'Incident' Statement Is Issued

A statement concerning the March 13 Negro band-fraternity incident that resulted in the suspension of two Marshall students and social probation for one year for Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity was recently submitted to the University Committee on Human Relations by its investigating subcommittee.

The following is the text of the statement:

"The subcommittee recommends that it would be best not to treat the matter as a racial incident. The evidence is not sufficient to make such a conclusion and if we adhere strictly to the rules of empirical proof neither can we conclude that it was not a racially provoked act.

"As Dr. Dierks (The Rev. Elmer Dierks, acting director of the Campus Christian Center and subcommittee member) has pointed out 'We should get at the racial problem on this campus but we should not use this as a means of getting at the problem. We must approach the problem on the basis of the principle that discrimination and prejudice have no place in American society.'

"The committee feels strongly that discrimination and prejudice do exist on the campus at Marshall. Social cleavage between Negroes and whites continues to exist on the college campus throughout the United States.

Dr. Smith Lauds Leadership Camp, Urges Frank Discussion Of Issues

This has been one of our best leadership camps. I wish to commend the chairman of the planning committee, Jim Reynolds and his associates, for providing us recreation, information, inspiration, discussion and challenge. I am grateful to the members of the administration and the faculty who have participated as speakers, consultants and observers.

Possibly the strongest impact that this weekend has had on me is the great need for us to enlarge and strengthen all avenues of communication on our campus. And this includes better communication between Greeks and non-Greeks, between faculty, administration and students, between student government and the administrative cabinet and between the academic community and the larger community outside the University.

One of the weaknesses of all former leadership camps was the lack of implementation of the ideas, suggestions and conclusions developed by the camp participants. Although the previous camps made some real contributions to the life of our University, most of the potential values were lost or forgotten after we returned to the busy day-to-day concerns and activities in which all of us are involved.

So that this should not happen again upon our return to Huntington, I am proposing two objectives in which all of us can and should become active participants.

The first objective is in the area of academic involvement. We have discussed quite thoroughly the several aspects of the academic community. Much of this discussion has been centered around the quality of teaching and learning on our campus. There has been much criticism of the quality of some of the teaching that is being done in our classrooms.

I propose, therefore, that we make a real effort to improve (Continued on Page 5)

Senate Defeats Discrimination Motion; Ratifies Appointments

By LLOYD D. LEWIS
Staff Reporter

A motion setting up a special committee to conduct hearings on University drink policy and a resolution concerned with campus racial discrimination were acted upon by the Student Senate in its meeting last Wednesday.

The drinking policy motion, introduced by Huntington junior Sen. George Mills, met with the legislators' approval while Huntington senior Sen. Rick Diehl's resolution — which referred to action taken March 24 — was turned down.

Sen. Mills' motion reads as follows:

"Be it herewith moved that the Senate, noting a vague and unclear position with regard to the drinking of liquor or other intoxicating beverages at social functions sponsored by University regulations, and feeling a need for clear and concise rules and policy to guide the administration, who determines violations; faculty, who serve as chaperones; and students, who attend these functions, that a special committee composed of representatives of the administration, the Senate chairman of social affairs, the commissioner of social affairs, the chairman of the Student Activities Board and the chairman of the Student Conduct and Welfare Board, for the purpose of conducting weekly public hearings, with ample notice of same, on the subject of drinking at social functions, and shall have the power to summon anyone which will aid them in their findings on such a question of general policy, and shall report to the Senate at its second meeting in May of its findings and recommendations."

In a previous resolution by Sen. Diehl, the Senate would have utilized "all its influence" to eliminate racial segregation and discrimination on Marshall's campus. This was defeated two weeks ago, however.

Diehl then offered the following resolution at last week's session:

"Be it herewith resolved that although the Senate is statedly opposed to all racial and ethnic discrimination which may or may not produce segregation, the Senate believes that it is not the Student Government's responsibility to take any action to eliminate existing discrimination at Marshall University."

This measure was also defeated.

Other business conducted at the Student Senate meeting last Wednesday included passage of a resolution regarding the "possibility of acquiring new Greek social organizations" on campus. Also approved were a motion recommending that South Hall be renamed in honor of former Marshall coach Cam Henderson and seven appointments made by President Steve Goodman, Huntington junior.

