2 Legislators Ask MU-WVU Game

By TIM MASSEY
Sports Editor

The "dream game" between the Marshall and West Virginia University freshmen teams may become a reality if two state delegates have anything to say about it.

Delegates Brereton C. Jones, R-Mason, and Paul B. (Biz) Dawson, D-Marion, introduced a resolution in the House of Delegates last Wednesday that the two teams meet sometime during the next two weeks.

"It would be a shame if these two fine basketball teams didn't play this year, especially with the money involved," Delegate Jones told The Parthenon Wednesday before taking the proposal to the floor of the House. "If the game were played at the Charleston Civic Center, which seats about 5,700 people, and tickets were sold at $3 apiece, the net profit would be $16,000. That would mean about $8,000 for each school, which could be used to send four boys through college."

A Point Pleasant resident who played football at the University of Virginia, Delegate Jones pointed out that he realized the value of a scholarship to a boy since he was a recipient of one himself. He also pointed out that the two schools are supported by the taxes paid by the citizens of West Virginia and the proposed contest is in public demand.

However, the chances of the game being played are "iffy" at best. Although Marshall Athletic Director Whitey Wilson says he is in favor of such a meeting, West Virginia University officials could not be reached for comment Wednesday since nearly everyone in Morgantown was at Charlotte, N. C., for the Southern Conference Tournament Wednesday.

"It appears that the only objections would come from West Virginia University," Delegate Jones stated, "but I can't see why."

Pointing out that little Davidson College competed against nearly all the North Carolina teams, the delegate said he didn't know why it couldn't work in West Virginia.

WVU's athletic publicity director, Edgar O. Barrett was quoted in a recent Huntington Herald-Dispatch story as saying such a contest would increase sectionalism in West Virginia. "We feel the people of West Virginia should support West Virginia University in its Southern Conference, and support Marshall in its Mid-American Conference," Mr. Barrett said.

If the teams did meet, another problem that would have to be solved is an acceptable date. As it stands, only March 2 is open. Marshall's season ends March 6 against Bowling Green and any other competition afterwards would have to be okehed by the MAC. WVU's season ends with the Southern Conference Tournament. It would need permission from SC officials to compete.

The resolution, if passed, can only suggest the game to both schools, not order it.

Tentative Suggestions Made For 10-Year Span

(Editor's Note: Dr. Harold W. Walker, vice-president of academic affairs, addressed a general faculty meeting Tuesday afternoon in Old Main Auditorium and outlined tentative suggestions and projections for a 10-year academic improvement program at Marshall. Dr. Walker emphasized that the suggestions were only tentative at this time. The following is the text of his talk.)

Vol. 64 HUNTINGTON, W. VA. FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 26, 1965 No. 42

By DR. HAROLD E. WALKER,

Before one can make a projection for the future, he must evaluate the present. This evaluation is not dependent upon our own judgment alone, for we have numerous resources to help us. There are the reports of various study groups within and without the University. There are the national and regional agencies for accreditation and the numerous professional bodies working in their respective disciplines. We have the reports of consultants brought to our campus for specific tasks, the observations of visiting professors and candidates for faculty and staff positions. We have the reports of returning alumni and the information one picks up at Alumni chapter meetings. All of these are helpful in developing a profile of Marshall University, its faculty and its program.

We soon discover that we have certain areas of strength as the feedback from all these sources combine into some form of value judgment. It is quite natural for us to utilize these areas of strength in developing our talks to alumni groups, service clubs, business organizations, placement offices that we use for recruitment, etc. The great danger, however, is that we will over-emphasize these strong points among ourselves and let this become our image of Marshall University and studiously avoid the consideration of our weaknesses. This we do at our peril! When all the resources available to us combine in indicating that we have certain areas of weakness, then we must give attention to those areas speedily. In some instances a dose of vitamins may be needed, in other some corrective therapy, and in some perhaps surgery or even amputation.

I believe we must be sufficiently candid with each other to say that it is the considered judgment of these combined resources that we have areas in our University that are not as strong as they should be. In some we have not kept up with modern developments in curriculum design, methodology nor materials. In some we are still using old texts that are much below the improved modern texts now available. We have some instances of inbreeding and in others a vigorous opposition to change and in too few instances are we engaged in experimentation or find ourselves at the growing edge in higher education. It is out of this kind

Honors Seminar To Visit C & P, See Computers

Students in the University Honors Seminar will meet at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Chesapeake and Ohio's Operating Headquarters Building on Madison Avenue for the fourth of the seminar's meetings on the general subject of "Technology and Society."

The students will hear Donald S. Bradley, manager of the data processing operations of the Chesapeake and Ohio and the Baltimore and Ohio Railways present "An Introduction to Automation," and will observe the Chesapeake and Ohio's computer operations.

