MU's Nickname May Be Changed

Alumni refer to the athletic teams as the "Thundering Herd." Students on the campus know them as the "Big Green." Other names have been given to the teams in past years.

According to John M. Sayre, director of Development and Alumni Affairs, "A move is now under way to once and for all resolve a nickname after a long period of uncertainty. There has been feeling that the teams need a more appropriate nickname, since "Big Green" denotes no action and is not symbolic."

Newspapers continue to refer to the athletic teams as the "Thundering Herd."

Efforts to bring a new name to the university began when President Stewart H. Smith recently organized a committee composed of representatives of the faculty and administration, alumni, student body and friends of Marshall to suggest a permanent nickname.

"Much interest has been generated in recent months favoring a change of name for our athletic teams. I am appointing a committee to screen suggested names and to recommend either continuing the name "Big Green" or to recommend a new name," said President Smith.

The committee is headed by David A. Foard Jr., president of the Alumni Association. Other members of the committee are: Leonard Samworth, head "Ram" of the "Rally Around Marshall" movement; Dave Fox Jr., president of the "Big Green;" Sam E. Clagg and Louise McDonough from the faculty; Robert P. Alexander, from the administration; Neal B. Wilson, athletic director; John Hill, student athletic representative, and Dick Cottrill, student body president.

Students may submit suggestions for a new name by returning the coupon (in columns 4 and 5) to the Student Government Office by the Oct. 21 deadline. The alumni received the coupon in a recent publication of "Beech Notes."

Your Suggestion, Please

A search is under way to find a permanent nickname that will be suitable for all Marshall athletic teams. "Thundering Herd" is no longer used and "Big Green" seems not to be suitable. List your suggestion below and submit to the Student Government Office by October 21.

Walkout Staged By Republicans

Nine young GOPers walked out of the first club meeting Sept. 30. The walkout was a result of the decision of the club members to support the national ticket of Sen. Goldwater and William Miller.

Mike Engles, Charleston sophomore, began the discussion by stating that the ticket of Goldwater and Miller should be condemned.

However, Paul Matheny, Charleston freshman, replied, "Whether we are truly in favor of Goldwater or not, we cannot denounce him because he is at the head of our ticket. As a Republican, we cannot afford to condemn him. Though many of the heads of our party spoke against him, they were speaking of an opponent in the midst of a campaign."

A heated discussion then arose with comments from both sides of the issue.

After the argument for support of Goldwater was presented, an election was taken of the members present. The students for Goldwater won by a large majority.

Following the voting, three members walked out of the group.

BERNARD PEIFFER

... European Jazz Pioneer

Renowned Jazz Pianist To Perform In Convocation Opener Tomorrow

By SHERRY ALLEN
Staff Reporter

Bernard Peiffer, internationally renowned jazz pianist, accompanied by Jerry Segal on the drums and Gus Nemath on the bass, will present a jazz concert at the season's first Convocation scheduled for 11 a.m. tomorrow in Gullickson Hall.

Barry Ulanov, a music critic, said of Peiffer, "There can be little question about Peiffer's commanding position in jazz. Nobody I've heard matches his skill as an improviser and his thorough knowledge of his instrument. He ranges from simple blues to the massive and majestic; he is capable of wit and of sheer rhythmic exuberance. His vigor is very much his own, developed under the impetus of a personality rich in the excellence of positive, direct, unreserved statement. His music must be heard, and his name ought to be long remembered.

His arrival on the scene is an event in American jazz history."

The celebrated French pianist has been associated with the world of music since his birth in 1922. His family had many classical concert musicians. By the time he was five, he was improvising on the piano. He studied at the Marseilles Conservatory, and when he was 19 he won the Premier Prix d' Excellence in piano at the Conservatoire National de Musique in Paris.

Everyone expected him to be virtuoso on the concert stage, but Peiffer had different ideas. After his graduation from the conservatory, he went into the Army and discovered American jazz and emerged a confirmed jazz pioneer.

He made his professional debut as a jazzman in Paris in 1943. During the war, throughout the German occupation.

For several years Peiffer's jazz existence was gypsy-like. He played at Casino Knockke Le Zoute in Brussels, the Lido in Paris, and gave recitals at Salle Playel and the Palais de Chaillot. Teamed with others, he toured in the first civilian band to be heard in Germany after the war.

In 1950, he struck out on his own, formed a trio and began to achieve a reputation as Europe's major jazz figure. He scored and played the scores of several movies and made records, winning the Grand Prix due Disque twice.

Peiffer came to America in 1954 to make a reputation for himself here as a jazz musician. Although his American career began slowly, the musicians here soon became impressed with his originality and his strong communicative abilities with his audiences.

Polls Close Today At 4 P. M.; Slow Vote Tally Likely

It's freshman election time on campus today.

The class, which has well over 1,000 eligible voters, began voting this morning at 8 a.m. in the Student Union and there are four hours of voting still left. Polls close at 4 p.m.

According to Mike Mittleman, Miami, Fla., junior and chairman of the Election Commission, every ballot must be hand counted in this freshman election. The monumental task will be accomplished tonight in secret by members of the Election Commission and certified by two faculty advisers to the commission.

"The results will not be announced at the Wednesday night mix," Mittleman said, "because I don't think we can finish in time for that announcement, and I don't think they want to continue the mix until three or four Thursday morning."

