Chief Justice Blasts Cottrill

English Claims Cottrill 'Ignored' Court Injunction

By DAVID PEYTON
Staff Reporter

Chief Justice Wendell English of the Student Court has claimed that Student Body President Dick Cottrill has "set the Student Court back five years" by his apparent defiance of a court injunction issued last week.

In a statement released Monday by English, he said that "President Cottrill ignored the injunction" which would have prevented the "Draft Goodman and Fleming" signs from being taken down.

Cottrill, on the other hand, declared that the signs were campaign material and that they were to be taken down by executive order, thus negating English's decision.

English claimed that the injunction that he issued was a temporary one, aimed at preventing any action or violation of the rights of those involved and responsible for the erection of the draft signs. "He went on to say that the injunction would have only lasted "until the full court of justices could hear the case."

He said that he informed the Election Committee that he was not making a ruling on the signs, but was restraining anyone from violating student rights.

According to English, the top members of the executive branch were notified of legal action they could take in instituting a court case if they disapproved of the injunction.

"I also informed President Cottrill that unless the injunction was complied with or if he interfered with the injunction that the possibility of contempt of court charges might ensue," English said.

He also said, "The actions of the Executive Department has emphatically defied and shown the position of the Student Court in the Student Government. The court is to protest the rights of the students and when this power is prohibited or interfered with or limited in any way as to negate its very purpose, the model of democracy is lost."

When English was asked if there was any court action planned against President Cottrill, he replied "No comment."

English also said that in the coming election, he will "conduct an impartial campaign to bring to the attention of students, parties, and candidates, the need on this campus for a strong, impartial judiciary."

He said that he supports no candidate or no party, but rather, "the well being of the Marshall University student body."

Paper 'Pitch-And-Run' War Ends In Truce

THE RESULTS OF a water "fight" and paper-draping soiree are shown above. Honors Convocation On March 18 To Hear Dean Of Wittenberg U.

By DAN FIELDS

Dr. Allan O. Pfnister, dean of Wittenberg University at Springfield, Ohio, will address the annual Honors Convocation at Old Main Auditorium March 18. His topic will be "Hunting Tigers."

Although held especially for the students in the Honors Program,

Students' Protest March Postponed

The proposed demonstration by a group of Marshall students at the Washington, D. C., Soviet Embassy was called off due to bad weather, according to Dean Thompson, Huntington senior.

Purpose of the protest was to show the Soviets that demonstrations do not have to be rock-throwing events, but can be peaceful and controlled. They also hoped to arouse an active interest in world affairs in Marshall students.

Another purpose of the trip was to help change the image of West Virginia by showing people that "West Virginian students are not a bunch of stamp-collecting hillbillies."

"If we don't get to make the trip this weekend," said Thompson, "we will make it in the near future."

ram, the Convocation is open to the general public.

On March 16, Frederick A. Woods of Union Carbide will speak to the students at the Christian Center. Students and faculty are invited to attend.

Dr. Pfnister earned his A.B. and B.D. degrees summa cum laude, from Augustana College and Theological Seminary at Rock Island, Ill. He received his M.A. and Ph. D. degrees from the University of Chicago and the University of Michigan, respectively.

DR. ALLAN C. PFNISTER

Dr. Pfnister has taught at Augustana College, Luther College at Wahoo, Neb., the University of Chicago, and the University of Michigan.

He is the author of "Baccalaureate Origin of College Faculties," which was published in 1961.

Students who participate in the Honors Program must have a 3.0 quality point average and be selected by the Honors Board which is headed by Dr. Charles H. Moffat, professor of history.

3 Are Vying For Student Body Leader

Forty-three candidates have filed for the election March 17.

Although actual campaigning doesn't begin until March 14, all candidates who will seek election to student government positions have filed.

This year's election promises to be different in some respects. Two political parties have filed—the University Party and the Advocates Of The Beginning Party. In addition to these two parties' candidates, there are a number of unaffiliated students running.

Three juniors are seeking the presidency of the student body and three are seeking the vice-presidency. Under a ruling of this year's Election Committee, a presidential candidate must have a vice-presidential running mate.

The presidential candidate from the University Party will be Steve Goodman with Carolyn Fleming as the vice-presidential nominee. Both candidates are from Huntington.