On March 9, the seminar will meet at the International Nickel Company in Huntington where Robert Simmons and J. Edwin Carter will explain the use of automation in that company's operations.

Teammates Honor Woody's Memory

The Marshall football team shocked and saddened by the death of teammate Pat Woody last Monday, is honoring his memory with two plaques — one to be presented to the family and the other to be inscribed annually with the name of the outstanding junior football player. See details in Tim Massey's sports column, page 5.

Campus Signs Interpretation Proves Problem

What is and what isn't campaign material? Carole Martaus, Weirton senior and election coordinator, would like to know.

The "draft Goodman and Fleming" signs that appeared on campus earlier this week caused an interpretation question in the student government.

President Dick Cottrill, on the advice of the election coordinator's interpretation of campaign material, ordered the signs to come down. The Draft Goodman and Fleming Committee refused on the grounds that the signs were not campaign matter. Cottrill gave the committee until 6 p.m. to take the signs down.

Then Senator Rick Diehl, Huntington senior, asked Wendell English, Bluefield senior and Chief Justice, to consider the case. English passed an injunction forbidding the removal of the signs but did not deliver it immediately to Cottrill.

Hearing of this, one of the legislators consulted a local lawyer who thought English was acting without the proper authority and that this type of case should be heard by the entire court.

Cottrill responded with an executive order judging the signs as campaign material and authorizing their removal by Election Coordinator Martaus.

English delivered the injunction Wednesday at noon to Cottrill when the signs had already been taken down.

146 PLEDGE GREEK

Thirty-eight women and 108 men pledged Greek sororities and fraternities last Friday as second semester rush officially ended. According to the Dean of Women, a total of 68 women rushed. There is no official record of the number of men who rushed. Names of those who pledged will be listed in next week's Parthenon.

Humorous, Sarcastic Election Signs Appear

"No! No! Not election time again!"

This was the pen and ink cry of some apparently disenchanted student or group of students last Wednesday. Some one put this and other quite surprising signs on the walls and windows at the Student Union.

But the smell of elections was in the air last Tuesday when a committee, headed by Andy MacQueen, Charleston senior, pasted signs all over campus asking for a "Draft Goodman and Fleming campaign" on campus.

But those signs were short-lived. Last Tuesday evening President Dick Cottrill ordered the Election Committee to take the signs down because he and Carole Martaus of the Election Committee thought the signs were campaign material and they weren't to be there until later.

But, Tuesday night or Wednesday morning, some more signs showed up — without names of candidates. The signs left some people laughing all day.

Many of the signs seemed to criticize the "draft" move. Among these signs were "Kind of drafty at MU, ain't it?", "Draft yourself for president — you're as good as anyone else and better than the two so far," and "Draft beer for president . . ."

Another took a hard jab at the senate by asking and answering the question, "What's big, lazy, and Greek? Why, it's the student senate."

Another leveled a blast at one of the infant parties on campus and one of its promoters, Rick Diehl. The sign said, "Vote Rick Diehl for president — eliminate the middle man."

Then, as an attack at everything in general, the prankster wrote, "Get yourself some student body president dolls." Then he went on to explain that you "wind 'em up and they don't do anything for one year."

Another sign brought "springtime" in with "It's spring and the saps are beginning to run."

Still another said, "Time for all flowers and nuts to show up on campus."

Yes, it is.

EUROPE, ANYONE?

Ned D. Heindel, assistant professor of chemistry, would like to know how many people would like to join a 25-member Marshall University "affinity group" to obtain inexpensive round-trip air accommodations to Europe. Anyone who is interested should contact Professor Heindel to make definite arrangements or for more information.

RING LOST

A 1963 Marshall class ring, containing the initials J.L.H. and A.B., was lost on or near the stone steps leading into the northeast side of Old Main last Wednesday morning. Anyone finding the ring should contact Jim Harwood at 525-1663 for a reward.

ENGINEERS TO MEET

The monthly meeting of the Engineering Association will be held Monday, March 1, at 6:30 p.m. in the basement of the University Dining Hall, according to William E. Strohmeyer, Ceredo senior, president of the organization.

Charles W. Stewart, Marsnall alumnus, and Huntington structural engineer, will be the guest speaker for the dinner meeting. All members and prospective new members are invited to attend.

GAME POSTPONED

Finals of the intramural basketball tournament, which were originally scheduled for Monday, were postponed until Wednesday evening because of the death of Pat Woody. The game was played after Parthenon press deadline.

FELTY AIDS SHOWING

Walter C. Felty, associate professor of Social Studies and director of the Audio-Visual Center, and Phillip Sasser, Vice President of the Huntington Art Galleries have arranged a special showing for Governor and Mrs. Hulet Smith when they visit the galleries, Sunday.

