They'd Score A Bulls-Eye In Any Match

Pleasant junior, and Jane Woodburn, Wheeling freshman. The smiling fellow in the center is Sergeant Baker. The team will practice this year and plans to enter rifle competition next year.

Marshall Newman Club Plays Host To Ohio Valley Province Conclave

By RENO UNGER
Staff Reporter

Approximately 450 delegates will gather in the Frederick Hotel today for the 1965 convention of the Ohio Valley Province of the National Newman Club Federation.

The Newman Club was founded to foster the religious growth of Catholic college students in this country who do not attend church institutions. The Ohio Valley Province contains the clubs in the states of West Virginia, Kentucky, Ohio and Indiana and is the largest and most active of the territorial sections.

The 1964 convention, hosted by the Marshall Newman Club, will mark the first time that a regional convention has been held in West Virginia.

The opening of registration and the meeting of the province executive committee meeting will start at 3 p. m. today. From 8 to 10 p. m. the Cumberland Singers, The Princeton Three and Chris Yarian will entertain the conventioners with a hootenanny in the ballroom.

The Most Rev. Joseph H. Hodges, bishop of Wheeling, will deliver the keynote address from 10:30 to 11:30 p. m. Ten minutes later the nominations of province officers begin. Newmanites then go to a regional caucus, the time of which is listed in the schedule as 12:30 p. m.

The conventioners may then lounge until 6:30 a. m. Saturday, when it is rise and shine time for breakfast. Breakfast and registrations end at 8 a. m. and the election of province officers begins.

Immediately following the election, the province workshops begin. These are lecture and discussion periods in which newly elected club officers can discuss their ideas for the coming years duties.

At 11:45 Mass will be celebrated at St. Joseph's Church with Bishop Hodges officiating. Lunch hour arrives after mass at 1 p. m.

Cheering Tryouts Announced

Cheerleader practices will begin Monday, according to varsity cheerleader Peggy Shepard. Other practice sessions will be April 21, 22, 23, and 27 at 4 p. m. beside the Music Building.

The final tryout will be on April 28 at 4 p. m. in the men's archery room of the Gullickson Hall. Girls who wish to try out on April 27 must have attended 3 of the 5 practice sessions. Girls attending the practice sessions must wear bermuda shorts or be dressed in the proper attire for cheering so that each practice can be counted toward the number needed for the final tryout.

The judges who will be four faculty members and four students will judge on the basis of four areas. The girls (1) must know one varsity cheer (2) must have made up themselves one cheer which includes a jump, a lunge (half split), and either a forward roll or a cartwheel and (3) the school fight song.

"Six regulars and two alternates will be chosen," Miss Shepard remarked. "Possibly 30 girls will try out. There will be no eliminations until the final tryout. Most of the girls eliminate themselves by not coming to practice."

Dr. Rollins Resigns Post; Succeeded By Dr. Hope

By JERRY BOWLES
Managing Editor

The Honors Seminar has a new coordinator.

Dr. Ben W. Hope, professor of speech, has been named to succeed Dr. Ronald G. Rollins, assistant professor of English, who has resigned effective June 1.

Dr. Rollins had headed the seminar since its inception in the fall of 1962. He plans to devote more time to research and teaching.

In addition to Dr. Hope's duties with the seminar, he will continue his teaching assignments in the Speech Department.

He also will serve as director of the proposed "Vice-President's Seminar" which, if adopted, will go into effect the second semester of the 1964-65 academic year.

OK'd By Committee

Dr. Hope's appointment was approved by the University Honors Committee, headed by Dr. Charles Moffat, professor of history.

"Under Dr. Rollins' competent leadership," Dr. Moffat said, "the Interdisciplinary Honors Seminar has become one of the truly significant academic innovations at Marshall in the past decade."

Four classes have participated thus far in the program which is designed as an intellectual outlet for superior students. Such topics as "The Concept of Freedom," "The Nature and Purpose of Education," "The Theory of Communism," and "The Concept of Man" have been discussed by faculty members, visiting lecturers and students.

The seminar has become the recipient of a $500 a year grant donated by Dr. and Mrs. Francis Scott of Huntington and a $100 stipend from Dr. Joseph Krinsky of Huntington. In addition, several hundred books have been devoted to the seminar library.