The Advocates Of The Beginning have tapped Danie Stewart of Huntington as its presidential candidate with Steve Ewing of Huntington, as vice-presidential nominee.

Running without party affiliation, but as a team, are John Murphey of Pittsburgh, Pa., for president and Dale Lowther, St. Marys, as vice-presidential running mate.

Only one junior will be running for the position of senior class president. He is John Hill of Huntington. Hill is not affiliated with any party.

Nine juniors are seeking the post of senior class senators. The University Party has nominated seven to run for the senior senator posts. They are: Tom Wilcox, Mark Howells, Joan Fleckenstein, Gretchen Adkins, and George Mills, all of Huntington; Bill Wooton, Beckley; and Samchi Sutikulpanit, Thailand. The two juniors who are running without party affiliation are Tim McCarthy, Ravenswood, and Fred Tallman, Vienna.

The two infant parties will meet head on in the junior class president race. Sophomores Dave Frost, Huntington, of the University Party, will be running against Ranald Jarrell, Parkersburg, of the Advocates Of The Beginning.

In the junior senatorial race, the Advocates Of The Beginning will be represented by Mike Engle, Huntington. Sophomores in the same race, under the University Party ticket, are: Nancy Glaser, Hawthorne, N. J.; Sam Samworth, Huntington, Janet Ratcliff, Huntington, Carol Hubbard, Williamson, and Bruce Belfield and Ben Hale, both of Huntington.

Those sophomores running for junior senate seats with no party affiliation are Steve Dare, Melbourne, Fla.; Bob Rogers, St. Albans, and Diana Petty, Huntington.

Only one freshman is running for the sophomore class presidency. He is Dick Smith of Huntington.

The University Party will have nine freshmen trying for senate positions. They are: Ann De-

An Editorial

Coverage Not Always Pretty--But Necessary

The death of Pat Woody was a tragic event. The grief and sorrow will not be easily forgotten by those who knew him or by those who learned of the tragedy from the news media.

His death was a news story. The details of this event had to be told — demanded to be told. Many people made a special effort to watch the news on television and to read the story in the papers.

Unfortunately, in a tragedy of this type, there is a human element involved. To film those who suffer special grief captures the degree of emotional impact in the story. The coverage of President Kennedy's death included the emotional grief suffered by his wife.

At the scene of Pat Woody's death an unfortunate but understandable incident occurred. A local news photographer was verably attacked as he tried to capture the grief of Woody's fiancée. The persons evidently felt it was their duty to say something or strike out at somebody.

It is difficult for those outside the field of journalism to understand why we try to photograph the grief of those involved in such a tragedy.

Yet, to tell the story without its emotional impact is to tell only half the story. It may be a painful experience to be photographed in shock and sorrow, but the public wants and needs to know all the facts.

The photographer was only trying to cover the story — this is his job. He has a right to photograph news events in public places. He does not decide what is to be shown on television, or what is to be printed; his editor makes that decision.

And the editor? His job is to present a good news story.

Dr. Blumberg Writes Article On Retardation

Dr. Allen Blumberg, associate professor of education and active in mental retardation work, is the author of an article entitled: "A Realistic Look at the Education of the Mentally Retarded."

The article appeared in the Sunday supplement of the Herald-Advertiser this week. Dr. Blumberg stressed the need for special training for those who plan to teach the mentally retarded, such as that offered at Marshall.

A biographical sketch accompanying the article told of the effective work Dr. Blumberg and his wife have done in mental retardation.

Mrs. Blumberg, who had achieved a reputation in the art world before marriage, is a graduate of Marshall and has studied art at Stetson University. Next semester she will teach an arts and crafts course for teachers of the handicapped at a branch of the University of Kentucky. The Blumbergs also conduct special classes in their own home.

Funds for training teachers for the Marshall program have been given the Education Department by federal grant. According to Dr. Blumberg, 28 teachers have graduated from this program. Ten of these are now teaching in West Virginia.

Last semester there were seven students training for the program. This semester there are 40. Under the grant senior students training to be teachers are given tuition fees and $1,600; graduate students receive tuition and $2,000 with $400 added for each dependent. In summer school students receive tuition and $75 a week.

First Semester Averages Posted, 568 Make Dean's List, 202 Get 3.5

Of the 3,867 full time students enrolled in Teachers College, Arts and Sciences, and Applied Science College first semester 1964-65, 568 made an average of B (3.0) or better, according to reports from the academic deans. Senior students with dean's list grades numbered 261, the largest number from any class.

