being . . . an organization for action. You will not only think about the problem of schools, parks, training programs, you will do something about it. Action!"

Heeding the senator's call for action, an 18-member steering committee was named with another meeting slated next Wednesday night in Science Hall Auditorium, at which time a permanent committee will be selected to initiate a Community Action Program under the Economic Opportunity Act.

John Durkin, assistant Huntington mayor, was appointed temporary committee chairman. Dr. O. Norman Eimpkins, professor of sociology, was among those named to the steering committee.

President Stewart H. Smith addressed the group during the morning sessions which mapped conference objectives, while both Dr. Simpkins and Dr. James T. Richardson, professor of sociology, were leaders at one of the four afternoon workshops.

Among the many speakers was Brenden Sexton, director of education, Community Action Program, Office of Economic Opportunity.

He told the representatives from various civic, welfare, labor and educational organizations: "A community must first look real close at itself and ask what must be done; then it needs to develop plans for putting a program into action."

Long Vacation Is Short Lived

By DAVID PEYTON
Staff Reporter

Did you enjoy your two weeks vacation? You may even enjoy it more when you discover that it will probably never happen again at MU.

The two weeks semester break was quite a change for Marshall. Last year, for instance, the break was only five days long and two of those were Saturday and Sunday. And next year Registrar Luther Bledsoe said that the semester break will be shortened to a week or less.

The reason for the expanded break this year had little or nothing to do with the need for rest and recuperation for the student body. Mr. Bledsoe said that the long break more or less resulted from a clerical problem.

With the expanded enrollment at the University at the main campus and the branches in Williamson and Logan also came the monumental task of processing grades at the end of the semester. If, for instance, the average load per student is five classes, that means more than 30,000 grades to process. Evidently the administration foresaw the problem and added more than a week to this year's interim in order that all grades could be processed.

Next year, according to Mr. Bledsoe, the job should again become simplified. The same data processing computer that played Christmas music during the holidays has another talent—it can also process grades. When the machine is in full operation it will cut down considerably on the manpower and time needed to process grades.

Strangely enough, the reaction to the two weeks of freedom was not received with shouts of jubilation from all students. Charlotte Wilmer, Huntington freshman, said the break was too long. "After all," she said, "there's nothing to do this time of year—especially in two weeks."

But whatever the feelings on the two weeks, Marshall students will never have to worry about it again — all due to the data processing computer.

PAUL CRABTREE, administrative assistant to Gov. Hulett Smith, addressed conferees just before the day-long sessions ended. He urged that a committee be formed, and conferees heeded his call.

MU, WVU Cooperation Cited; Speaker Dares Bold Proposal!

"I'm delighted to see Marshall University and West Virginia University working together" as co-sponsors of an anti-poverty conference, said Paul Crabtree, administrative assistant to Gov. Hulett C. Smith and head of the state's Economic Opportunity Office.

The alumnus of both universities was addressing more than 200 delegates at the conference held Saturday in Science Hall Auditorium.

Then, he added, he'd like to see the freshmen cage teams from both universities play each other.

Mr. Crabtree also thanked The Parthenon, on behalf of Governor Smith, for the special supplement it recently published on the anti-poverty program.

"Its coverage on the war on poverty made me very proud that I'm a former editor of The Parthenon," he said.

The governor's assistant pointed out that poverty is a multi-faceted problem that has no easy or single solution.

"We have prosperity," he said, "but we also have great need."

He said the efforts made at the Saturday conference would be wasted "unless you leave today with some sort of committee to take action."

Shortly afterwards the conferees decided to establish a steering committee.

Life Has 'Life'time Hold On Scoring Leadership

Dave Life, Men's Dorm fast scoring guard, still leads the Intramural Basketball League in scoring going into tournament play but Forrest Hauger of the Vikings has taken over second place.

Life, who has led the league in scoring all season, now has a 18.4 average. He also has the most points scored with 129 in seven games.

Hauger has taken over second place in scoring with a 18.1 average. He has played in seven games and scored 127 points.

Buddy Peaytt of the Panzies is third in the scoring race with a 17.2 average. He has scored 121 points in seven games this season.

In the Intramural League standings, Beavers lead the first flight with a 7-0 record while New Men's Dorm No. 1 is next with a 6-1 mark.

