Events Set For Visits Of Parents

By KAY SAGE
Society Editor

Final planning is now underway for the annual Parents' Weekend, to be held May 11 and 12, according to John Sayre, director of development and alumni affairs.

Parents will arrive on campus Saturday, May 11, from noon until 2 p.m., and register at the 16th street entrance of Old Main Auditorium. Students will meet their parents and act as guides.

A continuous band concert will be presented from 1:15 to 2 p.m. on campus by the University Concert Band, under the direction of Wilbur Pursley, associate professor of music.

The ROTC awards ceremony and review will take place on the Intramural Field at 2 p.m.

Laidley Hall will have a lawn party at 2:30 p.m. and crown their May Queen.

A "Meet the Faculty" social hour will be held from 3 until 4 p.m. in the Student Union. At this time, students will introduce their parents to the faculty members.

The musical, "Brigadoon," will be presented at 8:30 p.m. in the Old Main Auditorium by the Marshall University Theatre.

A typical student mix will be held in the Student Union from 9 p.m. until midnight. Parents who do not attend "Brigadoon," or who stop by after the production are invited to attend.

Parents and students will attend church services Sunday morning.

President Stewart H. Smith will deliver a brief message at 1:45 p.m. Sunday and introduce the members of the administrative staff at the west end of the Intramural Field.

The annual "Mother's Day Sing," sponsored by the Pan-Hellenic Council and the Inter-Fraternity Council, is scheduled for 2 p.m., Sunday, in the Men's Health and Physical Education Building. Weather permitting, the presentation will be held outdoors on the Intramural Field.

BULLETIN!

The Senate ground to a halt Wednesday night on the issue of whether out-going senior senators can vote. The Student Court has been asked to resolve the impasse.

As Bob Puthoff was nominated for the post of chief justice, the dispute over voting rights flared up and snarled further legislative action until the Student Court acts.

An amendment, passed at the April 3 election, will permit out-going senior senators to vote beginning next year. The old senate, however, passed a motion that would allow the current out-going senior lawmakers to vote. The new senate, seated after this month's election, now is challenging the old senate's action.

(Complete details will be in next Wednesday's Parthenon.)

HERBERT BRUCKER
... To Speak On Campus

Noted Journalist Here Next Week

One of America's most outstanding journalists, noted for his stand on freedom of information, will speak Monday and Tuesday during the seventh annual Scott Lectures. Herbert Brucker, president of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, and editor of the Hartford Courant, will speak at a public lecture at 8 p.m. Monday in Old Main Auditorium and will return for an 11 a.m. convocation Tuesday.

Prizes Set For Work In English

The creation of three awards for excellence in English has been announced by William Malarky, treasurer of the Alumni Association. These Omicron Delta Kappa honors awards, which will be called the J. S. Latta prizes, constitute the first such prizes ever to be awarded by the English Department. They will be presented May 12 at the annual honors awards assembly in connection with Parents' Weekend.

Only senior English majors will be considered. Selection will be determined by the excellence shown in all English courses taken.

First prize will be a Webster's unabridged dictionary. Second and third prizes are Webster's biographical and geographical dictionaries.

The Omicron Delta Kappa honors awards committee which has been responsible for having found a sponsor for the prizes, consists of Edward Glasgow, instructor of English; Hilbert Campbell, instructor of English; and Eric P. Thorn, professor of English and chairman of the committee. The committee members and Dr. Mervin Tyson, professor of English, are in the process of selecting the winners.

Mr. Brucker will also appear at 12:15 p.m. luncheons both days. Monday's departmental luncheon will be downstairs in the University Dining Hall. Faculty and students of the Journalism and Political Science Departments have been invited to pick up their trays upstairs and join the luncheon. All faculty and staff members are to clear reservations through President Stewart H. Smith for the Tuesday luncheon.

Newsmen Invited

The president has invited all area newsmen to attend the Monday night lecture. Mr. Brucker's topic will be, "What Do You Think? An Inquiry Into Public Opinion." Everyone is welcome to the Convocation lecture. The topic will be "Un-free News In A Free Country."