Statement Due Soon

Dr. Hope said he hopes to have a statement on next year's programs in "early May."

"The seminar is a challenge and I'm looking forward to getting underway. I am confident that we can continue with all the fine ground work which has already been laid."

Dr. Rollins termed his tenure as seminar coordinator "very rewarding" and predicted rapid expansion of the program. He has applied for both Benedum and Fulbright grants which, he says, will enable him to do research and work on a projected book about Irish playwright Sean O'Casey.

GE Bowl Hopefuls Now Number 8

At a special convocation last Tuesday, eight students were chosen as semi-finalists by eight faculty judges to compete for the final four positions on the GE College Bowl team.

These eight will compete in a live TV show on WSAZ-TV at 5 p. m. April 26. Dr. Elaine Novak, associate professor of speech and team coach, will serve as moderator.

At the end of the program, the four winners, plus one alternate will be announced.

An Editorial

Plans For Homecoming Need More Preparation

(Editor's note: This editorial was researched and written by the Journalism 305 editorial writing class and represents the views of The Parthenon.)

Homecoming, the school year's outstanding event, is in danger of becoming a haphazard, second-rate affair if the problem of the past—failure to use available time—continues.

Most everyone agrees that the Homecoming Commission must be allowed ample time to schedule a game, date, parade activities, a top-name band and a site for the dance, alumni response and a theme. The problem: arrangements are shelved until the last minute and panic takes the place of preparation.

In the past, John Sayre, director of alumni affairs, says he has been unable to present definite plans to the alums soon enough for them to participate.

It is true that the commission's work centers around the game date, selected by the Office of Alumni Affairs. This date is usually selected in March or April. Once this date has been confirmed the commission has a wider choice of dance bands than might be available later in the fall. In other words, prompt action is needed.

A number of schedule conflicts within past years points out the necessity of early preparation for the traditional Homecoming week end.

One thing that could ease the situation would be a more realistic term of office for the Homecoming coordinator. The Student Government Manual calls for a coordinator to be selected by the Student Body President no later than Dec. 1. Why Dec. 1 when the game date cannot be scheduled until at least March or April? This rule has not been followed in the past and points up the fact that the section of the manual dealing with Homecoming needs revision.

In addition, the coordinator is subject to replacement by the incoming president which presents a dual problem: lack of incentive by the temporary coordinator and conflict between the ideas of the old and new coordinators. Why cause this conflict?

The Student Body President, elected in the spring, should make the Homecoming Commission one of his first appointments. This commission should begin functioning immediately and, as a check, report periodically to the Senate.

It is the Senate's responsibility to decide if the term of the coordinator should last until the following April when a new one is appointed, or if his appointment should only last long enough to clear up all the affairs of Homecoming. It is not our position to tell the commission what to do—we only want the best possible Homecoming.

If the commission continues to handle Homecoming in this hit-or-miss manner, the administration may be forced to take it out of student hands.

How's Your Reading Speed? Non-Credit Help Is Offered

By DREMA SUE PERRY
Teachers College Journalist

Approximately 225 students have increased their reading speed and have improved their study habits by attending a speed reading class. The class is being taught by Mrs. Helen Hunter, assistant professor of education.

According to Mrs. Hunter, the main purpose of the class is to improve study skills and reading ability and to learn how to prepare for and take tests. Although most students double their reading speed, speed is only a minor purpose.

Mrs. Hunter feels that speed reading can be valuable, but it is more important for a student to develop good study techniques. Speed reading is not for all types of material and a student must adapt his reading to the material he is studying. However, once a student has improved his general reading skills, such as skimming for main ideas, he usually never goes back to the word-by-word technique.

The course is voluntary and is non-credit. Students may attend class as they see fit. One student returned voluntarily for the second semester. The only requirement before leaving the course is that of taking an evaluation test.

Mrs. Hunter feels that the course would be useful for everyone, especially those students who have trouble concentrating on and completing assignments or who don't know how to organize their material. Sometimes the deans will refer students to the class. Of the students who have been referred by the deans, only one has failed to show improvement. Mrs. Hunter also checks to see how many D letters are sent to her students.