Of the 568 dean's list students, 202 made averages of 3.5 or better. Those in Teachers College are: freshmen—Priscilla Fannin, Annabella Knott, Lana Jane Marshall, Charles Pfaffenberger, Rebecca Riddle, Patricia Somerville,

Academic Averages Show Decline; Alpha Xi, SAE Top Greek Groups

Academic averages for first semester have been announced from the offices of the social deans.

The overall average for 1,911 full-time male students is 2.192 for the first semester. This is down from the previous semester's overall average which was 2.298.

For 1,611 full-time women students the overall average is 2.552. This overall average is also down from that of second semester last year which was 2.63.

Alpha Xi Delta led the sororities with an over-all average of 2.886 for 65 members. The Alpha Xi's retired the Panhellenic scholarship cup for three consecutive years at the end of second semester last year.

Second in sorority competition was Alpha Chi Omega with a

2.667 overall average for 58 members. With 18 members Alpha Sigma Alpha was third with a 2.665 overall average. Next in line was Sigma Sigma Sigma with a 2.634 average for 63 members. Delta Zeta was fifth in sorority competition with a 2.587 for 60

BAM MEETS TOMORROW

Computers and other business equipment will be demonstrated at the Beta Alpha Mu meeting at 11:00 a.m. tomorrow in Northcott 303.

Frank Szunalic, representative of the National Cash Register Co., will be guest speaker, according to President Phil Farthing, Charleston junior. Freshman and sophomore business administration majors with a 2. grade average may attend this meeting.

members. With a 2.585 was Sigma Kappa for 65 members.

The all sorority average for six Panhellenic groups on campus is down from first semester last year's academic averages. First semester's all sorority average was 2.67 and last year's average was 2.691.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon was first in the fraternity competition for first semester academic averages with a 2.475 overall average for 99 members. Second was Lambda Chi Alpha with a 2.464 average for 56 members. Sigma Phi Epsilon with a 2.392 was third. The Sig Ep's have 96 members. Zeta Beta Tau was next in competition with a 2.303 overall for 36 members. With a 2.103 overall was Kappa Alpha Psi with 13 members. Pi Kappa Alpha had a 2.094 overall average for 67 members. With a 2.037 average was Kappa Alpha Order with 54 members. Alpha Sigma Phi averaged 2.021 for 17 members. With 62 members Tau Kappa Epsilon had a 2.001 average. The Cavaliers had a 2.201 average for 12 members.

The overall fraternity average for first semester was 2.265 for 511 men. This is lower than the overall fraternity average second semester last year which was 2.359 for 474.

Two Dormitories Get New Names

New, shorter names for two dormitories were recently approved by University officials.

West Hall is the new name for the Residence Hall for Women and the Residence Hall for Men is now South Hall.

President Stewart H. Smith said both names are only temporary and that they may be renamed for an individual or family.

The changes were recommended "for the sake of brevity" by the social deans.

West Hall, the newest women's dormitory, opened last September and houses 250. South Hall was completed in 1961 and houses 244 men.

Cottrill's 1st Veto

Senators Again Change Rule On Election Signs

By LLOYD D. LEWIS

The Student Senate, following a veto by President Dick Cottrill, re-amended the Spring Election rules it adopted Feb. 17 at its session last Wednesday night.

Meeting for the first time in the Science Hall Auditorium, the legislators followed the lead of Cottrill, a Huntington senior, when he asked them to strike out part of rule 26 which, he said, allowed "a candidate who belongs to a political party to have his name on a poster twice the number of times as a candidate running without the benefit of party support."

Cottrill explained that it would be necessary to veto the entire set of rules to make one amendment because the original rules had been approved in one motion. Only eight senators voted against the measure.

In other Senate action, a motion was approved which permits the Senate to rotate its weekly meeting between different buildings both on and off campus. The legislators also sanctioned the publication of the Senate agenda in The Parthenon each Wednesday and ratified the appointment of Tony Broh, Huntington, as sophomore senator.

Exercising his veto power for the first time during his administration, Cottrill said of the unequal distribution of campaign posters, "I favor the formation of parties, but I do not believe we should penalize any student who chooses to run without a party."