Although Mittleman said that he had no idea how soon the results will be available tonight, he said that he would take the results to the senate for certification as soon as the results were totaled and the faculty advisers had certified the vote.

According to Mittleman, the election has been going very well. "The candidates seem very eager and enthusiastic and I'm very impressed."

Monday, Mittleman said that there had been no violations of election rules set down for the candidates. He said that all candidates seemed to be extra careful to obey the rules of the campaign.

Mittleman said that the job of election coordinator often requires extremely accurate rul-

FAKE CANDIDACY

Last week, G. D. Emmett decided to run for a freshman senate seat. He signed his name in the Student Government Office and paid his $2 registration fee, and even got his name in The Parthenon as a candidate.

Well, last Thursday, it was discovered that there is no one on Marshall's campus by the name of G. D. Emmett, and he was disqualified from running because he didn't show up for the lectures last Wednesday and Thursday. The only consolation for officials is that whoever did it lost $2 in the fake registration.

ings on his part. "Monday, I measured a sign that was just a quarter of an inch shy of being over the legal size."

Posters proclaiming freshmen candidates have dotted the campus since 2 p.m. Sunday. Mittleman commented that he thought some of the posters were "very ingenious." One candidate has even produced a "moveable sign" which is really a car, decorated with crepe paper and campaign signs.

Tests for the 22 candidates in the election were given last Friday by Student Body Vice President Fred Reeder, Huntington senior. The highest score on the test, according to Reeder, was made by Doug Warner of Parkersburg, with 95 out of a possible 100. Warner is a candidate for a senatorial seat.

Presidential candidates, in order of their scores, are as follows: David Clark, Barboursville, 91; Dick Smith, Huntington, 89; Bobby Starcher, Charleston 88; and Rod Browder, Huntington, 86.

Other senate candidates in order of their scores are: Harry Budden, Grand Rapids, Mich., 92; Mike Ferrell, Huntington, and Linda Pepper, Parkersburg, both with 91; Susan Kroger, Parkersburg, and Charlotte Wilmer, Huntington, both with 89; David Taylor, Huntington, 87; Kathy Kelly, Huntington, 86; Rick Jackson, Huntington, and Karen Edelman, St. Albans, both with 85; Janet Turnbull, Huntington, 84; Dick Sarvas, Huntington, 83; Dick McGrath, Huntington, 82; Susan Haywood, Huntington, 81; Fred Runyan, Huntington, 80; Becky Baker, Huntington, 73, and Charles Mullens, Chapmanville, 70.

The number of senators chosen for the freshman class will depend on the percentage of the class which votes before the polls close. The voter must submit his I. D. card and student activity card to the election officials before being eligible to vote.

President Stewart H. Smith

... From My Viewpoint ...

Almost every institution of higher learning today from good old Siwash to Harvard is extolling the fact that it is dedicated to academic excellence. Just how deep this dedication goes at some institutions may be subject to serious question. The proclamation, however, looks good in institutional catalogues and literature and sounds impressive from the speaker's platform.

Reports of riots, orgies and other excesses by college students at Daytona and Hampton Beaches and at Seaside, Ore., and of widespread cheating in academic work cause one to stop and think. It may be well to take a hard look at our major purposes.

At Marshall we have tried to create a wholesome environment where responsible moral conduct can flourish. Strong emphasis has been placed upon good scholarship. Important as it is, academic excellence is not enough. We need to help our students pursue excellence of character and of moral conduct.

Since some American parents have defaulted in their responsibility to inculcate morality in their children, schools and colleges face the need of assuming a greater responsibility in this area. While we cannot be expected to replace the home and family, we can place more emphasis upon the development of intelligent behavior and decent conduct.

Not much of this can be done through lecturing. It is achieved by personal example and by setting and maintaining high moral and ethical standards.

Youth imitates the good as well as the bad. A student said recently, "Where I find weakness, I'll take advantage of it; but where I find strength, I'll do my level best to match it." The stimulus of example and environment does influence the attitudes, habits and allegiances of students.

The classroom environment can contribute much to strengthen individual moral behavior. Such an environment can be created through well-prepared and well-delivered lectures and stimulating class discussions, through the honest evaluation of the student's work, through the removal of all factors that might contribute to cheating and through recognizing and rewarding individual effort.

The student also has a large role to play. College students are young adults. They should be mature enough to assume some responsibility for their own actions and conduct. As a matter of personal pride, they should want to be responsible for their own discipline. Those who lack moral values probably should not be in college. Responsible college youth should not tolerate the unprincipled conduct and moral dereliction of others who bring discredit upon the whole group. The bad public image of modern college students is caused by probably one percent of them.

What can the other 99 per cent do? Student honor systems in some colleges contribute much to exalt and inspire personal honor and morality. Alert student courts can do much to discourage student misconduct. Students at least should not condone or ignore poor conduct and behavior but should throw the weight of public opinion against those whose actions bring discredit upon the group. Active participation in university religious organizations will not only enhance personal moral growth but will also contribute to the raising of moral standards on the campus.

Fortunately, the majority of American college youth, and this is particularly true at Marshall, are more industrious, more capable, more studious and have a greater sense of responsibility than those of any recent generation.