Mr. Brucker, who had an interesting and varied career in journalism, received his B.A. degree from Williams College and a Bachelor of Letters from Columbia University. In 1960 he received an honorary Doctor of Humane Letters from Colby College.

Mr. Brucker began his career as a reporter on the Springfield Union in 1923 and on the New York World in 1925-26. For one year he was with the editorial staff of World's Week, and for five years with Review of Reviews.

Joined Courant In 1944

From 1932 to 1944, he was engaged in journalism education, in the position of assistant to the dean and professor of journalism in the graduate school at Columbia University. During World War II he was chief of the Media Division and associate chief of the Bureau of Overseas Publications in the Office of War Information.

In 1944, he joined the staff of Hartford Courant as associate editor and was advanced in 1947 to his present position.

Mr. Brucker has won many other awards for distinguished public service as a journalist and writer, including the John Peter Zenger Award from the University of Arizona, 1959, and the Yankee Quill Award, from the Academy of New England Journalists, Sigma Delta Chi, 1961. He was chairman of the Information Committee of the American Society of Newspaper Editors for three years and was named president of the society last week in Washington, D.C. Since 1959, Mr. Brucker has been president of the American on Education for Journalism.

The Scott Lectures have been an annual event since 1957. They were made possible through a gift from Dr. and Mrs. Francis A. Scott of Huntington.

'Brigadoon' To Be Presented May 8-11 At Parents' Weekend

"Brigadoon," a haunting musical fantasy about a quaint Scottish town that has gone to sleep and awakes but for a single day each hundred years, will be the next attraction at the Marshall University Theatre. It will open May 8, and run through May 11, according to John M. Sayre, co-chairman of the Parents' Weekend Commission.

Al Ross, Beckley junior, and Judy Skeens Smith, Kenova senior, will play the two leading roles.

From this mystic and poetic bit of legend, Learner and Lowe have spun their dreamy tale of a twentieth century American and a 17th century girl, who is still only 19 years old.

Tickets for "Brigadoon" are on sale for the students and faculty members on campus at the Bookstore or in the Speech Department office in the Science Building. General public tickets are on sale at the Speech Department office or at Davidson's Record Shop.

Tickets for the general public will sell for $2.50 and $1.75 per person. The faculty, students and their parents may purchase the tickets for $2.00 and $1.00.

A reservation form for "Brigadoon" was included in a newsletter sent to parents informing them of Parent Week End activities. Parents have been asked to order tickets by May 6.

Parents within 25 mile radius of Huntington are asked to attend "Brigadoon" one of the first three nights in order to accommodate all out-of-town parents Saturday night.

Nine high schools in West Virginia, Kentucky and Ohio, have been invited to see "Brigadoon" as a group at a special student price.

'Brigadoon' To Play On Campus May 8-11

STUDENT CREWS are at work on the sets for "Brigadoon," the musical which will be the next production of the University Theatre. The production will run May 8 through May 11. Tickets for "Brigadoon" are on sale for student and faculty members at the Bookstore and the Speech Department. Tickets for the public are available at the Speech Department office and at Davidson's Record Shop. Tickets for the public are $2.50 and $1.75 per person; those for students and faculty are $2 and $1.

Smart Coeds 'Get In The Swim'

THAT NAUTICAL LOOK takes to water in swimsuits modeled by Joyce Cavender, Ravenswood freshman, (kneeling) and Linda Leckie, Charleston freshman. Both suits are of sailcloth with coordinating hats, beach bags and shifts.

HEAVY COTTON is used in this gold, black and white plaid suit trimmed with black braid. This style features little boy legs, a high front neckline, and the back is low. The waistline of the suit, modeled by Joyce, is centered with a black bow.

Style Is Set For Swimmers

By JANICE RICHARDS
Fashion Editor

Whether it be seen on the dorm sun deck, in the university swimming pool or at the beach, this season's swimwear for ladies can be summed up by the words interesting and unusual. Colors abound, styles are numerous, materials cover a wide range and accessories are matching.

One of the most noticeable style changes is the shift in emphasis from the classic one-piece malliot to the two-piece. For the most part, they are not of the skimpy variety so publicized as an American modification of the European bikini, but are more athletic looking and contain more material.

