MARSHALL UNIVERSITY STUDENT NEWSPAPER

Reverend Duffey Born In State, MU Graduate

By LARRY ASCOUGH
Editor-in-Chief

Rev. Joseph Duffey, a 1954 graduate of Marshall, will deliver the Baccalaureate sermon June 2, according to President Stewart H. Smith.

"Since this will be our Centennial year commencement, we decided to invite one of our own graduates to give the Baccalaureate sermon," Dr. Smith said.

Reverend Duffey will join scheduled Commencement speaker Secretary of the Army Cyrus R. Vance (also a native West Virginian) for the Sunday baccalaureate and graduation exercises.

Reverend Duffey, an instructor in social ethics and director of admissions at Hartford Seminary, Hartford, Conn., is a native of Huntington. His theological degrees were obtained at Andover Newton Theological Seminary and the Yale University Divinity School.

Debate Team Member

While at Marshall, Reverend Duffey was a member of the varsity debate team, Omicron Delta Kappa and a member of the International Relations Club.

He has served as university pastor of the Baptist Student Foundation, Boston, Mass., and as pastor of the First Church of Danvers, Danvers, Mass.

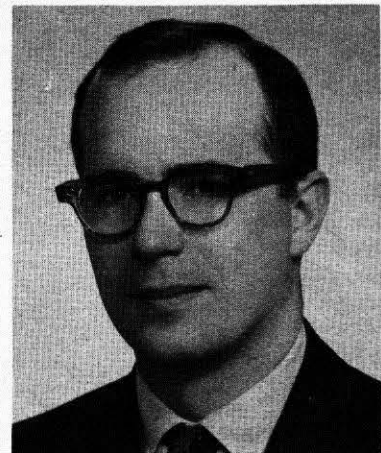

In Hartford, he is a member of the official city task force on Human Problems of Urban Renewal and chairman of community council committee on problems of Urban Renewal. Reverend Duffey also is a member of the board of directors of the Hartford chapters of the American Civil Liberties Union and the Congress on Racial Equality.

Written Articles, Reviews

He has had several articles and reviews published in church and theological journals and has written several newspaper articles.

His present duties at the seminary include teaching seminars in church and laity and working in the Institute of Church and Community.

Reverend Duffey is married to the former Patricia Forney of Morgantown. They have two sons.

Interview Schedule Is Available Today

A list of employment interviews which will be available to seniors beginning today and continuing until March 1 has been compiled by the Office of Placement.

Students who wish to secure an interview should call the placement office and schedule an appointment at the earliest convenience, according to Robert P. Alexander, director of placement. Appointments cannot be cancelled after 4 p.m. of the day previous to the interviews except in the case of emergency.

Coming interviews will involve persons interested in administration, sales, liberal arts, chemistry, engineering sciences, actuarial, assistant merchandise management, marketing and retailing, accounting, physics, and mathematics.

Plans Eyed For Visits By Parents

Committee chairmanships and preliminary plans were discussed by the Parents' Weekend commission of the student government in its first meeting Monday. The meeting was held in the office of John M. Sayre, director of development and alumni affairs.

As in the past, Parents' Weekend will take place the weekend of Mother's Day, May 11-12. The president's reception, departmental displays, an ROTC review and an evening production of the musical, "Brigadoon," are scheduled Saturday.

Sunday's activities include non-denominational church services in the Campus Christian Center, the Mother's Day Sing, departmental awards presentation and open houses in the campus dormitories, fraternity and sorority houses.

Sayre suggests that students inform their parents of the events and dates of the weekend in advance to insure them of the opportunity of attending.

Student Government Members Visit West Virginia Legislators

Representatives of Marshall's Student Government went to Charleston last Thursday to pay a business-social call on the State Legislature.

The group sought to create a favorable impression on legislators, and, at the same time, tried to impress upon the lawmakers the needs of Marshall, and seeking to find out progress of bills concerning the university.

The group also had interviews with leading legislators and the governor.