Sen. David Frost, Huntington sophomore, proposed that the Senate "form a special committee to investigate the possibility of acquiring new Greek social organizations in order to keep pace with the University's growing enrollment." Approval was overwhelming.

George Mills, Huntington junior senator, asked the legislators to sanction his recommendation to rename South Hall (formerly Residence Hall for Men) for former Marshall coach Cam Henderson "in order to call to the mind of students, alumni, and all who shall visit this campus the ideals for which this man stood in addition to this contribution to basketball and athletics." The resolution, which was to be referred to the University administration, was approved unanimously.

These appointments by President Goodman were ratified by the Senate:

Also, Vice President Carolyn Fleming, Huntington junior, announced that Director of Placement Robert P. Alexander has again accepted the post of Senate adviser. He served in this capacity last year.

A group from the national headquarters of Moral Rearmament showed a movie about their deceased leader Peter Howard, "Tomorrow Will Be Too Late," before the session began.

115 Hear Speakers Discuss Leadership

By DIANNE MELROSE
Staff Reporter

Approximately 115 Marshall University students, faculty, and administration attended the 1965 Student Government Leadership Seminar which was held at Jackson's Mill last weekend.

"Marshall University — An Academic Community?" was the theme of this year's workshop. It was studied through speeches given by campus student leaders, administration members, and in discussion groups.

In a speech Saturday, Dr. Harold E. Walker, vice-president of academic affairs, stated that "the academic community arises when the citizens are learning the intellectual framework and techniques necessary to a LIFE of learning. Education is meant to free men — from class, race, time, place, background, family, even nation, FOR THE PURPOSE of understanding and taking part in the task of being human and forming a world community."

He suggested that the academic community has two aspects: one genuine, one artificial.

"The faculty of the university," he said, is one of those vital, real, genuine aspects. The faculty of the dynamic, healthy, positive, intellectual community, plays a crucial role in developing a unifying purpose for a university. It should have an open mind; and be free of dogmatism, or rejection of those who differ, and of rigidity. The faculty also needs to be aware that the academic community does not exist as an end in itself; it exists to serve. Its faculty must become involved in the "outside" world.

"The qualities in a faculty must also be found in the student body. The open-mindedness, the freedom from rigidity and dogmatism, the concern for creativeness, the involvement in "the world," the scholarship and the imagination, the spirit of freedom of inquiry — all of these are crucial student, as well as faculty, qualities.

"A third genuine aspect of the academic community is the curriculum. An integrated curriculum encompassing a solid core of our present knowledge in the humanities, the physical and biological sciences, the arts, etc., is crucial. The academic community needs a curriculum that offers contrasting views, and the opportunity to evaluate, to reflect, and to form one's own views out of one's own experience.

"A fourth genuine aspect of the academic community is the university administration. A vital intellectual life is possible only with the guidance of systematic, rational, and thoughtful university administrators. Their encouragement of an atmosphere of freedom within a university is a good guarantee of a productive, responsible academic community."

In a speech by Dr. Samuel Habel, professor of sociology, concerning the subject "The Academic Community: Achievement" he stated that "an opportunity to develop leadership qualifications is a decided privilege of membership in the academic community."

"To develop these characteristics is an important facet of achievement," he said. "There are, as Max Weber indicates, characteristic leaders, but in a mass society, a bureaucratic society, the trained executive type of leader is increasingly demanded and the academic community alone can provide these.

"There are four categories of students on our college campuses. They are: (1) The ones who never discover why they are there, who they are, where they are going. The 'quest for identity,' the answering of the basic human question 'Who am I?' is for them a wholly futile pursuit. (2) Those students who live primarily in a 'fantasy' world and never come to grips with reality. (3) The students who are obsessed with 'living it up' in the present with no awareness of consequences in the future. (4) The students dedicated to achievement — achievement in its fullest meaning. In study, social activities, leadership roles they are motivated to . . . their best performance. These students are aware that (a) habits of work formed in college days become fixed patterns of response for future years, (b) the rewards for top performance are always great, (c) that there is an abiding satisfaction in doing one's best which goes beyond external rewards and becomes an end in itself."

Steve Goodman, newly elected student government president, compared the student government to a forest in a speech Sunday.

"You as an individual are the main trunk of the tree — the backbone of student government," he said. "You must be capable of supporting your programs. You must have the fiber of determination to do things, not just say things. Words alone will never hold up a branch or government. Your words must be coupled with action. . .