Another change so prevalent this season is the raised neckline. This can be seen in both one and two-piece styles. Some of the two-piece styles have such a high neckline that they seem quite similar to the shortened blouses that are often worn with jamaicas.

In the malliot type, the high neckline and widened shoulders are sometimes paired with a lowered and gathered waistline to give a bloused effect.

Short pleated skirts can also be seen quite frequently. They are especially common for the lowered, hipster waistline of the two-piece styles. A new style addition for this year is the detachable pleated skirt to be worn with malliots. These are sometimes worn with matching suspenders.

The biggest style news for beach wear is the emphasizing of the continental or sailor look. These are usually of heavy white sailcloth and are coupled with the patriotic colors of red and blue. Most have matching accessories of madcaps, beachbags and shirts.

Materials from which the suits are made also come a wide variety. They range from the latest introduction of denim to the heavy cotton weaves to nylon. Of course the knitted materials, including helanca knit, double knit and cotton knit is well represented.

Obviously, the fashions in this year's ladies' swimwear include some unusual styles and bright colors. Whether one has the time and opportunity to visit the beach or has to settle for the dorm sun deck, she's bound to be noticed and admired for her stunning swimwear.

JOYCE WEARS a helanca suit featuring a multi-colored modern design bodice and v-neck (left). Linda models a white pique suit which has little boy legs, scooped neckline and a tie belt.

Company C Has Banner Day

The sounds of gunfire and verbal commands could be heard last Saturday as the Battle Group engaged in inter-company and squad competition on the intramural field.

Company "C" started the day off right by winning first place in the rifle match, followed by Company "A" as second place winner, and Company "D" won third place.

The squad competition found

Company "C" again in the winners circle, with second place going to Company "A" and third place to Company "D".

Company "A" copped first place in the platoon competition with second place Company "C" close behind and third place going to Company "B".

Finally in individual competition, Jim Owen, Huntington freshman, brought victory to Company "A".

FILLING A WELL-NEEDED GAP

Although my son is a college freshman, I am glad to say that he is still not too old to climb up on my lap and have a heart-to-heart talk when things are troubling him. My boy is enrolled at Harvard where he is studying to be a fireman. From the time he was a little tiny baby he always said he wanted to be a fireman. Of course, my wife and I believed that he would eventually grow out of it, but no sir, the little chap never wavered in his ambition for one minute!

So here he is at Harvard today taking courses in net holding, mouth-to-mouth breathing, carbon tetrachloride, and Dalmatian dogs. It is a full schedule for the young man, and that, in fact, is exactly what we talked about when last he climbed upon my lap.

He complained that every bit of his time is taken up with his major requirements. He doesn't have so much as one hour a week to sample any of the fascinating courses outside his major—history, literature, language, science, or any of the thousand and one things that appeal to his keen young mind.

I am sure that many of you find yourselves in the same scholastic bind; you are taking so many requirements that you can't find time for some appealing electives. Therefore, in today's column I will forego levity and give you a brief survey in a subject that is probably not included in your curriculum.

I have asked the makers of Marlboro Cigarettes whether I might employ this column—normally a vehicle for innocent merriment—to pursue this serious end. "Of course you may, crazy kid," they replied kindly, their grey eyes crinkling at the corners, their manly mouths twisted in funny little grins. If you are a Marlboro smoker—and what intelligent human person is not?—you would expect the makers of Marlboro to be fine men. And so they are—wonderful guys, every man-jack of them—good, generous, understanding, wise. They are each tipped with a pure white filter and come in soft pack or Flip-Top box.

But I digress. We were going to take up a topic you are probably unable to cover in your busy academic life. Let us start with the most basic topic of all—anthropology, the study of man himself.

Man is usually defined as a tool-making animal, but I personally do not find this definition entirely satisfactory. Man is not the only species which makes tools. The simians, for example, make monkey wrenches.

Still, when you come to a really complicated tool—like a linotype, for instance—you can be fairly sure it was made by Homo sapiens—or else a very intelligent tiger. The question one should ask, therefore, is not who made the tool, but what did he do with it.