K-Vees are the front runners in the second flight with seven wins and no defeats. Marcos are the runners up in this bracket with a 7-1 record.

In the third flight Kappa Alpha No. 2 has seven wins and no losses and Engineers No. 1 has six victories and no defeats while in the fourth bracket the Panzies are leading with a 7-0 mark and Pi Kappa Alpha No. 3 is next with a 6-1 record.

Pi Kappa Alpha No. 4 and C3H5(NO3)3 are the leaders in the fifth flight with 7-0 and 6-1 marks, respectively, while the Rinky Dinks are the sixth flight leader with six wins and no defeats. Campus Trotters are second in this flight with a 6-1 record.

Here are the top ten scorers in the Intramural Basketball League going into tournament action:

Sports Over Lightly

During the first half of the ROTC Basketball Program, approximately one-third of the Battalion participated in one form or another. Approximately 75 basketball games will be scheduled for the second semester in ROTC, topped off by a double elimination round robin tournament for the championship plaque.

According to Cadet Lt. Robert Bloom, athletic and recreation officer for the ROTC Battalion, "C" Company was leading the standings with "HQ" Company in second place. Thomas Waugh, Dave Life, William Jackson, and Larry Dransfield are the four top scorers with 20 points per game or better. Following are the league standings and the top 10 scorers of the battalion:

BOB REDD
... To Spectator Status

'Redd-less' Frosh At OU

By DAVID COLLINGSWORTH
Parthenon Sports Writer

Marshall's undefeated — now "Reddless"—freshman basketball team will seek its fifteenth victory of the season tonight, challenging the Ohio U. frosh in Athens.

It will be the Little Green's first game without the services of Bob Redd who played his final game in Saturday's 94-63 victory over Mountain State Business College of Parkersburg, and received a standing ovation.

Redd was instrumental in Marshall's 82-76 win over the Ohio yearlings on December 12. In that contest Bob scored 19 points and picked off 15 rebounds. Redd is now eligible for varsity competition however Coach Ellis Johnson will hold the Louisville, Ky. star out until next season since there are only eight games remaining on the Big Green's schedule and Bob would be more valuable if he played three full seasons for the varsity.

The Bobkittens will be fresh from a close 84-81 loss to West Virginia's heralded freshmen Saturday and will probably pose the toughest obstacle to the Little Green's hopes for a perfect season. Either Jim Jordan or Glenn Justice will start in Redd's place tonight. The remainder of the line-up will show George Stone at the other forward, Bob Allen at center and Orville Stepp and Joe Dawson at the guards.

The Little Green ripped off five victories during the semester break, scoring a pair of wins over a strong Superior Drug team featuring last season's varsity star Butch Clark.

In the first game Marshall fought off a closing Superior rally in the final minutes for a 98-95 triumph on January 23. Stone, playing a strong game, paced the Little Green with 32 points, while Clark poured in 33 for the losers. One week later the frosh had an easier time in posting a 109-83 victory. Stepp led the MU attack with 26 points, while Dawson scored 24 and Stone and Redd chipped in with 22 and 20 respectively. McMasters was tops for Superior with 28. Clark suffered an injury early in the contest and scored only two points. Allen led Marshall to an overwhelming 70-45 rebound advantage with 19.

The Little Green next journeyed to Morehead, Ky. where they conquered the Morehead frosh for the second time this season 114-95. Stepp spearheaded the attack with 30 points, followed by Dawson with 28, Redd with 23 and Stone with 20. Redd paced the rebounders with 22.

On the following night the Little Green got win number 13 as they beat the West Virginia Tech junior varsity 98-81 in Montgomery. It was the West Virginia Tech JV's who handed the West Virginia frosh their only defeat, however Tech varsity star Mike Barrett played in that one and he did not in the MU contest. Stepp scored a season's high of 38 points to lead the frosh.

In Saturday's win over Mountain State Stepp was high again with 28, while Redd tossed in 19. Stone scored 16 and Allen and Dawson pitched in 12 and 11 respectively. In rebounding, Allen had 19, Redd grabbed 15 and Stone picked off 10.

Marshall led all the way and built up a commanding 45-21 half-time advantage. Only a stall by the visitors in the closing minutes kept the Little Green from hitting the century mark.