An educated person must be more than an academic paragon. He must also be a person of good character. Character is something we must acquire for ourselves. The art of living must be discovered as we go along. Our college experiences should aid us in becoming morally responsible, as well as intellectually competent citizens.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:

We should like to congratulate the brothers of Zeta Beta Tau on their excellent letter which appeared in the Sept. 30 issue of The Parthenon. They should be very proud of their organization's progressive stance on racial and religious prejudice. We ourselves are in complete agreement with the view that "prejudice has no place in America and especially, on her college campuses," and sincerely join them in wishing that students here at Marshall who are "laboring in the darkness of unfounded opinion and groundless prejudice" may be enlightened.

Since their organization is one of the few which actually believes in the concept of brotherhood, which is the keystone of their society and should be that of the world at large, we should like to extend to the brothers of Zeta Beta Tau the opportunity to actively contribute to the establishment of "justice, equality, and brotherly love." More pointedly, we should like to invite them to participate in local integration activities in cooperation with the Civic Interest Progressives.

No irony is intended in this letter, nor in its request. The human rights movement in Huntington sorely needs the strength of numbers. In view of the nature of this organization, it seems only fitting that an appeal of this kind should wind its way to Zeta Beta Tau.

We trust that after serious thought on their part, Zeta Beta Tau will be eager to join efforts in helping to establish those things which are felt to be our moral responsibilities.

Dear Editor:

This letter is in reply to a statement by Gary Kearns in last Friday's "Kearns on Campus", in which he said that "Students are registering a number of complaints in regard to the 1964 edition of the Chief Justice."

I submit that the blame for any deficiency lies with no one but the students themselves, and I challenge those who complain to prove to me and to themselves that they want a better yearbook this year by contributing their time and talent to making the 1965 yearbook worthy of the student body it represents.

It takes teamwork and genuine interest to put out a superior yearbook, and both of these ingredients have been found lacking in the Marshall student body attitude toward their yearbook.

If you are interested in working on the 1965 Chief Justice, see either myself or Shirley Layne (editor-in-chief). Our office hours are posted on the CJ office door.

We need and welcome your support.

CHILDREN AILING

Coach Sonny Allen's two children, Billy Dean, 4, and Jackie, 2, are recovering at home from attacks of bronchial pneumonia last week. Allen, who is the freshman basketball and cross-country coach, said both were hospitalized but are recovering satisfactorily.

DAVID CLARK

Freshman Seeks Presidency Pct

(Editor's Note: David Clark, candidate for freshman class president, turned in his picture and biographical sketch by deadline time last Wednesday, but it was inadvertently omitted from Friday's Parthenon.)

David Clark, a 1964 graduate of Barboursville High School, is a candidate for the freshman class presidency. He was active in the Science Club, Radio Club, Band, Business Education Club and the Speech Club, of which he was president. He maintained a 3.6 average throughout his senior year. He was the recipient of two oratory awards while in high school, one being the second place award in the American Legion District Oratory Contest. He is a member of the Staunton Road Pentecostal Church. A pre-law student at Marshall, David is majoring in business administration.

Enrollment Over, But Offices Busy

Still working hard after registration are the Registrar and Admissions Office personnel.

Members of the Admissions Office are preparing to participate in the high school visitation program, which is sponsored by state supported schools, and some private institutions.

Faculty members will take part in "College Days," a program to continue each week until Dec. 11. This program began on Sept. 14 and will reach almost every high school in the state.

Admissions Office personnel are also busy handling enrollment quotas for second semester and conducting campus tours for visitors.

The Registrar's Office has been flooded with over 2,000 schedule changes.

ARTICLE PUBLISHED

Dr. Ronald G. Rollins, assistant professor of English, has published an article in the September issue of Explicator magazine. The article is entitled "O'Casey's Cock-a-Doddle Dandy."

MU Honorary Due At Parley

The Marshall chapter of Kappa Omicron Phi, national home economics honorary, will be general chairman of the organization's regional meeting set for Saturday and Sunday at White Sulphur Springs, according to Louise Burnette, associate professor of home economics.

Dr. A. Mervin Tyson, chairman of the English department, will speak on the topic "Let's Be Professional" at the Saturday night session.

Various topics under discussion will be improvement of chapter participation, purposes of the regional meeting, how Kappa Omicron Phi can make its influence felt on campus, and how to keep members interested.

There are six chapters in the West Virginia-Virginia region. In addition to Marshall, West Virginia representatives will be Concord College and Shepherd College. Virginia will be represented by Longwood, Mary Washington, and Virginia State Colleges.

Four Arrested At Restaurant

Three Marshall students, members of the Civic Interest Progressives, a local civil rights group, were arrested on charges of trespassing in a demonstration at the White Pantry Restaurant.

Owner of the establishment, Roba Quesenberry, swore out warrants against Danie Stewart, Barboursville junior, Frank Helvey, Huntington senior, and Pat McBrayer, St. Albans junior. Also charged with trespassing was Phil Carter, past chairman of the group.

CIP's began their demonstration about 11:30 a.m. on Thursday. According to Rick Diehl, Huntington senior and spokesman for the group, about 20 demonstrators entered the White Pantry. Then, according to Diehl, Quesenberry closed the establishment and burned a substance which produced sulphurous fumes. All but four of the demonstrators then left the establishment. The four, Stewart, Helvey, McBrayer and Carter, later were arrested in the restaurant. Warrants were issued by a justice of the peace. Trial of the four demonstrators is scheduled for next week in the Common Pleas court.

Greenbackers Will Try Again!

The Marshall University card section—the Greenbackers—will participate in the Buffalo game Saturday night.

Students who are interested in becoming a member of the card section may pick up their special reserve tickets in the Student Government Office starting tomorrow.