As to the procedure used in class, the first meetings are taken up by lectures and demonstrations; then the students begin working with their own text and reading materials. Some machines are available for student use, but these are used in a limited way. Mrs. Hunter feels that the best way to learn is not by machines, but by one's own natural ability. The students also have access to cubicles where they may work with these machines.

Several students expressed the opinion that they had benefited by taking the class. One student attributed his improvement in English courses to the speed reading technique. Another used speed reading in studying for two mid-term exams and made A's on both.

One of the highest speeds reached by a student has been 1,200 words a minute.

Mrs. Hunter did work in speed reading at the University of Michigan. This is now the second year she has taught the class.

QUESTION: Do you like the scheduled 15-day vacation between semesters or would you rather have a longer Easter (spring) vacation?

Helen Houdyshell, White Sulphur Springs senior:

"I like the 15-day break. It will provide some real free time without the worries of school. This will enable out-of-state people time enough to get home. It also allows the administration enough time to mail out letters."

Henry Parrish, Huntington senior:

"Since I won't be here next year it doesn't make that much difference to me. However, the extended break will work out for the best. It will mean a longer rest from school and a break in the monotony."

Dave Leibold, Wheeling sophomore:

"A longer spring vacation would provide a nicer time in Florida. There's not much point in a 15-day break after having a long Christmas vacation."

Barbara Fillinger, Huntington sophomore:

"I'd rather have extra time for spring vacation. It would mean more time at home and more time to spend on term papers."

UNION ACTIVITIES

The movie slated for the Student Union tonight is "The Girl Can't Help It," starring Tom Ewell, Jayne Mansfield, Edmund O'Brien and Julie London. The movie, which is in cinemascope and color, will start at 7:30 p. m. There will be a mix following.

Dr. Smith Ends Recruiting Trip

President Stewart H. Smith has returned from a faculty recruiting trip to five universities in Michigan, Ohio and Indiana where he interviewed candidates for jobs. Though no definite plans have been made, the credentials have been turned over to the academic deans and chairmen of departments with vacancies in the hope of filling some 30 openings.

Candidates in whom the departments are interested may be invited to the campus for interviews. President Smith noted that there were no candidates interviewed in the fields of sociology, physics, and psychology although vacancies occur in these fields.

Approximately 12 faculty members have resigned and these resignations will be up for approval by the State Board of Education at its meeting May 1. Other positions open include three full-time instructors each for Logan and Williamson branches, seven new positions, and an assistant librarian.

Early this week President Smith met with presidents of two other state colleges in financial discussions with the governor, House and Senate financial committees, and the Board of Public Works.

Peace Corps Worker Gives View Of Bolivia

By NANCY BOB WRIGHT
Teachers' College Journalist

"We had no political trouble and while Bolivia is predominately Catholic, there is freedom of religion. Politically, Bolivia is developing into a relatively stable country," so said Don Rozell, Peace Corps volunteer, one of the visitors to the MU campus last week.

Rozell, who has just returned from Bolivia where he lived in an adobe house for twenty-one months, pointed out some highlights of his stay in an interview with the Parthenon. "I was stationed with two girls in a village of 1,500, two hours drive from Santa Cruz. Our job was community development, getting the people to take an interest in themselves so they would improve their standards of living."

The team accomplished several projects such as starting a health clinic and teacher-aid programs. "It is not to create a job for yourself in working with these people but to train them to carry on. You learn from each other. The hardest part is getting the people to take an interest," Rozell emphasized.

In their spare time the volunteers collected animals. Rozell adopted a pet monkey, one parrot, a deer and a "small jungle cat with spots." Another volunteer had two baby ostriches.

Once Rozell was driving a young Bolivian woman to the hospital to have her baby. They didn't get there in time so while he drove one of the girls on his team delivered the baby in the back of the jeep.

The Bolivians wear western clothes and sandals. Some made sandals out of automobile tires. Horses and cows inhabit the unpaved roads. "They wouldn't move so you just had to drive around them," Rozell explained.