WRITING CONTEST

The English Department is announcing another writing contest for Marshall students. "The Tower," a literary review published by Austin Peay State College in Clarksville, Tenn., will award $15 for the best short story, essay, or poem submitted by a student.

Deadline for submission is March 1, 1965. Typed manuscripts are to be sent to "The Tower," Box 4128, Austin Peay State College, Clarksville, Tenn.

ARTICLE PUBLISHED

Two articles by Dr. Charles P. Harper, professor of political science, appeared in the January issue of the "West Virginia History" magazine. Dr. Harper is president of the West Virginia Historic Society and chairman of the West Virginia Historic Commission.

The titles of the two articles are "President's Page" and "West Virginia Historic Commission's 1964 Highway Marker Program."

FESTIVAL SET

An all-day Speech and Drama Festival will be held tomorrow in the Science Hall and in Old Main Auditorium with seven high schools participating. Dr. Ben Hope, professor of speech, and Mary Dorsey, speech instructor, are hosts for the event.

UNION ACTIVITIES

"Mr. Hobbs Takes a Vacation," starring James Stewart and Maureen O'Hara, will be the movie shown at 7:30 p.m. today in the Student Union. The Newman Club is sponsoring a Catholic High School Tournament Dance tomorrow night. All students are invited to attend.

Student Government Banquet Is March 5

This year, the Student Government banquet will be open to all people connected or interested in the work of the Student Government. It will be held in the University Cafeteria March 5 at 6:30 p.m.

The price of the banquet ticket is $1.75. However, students with cafeteria meal tickets will have $1 deducted from their ticket. The main course of the menu will be the choice of shrimp or roast beef.

Tickets may be purchased at the Student Government Office or from Jennifer Nagle, commissioner of social affairs. The deadline for buying tickets is March 3.

Cadets In New ROTC Plan To Receive Summer Training

As a result of legislation approved by Congress last year, Marshall students who are entering ROTC under the newly organized Two-Year Program will take their summer training at Fort Knox.

Students who are participating in ROTC for the first time will substitute the basic summer camp for the training they would have received during their freshman and sophomore years.

The summer training will consist of military and scholastic studies, including weapons, maps and aerial photograph reading, combat intelligence, counterinsurgency training, bayonet training, military and physical training and customs of the service. Instruction will be furnished by both ROTC instructors and permanent cadre.

Under the new program students will not be enlisted in the Army Reserve as Advanced Course ROTC Cadets until after completion of this summer camp training. Marshall cadets will be paid $78 per month while they are attending the camp. Cadets will also receive travel pay to and from camp.

The program is also offered to students who have completed two years of Junior College and are now entering Marshall for the first time.

All interested Marshall students are advised to contact the professor of military science, Military Science Department, Gullickson Hall.

Chemistry Unit Slates Seminar

Dr. John H. Wotiz, chairman of the Chemistry Department, announced that Dr. John E. Willard, University of Wisconsin, will present a seminar on "Some Investigations in Radiation Chemistry" at 4 p.m. Tuesday in Room 320 of Science Hall.

Dr. Willard received his B.S. degree from Harvard University in 1930 and his Ph.D. from the University of Wisconsin in 1935.

During World War II he was called to the University of Chicago's Metallurgical Laboratory where processes were being developed for separating radioactive substances.

Dr. Willard has headed the Chemical Division of the Hanford Engineer Works in Washington and has held various positions in the Atomic Energy Commission laboratories. He has held many offices in the American Chemical Society and is a former editor of "Chemical Review."

Bridge Club Offers Lessons In Union

The first meeting of the Duplicate Bridge Club will give bridge lessons at 7 p.m. Wednesday on second floor of the Student Union to any interested student or faculty member.

According to Butch Cremeans, Huntington junior and a tournament director, a professional bridge player, Mrs. G. T. Hutchinson, will help with the club members in teaching bridge. The cost is 50 cents per person.

CIP Due At Parley

About 20 members of Civic Interest Progressives plan to go to Charleston tomorrow to meet with representatives of four other colleges to organize a confederation of Civil Rights groups. The purpose of the confederation will be to coordinate a statewide Civil Rights movement.

Students from Bluefield State, West Virginia State, Concord, and West Virginia Tech also are expected to attend.

Double Standard Results From Act

By DAVID PEYTON
Parthenon Columnist

Right now, in an administrative office on campus, two students work at the same job. One of them has been working in the office for two semesters. She gets 70 cents an hour. The other student started last week. She is receiving a dollar an hour for her work.

The difference in their pay is a result of the two different systems under which they work and has nothing to do with their ability. The one who is making 70 cents an hour is a student assistant under a state program that has been in operation for years. The other has just been hired under the federal government's work-study program—one of the front line moves in President Johnson's Economic Opportunity Act.