"The roots of the student government are the students . . . We must have student support for our programs and we must reflect the ideas of the students. After all, we are their representatives. This is their student government. . .

"As leaders we must be responsible in our actions. So let us be a student government that can stand tall and straight. . ."

JOHN E. BURKE

Student Gains Assistantship

John E. Burke, January graduate of Huntington, has been awarded a graduate assistantship to Ohio University, announced Dr. Claude Kantner, director of Ohio University's College of Fine Arts.

The assistantship, with a stipend of $2,200 plus waiver of tuition and fees, is in the area of radio-TV. Burke plans to begin the assistantship in the fall.

Based on scholarship and achievement in his major, the assistantship will enable Burke to work toward a master of fine arts degree.

While a student at Marshall, Burke appeared in the theatre production of "Hamlet," worked on WMUL and at WSAZ-TV.

Elected to "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges," Burke plans to teach "Fundamentals of Speech" and work in TV production at Ohio University under the terms of assistantship.

He and his wife, the former Mary Ann Lindsey, are residing at 1034 7th St.

Letters To The Editor

(Editor's Note: The Parthenon welcomes letters to the editor. The Parthenon editors reserve the right to edit letters in accordance with the West Virginia laws of libel, good taste and space available.)

Dear Editor:

Being a member of a Greek organization on this campus, I was greatly irritated that such defamatory remarks were made against the Greek system by one who quite obviously does not have the slightest conception of the system itself, its principles, or its purposes.

It is indeed very difficult to understand how anyone who thinks that the sole purposes of Greek organizations are to build Homecoming floats and perform various civic and campus service projects can actually claim to have made an honest appraisal of the Greek system and be so free with his erroneous accusations.

It is easy for someone unaffiliated with an organization to sit on the sidelines and criticize every imperfection of that organization, but it is much more difficult to actually participate in the organization and do your best in attempting to eliminate any imperfections that may exist in the organization.

The purpose of every Greek organization is to provide students with an opportunity to learn to understand other people which in turn aids the individual in understanding himself. Each member of a Greek organization accepts obligations and commitments to ideals and the overwhelming majority of Greeks live up to these obligations and commitments to the best of their ability. Fraternities and sororities provide students with numerous opportunities to put these ideals into practice through accepting one of the many leadership positions which are available in these self-organized and self-sustaining organizations. The practical experience accrued in these leadership positions is an invaluable asset in that it is an excellent method in teaching a student to learn to accept responsibility.

The Greek system has come under heavy criticism because of a few incidents involving Greeks or occurring at an event sponsored by a Greek organization. No one has bothered to look a little further into the matter and notice that these incidents are not only extremely rare but also that on each occasion the Greek organization has accepted full responsibility and has taken definite measures in an attempt to preclude further incidents of this nature.

The Greeks sponsor more than 500 social functions a year, of which the overwhelming majority are well organized and well supervised. These events are entirely organized by the students themselves and they assume full responsibility for these functions. I think these students should be commended rather than reprimanded simply because of the actions of a few who have acted in an irresponsible manner.

The only manner by which Marshall University or any university can achieve progress is for the students who comprise that university to take an active interest in every aspect of college life. The only way to achieve this is to give the students more opportunities to obtain experience in handling their own affairs, in learning how to live, which is the true purpose of a college education. This will not be done by removing a system which provides countless opportunities for students to acquire such experience.

Without Greek participation there would be many student activities on this campus that would have to be canceled or greatly curtailed because of lack of student support. Non-Greeks who participate in campus activities are few as compared with the number of Greeks who are willing to expend the necessary amount of time and energy to make these activities a success. The Greeks through their excellent participation in the aforementioned activities have demonstrated that they stand against the one factor that precludes progress by any university, that factor being general indifference and apathy on the part of the students.

I am extremely proud to be a member of a Greek organization and I do not apologize to anyone for being one. I would be the first to recognize that our system is not infallible but I ask you to name me just one system that is. The charges made against the Greek system are ridiculous on two counts: (1) they do not even apply to the majority of students comprising the Greek system; and (2) they could be just as easily applied to independent students who are in many cases just as, if not more, guilty than the "sinful" Greeks.

We Greeks are proud of our system, we are proud of the caliber of individuals which comprise our system, we are proud of our record on this campus. We are also more than willing to accept constructive criticism provided that it is not based on incomplete information or illogical emotionalism.