The provision to which Cottrill objected was the last two sentences of rule 26: "These signs (the eight allowed to each registered political party) may include the names of all candidates affiliated with these parties. These signs shall in no way be included in the total number of signs allotted to each individual candidate."

After two hours of amendment and re-amendment, the senators settled for a motion which replaced these sentences. Proposed by Ravenswood junior Senator Jim Stevenson, the rule reads, "Unaffiliated students (running for senatorial and class presidential offices) shall be allowed 10 campaign posters; affiliated students shall be allowed eight." (Affiliated refers to party allegiance.)

In addition, the amended rules state that an affiliated student may have his or her name listed on two party signs, making a total of 10 signs. Also, student body presidential and vice presidential candidates are each allowed 16 personal signs.

Obviously disgusted with the continued senatorial attempts to correct the election rules, Senator Stevenson once stood to say, "I do have a suggestion for what you can put on these campaign signs: 'Watered - Down Progress!'"

Senator Dean Thompson, Huntington senior, then moved "that the meeting place of the Marshall University Student Senate rotate weekly in the dorms, fraternity and sorority houses and various campus buildings."

Senator Rick Diehl, Huntington senior, objected to taking the meetings to fraternity and sorority houses because the Greek "rivalries are ridiculous" and members of one fraternity wouldn't want to go to another house for a Senate session.

Thompson said, "The only reason we're proposing this is that they are a part of the campus."

Senator Andy MacQueen, St. Albans senior, backed up that statement when he replied, "The fraternities and sororities have just as much disinterest in student government as anyone else. But the point is to take the Senate to them."

The motion was unanimously approved.

A motion by Doug Warner, Parkersburg freshman senator, read in part "that all reports, motions, and resolutions shall be in to the Executive Secretary before 2 p.m. Monday, so the agenda can be advertised in The Parthenon on Wednesday afternoon before Senate."

The legislators sanctioned this move to increase the number of Senate spectators.

Tony Broh was ratified by the senators to take the sophomore seat recently vacated by former Senator Larry Bruce of Huntington.

Before the vote was taken, however, Senator MacQueen said that, since the election was now so close, this would be a "gratis appointment" and he moved to postpone the appointment indefinitely.

Senator Stevenson exclaimed, "The sophomore class deserves their complete representation at all times!" and Senator Thompson termed MacQueen's action "passing the buck."

Thompson further commented, "To keep the boy out for political reasons is a bad thing. I'd like to call for question."

Senators Dick Smith and Rick Jackson, both Huntington freshmen, sponsored a motion which would have refunded filing fees to all winning candidates in next month's election.

Smith said he thought the measure would "keep a lot of 'wise guys' from signing up." But Huntington junior Senator Joan Fleckenstein, chairman of the Appropriations and Budget Committee, explained the need for this money in the annual student government budget, and Smith withdrew his motion.

Due to "working part time plus my other classes" Carolyn McDonel, Wise, Va., junior and coordinator of the Book of the Year Commission, submitted her resignation at last week's Senate session. The legislators approved it and appointed Rosemary Flaherty, Huntington sophomore and a member of that committee, to replace Miss McDonel.

In a report to the student legislature, Vice President Fred Reeder, Huntington senior, called for a Senate investigation on the possibility of setting up a faculty - administrative committee "that would deal with problems of student concern, such as re-entry into school, conduct, excessive absences, and so on."

43 Candidates File For Office

Bussey, Parkersburg; Beverly Hart, Charleston; Roger Weis, Huntington; Lynn Tincher, Charleston; Rick Jackson, Huntington; Fred Runyan, Huntington; Linda Pepper, Parkersburg; Charlotte Wilmer, Huntington, and Susan Demorest, South Charleston.

The Advocates of the Beginning have one freshman in the running. She is Danda Ransaw of Huntington. The freshman students running without party affiliation are: Bob Carlisle, Henderson; Linda Lycan, Fort Gay; Glen Capehart, Clarksburg, and Keith Skidmore, Charleston.

According to Carol Mardaus, Weirton senior and head of the Election Committee, candidates may change their party affiliation through tomorrow. At 4 p.m. today all candidates who have not previously taken the Student Government test are required to attend a lecture in the Science Hall. The test will be administered tomorrow.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:

You and your students are to be commended for taking a special interest in the important assignment which is before each one of us, and for doing such a fine job of it.