A student must have a special ticket in order to sit with the Greenbackers and he must be at the game by 7:30 p.m. if he is to retain his place in the reserved section.

Anyone found sitting in the card section without a ticket will be asked to leave by the row captain and if this is not done, he will be escorted from the stadium by a city policeman.

English Exam Date Scheduled

The schedule for the qualifying examination in English composition has been announced by Dr. A. Mervin Tyson, professor of English.

The dates for the first semester are Nov. 14 and Jan. 23. Both will be held at 9 a.m. in the Science Hall Auditorium. Students whose last names begin with A-L are requested to take the exam in November; M-Z are to take it in January.

Students who have an urgent reason for changing from one date to the other must see Dr. Tyson before the exam. Those who have completed the Composition Clinic may report on either date.

Passing this examination is a requirement for graduation. All Teachers College students must pass the examination before becoming eligible for student teaching.

Dates for the second semester exams are March 27 and May 15; dates for the summer terms are June 26 and July 31.

Eligible to take the examination this semester are students in these categories: engineering majors who have completed 68 hours; students in other four-year programs who have completed 58 hours; and students in two-year programs who have completed 45 hours.

Before taking the examination, students must have passed the freshman English course. Also, Teachers College students must have passed English 215. No prior registration is necessary.

The following are exempt from the examination: students who have A or B in English 102A, 104A, or 215A and foreign students for whom English is not a native language.

Persons who have failed the examination on previous attempts must complete the English composition clinic satisfactorily before retaking the examination.

Test Time Set For Teachers

All seniors in Teachers College who plan to graduate Jan. 23, must take the National Teachers Examination Dec. 12 in the Science Hall Auditorium. The examination will begin at 8:30 a.m. and will be completed by all students by 5:20 p.m.

Each student who plans to take the examination should secure a registration form in the office of the dean of Teachers College. It must be returned to the Teachers College office on or before Oct. 30.

Each student must register to take the Commons Examination and the Optional Examination in the field in which he feels he is best prepared, probably the field in which he has done his student teaching. If there is not an Optional Examination in a student's first field he should take the Optional Examination in his second field.

All fees required for taking the examination are being paid by the University.

TERRY STEINER
... Worked at WVU

19-Year-Old Terry Steiner Youngest Member Of Cancer Research Team

By LLOYD D. LEWIS
Staff Reporter

Terry Steiner, 19-year-old Huntington sophomore, has just completed a most profitable summer as the youngest member of a cancer research team at West Virginia University.

The pre-medical student, who has a major interest in pathology and medical research, had applied for and received a Public Health Service grant as a research associate. He did his work in the $4 million cancer research laboratory of Dr. Alvin L. Watne, associate professor of surgery at the West Virginia University Medical Center.

After spending the first three weeks of the summer in the library at the seven-story Medical Center, Steiner narrowed down his work to a specific area. "This was the most difficult phase of my project," he says.

In technical terms, the title of the project on which Steiner worked was "The Absorption of Vitamin B12-Co57 in Female Albino Rats Bearing Walker Carcinoma No. 256 Following Oral Administration." His main conclusion established a direct relationship between tumor weight and vitamin B12-Co57 uptake under the conditions described.

For over a week before actual experimentation began he was taught basic laboratory techniques, such as transplanting tumors, the proper handling of radioisotopes, and use of an open well-type scintillation counter, a $15,000 instrument which determines the amount of radiation present in a sample.

"In addition to my project I had experience in other fields, namely, dog surgery, operation of a Coulter counter—which actually counts cells—and the identification of tumor and blood cells." Steiner, with a 10-week deadline to meet, once worked for 39 days straight, from five to 14 hours a day. Much of this time was spent in preparation and tabulation of his results and the significance of the project itself. "I had to do everything by myself."

Every Thursday the research "team" on which Steiner was working held a cancer seminar. Here they discussed problems of their individual projects and suggested improvements. Other members of this "team" were an M.D., two Ph.D.'s in biochemistry, two veterinarians, one nurse, three medical technologists, and a cytologist.

Steiner also attended the Fifth National Cancer Conference, Sept. 17-19, in Philadelphia, Pa. Here he met some of the 2,600 doctors present from all over the world.

At present Steiner is in the library research phase of another project, this one dealing with B vitamins and cancer. With a 3.72 overall grade average, he is a member of Phi Eta Sigma, national freshman scholastic honorary fraternity, and Sigma Phi Epsilon social fraternity.

His appearance at tomorrow's Convocation will be one of the scheduled appearances of his first coast-to-coast tour. Students are invited to the Convocation in Gullickson Hall. Admission is free.

TICKETS TOMORROW

The Warsaw Philharmonic Orchestra, under the direction of Stanislaw Wislocki, noted Polish conductor, will present the second Artist Series concert of the season at the Keith-Albee Theatre at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Tickets may be picked up in the rear hall of Old Main tomorrow and Friday from 8 to 3 p.m. Since this is not one of the student programs, those getting tickets will have it taken off their activity cards. Students may select to attend any six of the programs other than the ones scheduled for them.

SNEA Starts New Program

Marshall's chapter of the Student National Education Association initiated a new program as they played host to the first annual regional rally of the Future Teachers of America last Saturday.

According to Susan Noyes, president of the SNEA, this program was developed "to strengthen the connection between SNEA and FTA and to inform future teachers of the forthcoming state conference in Jackson's Mill Oct. 16, 17, and 18."