For example, in a recent excavation in the Olduvai Gorge a large assortment of hominoid fossils was found, all dating back to the Middle Pleistocene Age. Buried with the fossils was a number of their artifacts, the most interesting being a black metal box which emitted a steady beeping sound. Now, of course, zoologists will tell you that tree frogs make such boxes which they employ in their mating activities (I can't go into detail about it in this family newspaper) but the eminent anthropological team, Mr. and Mrs. Walther Sigafoos (both he and she are named Walther) were convinced that this particular box was made not by tree frogs but by Neanderthal men. To prove their point, they switched on the box and out came television, which, as everyone knows, was the forerunner of fire.

If there is anything more you need to know about anthropology, just climb up on my lap as soon as my son leaves.

© 1963 Max Shulman

The makers of Marlboro Cigarettes who sponsor this column, often with trepidation, are not anthropologists. They are tobaccoists—good ones, I think—and I think you'll think so too when you sample their wares—available wherever cigarettes are sold in all fifty states.

The Sports Corner

By JERRY REED
Sports Editor

We took a look at the track team in competition last Saturday against Mid-American Conference foe Toledo, and in the 87-37 loss to the Rockets you could see what potential the Big Green thinclads have and what has hurt them this year.

One big factor is the bad luck the track squad has suffered in the fact that it lost one of the best 100-yard and 220-yard dash men in this area. Phil Neff, who could run the 100-yard dash in 10 seconds or better had grade difficulties.

Everett Vance was out for the regular football season because of mononucleosis and his absence has shown in the weight events, although Mike Hicks has taken up the slack. Hicks will be around for a few more years.

Looking at the brighter aspects we have a lot of sophomores who are winning their share of events this year.

There's Jim Brown, who is doing well for himself this season, in the hurdles, and Jack Mahone who is rated by Coach Charlie Kautz as his fastest man in the 100-yard and 220-yard dashes. This past weekend Mahone proved himself in front of the home crowd although he lost to TU's Chuck Friedman, who incidentally beat out O'Dell Berry, the football player from Findlay who gave MU fits on the gridiron in the first game of the season last year.

Bentley Fine Pole Vaulter

John Bentley, another sophomore, is becoming an outstanding pole vaulter and look out for him when and if he ever gets his fiber glass pole that has been on order for so long. Bentley has been working out in South Charleston with a fiber glass pole under the instruction of Dave Tork, one of the few men to attain the height of 16 feet in this event.

Along with Mahone in the sprints are Butch Clark, junior, and Bob Pruett, sophomore, who make things look a little more comfortable in these events.

But take a look at what the future holds for the MU thinclads. There's Arthur Miller, the fastest hurdle man on the track team and he's only a freshman. When he teams up with freshman Bob Bloom, third in the state track meet last year, and Jim Brown, things could be rough for our opponents next year. Miller actually won the hurdles Saturday but his win was only counted as an exhibition because he is a freshman. Bloom also is competing in the broad jump and he has potential in this event, too.

All in all you can tell why Coach Kautz can take a loss so calmly and say "we're coming along just fine."

CAGE PROSPECT

Coach Ellis Johnson returned to campus last Saturday in order to help show Bob Redd around the MU surroundings and in general try to impress the basketball prospect with the idea that Marshall would like to have him.

Redd graduated from a Louisville high school in 1959 and has just got out of the Marine Corps. In the Marines he played service basketball and averaged over 20 points a game and took his share of the rebounds, although he stands only 6-foot-3.

After talking to Redd we can see that MU has a good chance of securing his services because of the friendly atmosphere here. He has signed a letter of intent with Western Kentucky in the Ohio Valley Conference, but he is not bound to this if he wishes to go to some other school outside of that conference. And, according to him, "I just might want to come here."

"I've talked to many students here at Marshall and I have been very favorably impressed with the friendliness and frankness of the students," Redd said.

"When I was asked to come to Marshall I pictured a little school in the middle of a valley surrounded by mountains, and I was a little hesitant about coming. But my attitude certainly has changed," he commented.