We found the approach, the writing and the editing which went into the insert exceptional. We are greatly encouraged in our work, knowing that university students, and their professors, have joined us in attacking the blight of human poverty. The Office of Economic Opportunity and Mr. Shriver were pleased to have helped by providing material for the insert.

No MU-WVU Game

The proposed Marshall-West Virginia freshman basketball game will not take place, despite the request for one by House of Delegates.

MU Athletic Director Neal B. (Whitey) Wilson received the following telegram from WVU Athletic Director Robert (Red) Brown:

"Varsity and freshman regular season completed Feb. 20 except for tournament participation by Varsity. University policy prohibits post-season games. Congratulations to your fine freshmen."

SCULPTURE ON DISPLAY

A polyester-resin sculpture display by John Baldwin, associate professor of art at Ohio University in Athens, Ohio, will be on display today through March 24 in the social hall of the Campus Christian Center.

The sculpture is done by dipping cloth in the polyester resin and then molding the material into the desired form.

Baldwin's works include his interpretations of Sebastian, Man, Fear and Samothracian.

Parking, Night Security Legislation Is Sought

Parking and night security at Marshall are subjects of two bills now under consideration by the State Legislature.

One bill would authorize the university to charge parking fees for students, faculty, staff and visitors and the profits would be used to acquire additional parking space.

The other bill would allow Marshall to hire additional security officers to patrol the campus, especially at night.

The bills are similar to ones approved two years ago for West Virginia University. The new bills would extend more parking authority to Marshall as well as all colleges under the jurisdiction of the State Board of Education.

President Stewart H. Smith said that possibly in the fall the university would begin charging fees for those using campus parking facilities. As yet no monthly parking fee has been determined.

The profits would be used first to pay the cost of maintaining and operating parking facilities, but any excess would be used for the purchase of land to provide additional parking space.

President Smith said that there has been a long-time need for expanded parking facilities at Marshall. He also said there is a need for uniformed security officers to patrol the campus after dark. Students would not be permitted to serve as officers. Only persons qualified and licensed to carry a firearm would be used. The officers would be in uniform.

The university would also have the authority to assess fines for violation of campus parking regulations.

President Smith said he is optimistic of the bill's passage by the Legislature.

Stewart Challenges Opposition Debate

One of the presidential candidates and head of the Advocates Of The Beginning, campus political party, Danie Stewart, Huntington junior, has challenged his opponents and the University Party to debates.

In the letter sent to Steve Goodman and John Murphey, the other presidential candidates, Stewart called this election, "one of the most crucial elections ever held on Marshall's campus."

Stewart said that the party to which he belongs advocates cross-examination debates, either audience or candidate cross-examinations. He said that he hoped the debates would "improve the caliber" of the election.

Clinic Services Will Be Probed

The Student Conduct and Welfare Committee will meet Monday to discuss the problems of student health and the adequacy of the University Health Clinic.

At a meeting last Friday the committee passed a motion to "carefully study the problems of student health" to determine: 1) the services now available 2) the responsibilities of the clinic staff 3) the adequacy of the clinic staff and facilities and 4) the health services available at comparable institutions.

President Stewart H. Smith informed the committee of the general complaints of students regarding health services and suggested that the committee study the problem thoroughly. Student representatives Claire Grace, Huntington senior, Mike Carroll, Nitro senior, and Dick Cottrill, Huntington senior and student body president, also reported some of the student complaints regarding health services.

A Parthenon editorial dated Jan. 13 inquired into the growing student unrest and dissatisfaction with the health services offered by the clinic and called for improved relations between the student body and the health center.

Also attending the meeting was Kenneth L. Gainer, representative of the West Virginia Life Insurance Co. which underwrites the campus voluntary student health insurance plan. Gainer indicated that petty claims, many of which he felt could be treated at the University Clinic, in addition to legitimate claims, amounted to 80 per cent of the premiums paid by the students.

Hays Is Speaker For Convocation

BROOKS HAYS

Former Congressman Brooks Hays, who is presently a White House consultant, will speak at the Convocation tomorrow at 11 a.m. in Old Main Auditorium.

His subject will be "The Dimensions of Hope," and was written for the special interest of college students, church and civic groups.