Dear Editor,
With the price of Mad up a nickel, I cannot afford to buy it. My fears of missing this type of "literature" were relieved when I read a letter in your column (April 2, 1965).

I enjoyed the letter. It was refreshing answering all of the questions. (Although my vocabulary is weak, Mr. Webster and I did manage to struggle through the letter).

My thanks to the signer of the letter for setting me straight about the Greeks. (Nothing like the facts.) I was all for "parading" the Greeks into quicksand. What kind of people are they? I ask these questions attempting to find the answer. Pardon me for asking, but:

1.) Should not the title of the letter have been Marshall University Greek System versus race, religion, moral laxity, selfishness, intellectual stagnation, and failure to change?

2.) Were not the following

ro colleges. They feel they are denied opportunities for full participation and acceptance in the extra-curricular college programs of predominantly white schools. For example, they have far less opportunity to join fraternities and sororities, to find roles in dramatic productions, to become leaders or participants in the various campus organizations, to have a choice of dates, etc.

"This condition, without doubt, leads to alienation and loneliness which in turn very likely creates feelings of inferiority, resentment, and hostility. And the fact that this condition exists suggests that it may be due to patterns of prejudiced behavior and prejudiced attitudes on the campus.

"This committee urges, therefore, that the University Committee on Human Relations give fuller recognition to this problem. And toward that end we propose that as a beginning, all sorority and fraternity presidents be invited to attend the next meeting of the University Committee on Human Relations so that together we may explore the ways and means of fully integrating Negro students into the extra-curricular and social programs of the University."

This statement was published in Friday's Faculty Bulletin. Presidents of the fraternity met with the committee last Wednesday. Sorority presidents were scheduled to meet with the committee yesterday.

omitted due to lack of space? Love, Death, Viet Nam situation and coin shortage.

3.) Was the last Negro to rush a fraternity accepted?

4.) Do most fraternities have religious affiliations?

5.) Are the Greeks the only ones that lie, drink and steal? (Is it not a sociological fact that fraternity men have a better record, concerning these issues, than the average person?)

6.) Are Greek senators really selfish? (Or are they just tired of trying to help people who do not want help?)

7.) Is the Greek scholastic average higher than the non-Greek average?

8.) How should the Greek system change? (Should they all become agnostics?)

9.) Do President Stewart H. Smith and Dean John Shay make decisions without Greek affirmation? (To my disappointment via a poll, I found that neither man has contacted any Greek organization on campus requesting permission to make a decision for at least five years. They had better be careful.)

10.) Why do Greeks still wear white bucks and denounce evolution?

11.) Do you think that about six of the changes were exaggerated?

12.) Why do social fraternities activate only 56 per cent of their pledges? Is this discrimination? If one of the non-activated pledges had been a Negro would this have been racial discrimination?

13.) Why did the signer of the letter pick only the Greek system to "charge"? Why not Christianity in the western world or democracy?

14.) Should not this letter and the letter of April 2, 1965, be written with more facts and less personal feeling?

Pardon me for asking.

ROY HUFFMAN,
Paden City, senior

Dear Editor:

Poor communications has been a problem on Marshall's campus for many years. It is a problem on which past student government administrations have worked and were unable to solve, and it remains unsolved today.

I would like to contend, however, that it is the students' fault. I am sick of the conventional statement, "I didn't know about it." If the leaders (?) of the various organizations on campus would make full use of the facilities available to them, they would know and would be able to relay the information to their members.

I am primarily speaking of the mailboxes in Old Main. Just take a look at them some day. There are some that are simply overflowing and contain information dating back to 1963. This is rather hard for one to believe; but I was speaking to the president of one of the large organizations on campus, and she did not know that her organization had a mailbox in Old Main.

I feel that when the Student Government goes to the expense and trouble to put information in these mailboxes, that the leaders of the organizations should read it and be sure their members know about it.

Dear Editor:

I certainly hope that Gerald Sigmon, author of last Friday's letter to the editor, plans to do graduate work. In reading his letter, I noted that he was a senior and I feel that he is in dire need of at least one course in research and evaluation. If he will not have such an opportunity, I hope that his major field is one of the arts because he certainly has a "creative mind."

In order to enlighten him of some of the true facts and intrinsic values of the Greek system, I will be glad to offer my assistance in this endeavor.