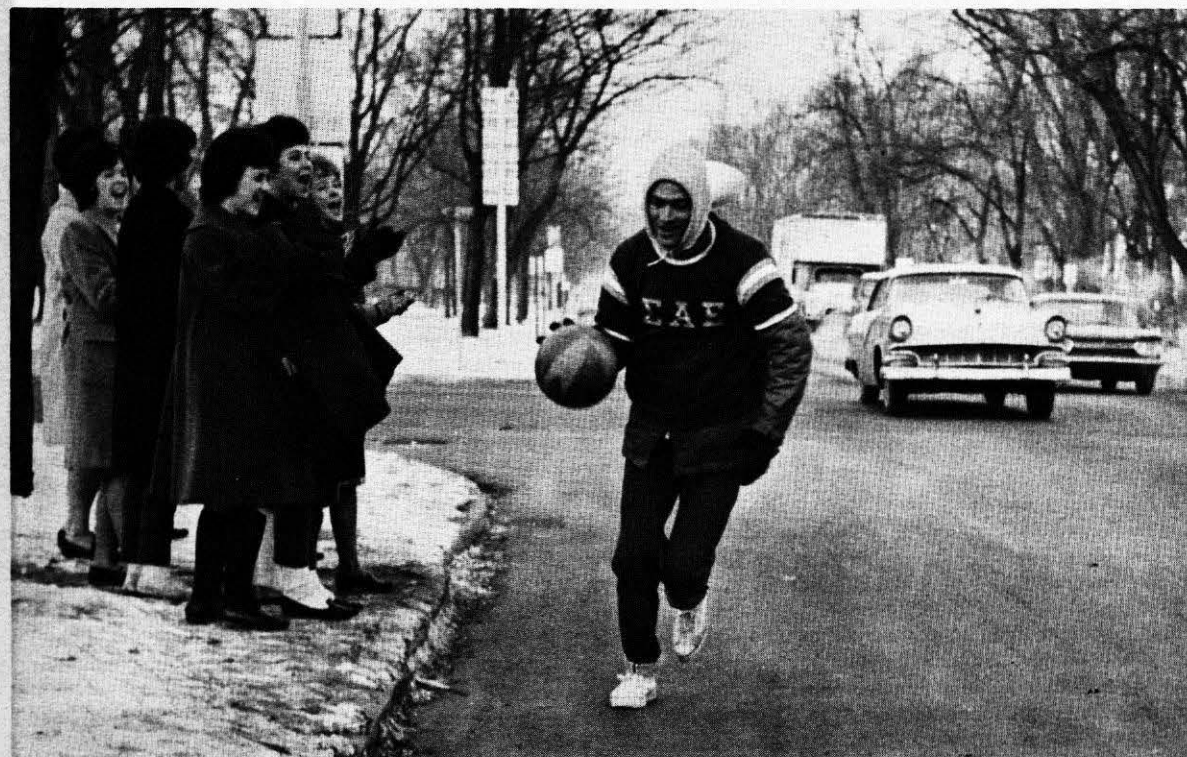

Sen. C. H. McKown, D-Wayne, arranged the interviews and served as host for the visiting students.

Speaker Singleton told the group that no trouble is anticipated for the bill designed to give Marshall a new classroom building.

This bill, which will provide a $5.7 million, 8-story classroom structure, was passed by a 30-0 vote in the Senate last week. The bill is expected to appear before the House sometime this week.

The money will finance the construction of an eight-story classroom and office building, an addition to the James E. Morrow Library, renovation of Old Main and land for a new student union.

Coeds Cheer Dribbler On Fifth Avenue

Dribbling up Fifth Avenue to the applause of a group of coeds, Junior Jones, Huntington senior and SAE president, begins the first segment of the long trek to the capital city. The idea for the ball-dribbling marathon originated with Fred Gumm, Montclair, N. J. junior and an active member of SAE. (See other photo, Story on Page 2)

Alpha Xi Delta, Sig Eps Earn Academic Firsts

Sigma Phi Epsilon had the highest academic average among fraternities the first semester with a 2.440. In fact, it was the only fraternity above the all-men's average of 2.404.