He served as Congressman from his native Arkansas from 1942-1959. For eight years he was a member of the Banking and Currency Committee and has served on the Committee on Foreign Affairs. He has been a member of the U. S. Delegation to the United Nations and the Select Committee on Space Exploration and Astronautics.

Mr. Hays became interested in social work and politics during his years of law practice. He was called to Washington in 1937 to assist in a legislative program under which tenant families could become independent farm owners. The Bankhead-Jones Farm Tenant Act provided for 40 year loans to farm tenants, share croppers, or farm laborers to buy homes or land.

Similar rehabilitation loans were provided to buy feed, fertilizer, livestock and pay medical expenses. He considers his assistance in drafting this act as one of the most gratifying incidents in his legislative career.

He has fought for the extension of educational and economic opportunities for Negroes in the South and has taken active part in inter-racial organizations.

In 1949 he outlined the Arkansas Plan to extend full civil rights to minority groups without raising serious constitutional questions or creating bitter sectional reactions. It was this interest that led him to arrange the Newport Conference between Gov. Orval Faubus and President Eisenhower at the time of the Little Rock school desegregation crisis in 1957.

Mr. Hays, several members of the faculty and selected students will attend a luncheon in the cafeteria following the Convocation.

Thirty-eight women and 108 men pledged Greek sororities and fraternities as second semester rush officially ended.

According to the office of the Dean of Women, 61 women signed the rush book. Thirty-eight pledged and this number did not fill the quota for the sororities. Several sororities will be giving open bids within the next few weeks. Fifty-two women rushed second semester last year and 20 women pledged.

There is no official record of the number of men who rushed since men do not have to register to rush. Second semester last year 96 pledged eight fraternities.

Alpha Chi Omega pledged eight. They are: Sue Herndon,

It's An Office--Not A Convention Hall

WHAT HAPPENED at the Student Government office Friday afternoon could only be described as confusion. At 3 p.m. the whole University Party decided to register its candidates all at once. Vice President Fred Reeder decided there should be no more than five people in the office at one time. Reeder (with his back to the camera) explains the situation to candidates (left to right) Carolyn Fleming, Steve Goodman, and Dick Smith, while others looked on. Finally, Dean of Men John E. Shay had to be called in to mediate. He ruled in favor of Reeder and the office was cleared. See election story, page one. Photo by Dave Dickson).

Beavers Cop Title; Take K-Vees, 53-49

By WOODY WILSON
Sports Reporter

The Beavers captured the intramural basketball single elimination tournament for the second straight year by defeating the K-Vees in the finals, 53-49.

The Beavers, led by Gary Marvin's clutch foul shooting, overcame a late K-Vee four point lead to win.

Marvin, high man for the Beavers and the game with 17 points, calmly sank six foul shots in the last two minutes of action to help the Beavers come from behind to win.

Buddy Rogers was second in scoring for the Beavers with 12 points. John Lind added 10 important points to the winner's attack.

The K-Vees were led by Bob Bianchi who tossed in 16 points. Larry Dransfield and John Mullens helped out with 12 points each.

The Beavers ended the season with an unbeaten 11-0 record while the K-Vees final season mark was 10-1.

Third place in the tournament was won by New Men's Dorm No. 1 who defeated the Rebels, 65-45.

Dennis Hill and Dave Life were the high point men for New Men's Dorm with 21 and 18 points, respectively. Bob LeMasters was the top scorer for the Rebels with 20 points.

New Men's Dorm No. 1 finished the season with a 9-2 mark while the Rebels season record was 7-4.

Forrest Hauger of the Vikings, second most of the season in the scoring race, finally overtook Dave Life of New Men's Dorm to become the 1965 intramural basketball scoring champ.

Hauger ended the season with a fine 18.1 average. He scored 127 points in seven games.

Life, who led the scoring race up until the final week of play, finished the season in second place with a 16.0 average. He played in 11 games and had the most points scored in the league. He scored 176 points.

Dale Lowther of Lambda Chi Alpha No. 1 took third place in the scoring race with a 15.7 average. He scored 110 points in seven games.

Here is the final top ten scorers in the Intramural Basketball League for the 1964-65 season:

Cagers To Meet Eastern Tonight

Marshall will begin its final home stand tonight at 8 o'clock against Eastern Kentucky, but for the Big Green the season ended last Saturday at Kalamazoo, Michigan.