And the result of these two separate systems of hiring student help has caused headaches and problems for the administration.

Last week, we talked with Dean of Men John E. Shay, the administrator of the work-study program here on campus. Rumors had been circulated that the work-study program—only a week old—had bogged down in an administrative thicket of rules and regulations. Dean Shay admitted that the program was not without its problems, but hiring under the program had begun at Marshall.

According to Dean Shay, the program is faced with two problems—one not too difficult to solve and the other not too easy to solve.

To understand the problem means going back into the history of both programs.

Last November the administration learned that Marshall would be eligible for work-study funds. This meant that certain students on campus, who came from low-income families, would be offered work as helpers in various University departments.

The administration had to work fast. They had to submit an application for the funds in less than a month. They did, and received in turn about 60 per cent of the funds requested, or about $34,000. There was just one little catch. The funds were provided on a matching basis which meant that MU would have to provide about $3,400.

So, after taking a sample of student assistants that were then working at Marshall, Dean Shay and others decided that many of the student assistants could be transferred to the work-study program, thus leaving extra money in the kitty. This money would go toward fulfilling MU's end of the work-study deal.

And again, there was just one little catch. Someone found a law which states that money allocated to pay salaries of employees, such as student assistants, could NOT be used for any other purpose. In other words, it couldn't be transferred to the work-study program.

A group of state college and university business officers are to meet in Charleston today to see if the state's part of the matching funds can come from somewhere else, or be released from the personal services fund. So, Dean Shay commented, that problem is on its way to being solved.

But there is another problem that up till now has been a sleeper. According to Dean Shay, the salaries under the work-study program will be a dollar an hour, but the salaries of student assistants must remain at 70 cents an hour probably for the rest of the semester.

"When we started, we thought that many of the students who are now student assistants would come under the work-study program. But now we see that many of our student assistants' families do not come from a low enough income bracket, so they are not eligible for a work-study job."

Thus, MU has more student assistants which means more money needed, which means we don't have enough money right now to raise student assistants' salaries.

And so, Marshall is faced with a double standard for some time. Dean Shay assured us that Marshall isn't the only West Virginia college found with this problem.

"We explain it to student assistants in this way," Dean Shay explained. "We tell them that everyone under the work-study program is there because their family is in the low income bracket. This means that they must work to stay in school."

The money that these students receive is vital to their staying in school. Often the student assistant works only because he or she wants spending money. So, if it has to be this way temporarily, it might be better that the work-study students get the dollar an hour.

And to dispel some rumors, Dean Shay is still accepting applications for students who want to work under the work-study program. Dean Shay uses certain guidelines to find out if the student is eligible to work under the program. If he is, he is sent to the Placement Office for placement in a job. About 25 students were placed last week and about 50 applications had been turned in. Dean Shay said about 300 can be employed under the program, so the field is still wide open.

Armco Seeking Large Number Of Graduates

Armco Steel Corporation, seeking a record number of graduates this spring, will interview candidates here on March 1.

Ronald Trowbridge, Armco's coordinator of recruiting, said the company has a substantial number of openings for engineers, chemists and accountants. In all, he said, Armco will be hiring twice as many graduates this year as last because the company has embarked on the most ambitious expansion and modernization program in its history. Called "Project 600," the program involves a capital investment of $600 million over the next six years.

Mr. Trowbridge said Armco seeks metallurgical, electrical, chemical, mechanical and industrial engineers for plant-level production positions. Metallurgical and mechanical engineers as well as chemists are also sought for openings in research.

Civil and architectural engineering graduates are sought for sales and related positions in Armco's growing Metal Products Division, which makes and markets a broad line of fabricated steel products from culvert pipe to pre-engineered steel residential and vacation homes.

Students interested in talking with the Armco representative should contact their placement director.

Applicants Sought As Summer, Fall Registration Guides

Applications for positions as guides for summer registration are available to all students until March 5 in the Dean of Men's office, according to Rose Marie Frecka, Ironton, Ohio, senior and co-ordinator of "New Student Orientation."

Miss Frecka stated, "Approximately 70 guides will be required for both the summer and fall registrations" — 35 for summer and 35 for fall registration.

Students will be needed for planning and coordinating positions as well as for guides.

She explained that since registration will be July 19-20, 26-27, August 2-3, and 9-10, guides must be able to serve for the entire month.

"In addition to applications," Miss Frecka said, "each applicant will be interviewed at his convenience within the period from March 8-22."

According to Miss Frecka, those being accepted will be notified within two weeks of application and later an orientation instruction class will be set up for them.