Baseball Team To Entertain MAC Leaders For 2 Games

By DANNY BARBER
Sports Writer

Western Michigan, the class of the Mid-American Conference baseball powers, brings its undefeated conference record into town this afternoon for the start of a two-day engagement with Coach Al Brown's Big Green.

The Broncos, sporting a 4-0 conference record and a 9-1 overall mark, are making a strong start toward repeating as MAC champs.

Marshall, however, hopes to give the visitors a rougher time than it did last year. Having already won more games than all last season, MU boasts the two top hitters in the conference in Kusty Wamsley and Mike Cunningham.

Wamsley is the top hitter with a blistering .480 average on 24 hits during 50 trips to the plate. The diminutive second sacker has also racked up 11 doubles, two triples and two homers to pace the team in the extra base hits and runs-batted-in departments.

Cunningham has bolstered the hitting attack with his .424 batting percentage and ranks second in the MAC behind Wamsley.

Coach Brown is expected to start either Jack Freeman (1-3) or Dale Lynd in the opening game at 3:30 p.m. at the St. Cloud Common ball park. Freeman pitched the Big Green to a come from behind win over Morris Harvey last week and Lynd registered his third win in five decisions Tuesday as MU stopped West Virginia State 9-1.

Lynd has a 2.32 earned run average and has struck out 31 batters to pace the Marshall mound corp.

As a team, the Big Green has supported its pitchers with a healthy .296 team batting average but the defense has been a problem more than once.

It was Wamsley and third baseman Charlie Brown who paced the Green to its lop-sided victory over West Virginia State. Wamsley banged out three doubles in four turns at bat and Brown blasted a 375-foot home run with one man aboard to lead the hitting brigade toward its 12 hits.

The Yellowjackets opened the top of the first with an unearned run on a error by leftfielder Denny Osborne and a sacrifice fly. MU tightened its defense, however, and Lynd scattered State's eight hits over the remaining frames without allowing a score. Marshall registered one double play to set down a rally in the second inning.

Three other Big Green sluggers had good days at the plate, collecting two hits a piece.

They were centerfielder Johnny Griffin who scored three times, Toby Holbrook who had one RBI, and Dick Fillmore who batted also scored once.

Saturday's contest begins at 2 p.m. at St. Cloud.

Gullickson Feels 'Kind Of Humiliated'

Honors Overwhelm Retiring 'Swede'

By SANDY O'SHEA
Feature Editor

"Kick it! Kick it! Kick it!" Those familiar, high-pitched words from beloved Otto "Swede" Gullickson have echoed across the Intramural Field for more than 30 years. And, as his years of service to Marshall University near their end, Swede, who has been the recipient of innumerable gifts and honors at his retirement, expresses his gratitude with these words: "To think that people think that much of me! I can't believe it! I kind of feel humiliated . . ."

At a dinner on March 28 Swede, Professor of physical education and intramural director, was presented with various gifts from university groups. Presentations at the dinner were made by Frederick A. Fitch, professor of physical education.

The Athletic Department honored Swede with an MU sweater and blanket, and a lifetime pass to all Big Green athletic events. From Buildings and Grounds came a key to the university and from the Student Union came a gold key ring. The Student Union also had Swede's whistle gold plated and presented him with it as a surprise at the dinner.

In order to get the whistle without Swede knowing about it, Professor Fitch and Dr. Mike Josephs, professor of physical education, waited until he left his keys and whistle in the locker room. While Swede took a shower, Josephs was to take the whistle and exchange it with another one just like it. But, Swede came out of the shower before the transaction was completed and Professor Fitch found himself trying to engage Swede in conversation long enough for Professor Josephs to finish.

The Parthenon gave Swede a portrait which is to be placed in the Student Union.

At the dinner Swede was also given a watch. With the watch went these words: "Regardless of the passing of time, you will ever remain as a symbol of the friendly and dynamic spirit of Marshall University."

'SWEDE' GULLICKSON
... Receives Gifts

A new Men's Intramural Handbook was introduced at the dinner. "For years," says Professor Fitch, "I have been trying to get Swede to compile an Intramural Handbook and he just never did get around to it. So we, the Athletic Department, went ahead and wrote it and dedicated it to Swede."

The book which contains Intramural objectives, facilities, rules, and games, will be available to all next year.