Luckless, Limping Big Green Tackles Tough OU Tonight

By TIM MASSEY
Parthenon Sports Editor

If anyone has a right to complain that "Old Lady Luck" has it in for him, Coach Ellis Johnson should have top priority.

It's bad enough to have a 4-12 record at this stage of the season, but when injuries make the future look even gloomier, coach Johnson is beginning to ask himself if someone up there doesn't like him.

Sophomore Bill Whetsell, who appeared to have regained his form in games against Kent State and Western Michigan, suffered a badly sprained ankle in a return match against Morehead Feb. 2 after he had scored 25 points.

Trainer Ed Prelaz said that Whetsell would probably be out for the season. He had scored 70 points in his last three games and things were looking up. To make matters worse, Walt Smittle, who was supposed to take Whetsell's place on the fast break, twisted his ankle against Toledo last Saturday and will be on crutches until next Monday. Johnson feared Monday that Smittle may be the second casualty for the season, bringing his roster to only nine players.

This is the gloomy outlook for the Big Green tonight when it travels to Athens, Ohio, to face Ohio University, the second place team in the Mid-American Conference.

"With Whetsell coming around I thought we would have a good chance to knock off Ohio but without him it looks doubtful if we can stay with them," coach Johnson said. "I rate Don Hilt as the best player in the conference and I wouldn't be surprised to see them knock off Miami for the MAC title."

Marshall now shares the league cellar with Western Michigan—both have 1-5 marks—and the MU senior feels it will be a real struggle to keep the Big Green off the bottom for the second straight season. "We really needed a win over Toledo. That would have put us in pretty good shape, but now it will be a real struggle," Johnson stated.

Toledo was just one example of several second-half foldups by Marshall this season. Leading by six points at halftime and ahead most of the way, the Big Green fell behind with about two minutes remaining and couldn't catch the Rockets, who finished on top 78-71. The Herd lost to Morehead and Kent State during the semester break.

Along with these disappointments, however, there was one bright spot—MU's 110-99 triumph over Western Michigan on Jan. 30. In that contest Marshall's one-two backcourt scoring combination of Bill Francis and Tommy Langfitt got unexpected help from Bruce Belcher and Whetsell. Langfitt, who is pushing Francis for team scoring honors, poured in 28 tallies while Francis added 26. Whetsell followed with 23 points and Belcher had 19.

Francis has ripped the cords for 343 points and 21.4 average and Langfitt is not far behind with 336 markers and a 21 point average. "We need some more scoring from our big men if we hope to stay off the bottom. We have to beat Kent State, and Bowling Green here and hope for a win against Western Michigan or Toledo on their home courts if we are to stay out of the cellar," Johnson predicted.

MU Grapplers Seek 3rd Win

The Big Green wrestling team will go after its third win of the season tonight at 8 p.m. against the Ohio University Bobcats at Gullickson Hall. A freshman match will begin at 7 p.m.

Marshall, forced to forfeit in two weight classifications because of injuries to Jimmy May and Dave Cramp, registered only one win in the match with Bob Pruett winning a decision over Jimmy Metzler in the heavyweight class.

The other results with weight classifications: Marshall forfeited in the 123 and 130 lb. classes; 137-Wally Hale (Miami) over John Meador (M. U.) decision; 147-Stan Trecker (Miami) over Tom Busbee (M. U.) decision; 157-Mike Dane (Miami) over Bob Lambert (M. U.) decision; 167-Buddy Young (Miami) over John Toler (M. U.) decision; 177-Ron Perry (Miami) over Larry Coyer (M. U.) decision.

THE BEARD OF AVON

Topic for today is that perennial favorite of English majors, that ever-popular crowd pleaser, that good sport and great American—William Shakespeare (or "The Swedish Nightingale" as he is better known as).

First let us examine the persistent theory that Shakespeare (or "The Pearl of the Pacific" as he is jocularly called) is not the real author of his plays. Advocates of this theory insist the plays are so full of classical allusions and learned references that they couldn't possibly have been written by the son of an illiterate country butcher.