The land is very fertile and good for farming. Rozell was stationed 150 feet above sea level but most of Bolivia is in the Andes. They have two seasons which last six months each, rainy and dry. Semi-tropical vegetation flourished at average temperature of 87 with high and lows of 100 and 50 degrees, respectively.

Rozell, who joined the Peace Corps "to offer my services to another country, learn a new language and study another culture," now plans to do graduate work in political science at San Diego State College, California, as soon as his contract with the Peace Corps ends.

Tri-Sigs Buy Property For New Sorority House

By JON TAYLOR
Staff Reporter

Mrs. Charles Eubank, representative of the Housing Board of Sigma Sigma Sigma Sorority Alumni Incorporated, announced that the Tri-Sigmas have obtained the location for their new sorority house.

The new house will be located at the present site of 1639 Sixth Ave. The location is 130 feet by 200 feet. The corner lot will have a 130-foot front.

"Definite plans for the building of the new house have not yet been made. However, we hope to have it completed sometime next year," said Mrs. Eubank.

Spanish Honorary Will Initiate 15

Fifteen students will be initiated into the Sigma Delta Pi, national Spanish honorary, at 6:30 p.m. today in the Campus Christian Center.

The minimum grade average for membership is a 2.5 overall, and a 3.0 in Spanish. A three-hour class in Spanish literature must have been completed. The student must also have demonstrated an interest in Spanish.

Basically, the new house will be a two-story colonial type home. It will be built to house approximately 40-45 girls.

"This is a great improvement over our present house because we are only able to offer complete facilities for about 20 girls," said Jo Ann Odum, president of Tri-Sigma.

The new house will replace the old Parsons' home that has been at that location since 1871.

Ironically, the original deed for the lot in 1871 required that Parsons build a house with a minimum cost of $4,000. The Tri-Sigmas plan to spend more than $100,000.

One other bit of irony is that the present site of the Parsons' home is very familiar to the sounds and happenings of sorority life.

"There is one thing that we would like to salvage from the old Parsons' home, if possible," said Mrs. Eubank. "There is a circular stairway in the house that was built in Pittsburgh, Pa., and floated down the Ohio River by boat to be built into the original home."

This changing of houses by the Tri-Sigmas was an anticipated one. Due to the future plans of expansion of Marshall University, the location of the present house would be purchased by the school.

"If we expand our present house," said Mrs. Eubank, "the purchase price that Marshall would have to pay would be greater. Actually, we are saving the school money in the long run."

Casual Wear Accents Men's Fashions

By SHERI O'DELL
Staff Reporter

The fashion scene for men this spring will encompass the casual look with traditional styling in clothing.

Suits will be in lighter colors with a fabric of interwoven dacron wool and cotton dominating. Emphasis will also be placed on seersucker, strips and plaids in sportcoats.

In the shirt line pastels and strips in oxford and broad cloth will be "the thing". Nylon parkas with semi-zip fronts will again set the pace in sport clothes.

Shoes will also be in lighter colors with the Scotch grain material prevailing. The sports world will retain its old standby—the tennis shoe.

Belts will be found in alligator and the wide harness leather square buckle. Ties will be found in shantung silk.

The formal wear being modeled is a white dacron and cotton dinner jacket with a black on black print vest. The trousers are the traditional tuxedo type, and the tie is a butterfly bow.

The tan suit is in the traditional natural shoulder of dacron wool and cotton. The shirt is the button-down variety and the tie is made of silk.

The sports outfit consists of cotton oxford cloth bermudas with white on dark blue. The parka is the nylon, semi-zip front style.

The casual wear being modeled is a seersucker sportcoat with navy dacron and wool slacks.

In addition to the casual look, men's clothes will also employ a travel theme in correlation with women's fashions.

The fashions modeled in the accompanying photographs were provided by Dunhill's.

History Professors Going To Parley

Marshall will be represented at the annual meeting of the West Virginia Historical Association at Bethany College tomorrow by the entire History Department, according to Dr. Elizabeth Cometti, professor of history.

The sixth annual meeting will be divided into two sessions—one in the morning and one in the afternoon. At the afternoon session Dr. Herschel Heath, chairman of the History Department, will be moderator of a group discussion on Dexter Perkins' "The Education of Historians in the United States." Three scholarly papers on historical problems will be presented before the association.