Alpha Xi Delta copped the honors in the sorority division with an average of 2.809. Alpha Chi Omega's 2.809 was good enough for second.

In the fraternity division the remainder of the standings were as follows: SAE's, 2.403; Pikes, 2.276; Kappa Alpha Psi, 2.254; Alpha Sigma Phi, 2.251; TKE's, 2.248; Lambda Chi's, 2.234; Beta Tau, 2.205; and KA's, 2.195.

The DZ's were third in the sorority competition with a 2.659 followed by Sigma Kappa, 2.556; Sigma Sigma Sigma, 2.514; and Alpha Sigma Alpha, 2.325.

The all-women's average was 2.5074. the privately-owned property expires May 31, however, he expressed hope that the 48 new apartments at University Heights would be ready by June 1.

"If University Heights isn't ready we would ask the owners (of the Donald Court land) to give us a grace period," Dr. Smith said. However, he explained that as soon as the new facilities are completed, all Donald Court occupants would have to move.

The Donald Court structures were brought to the present site and erected there in 1946-47. In 1952 the title for the buildings was transferred to Marshall. They had originally belonged to the Public Housing Administration.

Under the terms of the transfer, the structures must be dismantled and removed from the site when they are no longer used for student housing.

President Smith said that the residents of Donald Court would have priority for the apartments at University Heights. He explained that the rent would be higher but it had to be since the school was furnishing $73,000 and since $200,000 had been obtained through an HHFA loan for the renovation of the University Heights buildings.

Dr. Smith said the residents of Donald Court would receive letters this week with as many details of the situation as possible.

He explained that work on the new apartments was under way but a progress report was not yet available. He said the apartments would be completely furnished.

Can't Emphasize Zoology Enough

While talking to 550 persons at the United High School Press luncheon seminar Saturday, Dr. Stewart H. Smith pointed out that Marshall University has 34 departments, ranging from art to zoology.

"But since the recent art exhibit," he said, referring to the centennial exhibit now on display at the Huntington Art Galleries, "we're putting the emphasis on zoology."

SAE's 50-Mile Dribble Proves 'A Ball,' Gains MU National Publicity

By SAM STANLEY
Feature Writer

What started as a joke just over a week ago, bounced into a stunt that gained Marshall University and Sigma Alpha Epsilon statewide, if not nationwide, publicity this past weekend.

The brothers of the West Virginia Alpha chapter of SAE staged a basketball dribble derby to Charleston Saturday to join President Kennedy's physical fitness hiking fad and to "Get the Centennial Ball Rolling" in West Virginia.

It was a complete success, and the ball hasn't lost momentum yet.

The caravan, consisting of a dozen cars and at least 70 brothers who took turns dribbling a basketball in half-mile stints, gained front page attention in papers throughout the state and the Tri-State area, a play-by-play coverage by a Charleston radio station (WCAW) and an interview with "Monitor", NBC's weekend radio program. The interview may be aired this weekend.

It all started early last week when Fred Gumm, SAE treasurer and junior from Montclair, N. J., was joking about the hiking fad with some other SAEs. His "We ought to bounce a basketball to Charleston," comment, mushroomed into a full scale plan in a matter of hours, with the theme "SAE's Get the Centennial Ball Rolling" sealing the matter.

The scheme was laid out by Gumm, a basketball was donated by Larry Glick of the Cabell County centennial board, and an escort to the county line was promised by Cabell County Sheriff Harold Frankel.

At 8 a.m. Saturday morning, SAE president Junior Jones "got the ball rolling" behind the wailing sirens of Sheriff Frankel's cruiser.

It was a cold three degrees above zero when Jones, bundled in sweatshirts, blue jeans, gloves and scarf, began his ordeal. "It was so cold, I thought my fingers were going to freeze," the Huntington senior said, "I couldn't breathe the cold air, so I had to wrap the scarf around my mouth."

However a group of sorority girls at both the Alpha Chi Omega and Sigma Kappa houses were on their front porches applauding Jones as he dribbled by and boosting his morale.