To which I reply "Faugh!" Was not the great Spinoza's father a humble woodcutter? Was not the immortal Isaac Newton's father a simple second baseman? (The elder Newton, incidentally, is one of history's truly pathetic figures. He was, by all accounts, the greatest second baseman of his time, but baseball, alas, had not yet been invented. It used to break young Isaac's heart to see his father get up every morning, put on uniform, spikes, glove, and cap, and stand alertly behind second base, bent forward, eyes narrowed, waiting, waiting, waiting. That's all—waiting. Isaac loyally sat in the bleachers and yelled "Good show, Dad!" and stuff like that, but everyone else in town sniggered derisively, made coarse gestures, and pelted the Newtons with overripe fruit—figs for the elder Newton, apples for the younger. Thus, as we all know, the famous moment came when Isaac Newton, struck in the head with an apple, leapt to his feet, shouted "Europa!" and announced the third law of motion: "For every action there is an opposite and equal reaction!"

(How profoundly true these simple words are! Take, for example, Personna Stainless Steel Razor Blades. Shave with a Personna. That's the action. Now what is the reaction? Pleasure, delight, contentment, cheer, and facial felicity. Why such a happy reaction? Because you have started with the sharpest, most durable blade ever honed—a blade that gives you more shaves, closer shaves, comfortabler shaves than any other brand on the market. If, by chance, you don't agree, simply return your unused Personnas to the manufacturer and he will send you absolutely free a package of Beep-Beep or any other blade you think is better.)

But I digress. Back to Shakespeare (or "The Gem of the Ocean" as he was ribaldly appeltated).

Shakespeare's most important play is, of course, Hamlet (or, as it is frequently called, Macbeth). This play tells in living color the story of Hamlet, Prince of Denmark, who one night sees a ghost upon the battlements. (Possibly it is a goat he sees; I have a first folio that is frankly not too legible.) Anyhow, Hamlet is so upset by seeing this ghost (or goat) that he stabs Polonius and Brer Bodkin. He is thereupon banished to a leather factory by the king, who hollers, "Get thee to a tannery!" Thereupon Ophelia refuses her food until Laertes shouts, "Get thee to a beanery!" Ophelia is so cross that she chases her little dog out of the room, crying, "Out, damned Spot!" She is fined fifty shillings for cussing, but Portia, in an eloquent plea, gets the sentence commuted to life imprisonment. Thereupon King Lear and Queen Mab proclaim a festival—complete with kissing games and a pie-eating contest. Everybody has a perfectly splendid time until Banquo's ghost (or goat) shows up. This so unhinges Richard III that he drowns his cousin, Butt Malmsey. This leads to a lively discussion, during which everyone is killed. The little dog Spot returns to utter the immortal curtain lines:

*Our hero now has croaked,
And so's our prima donna.
But be of cheer, my friends.
You'll always have Personna.*

Impact Replaces Life Planning; Discussions To Begin Feb. 21

By JANET KING

Teachers College Journalist

Impact, formerly Life Planning Week, will be Feb. 21, 22, and 23 with "Appalachian Aspirations" as the topic of discussion.

The subject will delve into the problems of the Appalachian region. The aim of these discussions is to acquaint the students of Marshall with these problems and to make them aware of the need for improvement. The program will seek to stimulate the students to a realization that this is their problem and that they must do their share by being well-informed and interested.

According to Carol Hubbard, committee co-ordinator, Life Planning Week was begun as a religious emphasis week. Throughout the past few years the students' lack of interest and support have contributed to the program's steady decline.

The present program, shortened from one week to three days, has grown away from the religious theme. The object of this year's committee was to pick a topic of immediate and worthwhile interest to the Marshall students. Because of this change in the program's charter the name Life Planning Week has been permanently changed to Impact.

The three-day program will begin Feb. 21, with a banquet at the University Cafeteria. The price is $1 per person. Dr. Vernon Alden, president of Ohio University, will be the speaker. Dr. Alden is one of the leading authorities in the field of reforms for depressed areas.

Feb. 22 there will be a convocation in Old Main Auditorium. At 8:45 p.m., after the convocation, the fireside chats will begin.

The groups to meet for the fireside chats are: Pi Kappa Alpha and Sigma Sigma Sigma will meet at the Tau Kappa Epsilon house; Sigma Phi Epsilon and Alpha Sigma Alpha will meet at the Alpha Xi Delta house; Delta Zeta and Kappa Alpha Psi will meet at the Sigma Alpha Epsilon house; Kappa Alpha and Alpha Sigma Phi will meet at the Sigma Kappa house; Alpha Chi Omega and Zeta Beta Tau will meet at the Lambda Chi Alpha house. Laidley Hall and Hodges Hall will meet at Prichard Hall. The New Residence Hall for Men will meet with the New Residence Hall for Women.