The West Virginia Historical Association, of which Dr. Cometti is president, is composed of teachers of history in the colleges and universities of West Virginia.

The Sports Corner

By JERRY REED
Sports Editor

Participating in two sports at approximately the same time could prove to be a time-consuming effort and it probably is for the Big Green athletes that do. One of the athletes is Jack Mahone, the fleet-footed standout on the football team and the track squad, who was taking a breather between classes before donning his track togs for the afternoon's workout.

Right now the 'Flash' is concentrating on the cinder sport after being dismissed from the grid drills in order that he might participate in a spring sport.

"I was only out for football for a couple of weeks," Mahone remarked, "but from what I saw, the overall team looked real nice."

The talk began with football, because a lot of hope is riding on the grid squad for the upcoming season, and who would you want to comment on the team except one of the main cogs in the Big Green machine.

"I feel this way about it," the speedster began. "Everybody looks well and we should have a good team next year. The thing that possibly hurts us most is the fact that everyone expects too much out of the team next year. We're really going to be carrying a big load in the coming season."

"I feel we have the same chances that we did last season. Really I don't think that there's much difference in the 1963 and 1964 squads. I don't see any difference at all."

Taking a look at the roster and other factors, you could see that the "Flash" summed up the situation well.

The question mark for the future squads is what do the upcoming freshmen look like in the spring drills?

"Some of the younger boys should definitely be moving up," Mahone commented. "It's kind of hard to single out any one particularly but I feel that Mickey Jackson and Jim Mandeville (freshmen), and Gary Marvin and Ray Henderson (sophomores), have made good showings."

"When I was practicing with them, none of the younger players were gun-shy of putting the pads to you."

The touch of modesty that has been characteristic of Mahone since he entered MU became evident when he was asked about how he thought he did in spring practice.

"I can't evaluate how I did."

It was the type of question that you can't ask an athlete without him being afraid of his friends riding him about bragging. Coach Snyder did comment on Mahon's showing in the drills.

"Mahone had a good year for us last season," Snyder said, "and we're expecting big things out of him next year. Concerning spring practice; we only had him out there for two weeks, but in those two weeks he looked all right. He is the fastest man on the team with a few others pushing him for that honor. I'd say he has about the best speed."

Mahone remarked that he had no special personal goals for the upcoming season. Well, maybe he won't admit to having any personal goals but it can be remembered how disappointed he was when he lost the Mid-American Conference rushing title by a scant few yards. You can look for him to be aiming for that goal.

"The only thing I want is for the team as a whole to have a good season and try to meet the standards that the public has set up for it."

Back in February Mahone started on another sport — track — before switching to football and now he's back out on the cinders again.

He's only made two trips with the track squad — Denison Relays and the Ohio University Relays — and he's finding it hard to break into the track scene. He's been bothered with a bruised heel and admits that this has affected his running.

"Against Toledo tomorrow I'll be running against the same guy that beat me last year," he noted, "along with some others that will provide top competition. I think Freedman is the name of the guy that beat me and he placed fourth in the 100 meters last week at OU."

Mahone was not defeated too often last year but if he does not have a great season in either sport it has to be remembered that he is still coming up. He never played football in high school and as a matter of fact he didn't participate in any high school athletics. He attended a trade school in Charleston until it was converted into a junior high school thus forcing Jack to pick up and move to Charleston High School.

Even though he has played sports for three years at MU he is still relatively new to the sport scene, but as the action continues his name will not remain new. Already he is expected to receive many honors in his senior year — honors that will be due him.

Track Meet Set Tomorrow

MU Thinclads Host Rockets

By DAVID PEYTON
Assistant Sports Editor

The first home meet for the MU track team is scheduled for tomorrow at 10:30 a. m. at Fairfield Stadium when the Big Green thinclads will meet the Rockets of Toledo University.

According to Coach Charlie Kautz of the MU team, the Rockets team will consist of 15 track men.

"They're supposed to be pretty good," Kautz commented, "especially since they have a couple of MAC leaders in track events."

The 15 events in the meet will begin with the pole vault, the high jump, he discus, the shot put, and the broad jump competition. From there, the meet will move into the track events, and will end about 12:45 p. m.