Pledge Dave Leibold, Wheeling sophomore, took over next and he was followed by Huntington sophomore Mike Leckie. The show was well under way.

Despite the cold, which made the half-mile run difficult, the men of SAE had a good time.

Good natured snowball battles developed on road sides among the brothers. Passers-by and sideline viewers cheered them on and some even heckled the travelers.

When the group hit Interstate 64 at Barboursville, the trek started to speed up on the multi-lane highway.

Competition began between the brothers to see who could do the fastest half-mile.

Bill Wooten, who had just pledged the fraternity the night before, was the winner. The Beckley freshman ran his stint in an unofficial 2 minutes, 15 seconds, defeating Middy Midkiff, Huntington junior, by 10 seconds.

On the other extreme the slowest time was by a new pledge also. Pete Skiades, a well-fed New York City sophomore, was clocked in just over six minutes.

However Pete was handicapped by a tumble in which he rolled head over heels. An onlooker said he must have "bounced three times, once even higher than the ball."

However Pete was unhurt and later took another half-mile stint.

Although told to keep to the side of the road a couple of times by state police, the "big dribble" had no problems until it hit South Charleston.

There the stunt almost came to an end, but a helpful Charleston radio (WCAW) announcer, with support from a Charleston newspaper photographer and South Charleston citizens, overruled a city police order to get out of town without bouncing the ball.

It was just past two o'clock when the ball hit the Charleston city limits and the SAE's made it to the Centennial Commission headquarters near the state capital at 2:45 p.m.

There a pretty government secretary hugged Gumm, the last dribbler, and planted a big kiss on his cheek. Gumm turned the well-worn ball over to Centennial commissioner Carl Sullivan, and secretary of State Joe Burdett, representing Governor Bar-on.

"It was a grand idea," said Sullivan as he and Burdett thanked the group for drawing interest to the Centennial and to the state's two largest cities.

After a meal in Charleston, the SAEs headed home in time for the Marshall-Kent State basketball game, another victory for the Big Green. A celebration was held by the SAEs after the game.

Many "sore legs" were evident at the SAE house Sunday, but the enthusiasm was still high.

"I'm proud of the participation and teamwork of the brothers," exclaimed President Jones. "But most of all I'm proud of the conduct of the group and what they did for physical fitness, the Centennial celebration and Marshall University."

It was a big success that started with a joke and ended "in a ball".

SAEs Given Sendoff By Sheriff Frankel

SAE PRESIDENT, Junior Jones, Huntington senior, receives a sendoff on the steps of the SAE house from Cabell County Sheriff, Harold Frankel, Saturday morning, before the long ball-dribbling trip to Charleston. Other SAE members of the fraternity gather around, ready for the 50-mile, seven-hour marathon. The SAEs took turns in dribbling the basketball each half-mile.

Engineer Tells 400 UHSP Delegates About Mariner's Probe Of Venus

Four hundred high school journalists lost their chance to hear Lt. Col. John "Shorty" Powers Saturday but were treated to a top-flight "space talk" anyway at the 28th annual United High School Press.

Fred E. Kochendorfer, program chief of the Mariner project, flew into Huntington Friday night after it was learned that Powers, the scheduled speaker, was hospitalized in Los Angeles with influenza.

During the Saturday luncheon at the Hotel Prichard, Mr. Kochendorfer described the Mariner II and its functions, explained the craft's flight and its principal objectives. He supplemented his talk with slides.

Following his description of the Venus probe, Mr. Kochendorfer, tabbed as one of the nation's leading space engineers, called for questions from the floor. It was during this part of the program that some interesting topics arose. As Mr. Kochendorfer said later, "Those high school students asked more interesting and probing questions than members of the American Rocket Society."

In response to one question he said that the United States could have a man on the moon before 1970 and explained that the Russians were ahead in some aspects of the space race and that the United States was superior in other ways.

In a reply to a question about other life in outer space, he said, "Life elsewhere in the universe is to be expected rather than unexpected." However, he dimmed thoughts of "men from Mars" when he explained that any life found there probably would not be in a form "as we know it."