Approximately 100 people attended from the following high schools: Barboursville, Ceredo-Kenova, Huntington East, Huntington, Hurricane, Milton, Vinson, and Wayne.

Highlighting the day's activities were the speakers, Woodrow Morris, acting dean of Teachers College, and Kenneth C. Legg, state consultant for SNEA-FTA. Dr. Morris spoke on the requirements of admission to Teachers College especially for those high school students interested in attending Marshall, while Legg spoke of the opportunities beyond the FTA-SEA level and of the need for qualified teachers in W. Va.

Queen Candidates' Deadline Is Friday

Petitions for queen candidates are due Friday by 4 p.m. in the Student Government Office, according to Rose Marie Frecka, Ironton junior and queen chairman for the Homecoming Commission.

Some of the specifications for this year's campaign include a $25 limit on campaign expenses, and a restriction that no posters may be placed on campus. Personal cards and tags will be allowed.

It is being stressed this year that queens are judged not only for beauty, but also on campus activities and merit, especially for the Miss Marshall candidates.

New Executive Secretary Selected

Ram Ready To Butt Buffalo 'U' Eleven

HERE HE IS in all his majesty. He's a "suggested" mascot for Marshall athletic team. Above, Leonard Samworth, head of Rally Around Marshall, inspects a ram purchased last weekend. The 200-pound animal with the sheepish grin is a native of Greenbrier County. Samworth searched for three months for a ram that met the standards. Traveling with Samworth to inspect the ram in Lewisburg, was Steve Goodman, (right), Huntington junior and commissioner of athletic affairs. In the center of the picture, Mr. J. D. Clendennin, manager of the Blue Grass Stockyards, looks on. The ram (see below) has horns about 20 inches from tip to tip and he's only four years old—still a child in sheep circles. At present, the ram is being housed at the Glenbrier Country Club, awaiting his debut Saturday when MU (and ram) meets Buffalo.

MU's President To Be Busy Man

University presidents are very busy men, and President Stewart H. Smith is one of the busiest.

During the next 21 days, President Smith will travel from New York City to Greenville, Penn., through W. Va. and then home. Briefly, his schedule is as follows:

Oct. 6-7—Attend meeting of Board of College Education, Lutheran Church in America, New York City.

Oct. 9 — Attend meeting of Board of Trustees, Thiel College, Greenville, Penn.

Oct. 14—Give keynote address at annual Citizenship Day at Salem College, Salem, W. Va.

Oct. 16—Speak at Lawrence County Teachers Association, Ohio.

Oct. 22—Give opening address at Regional Convention of the W. Va. Education Association, Clarksburg, W. Va.

Oct. 26—Address at Lewisburg Rotary Club, Lewisburg, W. Va.

Absentee Sign-Up Set

Absentee voter's booths will be operated in the Student Union today from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m., tomorrow 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m., and Friday 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. The Young Democrats' Club is providing this service in conjunction with Jack Huffman, director of the Absentee Voter's Bureau in Charleston.

All citizens, except residents of Cabell County, who will be unable to vote in their home precincts on election day are urged to apply at the booths for absentee ballots. Members of both political parties are invited to take advantage of this service by Joe Platania, Huntington senior and president of the Young Democrats.

STUDENT MIX TONIGHT

There will be a student mix in the Student Union tonight from 7:30 until 10 p.m. Plans are being made by Don Morris, Student Union manager, to secure a band.

The Big Green accomplished two big firsts Saturday night in Toledo University's Glass Bowl.

The first achievement came with 6:05 left in the first half when Larry Coyer returned a Toledo punt 79 yards for a score. It was the first MU score of the season, and a welcome sight to Marshall coach Charlie Snyder.

"That touchdown sure looked good, it's been a long time since the last one (to be exact it had been 14 quarters, nine minutes and 55 seconds)", said a happy Snyder.

The second accomplishment was Marshall's 13-0 victory over the Rockets, the first win of the season for MU.

"Our defense really looked good and the offense was good when it had to be," commented the MU mentor.

Coyer's punt return was the most exciting run by a MU back this season. It developed when Toledo was forced to punt from their own 35 yard stripe; the Rockets' punter, Bob Buchs, booted a beautiful spiraling kick toward Coyer near the right hash-mark. Coyer gathered in the pigskin and cut toward his right, then he darted behind a wall of blocking that had formed and raced the remaining yardage to paydirt, without a Toledo man touching him.

"Coyer really likes to run with the ball and when he has a few blockers ahead of him he can't be stopped," said Snyder.

The MU blocking was better in this game than any game to date, according to Snyder.

"Our boys were going after them, that's what you have to do if you expect to win," commented Snyder.

Marshall's other score came in the third quarter on a hard fought 6-yard touchdown drive. Mike Jackson, a sophomore replacement for the injured Jack Mahone, spearheaded the drive carrying six times for 23 yards and Dave Boston put the finishing touches on the ground attack by plowing into paydirt from the five.

Some bright spots for Marshall were Jim Cure, Bill Bobbitt, Fred Anderson, Jim Perry, Tom Good, Bill Winter, and Bob Pruett.

Cure caught four passes for 44 yards and bringing his season total for the season of passes caught to seven. The All Mid-American Conference end has grabbed a total of 55 passes thus far in his college career, a Marshall and MAC record.

Bobbitt and Anderson, two 200 pound plus tackles for MU, had a very good night on defense and offense respectively.