In the pole vaulting competition, Kautz will go with John Bentley while Richard Turner is expected to hurl the shot put and throw the discus for MU.

In the broad jump event, Kautz said that Robert Bloom, Bob Pruett, Art Miller, Mickey Jackson, and Mike Hicks will compete. In the high jump it will probably be Mike Hicks, Jim Odum, and Howard Cunningham.

In the intermediate and high hurdles, Kautz said that he will go with Art Miller and Jim Odum. Larry Butcher will run the mile and Gary Hamrick will be the two-mile runner for MU. Two freshmen will run in the mile and two-mile runs but will not be in competition. They are Gary Prater and Ellis Wiley.

In the mile relay race it will be the team of Jack "The Flash" Mahone, Art Miller, Bob Pruett, and Willie Tucker. Mahone, Pruett, and Robert Bloom will run in the 100-yard dash and the 220-yard dash.

In the 880-yard run, it will be John Fisher, Mike Maynard, and Larry Butcher, while in the 440-yard run Kautz said he will go with Willie Tucker and Bob Pruett.

Kautz said that there is a high school meet scheduled for the stadium earlier in the morning, but that MU students will be admitted to see the MU-Toledo meet with their activity cards.

Golden Flashes' Nine Invades; Game Set Today, Tomorrow

Today and tomorrow the Marshall Baseball team will entertain the Kent State University nine at St. Cloud's Commons Park, according to baseball Coach Alvis Brown.

Marshall's record thus far is three wins and two losses; Kent's record is the same as the Big Green's.

MU will be trying to win its first Mid-American Conference game. Marshall's record in the MAC is 0-2; the two defeats were to Miami University last weekend. Marshall will be Kent State's first MAC foe.

John Mullins will be the starting pitcher today.

Game time today is 3:30 p.m. and tomorrow's contest will start at 2:00 p.m.

The starting pitcher tomorrow will be Larry Tincer. Tincer's record is no wins and one loss.

The starting line-up for today's game will be: catcher—Zeke Myers; first base—Pete Brezden;

SAGE SAYINGS

By KAY SAGE and SAM STANLEY

Repercussion are still coming up concerning last week's election and we suppose such things will happen as long as we continue to have such lively electioneering as we did this spring.

As long as students display their complaints through proper channels, such as through the student court, this is fine and good. But when students complain with obscene signs on public property, such as was done on the walls of the Student Union last Wednesday night, nothing is gained and only Marshall University itself is hurt.

It only takes one sore loser to jeopardize the voting privileges of every student. If the "wall paintings" continue, we couldn't blame the administration if they banned student government altogether. Then we would have no vote or voice at all in what happens to us at Marshall. We should all think seriously about this. If we want to keep our rights, then let us not abuse our privileges.

Another complaint concerning the election was the absence of a faculty adviser in the balloting room in the basement of the Union. A member of the faculty was supposed to be on hand at all times during election day to rule on mix-ups on student registration, such as loss of activity or ID cards, etc. Some students spent a lot of time hunting down certain faculty members who could validate their voting privilege. Others did not have the time or take the time, and thus did not return to vote.

The dedication of Gullickson Hall is slated next Wednesday at 3:30 p. m. "Swede" has given much to Marshall — which has practically been his whole life — and now it's our chance to say thanks. Naming the new gym after the grand old guy is not enough unless we prove we really mean it. So whatever you've got planned next Wednesday afternoon, cancel it, and come out to the ceremonies at Gullickson Hall.

There have been some complaints from downtown that the gym should have been named after the great Cam Henderson, former Marshall basketball coach who put Big Green basketball on the map and is considered one of the finest coaches this nation has ever produced.

We agree that Henderson deserves more lasting recognition from Marshall and in time he'll surely receive it. But let's not take anything away from "Swede."

Ken Gainer's administration is no more, and we can't let more time go by without congratulating our former student body president for a job well done. Ken probably will try to give the credit to someone else, but don't listen to him. For the first time in man a moon at Marshall, the student government was brought to the students. In other words, the average student knew what was going on and was given ample opportunity to criticize or praise.