His letter shows that there is a need of more knowledge between Greeks and non-Greeks. As a Greek, I am sure that true knowledge and real understanding can be brought about in a friendly atmosphere with efforts from both sides. I am offering, at his convenience, to discuss this matter over a cup of coffee in a friendly atmosphere which can be created by irresponsible charges without understanding.

Golfers Suffer Setbacks; Track Squad Handed Loss

Coach Buddy Graham reported today that he was very pleased with his golf team thus far even though they did suffer their first two losses this weekend.

After starting the season off with a win the Big Green linksters followed up by downing the University of Dayton last Friday by the score of 24-3. The medalist for Friday's match was Dick Shepard, Huntington sophomore, who fired a 75.

On Saturday the team moved on to Columbus, Ohio, for a triangular match with Ohio State and Bowling Green. In the first match with Ohio State the Thundering Herd was whacked by the score of 28-8. Following this Bowling Green edged out a victory by the score of 19-17.

Poor putting was the result of the bad day along with soggy greens and windy weather. Marshall's top round was turned in by Pete Donald, Huntington sophomore, who fired the only round under 80. His score was 79. Donald was also the only golfer to come out victorious in more matches than he lost.

Others who fared well in Saturday's matches were Dave Herndon, Stollings junior, who won two matches against two losses and Joe Feaganes, Huntington junior, who won one and tied the former Ohio junior champion, Alex Antonio.

The Big Green's next match will be this Saturday when the powerful University of Toledo golf team travels to Huntington for an afternoon match. "With the match slated on our own home course," stated Graham, "and our players doing as well as they have been, we should have a very good match Saturday."

A match with Dayton previously postponed until Tuesday, has been reset for May 4, as a part of a triangular match with Morehead.

Marshall's track team did not gain a place in Saturday's University of Kentucky Relays at Lexington, but Coach Bob McCollins was satisfied with his team's performance. "I thought that we did rather well for our first meet especially when you consider the competition that we were facing", commented McCollins.

The Big Green thinclads were pitted against some of the best athletes in the country as well as a few foreign entries. In all 13 meet records were established despite low temperatures and a stiff wind.

Marshall's best performance was turned in by junior Arthur Miller who advanced as far as the semi-finals in the 120 yard high hurdles.

Two MU thinclads entered events which are not too common to local track fans. George Hicks took part in the triple jump and got off one jump of around 43 feet but it did not count because he fouled. Distance runner Gary Prater ran in the rugged 3000-yard steeple chase event.

Bob Bloom, who was perhaps the Big Green's top hope for a place in the meet, was forced to set out due to a pulled muscle which has bothered him this spring.

Marshall's next meet is this Saturday at the Ohio University Relays in Athens.

SCRIMMAGE SET

Marshall's football Thundering Herd will hold its first regulation scrimmage tomorrow night in Barboursville on Kings Field. The game will start at 7:30 p.m. and tickets are priced at 50 cents students and $1 adults. Barboursville Booster Club is sponsoring the game.

Big Green 9 To Face Kent

The baseball team will leave tomorrow for Kent State where they will play Friday and Saturday.

The Big Green was to play their first home stand yesterday in a double-header with Rio Grande College.

Due to the lack of hitting in their opening game loss to Marietta College last Thursday, coach Alvis Brown has inserted two new boys into the line-up. They are Carl Nelson, Peekskill, N. Y. sophomore, at second base and Lowell Leach, Lorado senior, in right field.

Coach Brown said that these boys had been hitting the ball real well in practice sessions and would now get their chance to do the same in a regular game.

Marshall lost to a veteran Marietta, Ohio, ball club in Marietta, 4-1.

Marietta's Mike Wsight, a left-hander, limited the Big Green to two singles both by first baseman Tom Langfitt, Dunns Station, Pa. junior. Langfitt, besides getting the only hits for the Big Green, also scored the only run.

Charles Newton, Point Pleasant senior righthander, pitched the first four innings for Marshall and was credited with the loss.

Lefty John Mullins, East Bank junior, took over after Newton and pitched the last four innings for the Big Green. He also gave up two earned runs in the four innings he pitched as did Newton.

Marietta all but sewed up the game in the first inning when they scored two earned runs after two men were out. Two singles mixed around a hard double plated the two runs for Marietta.

The final statistics for the varsity and freshman basketball teams were released this past weekend showing a brighter future in the Big Green basketball circle.