That's when Western Michigan relegated Marshall to the Mid-American Conference cellar for the second straight year, trouncing the Big Green 100-85. This made the 1964-65 record the worst in MU's long history. The loss left Marshall with an overall 4-18 mark and 1-10 in the MAC, extending its hardcourt failures to eight straight.

Oddly enough the Big Green's last victory came over the same Broncos Jan. 30. It was a different story Saturday. WMU's Dave Anderson, the MAC's leading scorer, solidified his position by pouring in 40 points, while MU's Tom Langfitt, running a close second, was held to only 12 markers.

The Broncos, however, didn't take control of the contest until four minutes when Langfitt committed his fifth personal foul. As a matter of fact, Marshall was leading, 73-71, with only 6:15 to go; but Anderson's two foul shots with 4:58 remaining put Western ahead to stay.

Bill Whetsell, making his second start after recovering from an ankle injury, paced the Big Green with 21 tallies, while Bill Francis had 15.

MU Frosh Will Play Maroons

Marshall's undefeated freshman basketball team will face Eastern Kentucky's frosh tonight in a make-up of a game originally scheduled for last Thursday night. The game was postponed due to icy roads between Richmond, Ky. and Huntington.

Tonight's contest, which is slated for the Field House at 6 p.m., will be the second meeting of the two teams this season. Marshall won the earlier game 106-94 at Eastern on Dec. 9.

The Little Green will be seeking their 18th victory of the season against the Little Maroons who figure to provide a stiff test.

The Little Green will probably go with the same line-up that it used in downing the West Virginia Tech junior varsity in last outing on Feb. 15. That would include George Stone and Glenn Justice at the forwards, Bob Allen at center, and Orville Stepp and Joe Dawson at the guards.

The frosh will wind up their season on Saturday night against a group of Intramural All Stars.

MU Both Host, Underdog In MAC Wrestling Meet

By TERRY CHAPMAN
Sports Reporter

If anyone is considered the darkhorse in the 13th annual Mid-American Conference Wrestling Tournament, it's Marshall.

The tournament — Marshall's first as conference host in any sport — will be held at Gullickson Hall with preliminaries Friday at 4 p.m. and finals Saturday at 2 p.m.

Coach Ed Prelaz said that, although "you can never tell how a tournament will go, we do have boys capable of going all the way." He singled out Larry Coyer and Bob Pruett. Coyer, Barboursville senior and captain, will be wrestling in the 177-pound class while Pruett, Beckley senior, will be in the unlimited class.

Coach Prelaz will go with John Meador, Bloomington, Ind. junior, in the 137-pound division; Tom Busbee, Huntington sophomore, 147; George Cyrus, Buffalo junior, 157; John Toler, Logan senior, 167; and Dave Cramp, Glenshaw, Pa. junior injured earlier in the season, 123-pound.

There will be a dogfight for the first three positions with Toledo, Kent State and Miami strong contenders for the championship.

Miami, defending champion, is favored to win again.

However, Kent State must also be considered a threat since the Golden Flashes have won five straight MAC matches, including a decision over Miami. The Golden Flashes are accustomed to finishing second, having done so eight times.

Toledo has won two of three matches in the conference this year. The Rockets have been the most successful in the past, winning five championships and finishing among the top three in 10 of the 13 conference meets.

Ohio University, 2-2-1 in conference play, owns an impressive victory over West Virginia's highly regarded wrestling team. It has won the title three times, while Bowling Green and Miami have won twice and Kent State once. Marshall has never finished higher than second.

The Green grapplers, 0-4 in the MAC closed out their regular season last night with Morehead. Their meeting with Finley College was postponed last Saturday.

Alumni Office Seeking Funds

A campaign to raise funds for the Marshall Alumni Association is now underway. The funds raised will be used for operating expenses and scholarships by the Office of Alumni Affairs, according to John Sayre, director.

The campaign has been divided into three categories. The first phase is called Cause and consists of telephone campaigns throughout West Virginia to encourage the citizens to contribute to any of the colleges in this state.

The second phase is called Aide and consists of telephone campaigns only in areas where there are chapters of Marshall alumni.

Sports Over Lightly . . .

The W.R.A. (Women's Recreational Association) will have a coke party Monday to initiate new members.

Any girl who has taken part in intramurals and acquired a total of 200 points is eligible to become a member.