Bobbitt was the main-stay to the front line defense on third down and short yardage situations for Toledo. Twice when the Rockets were within the Big Green's ten yard-line Bobbitt was the man-of-the-hour in stopping the Toledo running game, and saving the shutout.

Good and Winter were tough on defense and offense. They both kept the running game of Jim Gray, Toledo's fleet half-back, in tact. The passing of the

... Jinx for TU

Rockets' quarterback Dan Simrell was handicapped by the blitzing of Good and Winter.

Perry and Pruett were in the Rockets' backfield all night making key tackles and hurting their offensive attack.

"It was the defense that won this game; they did a good job," said Snyder.

Toledo's coach, Frank Lauterbur, who last year said, "Marshall would never beat him again," had to eat his words as the gun sounded.

"We were out-manned and better than we thought. They will win a lot of games this year; they have plenty of depth.

"When Mahone had to leave the game we thought Marshall would be hurting for a good runner, then in comes No. 24 (Mike Johnson) and they don't even miss Mahone, that's a sure sign of depth. We'll just have to wait until next year," said Lauterbur.

When Coyer fielded Buchs' punt and started toward the goal line, Lauterbur yelled to his team, "Watch out! He can go all the way!"

Then after Larry had scored the Rockets' mentor said, "He's done it again." Needless to say Lauterbur was remembering Coyer's 60 yard run-back last year against Toledo.

Lauterbur did mention that he had scouted MU and he thought Gray would have a better night than he had.

"Jim is our best back and I thought he would gain at least 70 yards against Marshall, but out there tonight he just couldn't get started; they had somebody hitting him every play," the coach commented.

Gray did manage to pick up 50 yards against the MU defense and on one play he appeared to be going all the way, only to be stopped by Paul Turman, the last man to reach him.

"I thought Jim was gone on that 'double reverse' we pulled. We had practiced that play all week and were going to use it the first time we got the ball, but the situation did not warrant such a play, we were on our own 15 when we first got the ball. When the time was right we decided to try the play. It was going to be either first and ten or second and 35, as it was it almost put us on the scoreboard," said Lauterbur.

As was feared Jack Mahone re-injured his foot early in the game and luckily for MU Mike Jackson was equal to the call.

"Jackson was running like a deer," said Snyder.

Jackson had been working all last week on the tailback position and would have started if Mahone had been unable to take his place in the Big Green backfield.

"We knew Jackson was ready, but we didn't expect such a good performance. He was a pleasant surprise," added Snyder.

Coach Snyder also had some black moments during the Toledo contest. "Turman was hurt late in the last quarter and may miss the Buffalo game, also Mahone is still hurt and by getting his foot hurt again against Toledo won't help it any. We hope they are ready for this weekend," said Snyder.

The fans of Toledo saw an exciting game and at half-time they, 8,432 of them saw the Marshall University Band perform.

The Big Green will face Buffalo University at Fairfield Stadium Saturday at 8 p.m.

U. S. Cagers Face Problems In Tokyo, Bob Cousy Claims

By TIM MASSEY
Sports Co-Editor

Our olympic basketball team is in for some trouble this year, according to "Mr. Basketball" Bob Cousy, former Boston Celtic great.

On a visit to Huntington last weekend, Cousy told a group of local sports fans that the Communist bloc countries of Hungary, Czechoslovakia and Poland, as well as Russia were catching up with the U.S. in the hoop world.

Among the interested spectators to the session were several Marshall University basketball players and freshman coach Sonny Allen.

"We are going to have a tougher time of it in the olympics this year," Cousy told the group. "This spring I was with a team touring Europe and the Communist Bloc countries and was very impressed with the way they played basketball. Our team consisted of Celtic teammates Bill Russell and Tommy Heinsohn, Oscar Robertson and Jerry Lucas of the Royals, Bob Pettit of the Hawks and other top stars. We won all our games with ease—but we could have beaten any amateur team in America just as easily," he explained.

During a question-and-answer period between two basketball movies, Cousy enlightened the fans on some of the finer points of the game, speaking with his heavy Bostonian accent.

He mentioned former Marshall great Hal Greer several times during the morning and said he understood that Greer was offered in a trade to the San Francisco Warriors for big Nate Thurmond.

"The trade would have helped both teams considerably. The Warriors need a good backcourt man and Greer is one of the best," the ex-cage veteran said. "The 76ers haven't got a good big man and Thurmond would really be an asset to them. The Warriors turned down the deal."

Cousy, who now coaches Boston College, said recruiting was the most difficult task he now has to face. "I wish all I had to do was to teach boys how to play basketball, but that is only a Game time is 7:30 p.m.

Coach Charles Kautz named his tentative starting lineup for the contest Monday but indicated that he would have to wait to see how certain players react to game pressures before forecasting their potential.

Michael Keener, 6-0, 198-pounder from Elkview and Charles Rine, 6-1, 227-pounds, from Moundsville will get the nod at guards. Sissonville All-Stater Tom Wilkinson, 6-2, 238-pounds, and James Maerker, 6-4, 240-pounds, from Belpre, Ohio are the picks at tackles while Paul Dodson, 6-0, 200-pounds, from Pikeville, Ky., will hold down the center post.

6 Senate Seats Filled; Cyrus Gains Approval As Adviser To Court

The Student Senate filled all vacancies in upperclass senate positions last Wednesday night with the appointment of six senators. The senate also accepted the resignation of one commissioner who accepted a senate seat.