40 AT LUNCHEONS

The Quantity Food Service lunch program has successfully completed its second week of operation, according to Miss Betty Sullivan, Home Economics instructor.

Approximately 40 students and faculty members have been eating lunch every day. The lunch is served Tuesday through Friday from 11:30 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. in 101 Northcott Hall. Reservations are made one day in advance by calling extension 238 or by seeing Miss Sullivan in Room 122 of Northcott Hall.

New Courses Approved By Faculty Committee

The recent meeting of the Academic Planning and Standards Committee approved the addition of several additional classes.

Two three-hour courses in the Journalism Department were approved—Journalism 430, Magazine Article Writing I, and Journalism 431, Magazine Article Writing II.

Dr. Dierks Named As Sunday Speaker

Dr. Elmer E. Dierks, director of the Campus Christian Center and Baptist campus minister, will deliver the 11 a.m. Sunday service sermon in the Christian Center.

The title of his sermon will be "Christian Presence." The scripture to be read is Matthew 5:1-16.

A film entitled "The Savage Eye" will be presented during the evening Encounter program which will follow the weekly supper at 6 p.m.

Political Science 440-540, Power in American Society, a three-hour course, was approved.

Also added to the Spanish Department are Spanish 485-585, the Modernist Movement, a three-hour course, and Spanish 488-588, Advanced Syntax and Stylistics, a three-hour course.

Added to the Speech Department are Speech 425-525, Language Disorders in Children, a three-hour course; Speech 428, Organization and Administration of Speech and Hearing Programs, a one-hour course; Speech 429, Anatomy and Physiology of Hearing Mechanisms, a three-hour course, and Speech 468, Speech Correction Methods and Materials, a 2 hour course.

The committee approved dropping Biological Science, 642, Investigations in Conservation, a two-hour course; Political Science 520, State Administration, a three-hour course, and Political Science 623, Administrative Law, a three-hour course.

Suggestions Advanced On Academic Growth

of self-appraisal that I offer the following suggestions for the proposed development of the undergraduate program at Marshall University for 1965-1975. While a time sequence is included, it must be understood that a particular objective will require prior preparation and circumstances may dictate certain changes.

1965-66

1. Review, evaluate and make recommendations regarding:
 - a. All departments and their place in the institution.
 - b. Our academic advising.
 - c. Our evening program on campus.
 - d. Our branch colleges and their relationship to the University.
 - e. Our extension program.
 - f. Our special service program.
2. Introduction of courses in computer programming, computer operation, and data processing.
3. Preparation for the introduction of a program in outdoor education.
4. Expand and coordinate all of our academic Honors programs.
5. Establish degree programs in civil engineering, mechanical engineering and electrical engineering.
6. Strengthen our programs by greater funding and upgraded staffing in: a. mathematics, b. physics, c. foreign languages, and d. business administration.

COFFEE HOUSE OPEN

The Summit, the newly-constructed coffee house sponsored by the Campus Christian Center, will be open again for university use every Friday and Saturday from 7:30 p.m. until 12:30 a.m. Entertainment in the Summit will be provided by interested university students. Students, faculty and administration are invited to attend, with student admission by identification card.

7. Introduction of admission experiments with two groups:
 - a. The exceptional student,
 - and b. The less advantaged youth.

1966-1967

1. Introduction of basic curricula at the freshman level throughout the University.
2. Introduction of a "degree sequence" in the evening program.
3. Seek professional accreditation in a. journalism, b. music, and c. Home Economics.
4. Develop an International Program with at least one of the following: a. Affiliation, b. faculty or student exchange, c. technical assistance, d. area studies, or e. consortium with another university.

1966-1970

1. Seek professional accreditation in a. business administration and b. engineering programs.
2. Introduction of a program in Metallurgy.
3. Introduction of a degree program in Industrial Arts.

1971-1975

1. Establish a testing center and psychological clinic.
2. Introduction of a four-year degree program in nursing.
3. Introduction of a degree course in chemical engineering.
4. Introduction of a degree program in police science and administration.
5. Review, evaluation and recommendations for a reorganization of the administrative structure of the University in the light of the developments to that time.

I believe Marshall University has great potential, but the goals we set for ourselves will be achieved only as the entire faculty becomes imbued with a sense of mission and a willingness to pay the price of professional advancement and service in their fulfillment. Marshall University in 1975 will be what we determine to make it.

March Debates Set By Squad

The debate squad won three and lost five of its debates in a tournament against Berea College, Berea, Ky., last Saturday.

On March 5 they will travel to Institute, W. Va., for a dual exchange against West Virginia State College.

Four squad members will debate before the American Association of University Women at the Women's Club in Huntington on March 9.

Both the varsity and novice teams will compete in a tournament against Eastern Kentucky College, Richmond, Ky., on March 20.