Final averages showed the varsity with an 87.0 average against a very high 93.2 for their opponents. The team was led this past season by Tom Langfitt, Little Washington, Pa. junior, who was named to the MAC All Conference team with an average of 22 points a game. Second in scoring and also named to the all-star team was Bill Francis, Wheeling senior, who averaged 19.3.

The 87 point per game average the team ended the season with was one of the tops in the country among major colleges. The Big Green ranked unofficially fifteenth in the nation in offense during the past season.

The team's rebounding was led by George Hicks, Charleston junior. The 6 feet 4 inch jumping jack pulled down 235 rebounds this season for an average of 9.8. Second in this category was Jerry Katz, Miami, Fla. junior, who grabbed 198 rebounds for a 8.3 average.

In field goal and foul shooting percentages Langfitt prevailed again. The lanky guard led the players in field goals making 216 out of 476 for a percentage of .44. In foul shooting he hit on 77 of 98 shots for a .786 percentage.

The undefeated Little Green was led this year by Orville Stepp, six foot guard from Inez, Ky. with an average of 29 points a game. Following him was 6-7 forward George Stone with an average of 20.2. Stone is from Covington, Ky. and is considered one of the best prospects on the team. Joe Dawson of Huntington was next with a 19.8 average and Bob Redd of Louisville, Ky. was fourth with an average of 19.1.

The freshmen team's rebounding was fantastic this year as the team pulled down 1231 to their opponents 932. They were led by Stone who pulled down 267 for a 14 point average and Redd who in only 14 games grabbed 235 for a marvelous average of 17 per game.

Senior Test Is Set Saturday

All seniors, or those students with 90 semester hours or more, will be required to take a test Saturday, from 8 until 12 a.m.

The test is being given in cooperation with the Educational Testing Service of Princeton, New Jersey and is a part of the graduate record examination made available from that organization. It is a research study related to, but not an actual part of the graduate record examination. It does not replace any regular graduate examination and is given without fee.

All senior students with names beginning with the letters A-M will report to the Science Auditorium and those students with last names ranging from N-Z will report to room 206 of Old Main.

Results from the test will be reported to each student taking the test, as well as being made available to the University. They will not be sent to any other school.

Further information concerning the test may be acquired in the office of the dean of Arts and Sciences.

Governor Will Address Grads

Gov. Hulttt C. Smith will give the address at Marshall's Commencement ceremonies May 30. Dr. Elmer Dierks, acting director of the Campus Christian Center, will deliver the Baccalaureate sermon.

Inaugurated on Jan. 18, 1965 at the state Capitol, Gov. Smith brought to his post a wide range of experience in business, education and civic and governmental affairs.

He attended Beckley public schools, Beckley College and, in 1938, graduated with honors from the Wharton School of Finance and Commerce at the University of Pennsylvania.

Former Gov. W. W. Barron selected Gov. Smith as first commissioner of the West Virginia Department of Commerce in 1961. Gov. Smith resigned in 1963 to enter the gubernatorial race.

Dr. Elmer Dierks came to Marshall in August, 1963, and serves as director of the Campus Christian Center while Rev. Lander Beal is on leave of absence.

Dr. Dierks was awarded the A.B. degree in 1924 from Linfield College in Oregon and the honorary Doctor of Divinity degree in 1956. He received theological training at Colgate-Rochester Divinity School in New York.

In addition to his pastoral duties, he has served in many capacities at state and national levels, including membership on the National Advisory Committee of the recent "Christian Higher Education Challenge" campaign and chairmanship of the Iowa-Nebraska Board of Missionary Cooperation.

Fund Honoring Woody Begins

The Robe, men's honorary, today kicks off a campaign to establish a Pat Woody Memorial Fund in honor of the Marshall football star who died last February 13.

"This scholarship will be an enduring tribute to Pat in that it will bring more sports-minded young men of his high calibre to Marshall," said Cottrill.

Leadership Camp Praised; Frank Discussions Urged

the quality of teaching and learning.

One of the best ways to achieve this goal, I believe, is to initiate faculty-student forums in the near future where both the members of the faculty and the students can engage in frank discussions of the issues involved.

I am not satisfied with our student counseling program or with the faculty-adviser system. I am not satisfied with the levels of academic achievement of many of our students and social groups.