The luncheon was sponsored by the Huntington Publishing Co.

The two-day list of activities for the students from 34 high schools, included workshops, seminars, tours, panels and critiques of individual school newspapers.

Capital Tour Costs Less Than Reported

The estimated cost for the Washington Study Seminar March 14, 15, 16 and 17, is $36.75 and not $54.25 as reported in Friday's edition of The Parthenon. It was originally stated that hotel accommodations for the three nights in the capital city would be $8.75 a night. Actually the $8.75 covers the entire week end lodging.

The trip, sponsored by the Campus Christian Center, will include a congressional tour of the White House and the State Department. Anyone interested should contact Mrs. Eugene Roe in the Christian Center.

Couldn't Leave Without It

MAC Victory A Must--Rivlin

The sophomore-studded Big Green rolled to its first Mid-American Conference victory of the year as it defeated the Kent State Golden Flashes, 61-52, Saturday night.

"I couldn't leave this place without at least winning one conference game," Coach Jule Rivlin said as he commented on the win over Kent.

Leading the team were forwards Phil Carter and Walt Smittle with 17 and 16 points, respectively. The Big Green dominated the boards by pulling down 38 rebounds to Kent's 33 as Carter hauled in 15 to lead all players.

Marshall led most of the contest except for one cold shooting spell. Kent State took its only lead at 11:45 of the second half on a goal by Don Wenner.

The lead see sawed back and forth until Smittle sank two free throws to put the Big Green back in front for good with 6:37 left.

"Carter, Smittle, and Willie Tucker did a real fine job," Rivlin said as he pointed out that the defense was the key factor to the outcome.

"The defense is holding up and the fact that the boys are getting used to playing with each other makes a big difference," he added.

MU held the Kent scoring threat to 19 of 58 field goal attempts while hitting on 22 of 54 of its own shots. Even with a 41 per cent shooting average the sophomore unit shot its worst percentage yet.

Morehead Evens Mat Series, 16-14

Morehead State Teachers College evened its two-match series with the Big Green wrestlers Saturday by winning 16-14 at the New Physical Education Building.

Jimmy May, 123-pouner, opened the scoring by registering a pin for Marshall and the match see-sawed up until the last feature.

In the heavyweight class, Roger Jefferson had the opportunity to pull out a tie for MU if he could pin Bill Swenick, but the Eagle grappler held on and Jefferson had to settle for a decision.

The Big Green goes up against Ohio University tonight in the Men's Gym. At 7 p.m. the frosh wrestle, and at 8 p.m. the varsity match gets under way.

"Carter is the boy. He's a real demon under the boards," Coach Bob Doll of Kent State said when asked about the game.

The Golden Flashes now have a 3-16 record, having won only one conference game, that being against the Big Green at Kent.

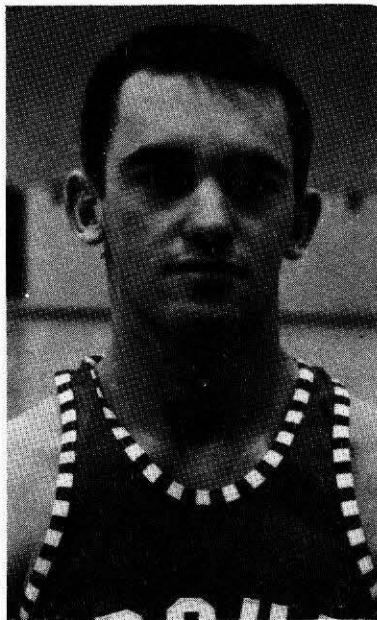

"We've been behind that far before and come back but when the lead is going back and forth, like it did tonight, a team should capitalize on the one-point margin. We didn't," Coach Doll said.

"The sophomores show a lot of hustle and are good shooters," Coach Doll commented.