Varsity team members attending will be John Cross, Huntington senior; Steven Edington, St. Albans sophomore; Randal Jarrell, Pt. Pleasant sophomore; and Danie Stewart, Salt Rock junior.

The novice team is made up of Lowell Adkins, Huntington sophomore; Mike Engle, Charleston sophomore; Bill Evans, Huntington freshman, and Caroline Massey, Ashland, Ky., freshman.

According to Ben Hope, professor of speech, the topic for all the tournaments will be the national debate proposition, "Resolved: That the Federal Government Should Establish a National Program of Public Work for the Unemployed."

Federal Program Interests MU Aides

Marshall faculty and administrative aides were scheduled to be briefed yesterday on a research program concerning the federally-sponsored Nursing Student Loan Program.

Dr. A. E. McCaskey, dean of the College of Applied Science; Miss Sarah Patram, associate professor of nursing education, and George Fraley, financial aid officer, attended the session at Parkersburg High School.

Purpose of the meeting, sponsored by the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, was to acquaint universities and medical institutions with the program and to determine their interest.

Preview Of Closed Circuit TV Set By Education Department

Students and faculty are invited to attend a demonstration of closed circuit TV Tuesday at 4 p.m. in room 113, Science Hall.

According to Dr. Clarke Hess, professor of education, Charles Parker of Motorola will set up the unit.

Recently Dr. Hess announced that plans for installation of closed-circuit television units were being drawn up by the Education Department.

Plans for the program allow for the installation of four cameras, two monitors, four booths, one seminar room, and one class room on the second floor of University Hall directly over North Parlor.

It is hoped that this program will be completed this spring and ready for use by the first summer term.

Response in the aftermath of a tragedy often indicates how many friends a man has made in life. Patrick E. Woody had a lot of friends; he had all of Marshall, from the president to the scrub football player.

Being connected with sports in a humble sort of way, it is especially gratifying to know that teammates on the gridiron and other fields of sporting endeavor are drawn closer together than the average friends. It makes athletics much more worthwhile as a part of life. This was vividly proven this week when Pat Woody's teammates took up a collection to buy a plaque in his memory to present to his family yesterday in Williamstown. The entire team was to attend his last rites on that day.

They will also purchase another plaque in Woody's honor for the school. This memorial trophy will go to the outstanding junior on each Marshall football team, beginning this season. The honored player will have his name inscribed on the plaque, which will remain in the Gullickson Hall trophy case. The inscription on both plaques will read:

Patrick E. Woody
June 23, 1944 - Feb. 22, 1965
Varsity Tackle - 1963 - 65

His teammates dedicate this plaque to the memory of a fine athlete and good friend, who exemplified courage and skills in sports and the qualities of character that a good athlete cherishes.

His fellow players have also requested that his jersey, number 75, be retired — truly a commendable tribute.

Along the same line, the ROBE has voted to establish a Pat Woody Memorial Scholarship to deserving football players in the future. He is gone but not forgotten, nor will he be for years to come. His friends have assured this.

RUMBLINGS

It looks like the rippling in Charleston has reached flood stage concerning the proposed contest between the Marshall and West Virginia University freshmen teams. A formal resolution asking for the game to be played at the Charleston Civic Center in the next two weeks has been made before the West Virginia House of Delegates Tuesday.

Delegates Brereton C. Jones and Paul B. (Biz) Dawson sponsored the resolution, which stated in part that such a game between the two teams, considered the best in many years at both schools, would provide some $16,000 for the schools' athletic funds.

The resolution also requested that no gratuitous or courtesy tickets be distributed in order that both institutions might get the maximum revenue. This is an end result to a snowballing of many editorials throughout the state's newspapers in favor of the meeting of the two teams. Al "Shorty" Hardman of the Charleston Gazette and George Springer of the Beckley Post-Herald, have come out in favor of such a contest, while George Rorrer and Fred Burns, both of the Huntington Herald-Dispatch, have been proposing it for quite some time.

However, no matter who is in favor of the clash, it is a hundred-to-one shot that the game can feasibly be played. According to Mid-American Conference rules, no basketball game or practice session can be held after March 6 when the season is officially over.

WVU is also hampered in that it cannot play a game after it is eliminated from the Southern Conference Tournament — if that happens. It would seem that the only date open would be March 2 and that's not long.

MU Athletic Director Neal (Whitey) Wilson indicated that he was in favor of the game but expressed doubt that it would ever get off the ground at this late date. Coach Ellis Johnson, who has said all along that he would like to see such a contest, said Tuesday, "It's nice to think about but I don't believe it will ever come about."