I am not satisfied with registration procedures or with the Freshman Week program. Nor am I satisfied with student interest in our cultural and educational programs. I am not satisfied with the lack of personal concern on the part of some members of the faculty in student academic and personal problems. I am not satisfied with the lack of academic honesty of some of our students.

All of these issues and others can and should be aired at these faculty-student forums.

The second objective which all of us must strive to attain is in the area of human and social relations.

We are all aware of the fast-moving changes taking place in the world around us. The academic community should lead rather than follow in effecting these needed changes.

The day of the white privileged, skilled, and intellectual-professional society and the Negro menial, unskilled and uneducated society is rapidly coming to an end.

The first step in the attainment of human and civil rights by racial and religious minorities has been taken.

Most American citizens can now ride on unsegregated buses, trains and airplanes. They can enjoy the use of hotels, motels, restaurants and schools. Solid progress is being made in gaining the right to vote. More employment opportunities are being opened daily.

These rights have been achieved by law. Public demonstrations have helped prod the unwilling to action.

Now we face the second step and the more difficult one in the struggle of minorities for equality. This step will be more difficult because it is outside the realm of legal procedures and legal compulsion.

This is the area of social acceptance, acceptance on an equal basis in churches, lodges, service clubs, fraternities, sororities and like organizations.

Here we need attitudes more than we need machinery. Changing attitudes and removing prejudices, as we all know, are difficult to accomplish calling, issuing ultimatums, passing resolutions or by engaging in sit-ins, lie-ins or picketing.

This cannot be done by name-

It can be accomplished only in an atmosphere of friendliness. It can be done as it was at this Leadership Camp where members of all races joined in recreational and discussion programs on a friendly and equal basis.

Marshall University needs students like Hal Greer and others who won the esteem of their fellow students through friendly associations, good academic work and excellence in sports and campus activities. When Hal Greer left the basketball court at Memorial Field House on the night of the last game he played, 7,000 people rose and applauded him for five minutes. They did not applaud him only for his basketball prowess but they applauded him for the great contribution that he had made as an undergraduate student to the life of this University.

During the coming year I expect to see the fraternities and sororities at Marshall open their doors to all students enrolled at our University. I do not ask you to pledge a student because he is a Negro. What I ask is that you do not reject a student because of his race. All students, regardless of color, should be accepted on the basis of individual merit and potential.

Last week in Chicago the dean of a Midwestern college told me with apparent satisfaction that a fraternity on his campus had just pledged a Negro. While this act on the part of the fraternity was commendable, it represents token integration which falls far short of meeting full responsibility in this area.

Some of you at this leadership camp have expressed dissatisfaction over what you feel is the reluctance of the University administration to accord you full academic freedom. You have chafed because, in your opinion, you are not treated as adults.

Here is your opportunity to behave like adults by assuming responsibility in helping remove the islands of segregation that exist on our campus. If we are to achieve better human and social relations on our campus, you will have to take some initiative and provide some leadership and demonstrate some real maturity in this effort.

Last Friday's Parthenon contained a letter written by a student in which some serious questions were raised about the Greek system at Marshall. Mr. Gerald Sigmon accused the system of intellectual stagnation, of selfishness, or moral laxity, of racial bias and of religious hypocrisy. This article struck hard at all who hold memberships in Greek organizations including me.

Mr. Sigmon's challenge should not be ignored. I recommend that someone in this assembly take the initiative to set up a forum during this week where these issues and accusations can be discussed openly. Invite Mr. Sigmon to present his case and have Ken Cohen, president of the Interfraternity Council or some other Greek spokesman present the case for the Greeks. General discussion should follow these two presentations.

This subject is timely. Campus interest in the issue is high. If we are to be a dynamic academic community, issues like this must be discussed.

You and I know that some of our Greek organizations often do silly things that bring ridicule and discredit not only upon themselves but also upon the University.

I ask you, the more mature and responsible members of our fraternities, why do you let three or four "hell-raisers" discredit you? When the conduct of a few members is not compatible with your stated ideals and purposes, you should separate them from your organization. It will take some courage to do this but your chapter will be stronger and better for it.

In spite of some pressure to abolish Greek organizations, I am not presently inclined to do so.