Varsity tennis practice is held every Monday from 4 to 5:30, Thursday from 2:30 to 4 and Friday from 3 to 4 p.m.

Members of the varsity team are Joy Ellis, Annette Lambrecht, Ann Debussey, Linda Pepper, Pat Faller, Pat Sommerville, Gaynelle Epling and Kay Knott.

Anyone interested in joining the team see Miss Steele, who is coach for the tennis team.

March is reputed to come in like a lamb and go out like a lion and it has Coach Charley Snyder worried about spring practice.

The MU football forces are supposed to begin spring drills March 15 "if the weather holds out," but Snyder points out an old practice taboo. "If spring practice starts on a good day, it is supposed to end with bad weather."

Geraldine "Gus" Moritz, captain of the women's swimming team, won first place in the 25 yd. free style and the 25 yd. butterfly in a tri-meet with West Virginia State and West Virginia Tech held Feb. 20.

Placing second for Marshall in the 100 yd. freestyle relay were Miss Moritz, Joyce Neal, Sandra Brady, and Nancy Byard.

Final score for the meet was Marshall 17, West Virginia Tech 16, and West Virginia State 15.

CIPs Merge To Form Action, Progress Group

Representatives of the Civic Interest Progressives met in Charleston Saturday with other student civil rights leaders and formed a statewide coalition of student organizations. The new organization will be known as SNAP (Students Now for Action and Progress).

SNAP will be concerned with civil rights, education, poverty, and peace. It was formed by students from Marshall, West Virginia State, Bluefield State and Concord Colleges.

According to a statement issued by Pat Austin, Cedar Grove senior and acting chairman of the group, and Rufus Newlin, civil rights leader at West Virginia State, the organization was formed to "bring about meaningful changes in the existing political, social, and economic conditions." The methods to be used by the group shall be those of "research, negotiation, and direct action," the statement continued.

The program includes: State civil rights legislation with the establishment of a Fair Employment Practices Commission; Desegregation of the state school system; open neighborhoods in regard to housing; integration of all hospital facilities and staffs; academic freedom for both students and professors; establishment of a statewide tutorial service and system of free adult education; organizing self-help programs with the people in poverty stricken areas.

Concerning peace, the statement read, "Realizing that war cannot win peace, but only annihilate mankind, we strongly advocate the settlement of national and international problems through non-violence, and peaceful negotiations."

Saturday, two representatives from each college organization will meet at West Virginia State to draw up a constitution for SNAP.

To Replace Main Annex?

THE SEVEN-STORY classroom and office building to be built on campus is shown above as it will be connected to the main building. Bids will be opened March 18, 1965. This part of Marshall's expansion program will cost an approximate $3.7 million.

'Robe' Establishes Woody Scholarship

The Robe, men's leadership and brotherhood honorary, is in the process of establishing a scholarship to be given to an outstanding high school graduate, reflecting the character of Pat Woody. The scholarship will be granted on basis of character, scholarship, leadership and outstanding athletic ability.

Members of the honorary hope that each student on campus will contribute a $1 to this endowment through the Marshall Foundation.

ROTC Unit Plans Trip To New York

The ROTC Drum and Bugle Corps is planning a trip to the New York World's Fair.

The National ROTC Band Association, of which the corps is a member, has scheduled a competition there May 7-8. ROTC Drum and Bugle Corps from many universities will compete and be judged on appearance, marching proficiency, and musical ability.

It is anticipated that the corps will depart from Huntington May 5, arriving May 6 at Fort Totten, N. Y., about five miles from the fair. During its visit the corps will be quartered and fed at Fort Totten. May 7 will be a day of sightseeing at the fair and May 8 will be the day of competition. Immediately following the competition, the corps will return to Huntington.

BOOK REVIEWS PUBLISHED

The Jan. 31 issue of the Charleston Sunday Gazette-Mail include book reviews by two Marshall professors. Dr. Ronald G. Rollins, assistant professor of English, reviewed Saul Bellow's "Herzog" and Dr. Edwin A. Cubby, chairman of the Social Studies Department reviewed Charles Graves' "Leather Armchairs: The Book of London Clubs."

GUIDES NEEDED

Applications for guides for summer orientation are being accepted until March 9, according to Huntington sophomore David Frost, co-coordinator of the "New Student Orientation." All students are invited to apply in the Dean of Men's office for positions as guides and for planning and coordinating positions.