It appears as if the feeling in Morgantown is that WVU would lose prestige in the state if Marshall would win. Athletic publicity Director Edgar O. Barrett said that game would cause sectionalism in the state. The fact remains that the people of West Virginia want it and Marshall is in favor, but WVU wants no part of it. Keep plugging Big Green fans, the impossible has been accomplished before.

Coach Charlie Snyder indicates that he has set spring football practices to begin March 15 "if the weather remains good enough." Coach Snyder and his fine crew of cohorts will welcome the "rest" after several hard months of recruiting. Besides going out and talking to the boys and their parents, Snyder and his assistants have reviewed enough films to turn them against motion picture entertainment for good. Their work hasn't been in vain, though. The MU mentor thinks he has one of the finest crops of youngsters that have been at Marshall in a number of years.

Speaking of recruiting, Coach Ellis Johnson has been burning the candle at both ends while searching for new talent to bolster his future teams. Known to be fast in his youthful days at the University of Kentucky, Johnson still isn't letting any grass grow under his feet. He attended three games in one day during the semester break, looking at high school talent.

Marshall To Meet Broncos

By WOODY WILSON
Sports Reporter

It's do or die for the weary Marshall Big Green tomorrow night as they travel to Kalamazoo, Mich., to battle their cellar partners, the Western Michigan Broncos.

The Big Green, who defeated Western Michigan in January for its only conference victory, 110-99, must win tomorrow's game to keep from being the cellar team in the Mid-American Conference for the second straight year.

Last night the Big Green was scheduled to host Eastern Kentucky, the Ohio Valley Conference leader. If Eastern defeats the Big Green, it would bring the losingest basketball season ever at Marshall. Last year's squad, who's mark was 6-17, has the record.

Monday night Marshall enjoyed its best shooting of the season at Bowling Green, but a lack of good rebounding was costly to the Big Green.

Marshall defeated 114-93 and in the process saw Bowling Green set a Mid-American Conference record of 50 field goals and two other school marks.

"We were hitting from the outside, but they were getting the easy tipins and layups," said Marshall Coach Ellis Johnson. Marshall hit 40 of 81 field goals for a 49.4 per cent.

Bruce Belcher was the leading scorer for the Big Green in the game with 26 points. He hit on 10 of 14 field goal tries which was his best shooting percentage of the year. Tom Langfitt, who is leading the MAC in scoring, was next with 19 points. Bill Francis added 18 while Bill Whetsell, who just returned to the lineup, tosses in 14 points.

In tomorrow night's game, Western Michigan will be lead by Dave Anderson who is second in scoring in the conference behind Langfitt. Anderson was the leading scorer for the Broncos in the first Marshall game with 25 points.

Tom Langfitt was the leading scorer in the game for Marshall with 28 points. Bill Francis was next with 26 points while Bill Whetsell and Bruce Belcher gave added support with 23 and 19 points each.

Marshall To Host First MAC Tourney With Wrestling Event

By ED LANHAM

Next week end marks the opening of the Mid-American Conference Championships which are to be held this year at Gullickson Hall. The championships, which are scheduled for March 5-6, are the first of any kind Marshall has ever held.

The tournament will begin with weigh-in starting Friday at 11 a.m. and be immediately followed by a coaches meeting in Room 109. The preliminaries will be held Friday at 4 p.m. with the semifinals starting that night at 8 p.m. The finals will be held on Saturday beginning at 2 p.m.

Director for this year's tournament is Marshall wrestling coach Edward J. Prelaz who will also be a member of the tournament committee.

Marshall's facilities are ideal for this tournament as the matches will be run off on a two mat system which will involve two matches at the same time. The event will be based on the rules of the M.A.C. and the National Collegiate Athletic Association. Winners will go on to the Interstate Intercollegiate Individual Invitation Tournament, held the following week end in Cleveland, Ohio.

Marshall appears to be a dark horse in the tournament as it has several wrestlers who could pull some upsets in their classes. Favorites are defending champions Miami and Toledo. Both have fine teams and should pose as trouble for the Big Green. The teams will arrive Friday and will stay in the Up Towner Inn.

Marshall, whose record is none too impressive, goes into the tournament without wrestlers in the 123 and 130 pound classes. These classes were left vacant due to injuries earlier in the season.

The price of admission will be $1 for adults and .25 for students.

This Saturday the Big Green wrestlers will travel to Finley College where they plan to rap up the season and prepare for next weeks championships.

Soviet Embassy Target Of MU Student Pickets

A demonstration at the Washington, D. C., Soviet Embassy is being planned tomorrow by a group of Marshall students. At least three of the planned demonstrators are members of the Student Government.

The announcement of the planned demonstration was made Wednesday by Dean Thompson, Huntington senior senator and head of the group.

According to Thompson, the purpose of the group is two fold: to peacefully demonstrate to the Soviets at the Embassy that the students do not approve of rock-throwing incidents at U. S. embassies overseas, and to attempt to bring about a more active interest in world affairs on Marshall's campus.