Thanks again, Ken. And best of luck to you in the future.

Majorette tryouts pop up again in a couple of weeks and practice for the tryouts begin this Monday. So far, not many from our plentiful supply of beautiful gals have expressed a desire to march in front of the Big Green band next fall.

It has also been rumored that few of last year's majorettes will be back due to graduation, lack of time, or just plain lack of desire to be a majorette. Come on, gals, get those rusty batons out of the closet and practice up on your marching steps. Marshall needs you.

We'd like to welcome members of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity from Kentucky and Tennessee who will be on campus this weekend for the SAE's Province Iota convention. The local West Virginia Alpha chapter is hosting the biennial event for the first time. The campus should ring with "Phi Alpha's" this weekend.

'Sisters' Aid Frat In Iota Convention

"The Little Sisters of Minerva" will assist the brothers of the West Virginia Alpha of Sigma Alpha Epsilon with their Iota Province Convention to be held on campus this weekend.

The girls will be hostesses at a buffet dinner given for the brothers and province guests at 3:30 p.m. today at the chapter house.

The Parliaments, a local dance band, will provide the music for their informal dance at the American Legion from 8 p.m. to midnight tomorrow. The chapter will bring the weekend to a close with the initiation of new members of the Little Sisters at 1:30 p.m. Sunday in the Campus Christian Center.

Think You Know Your Shakespeare? Attend The Convocation Thursday

By THOM CLINE
Staff Reporter

A special convocation Thursday will feature a Shakespearean knowledge examination commemorating the anniversary of Shakespeare's birth.

E. C. Glasgow, instructor of English and program chairman explained how the convocation would be conducted.

Upon entering the auditorium, there will be Elizabethan music coming over the intercom system. A short, taped, introduction will be presented by Mr. Glasgow, and he will then proceed to explain how the test is to be taken.

The entire program will be on a tape with no one standing in front of the audience at anytime. This is the first time there has ever been an attempt to hold a convocation without someone on the stage.

Everyone will be given a sheet with about 100 questions pertaining to William Shakespeare, his plots, characters, short quotations, and speeches.

Some of the sample questions are:

1. William Shakespeare was born in Stratford, England, in the year1464,1564,1588,1607,1776.

2. This quotation came from which of Shakespeare's plays: "Something is rotten in the state of Denmark".Merchant of Venice,Richard III,Comedy of Errors,Hamlet,King Lear.

Because the entire exam is multiple choice, everyone has a chance of winning one of the prizes even if he is only able to guess at the answers. The prizes are — a complete edition of Shakespeare's plays, an edition of one play with criticism, and a critical work on a Shakespearean play.

The winners will be announced in the May 1 edition of The Parthenon.

Other features of the convocation will be a display table prepared by the library staff and showing what the library has dealing with Shakespeare. On the other side of the room, the English Department will have a table displaying the three prizes and some of the works on Shakespearean literature in this department.

The backdrop work for the stage is being prepared by Joseph Shields, Photograph Lab Technician. It will include three, four by eight panels painted black with pictures of Shakespearean characters on them. The center panel will be void of any pictures except a portrait of Shakespeare himself.

Others helping with this program are Mrs. Joan Adkins, instructor of English, Mr. Bradford Jenkins, instructor of English, and Miss Janet Habecker, instructor of English.

Club Calendar

Sigma Delta Pi, national Spanish honorary, will initiate 15 students at 6:30 p. m. today in Campus Christian Center.

Spring issues of "The Rectangle" are now available to the Sigma Tau Delta English fraternity in the English Department.

Members of the MU Engineering Association planning to attend the May dinner meeting in the MU cafeteria should check the engineering bulletin board on the second floor of Old Main Annex.

Kappa Delta Pi, education honorary, will have its monthly meeting Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. in the North Parlor of Old Main. Dr. Charles Moffat, professor of history, will be guest speaker.

Gamma Theta Upsilon, geography honorary, will have a spring banquet at Martin's Restaurant at 6 p. m. tonight.

Conrad B. Ripley of the Public Information Office of the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers in Huntington will speak on "Flood Control of the Guyan Basin." Members planning to attend should consult the bulletin board in the Geography Department.