The inside cover of the book has a picture of Swede with his philosophy, which follows: "I believe that young and old alike, provided an ample opportunity to express themselves in wholesome recreational activities of competitive nature, will do a better job of being good citizens and neighbors in the daily rounds of living. To this purpose I have dedicated my life."

At the dinner Swede was also told that his locker still has his name on it and that it will remain his as long as he wishes to use it.

Swede has been honored at other dinners too. At the Greek Week Banquet he was presented with a silver bowl and Alpha Phi Omega, Boy Scout honorary, gave him a wooden key with all the names of the organization's members on it, a certificate and a gold key.

Swede is an SAE and the chapter here honored him at a dinner where he was made honorary Eminent Archeon, a declaration issued from the national headquarters of the fraternity. He was given a three-layer cake at the dinner.

"I still have some of it left in the deep freeze," says Swede. The fraternity presented his wife with an SAE pin and a dozen red roses. Swede says she wears the pin to bed.

When asked what he thought about all these gifts and honors, Swede said a bit wistfully, "They've ruined me! I'm walking on air!" And to this "Doc" Fitch replied, "Well, we can afford to spoil him a little now."

Netters, Toledo To Play Today

The Big Green tennis team will battle Mid-American Conference squads this weekend as it takes on Toledo and Bowling Green in away matches.

Today the netmen will meet Toledo who is currently leading the conference with a 7-1 record. The Rockets have knocked off such powerful schools as North Carolina State, 8-1, and Davidson, 7-2. The lone loss has been at the rackets of the Duke Blue Devils, 6-3.

After the Toledo match Marshall will travel to Oxford, Ohio, and oppose Bowling Green tomorrow.

The Big Green is sporting a 3-2 record.

pieces of glass that were on the newly-dug practice field by the men's gym. This was part of the initiation ceremonies for these pledges but also it was a great service to the university and to the athletes who will be using this field in future events. Many athletes have been cut by glass in the other part of the field so the Pike pledges deserve a vote of thanks.

Ohio University has a new athletic director in the person of William O. Rohr, present head cage mentor at Northwestern University.

Four Softball Teams Victors In Intramurals

Intramural softball action saw four games played this week. The Lab School lost to the Sig Ep No. 3 team, 13-7, and Lambda Chi spanked Kappa Alpha Psi, 13-4, in Monday's round.

QUESTION: Do you feel that Marshall is providing satisfactory attractions to out of state students?

Mike Leckie, Huntington sophomore:

"I feel that Marshall offers the same attractions to out of state students that any school this size can."

Jack Babcock, Huntington freshman:

"No, I do not. The lack of interest of the student body toward the support of intercollegiate athletic events is greater than on many other campuses of equal size."

Brenda Fidler, Ashland, Kentucky freshman:

"No, because Marshall does not offer any vacations long enough for many out of state students to go home. The school does offer adequate academic facilities to out of state students who wish to strive for an education."

Charles Smith, Huntington sophomore:

"Yes. The social life here is outstanding."

Debate Team Wins Top Place In State Contest

The debate teams climaxed their season this past week-end by winning the state Intercollegiate Debate Tournament at Jackson's Mill.

Both the affirmative team of Cathy Imbrogno, Charleston freshman, and Aubrey King, Jaeger senior, and the negative team of John Cross, Huntington sophomore, and Tom Dunfee, Huntington senior, won four debates and lost one, giving Marshall an 8-2 record and first place in the tournament.

Imbrogno and King were also awarded the tournament's "best affirmative team" trophy.

The speech department's contestant in oratory, John Burke, Huntington junior, received first place honors and a trophy. In radio announcing, Judy Cipolletti, Wellsburg junior, took second place in the women's division and Gene Bias, Yawkey sophomore, placed third in the men's division.

In extemporaneous speaking, David McWhorter, Huntington senior, spoke for Marshall, and in the non-contest events representatives were Marcy Race, Huntington junior, and Margaret Meyer, Bluefield sophomore.

For oceans of fun this summer you can be well "suited" with a beautiful swim suit from our large selection of Jantzen, Rose Marie Reid or Petti.