Thompson said that the demonstration will be a peaceful one and that plans are made to alert proper Washington authorities of the demonstration.

Speaking of the reasons for the demonstration, Thompson said that the group intends to "set a proper example of how students should demonstrate and show Communist-inspired students that a peaceful demonstration is the only type of humane demonstration."

Thompson said that the demonstration by about 12 MU students is not intended to be a "political Geritol, but we do feel that this could show many people that we are concerned that the peaceful approach is the right approach for students anywhere to take."

He also said that the move is an attempt to change the national image of West Virginia. He said, "This demonstration might serve to alert a misled nation that West Virginians and West Virginia students are not a bunch of stamp-collecting hillbillies."

In another purpose of the trip as a whole Thompson said, "I believe MU students as a whole are very lathargic as far as their world view is concerned; at the best, they might know what's going on in West Virginia, but are very much asleep when it comes to national and international affairs.

The plan was to get under way yesterday when the group planned to wire several people in Washington, including Sen. Jennings Randolph, D-W. Va.; Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W. Va.; West Virginia Sixth District Congressman Ken Hechler; Presidential Press Secretary George Reedy, and others in the news media, including NBC news commentator David Brinkley.

The group of students plan to leave Huntington this afternoon about 2 p.m. Thompson and McQueen are driving their cars. They plan to arrive in Washington late tonight and alert the Washington Police Department that they plan the demonstration.

The group plans to picket the embassy until tomorrow evening, then leave for the return trip to campus, arriving here late tomorrow night.

Election Rules Are Amended

Six amendments have been added to the list of rules for spring election, according to Carole Martaus, Weirton senior and election committee coordinator.

Four of the new rules concern the political parties. They are:

- 1) Party signs are to be no larger than five by 10 feet and no more than eight signs posted.
- 2) Candidates must file by 4 p.m. today. Maximum expense is limited to $25 per party. All expenses and income must be registered by 4 p.m. of election day.
- 3) Each party shall have an extra governmental organization for perpetuation of the party. They must have two candidates for the legislature. Each party shall have a presidential and vice-presidential candidate and a minimum of two senatorial candidates.
- 4) All candidates shall be listed on the ballot according to political parties. Non-party affiliates shall be listed as such.

Talks, Film Next Week On 'The Flaming Sky'

By BARBARA HENSLEY
Staff Reporter

Prof. Waldo E. Smith, executive secretary of the American Geophysical Union, will present a film, "The Flaming Sky" from the Planet Earth Series, in Science Hall Auditorium at 7:30 p.m. Monday.

"The New Era in Geophysics and its Challenge to Our Colleges," will be Professor Smith's topic for the 11 a.m. Tuesday convocation in Old Main Auditorium. He will be available for a conference with interested students in Science Hall 321 Tuesday morning before the Convocation. All students and faculty are invited to attend both meetings.

Professor Smith has been visiting college and university campuses across the country for the past several years lecturing on the new era in geophysics to both students and administration. He has long been an advocate of careful planning and development of geophysical education.

Engineering has also been of interest to Professor Smith. His civil engineering career has included service on the engineering staff of two of the country's leading consulting engineering firms and he now serves as a national director of the American Society of Civil Engineers.

Professor Smith received his baccalaureate degree from the University of Iowa in 1923 and his Master of Science degree in 1924, and served as an instructor in theoretical and applied mechanics at the University of Illinois from 1927-1928; associate professor in civil engineering and acting head of the department at Robert College, Istanbul, 1928-1931; assistant professor at North Dakota State University, 1931-1935, and as a professorial lecturer at George Washington University in Washington, D. C., from 1946-1960.

Sophomores...

Here's what the new 2-year Army ROTC program means to you

A new Reserve Officer Training Corps program permits selected college sophomores to be commissioned as Army Second Lieutenants in two years. You can do this by:

1. Completing a special 6-week summer camp between your sophomore and junior years.
2. Completing the 2-year Advanced Course at any school offering the ROTC program.

What are the benefits of Army ROTC training?

- Management training for success in civilian or military life.
- $40 per month pay while attending the Advanced Course, plus uniforms; pay and paid travel for summer camps.
- Eligibility for free flight instruction at selected schools leading to a private pilot's license.
- A commission as an Army officer, with all of its accompanying benefits, including higher income, greater opportunity for advancement and officer status.
- The personal satisfaction that comes from knowing you're trained to assume leadership responsibilities.

These benefits will put you a step ahead of other college graduates and will pay off for the rest of your life. You owe it to yourself to investigate these new opportunities.

For complete information, see the Professor of Military Science at your school, or send the coupon below.