The Christian Center will hold a fireside chat for anyone not assigned to another meeting place.

$500 RESEARCH GRANT

Dr. Ned D. Heindel, assistant professor of chemistry, recently received a $500 research grant from the Society of Sigma Xi, which he will use to study new synthetic methods for making compounds of pharmaceutical interest. Sigma Xi, a society for the encouragement of scientific research, will be presented the results of the study at the end of the year.

FITNESS CLASS

A physical fitness class is being conducted Monday through Thursday of each week in Gullickson Hall, room 207, at 3:10 p.m. The class is open to all male, fulltime students. Interested students may contact Charles E. Kautz, freshman football coach, in room 111, or Forest Underwood, assistant football coach, in room 112 of Gullickson Hall.

A speaker has been assigned for each fireside chat.

There will be another convocation Feb. 23, at 11 a.m. in Old Main Auditorium. The speaker will be a representative from Sargent Shriver's Economic Opportunity Act office.

Dr. Harold E. Walker, vice president of academic affairs, is the faculty advisor for Impact. The committee members are: Carol Hubbard, Williamson sophomore, co-ordinator; Janie Cargal, Huntington sophomore; Linda Piet, Huntington sophomore; Suzanne Stanley, Ashland, Ky. freshman; Patty Crans, Huntington sophomore; Don Cottrill, Huntington sophomore; Terry Steiner, Huntington sophomore; Dick Martin, DeFiance, Ohio senior, and Susan Noyes, Dunbar sophomore.

Co-ordinator Carol Hubbard said "I hope this year will be the beginning of future successful years for Impact. I feel the students through their participation will benefit from this pertinent discussion of the Appalachian situation."

Sororities Starting 2nd Semester Rush

Second semester sorority rush is now in its initial week. Formal rush begins Sunday with open house.

All women wishing to rush Greek sororities must sign the Panhellenic rush book in the office of Dean of Women by 4 p.m. tomorrow. There will be no rush registration fee this semester, according to the Dean of Women's office.

Women must have a 2.2 average for the previous semester to be eligible to rush and must not be on academic probation. In-coming freshman women wishing to rush are not eligible if on academic warning.

Coke parties at individual sorority houses begin on Monday and end Thursday. Preference slips will be signed Feb. 19 in the Dean of Women's office between 8 a.m. and noon. Bids go out at 4 pm. on Friday.

Invitations to Coke parties will be extended personally or by telephone.

First semester rush rules will be in effect.

Senators Discuss Proposals On Forums, Mediator Boards

nounced the creation of a special executive committee to work with the World University Service, an international affiliation of universities that help each other in times of need.

Mike Engle, Charleston sophomore and a Student Court justice, was named coordinator of the committee and the Rev. Hardin W. (Corky) King, Campus Christian Center Presbyterian minister, was chosen committee adviser.

President Cottrill reported that he and Ranald Jarrell, Point Pleasant sophomore and commissioner of publications and public relations, had held two meetings with Director of Information and Publications David R. Dodrill on Jan. 8. He said they discussed the formation of a committee to handle all three student government publications, the "Student Directory," the "Student Handbook," and the "Et Cetera" literary magazine.

"Commissioner Jarrell," Cottrill continued, "is now drawing up the final provisions for this committee."

The passage of a motion introduced by Larry Dezio, Wheeling senior senator and chairman of the Senate Student Government Affairs Committee, established the Science Hall Auditorium as "the permanent site of future Student Senate sessions." Tonight's meeting will be the first one held there.

Also, President Cottrill suggested a "Senate inquiry" to look into the possibility of holding Senate meetings in each of the five campus dormitories "to stimulate interest in the general election coming up and to get students interested in the functions of the Senate."

In other business, the Senate approved the resignations of sophomore Senator Larry Bruce, Huntington, and Student Activities Board Member Allen Drown, Huntington senior. Bruce will work as an aide in the Statehouse in Charleston during the current session of the West Virginia Legislature.