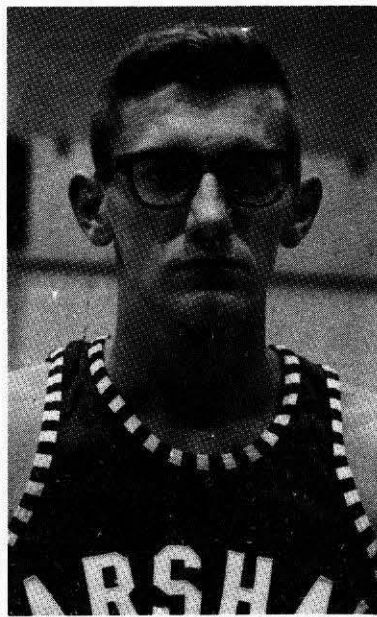

He went on to say that his team was told to put the pressure on guard Bill Francis but "then Jerry Roy came in and hurt us a lot." Francis was held to six points, his second worst output of the season since becoming a starter.

"I can't say I'm looking forward to 10 more games since we've got a losing season but we should get better since we have four of the five starters returning next year," Coach Doll concluded.

The victory left the Big Green with a 6-12 record and only four games are remaining on the schedule (not including last night's contest against Miami of Ohio). MU is assured of its fourth straight losing season and is only one loss away from the worst record in the school's history.

Bearkittens Net 89-65 Victory Over Frosh 5

By JOE DRAGOVICH
Sports Writer

Using a grueling running attack and strong rebounding, the University of Cincinnati freshmen pounded the Marshall frosh 89-65 Saturday night at Memorial Field House.

Playing well at the beginning of the first half, the Little Green was behind only 16-14 with 10 minutes remaining.

But from there the Bearkittens' superior strength started to make its presence felt as they ran to a 50-31 halftime lead.

At the start of the second half Marshall made a gallant comeback effort, outscoring Cincinnati 11-2, but, as before, the Bearkittens spurted ahead for the victory.

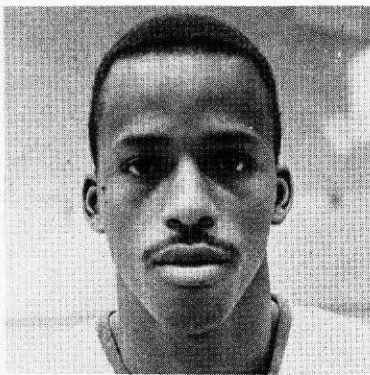

Cincinnati led Marshall in all statistics: Goals, 36-26; foul shooting percentage, 61 per cent to 57, and rebounds, 59-47.

Cincy had four players scoring in double figures with Servin leading all scorers with 33 points.

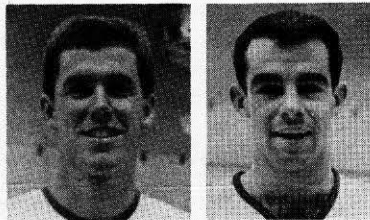

Marshall again got fine performances from Damon Cooke and Tom Langfitt, who scored 14 and 12 points, respectively.

Mike Chambers and Chris Cremeans, non-scholarship players, also played well with Chambers scoring 10 points and rebounding well and Cremeans pumping in eight points and playing a steady floor game.

The Little Green record presently stands at 13-3 with two games remaining on the schedule.

Reporter Addresses J-Students

LISA HOWARD, ABC political and news reporter, is shown in a preview talk she gave to journalism students Thursday before she appeared on the Convocation program. Miss Howard has interviewed Premier Nikita Khrushchev and covered the James Meredith story in Mississippi.

Lisa Howard Recounts Visit To Oxford In Preview Talk

By SANDY O'SHEA
Feature Editor

An interview with Nikita Khrushchev and a harrowing experience while covering the James Meredith story in Mississippi were topics discussed by Lisa Howard, political and news reporter for the American Broadcasting Company, in a brief talk with Journalism students moments before her Convocation appearance here last Thursday.