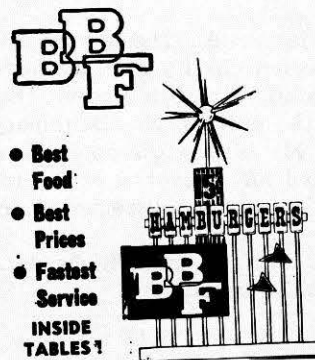

Fraternities and sororities have much about them that is bad and these matters were fully described in Mr. Sigmon's letter but they also have enough good in them to save them.

I am willing to work with you to improve and strengthen the Greek system but you must reform.

All human institutions, from time to time, need reform. The Republican Party is now engaged in making reforms. Major religions have gone through periods of reformation. Labor unions and other similar organizations undergo reforms as the need arises.

Greek organizations have not kept up with human and social progress. The same can be said of many other organizations. Closed organizations cannot survive in an open society.

As I said earlier, we are living in a new day and a new era. An era when the blessings of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness can no longer be denied any American citizen.

I look to your generation to make very necessary and very important social contributions. Whether your generation will be better or worse citizens than my generation remains to be seen. The opportunity to be better is yours.

You will be better educated, more sophisticated and more versatile than any other past generation of American youth. The question is whether you will be more discerning, more unselfish, more idealistic and more high-principled.

I hope you will give more than lip-service to human problems.

I hope you will not be indifferent and apathetic to moral and ethical values but that you will explore honestly, and intensely, the potentialities of human beings wherever they are and with candor and courage help your fellow man live more meaningfully in a world where equality of opportunity and of self-realization will no longer be an illusion but an attainable goal for all.

By LLOYD D. LEWIS
Exchange Editor

A controversy over interpretation of the policy governing "The Xavier News" (Xavier University, Cincinnati, Ohio) has resulted in the ouster of the paper's editor-in-chief.

Terrance J. Wallace, editor for less than a month, was relieved of his post two weeks ago following a hearing before the school's Student Review Board and the Student Welfare Committee.

The last issue of "The Xavier News" which Wallace edited — March 5 — was suppressed by the university administration on the grounds that Article 10 of the News guidelines had been violated.

Article 10 says, "The editor-in-chief and his major staff assistants will be full-time undergraduate students in good standing. The editor-in-chief will serve for one year, retiring at the end of the first semester, at which time he will retire from all active participation on the News staff."

At the March 11 hearing Wallace admitted to the Student Review Board that former editors Robert Ryan and Hugh Gardiner assisted him to write and lay out the March 5 edition of the News. He maintained, however, that the clause "active participation" in Article 10 of the guidelines was not clearly defined.

At an earlier meeting Wallace had requested, through the Student Review Board, for a ruling on this article, along with the request that the outgoing editor be allowed to remain on the staff. The Board, after hearing his case, requested an official interpretation of Article 10 and also proposed that he be reviewed and possibly amended.

While the Student Welfare Committee was reviewing the case, Editor Wallace was instructed not allow either Ryan or Gardiner to assist him on the newspaper. Wallace consented.

However, when he was assembling the March 5 issue, Wallace stated that he found himself short of time and allowed Ryan to collaborate with him in writing the lead story. Ryan's column, "Under the Masthead," was run blank in the same issue, but Ryan's name appeared in a single line on page seven of that issue beneath a movie advertisement. The line read, "Executive Editor . . . Robert A. Ryan, Jr., '65." For these reasons the issue was suppressed.

Upon hearing Wallace's testimony and viewing the evidence, the Student Review Board recommended that he be told to resign his post as editor. The board also suggested that its findings be made public, since it believed that the student body had the right to know the reasons for the suppression of the student newspaper.

Commenting on his removal, Wallace said, "The administration showed a complete lack of Christian charity and gratitude to myself and other members of my staff. Although I admit that I violated the policy statement, still, the university's disciplinary action seems to be out of proportion. My biggest disappointment was that my appeal (in which he asked for a reversal of the removal decision) was cast aside and completely disregarded by the University."

Wallace's successor is a bearded, ex-Navy man, Richard L. Grunpenhoff, who is captioned "journalist-crusader."

Senators Investigate The Parthenon

TWO MEMBERS OF a Senate committee investigating The Parthenon conferred with the editors of the newspaper Thursday. In the foreground is Kay Sage, editor-in-chief of The Parthenon, and at right is Danie Stewart, a member of the committee. The committee is investigating the positions and policies of The Parthenon in three specific areas: editorial policy, censorship, and letters to the editor.