President Dick Cottrill, Huntington senior, read the resignation of Danie Stewart, Barboursville junior, as commissioner of student government affairs. The senate ratified Stewart as junior class senator to fill a vacancy which had existed since last semester.

Jack Hill, Mallory junior, was ratified as new commissioner of student government affairs. Hill had resigned earlier in the summer as commissioner of athletic affairs, but accepted the new cabinet position because "he found that he had more time available," according to Cottrill.

Two vacant senior senate seats also were filled at last Wednesday's session. Rick Diehl, Huntington, and Claire Grace, Barboursville, were ratified for those seats. In the sophomore class, the two vacant seats were filled by Janet Ratcliff and Diana Petty, both of Huntington. All those senators ratified last week are to be sworn in at the senate session at 6:30 p.m. today in the Student Union.

A graduate senator, Ted Wiley of Lewisburg, was ratified at last week's session.

Chief Justice of the Student Court, Wendell English, Bluefield senior, appeared before the senate. He said Dr. Simon Perry, assistant professor of political science, had instructed him to withdraw his name as a candidate for Student Court adviser. After this, English named Phyllis H. Cyrus, instructor of business administration, as the court's selection for adviser to the judicial body. The senate ratified the appointment.

Before English concluded his report to the senate, he made several comments dealing with the senatorial rejection of Dr. Perry as adviser to the court.

English told of the court's meeting the preceding day. He said the court was "very upset" by the action of the senate. He then charged that there has been "communication between the judicial and legislative branches of Student Government." He explained further by saying that "the three branches operate as checks and balances to one another; therefore, there should be no professional unofficial communication between the two branches or between any branches." He said that he believed the rejection of Dr. Perry may be a case of a justice of the court being politically influential.

"I will not tolerate this type of communication between the legislative and judicial branches," English said. "At present, there is an investigation into the possible communications surrounding the senate's rejection of Dr. Perry. If it is proven that there was dialogue between the two branches on a secretive basis, appropriate action will be taken."

In other action, Nancy Ball, Milton senior, was named court secretary.

The university administration was represented at the meeting by Joseph Soto, vice president of business and finance, and Percy Galloway, bookstore manager. The administrators were present to discuss the operation of the bookstore. At the first senate meeting this year, Vice President Fred Reeder, Huntington senior, told the senate that there would be an investigation into the prices at the bookstore. Both Mr. Soto and Mr. Galloway explained to the senators the operation of the bookstore, reading from the State Code of West Virginia, giving specific instructions as to the operation of a bookstore on a state-supported campus. According to Mr. Galloway, books are bought from the publishing houses at 20 per cent below the publisher's list price and sold to students at the list price. He said that this covers the cost of handling the books and paying the employees at the bookstore.

Sigma Kappa Takes Peak Honors; Tri-Sig Girl Is Crowned Queen

By PAUL SMITH
Staff Reporter

At 2 p.m. last Sunday the fourth annual Pike's Peak Olympics got under way with a big bang — from a 12-gauge shotgun. Of the six sororities, Sigma Kappa emerged victorious two hours later with 18 points, and Sigma Sigma Sigma became the home of this year's Pikes' Peak queen, Arlene Bruno.

The first event was the 50-yard dash. There were two races with one girl from each sorority in each race. Screams and applauding shattered the cold air as Ann Debussy, Parkersburg freshman of Alpha Chi Omega, ran the fastest time.

Second place was gained by Jan Rife, an Alpha Xi and Huntington sophomore. Delta Zeta came in third with Nancy Byard, a Clarksburg junior. Delta Zeta won the second heat with Sharon Elliott, a Huntington freshman. Carolyn McDonel, Norton, Va. junior, won second place for Sigma Kappa. Lynne Conley, Michigan freshman, took third place for Tri Sigmas.

The second event was the shot-put throw. Nancy Byard threw the ball 27 feet and 8 inches — good enough for a first place. Evelyn Meek, Huntington senior, took second place for Tri Sigmas with 26 feet and 7 inches. Alpha Xi took third with Janet King, Glen Daniel junior.

Nancy Glaser, Hawthorne, N. J., sophomore, took first place for Sigma Kappa with a broad jump leap of 14 feet. Lynne Conley was second, and Alpha Chi placed third with Sue Perry, Wayne freshman.

The 50-yard dash finals were next. Sharon Elliott of Delta Zeta was victorious.

Next was the pie eating contest. The first girl to finish her banana cream pie was Malinda Snow, a Tri-Sigma sophomore from Summersville. The next girl to finish her pie was Janet Ratcliff, a Delta Zeta and Huntington sophomore. Third place went to Debbie Adkins, an Alpha Xi and Barboursville sophomore. Alpha Sigma Alpha took first

1st Intra-Squad Debates Slated

Members of the debate squad will hold their first round of intra-squad debates this week, engaging in affirmative-negative clashes on two aspects of the current intercollegiate debate question.

Debating on the question "Is the problem of unemployment sufficiently serious to require substantial changes in present policies?", will be Mike Smith, Parkersburg junior vs. Christine Hooker, Ashland freshman; Larry Parker, Huntington freshman, vs. Charles Delahanty, Huntington senior; Ranald Jarrell, Point Pleasant sophomore, vs. Ross Frey, New Haven sophomore; and Linda Sanford, Bluefield sophomore, vs. Caroline Massey, Ashland, Ky., freshman.