Miss Howard termed the Mississippi-Meredith situation a "scandal". From the moment she arrived on the scene to cover the story she said it was obvious that no order was to be maintained. There was petty and serious harassment of reporters. Then she related what she said had come to be known as the "Lisa Howard-Oxford Mississippi Incident". "It was the most dramatic thing that has ever happened to me," she said. "I had arrived early . . . there were only seven other reporters there then. The state troopers under Gov. Ross Barnett's orders had been told to intimidate the reporters. It was 2:30 a.m. when I arrived and from there on in I was followed by the police. I tried to find a hotel room but as soon as I told them who I was, they refused to lodge me. There are five hotels in Oxford and I tried all five of them. Finally I called New York and explained the situation. I was told to go to the Old Miss Motel as we had a photographer registered there.

"At the motel they told me they had no vacancies so I went to see this photographer who already had a room. He offered to give me his room but then we were both told to get out. We decided we had better go to Memphis and try to find rooms there.

"We were traveling on this dark, lonely stretch of road when three cars converged on us. Out jumped the police and the sheriff. They asked me who I was and when I told them I had come to cover the James Meredith story they said they had never heard of him! They said they had never heard of ABC either.

"One trooper asked me if I was Miss Howard or Mrs. I replied that it was Miss and he said, 'But you said Mrs. before . . . I'll arrest you for traveling under false pretenses!' He ended every sentence with, 'I could put you in jail for that!'. Then he asked me what I was doing in that motel room with that photographer. I told him I was only in the room for four minutes and the door was open the whole time. 'There's a law against cohabitation in this state, you know,' he said. I told him that if I could cohabit in four minutes it would be interesting!"

The sheriff took Miss Howard's credentials away but later returned them and said, "I'll let you go this time but you get in that car and drive 'til you hit the state line." "On leaving for Memphis the troopers kept telling her 'you were treated nicely here, you remember that'; which meant in other words that they weren't to talk about it. Of the whole incident Miss Howard commented that the people in Mississippi were "determined to maintain a way of life that doesn't exist anymore."

When asked her impression of Khrushchev after her interview with him in the fall of 1960, Miss Howard said: "Khrushchev is a dedicated Communist, Marxist, and Leninist. He believes in that as we believe in democracy. He truly believes what he expounds and he wants others to believe and understand. He is a very charming man . . . he's larger than life . . . humorous . . . mercurious . . . he can run the gamut of emotions within a few minutes . . . he's a very human person . . . he's angry . . . dangerous but not evil . . . a hard man to hurt . . . and he is aware of a need for loosening the reigns."

Miss Howard told students that there was a great deal of prejudice against women in reporting fields. "You have to work twice as hard," she said. "It's like running the 100 yard dash and you think, 'well, I've made it', but then you have to start all over again." A recent magazine article referred to Miss Howard as a "glamour girl" and inferred that because of her beauty, things had been easier for her. "I resented this," said Miss Howard, "and I wrote a letter to the editor about it. Take my interview with Khrushchev. I planned that like a war battle. Any man could have done the same. It wasn't beauty."

In her advice to other women interested in entering the field, she defined a need for perseverance, a deep interest in commitment, deep convictions, and "impartiality but not to the extent of becoming second class citizens." "I knocked on many doors," she said. "Don't take no for an answer and remember that the biggest people are the easiest to reach."

CADET PILOTS PLANE

Cadet F/Lt. John Mazon, Logan senior and member of the ROTC Flight Program, departed Huntington Airport Monday morning piloting a light aircraft to Parkersburg.

Cadet Mazon has been active in the Flight Program since the first of the year and is a member of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon social fraternity.

BAND UNIFORMS SOUGHT

A luncheon meeting called to discuss the purchase of new band uniforms is set for next Wednesday, according to President Stewart H. Smith. He said he hoped to be able to announce something definite after the meeting.

Others expected to attend the meeting include Thomas S. O'Connell, band director and associate professor of music; Harry Wolfe, president of the Marshall Alumni Association; Joseph S. Soto, vice president of business and finance; Dr. C. Lawrence Kingsbury, chairman of the Music Department; and Student Body President Gary McMillan.

SEMINARS SCHEDULED

Dr. Edwin M. Larsen, professor of chemistry at the University of Wisconsin, will speak at seminars Monday and Tuesday in Room 320 of the Science Hall. The seminars are sponsored by the Student Affiliates of the American Chemical Society.

At 4 p.m. Monday, Dr. Larsen will speak on "Non-Silicic Inorganic Ion-Exchangers." At 11 a.m. Tuesday, he will speak on "Transuranium Elements—A Case History."

All chemistry seminars are open to graduate and undergraduate students and faculty. Dr. Larsen's visit is financed by the National Science Foundation. He will be on campus Feb. 25 and 26 to consult with students. Students may make appointments with Miss Marta Baker, Chemistry Department secretary, for the consultations which will be in Room 321.

CADET OF SEMESTER

Cadet Kiev Perlman, Pittsburgh, Pa. sophomore and a member of Company N-1 was recently selected Cadet of the Semester by the Marshall University Battle Group. Cadet Perlman is a member of the Pershing Rifles and president of the Beta Tau social fraternity.

Recipients for this award are required to have a knowledge of military subjects and drill.

SPEAKEASY SCHEDULE

The Speakeasy supper discussion group will not meet tomorrow. Programs scheduled for the following weeks are:

Feb. 28: Discussion of the Book of the Semester, "To Kill A Mocking Bird," with Mr. Jack Smith, Instructor of Art; Earl Hess, St. Marys senior, and Hansford White, Scott Depot junior.

FIRST AID COURSE SET

A first aid instructors course has been scheduled for March 4, 5, 7, 11, and 12 from 7 until 10 p.m. in the Women's Gym for anyone who has a valid advanced first aid certificate.

Miss Louise McDonough, professor of physical education, said that it would be necessary to contact her before the time of the classes and that first aid books must be brought to class.

Senator Randolph Main Speaker

Sen. Jennings Randolph of Elkins, Randolph County, will be the main speaker for the Life Planning Week banquet. The banquet will be held Sunday at 6 p.m. in the Cafeteria following the combined denominational meeting at the Campus Christian Center. Dr. Samuel S. Hill Jr., chairman of the Department of Religion at the University of North Carolina, will speak at the combined meeting.

All Greeks will meet Monday at 8 p.m. in the Old Main Auditorium to hear Dr. Glen T. Nygreen, dean of students at Kent State University and national vice president of Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

At the same time, independent students will meet in Science Hall Auditorium to hear Dr. Hill.

At 9 p.m. Fireside Chats will begin. These informal discussions will include joint sorority-fraternity meetings and combined dormitory discussions. These chats will be conducted by members of the faculty and administration.

Doctor Hill will speak Tuesday at 11 a.m. in Old Main Auditorium and again at the Honors Seminar meeting at 6:30 p.m.

Senator Randolph has been editor of "The Message" in Salem and on the editorial staff of the Clarksburg "Daily Telegram" and taught public speaking and journalism at Davis and Elkins College. He was elected to the United States Senate in 1958 and re-elected in 1960.

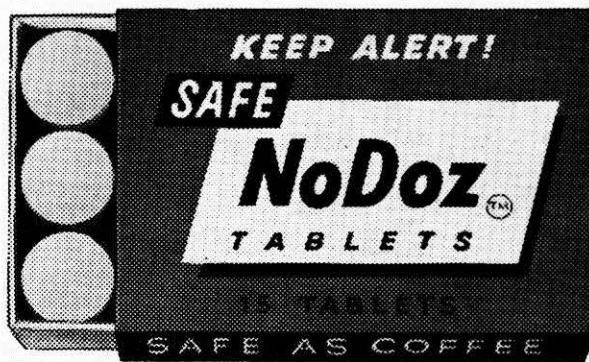

Doctor Hill is a graduate of Georgetown (Ky.) College and Vanderbilt University. He received his B.D. degree from Southern Baptist Theological Seminary. He has signed a contract for publication of a book tentatively titled "The Rise and Decline of Protestantism in the South."

Doctor Nygreen received his

Glen Nygreen Sen. Randolph

Doctor of Philosophy degree from the University of Washington in Seattle. He has served as assistant to the registrar at the University of Washington and as dean of men at Kent State University.