Those to debate on the second question "Is a national public work program the best way to deal with the problem of unemployment?" are Priscilla Cox, Maimisburg, Ohio, junior, vs. Stephen Edington, St. Albans sophomore; Mike Engle, Charleston sophomore, vs. Bill Chedsy, Huntington freshman; Danie Stewart, Huntington junior, vs. Bill Evans, Huntington freshman.

Cadets Feted By Honorary

A reception for incoming advanced ROTC cadets was held Sunday by the Scabbard and Blade society of the ROTC Battalion, according to Capt. William H. Dearborn, assistant professor of military science.

Comer, Fayetteville, N. C.; Robert E. Dent, South Charleston; Robert F. Edmunds, Bramwell; Ben A. Farmer, Jr., Huntington; Ernest S. Goodman, Huntington, and John W. Hampton, Huntington.

Also, Frederick Jadick, Eddy-stone, Pa.; Doyle W. Jones, Mason; Victor F. Kelbaugh, Dunbar; Joseph T. Loncavish Jr., Ravenswood; Paul N. McMillan, Vienna; Ronald R. Morgan, Huntington; David D. place in the cow-milking contest. The winner was Nancy Fisher, a Frankford sophomore. Delta Zeta placed second with the efforts of Marsha Kimmell, a Pittsburgh, Pa., freshman.

Delta Zeta won the tug of war contest.

The mud was probably the most hilarious event. Dawn Miller, a Huntington freshman, led Sigma Kappa to victory as she found the silver gearshift knob in the mud after only a few minutes.

Next came the Coke chug-a-lug. Sigma Kappa won with Penny Douglas, a Charleston junior. Sarabeth Grant, an Alpha Chi and a Huntington senior, chugged second, and Delta Zeta came in third with Linda Riggle, a South Charleston sophomore.

Sigma Sigma Sigma came in first in the egg roll contest as Patty Clifford, a Mullens freshman, "nosed" across the 20-yard line with her egg. Sigma Kappa came in second with Barbara Brown, a Huntington junior. Alpha Chi took third place with Jane Spotts, a Huntington freshman.

Next came the egg toss. Sigma Kappa got the top distance of 61 feet with the pitching and catching of Lynne Gray, Huntington junior, and Patty Collins, Huntington senior. Delta Zeta came in next with the team of Carol Smith, a Charleston junior, and Marsha Kimmell. Sigma Sigma Sigma took third place with the team of Jackie Barnard, Huntington freshman, and Patty Willis, Huntington sophomore.

The Sigma Kappa team of Pat Summersville, Parkersburg freshman; Nancy Glaser, Hawthorne, N. J., sophomore; Becky Bastinelli, Huntington freshman, and Kay Sage, Bluefield senior won the 200-yard relay.

It was all over but the voting — voting for the fourth annual Pikes queen. Sigma Sigma Sigma candidate Arlene Bruno, a Merrick, N. Y., junior, was crowned.

Kidnap Plot Pays Off Handsomely!

KIDNAPPED HOUSE-MOTHER, Mrs. Eugene Childers of Delta Zeta, is escorted from the sorority house by Bert Wright, Huntington junior, and Bob McDonald, Grantsville senior. The sororities were left ransom notes demanding canned food and the singing of two songs in front of the Lambda Chi Alpha house.

Lambda Chi's Give 'Kidnap' Food To Children Of Cammack Center

Nearly 500 cans of assorted foods were donated to the Cammack Children's Center last Thursday morning as a result of a kidnapping by the members of Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity.

During the dinner hour at five sorority houses, masked "bandits" entered wielding tommy guns and loud noise makers. Ransom notes were left as two of the bandits grabbed and kidnapped the house mother, while the rest of the "hoods" held off the sorority girls.

The bandits were almost stopped at the Sigma Kappa house due to the quick thinking of Patty Collins, Huntington senior. While the bandits were in the house, Miss Collins grabbed the keys to the get away car.

After a second car was hailed, the boys proceeded to the Lambda Chi house, where the "hostages" were held.

Only after each sorority girl had given a can of food, and had sung two songs to the kidnapers did they get their housemother back.

Later in the evening the first of the sororities was heard coming down Fifth Avenue to the kidnapers hide-out.

Alpha Xi Delta sorority rushed the house, bent on kidnapping one of the kidnapers. After a fierce battle the girls were subdued, sang their songs, gave their food, and received their "mom", Mrs. Berndena Sizemore.

The second sorority to ransom their housemother, Mrs. I. H. Campbell, were the Alpha Chi's. They gave up their ransom food, sang their songs, and returned home with Mom Campbell intact and telling the girls what an enjoyable experience she had had.

Heard coming next down the street were the Sigma Sigma Sigma girls. They presented their food to the kidnapers, gave three cheers for Lambda Chi, and then three more for their mom—Mrs. Mary Tyson.

Delta Zeta came for their mom, Mrs. Eugene Childers, carrying in front of them a poster with the Lambda Chi emblem at the top as a letter head, and on the bottom only the words, Dear Lambda Chi Alpha, We think you're SHARP! Love, Delta Zeta's.

The last to arrive were the Sigma Kappa's. They soon gave up their food and songs, and left, to the tune of their kettle band, with their housemother, Mrs. Joseph Wells.

The next day, the food was donated to the Children's Center, all 496 cans of it, 234 cans being donated by Lambda Chi's themselves who put in one can for every one turned in by the sorority girls.
