RAM Moving Ahead At Full Speed

Want to qualify as a Monday morning quarterback for the Big Green football games? Attend three practice sessions and join the club — with membership card issued by the Athletic Department. Bleachers are even being erected at the practice field for the greater comfort of fans.

This is just one of the ideas dreamed up by Head RAM Leonard Samworth, president of the Ohio Valley Bus Co. and recently appointed director of the Rally Around Marshall (RAM) program.

"I feel that a whole new spirit is developing as a result of RAM," Mr. Samworth said Wednesday. "Talks with the faculty, students, Athletic Department and community leaders is convincing proof of this."

He added that RAM is necessary so that the Tri-State area can renew ties with Marshall. It also will show the community's interest in maintaining an affiliation with the Mid-American Conference.

RAM was organized two weeks ago because of a $20,000 deficit in athletic funds.

Ohio Valley bus drivers, all of whom are selling football game tickets in addition to their regular duties, report that pedestrians are stopping buses to buy tickets to the Morehead game tomorrow night.

At least 8,000 fans are expected to turn out for the grid-iron opener.

Mr. Samworth met with the Robe Tuesday night and offered a savings bond to any organization represented in Robe's membership, that has the highest percentage of attendance at the Toledo game, which will be the second home game.

To further promote attendance, Mr. Samworth said a downtown ticket booth would soon be set up. Additional stores will be contacted to sell general admission tickets.

And on the day of home games, all Ohio Valley buses will be decked out with green and white pennants. These have been ordered and should arrive in time for the Toledo game.

A meeting with merchants this week may lead to window displays that could heighten interest in MU football clashes.

All in all, RAM is moving full steam ahead.

Lecturers Cancelled By Scotts

Lack of interest on the part of students and faculty has resulted in the discontinuance of the Scott Lectures by Dr. and Mrs. Francis Scott, according to President Stewart H. Smith.

Although no new projects have been decided upon, Dr. and Mrs. Scott are eager to support some program at the university. The lectures were initiated in 1956 to promote interest in various disciplines by bringing to the campus speakers in various fields for formal and informal lectures.

Dr. Smith has an appointment with Dr. and Mrs. Scott today to discuss other projects which they might be interested in supporting. It would not be a lecture series, however.

In a letter to the university president, Dr. Scott said that lack of interest prevented the lecture series from accomplishing its purpose.

Last year, Herbert Brucker, editor of the Hartford (Conn.) Courant, spoke on various phases of public opinion. Other lecturers have been Dr. Dexter Perkins, Willy Ley, Dr. T. V. Smith, Dr. John S. Brubacker and Dr. Walter Blair.

Worry Beads Just A Precaution

TOP WORRIER of the Rally Around Marshall (RAM) group is Leonard Samworth, chosen to head a group of businessmen in a drive to build up support for MU athletics. He is showing his strand of Greek woory beads — used by ancient Greeks to express anxiety, to Fran Allred, newly-appointed editor-in-chief of The Parthenon. The group is working to activate Huntingtonians to greater support of Marshall.

Senate Approves Homecoming Date, Gainer Appointees

By GARY KEARNS

This fall's plans for Homecoming were presented to—and passed by—the Student Senate Wednesday night.

The date of this year's Homecoming will be the weekend of Nov. 8-10, with the election of the various class queens taking place on Nov. 4.

Homecoming, 1963, will have as its theme "Pass in Review," and the big parade this season will feature antiquated automobiles. Among the entertainment features during the weekend's festivities will include a hootenanny with The Huntsmen, and possibly The Travelers Three. The Homecoming Dance is to have the Mel Gillespie Orchestra and The Bo Diddely Trio as attractions.

Gainer Appoints

Also Judy Dean, Huntington sophomore, United Fund; Karl Honaker, Huntington sophomore, State Awareness Committee; Alfreda Corradi, Huntington senior, State Conduct and Welfare Board; Connie Barbara, Mount Hope junior, replaces Patricia

Kidd, Huntington senior, who resigned as executive secretary to the Student Government, and Paul Wetheralt, Huntington senior, replaces Bob Putoff as a justice on the Student Court, who also resigned his position.

Committee To Probe

In another significant move Wednesday night, the senate approved six persons to work on a specially-created committee to investigate—in an effort to strengthen—the Student Court.

Windfall Occurs During Rainfall!

A little rain must fall during each person's lifetime. . .

And so, during a rainstorm last week, one of the Bookstore employees, Charlene Rice, set her umbrella near a rack of umbrellas that were on sale.

Cost of her umbrella—$4.95.

Along came a student in need of protection from the cloudburst, and so a store clerk, Lucille Ingram, sold the $4.95 umbrella for $2.98.

Student bargain—$1.97.

Bookstore profit—$2.98.

As for Charlene, a little rain must fall. . .

Master Plan For Future Growth Of Marshall To Be Shown Oct. 1

A master plan for future growth of the university will be unveiled at the first general faculty meeting, Oct. 1, by Richard Boggs of the firm of Boggs and Rehn. President Stewart H. Smith has announced that the landscape architect and land planning body has drawn up a projected outline to coordinate growth and expansion of the main campus.

Among proposals to be introduced is one that all future buildings be constructed with two stories of underground parking facilities.

The recommendations will be used to aid orderly growth of the university but will be used with flexibility. President Smith stressed that the needs of the school would govern modifications of the plan.

The introduction of the plans will be illustrated by a series of maps and explained in brochures.

President Smith added that this set of recommendations is more detailed than earlier ones which were also designed to analyze the needs of the growing campus community.

At present, copies of the brochures are being circulated among administrative personnel but the first explanation of the plan by its designers will come at the 4 p. m. meeting in Old Main Auditorium.

Best Question Can Win $10 At President's Convocation

What's the $10 question?

Why not "Ask It Now" at the President's Convocation next Thursday at 11 a. m. in Old Main Auditorium?

Dr. Stewart H. Smith announced that the old custom will be resumed after a lapse of more than 10 years. Since students probably are getting a little tired of speeches, President Smith plans to conduct a question-and-answer forum, with the vice presidents, academic deans, and other staff members on stage to handle the queries.

Three judges will be in the audience and they'll determine who wins the $10 for the best question.

Students who wish to ask questions should write them out in advance, and include their names. Ushers will circulate through the audience and collect the questions after they have been asked.

Season's First Football Rally Scheduled Tomorrow Night

The Robe Campus Men's Honorary will sponsor the first pep rally of the football season at 6 p. m. tomorrow night.

The rally begins on fraternity row at 6 p. m., will proceed down sorority row. The parade will proceed onto Campus and gather the various groups from each of the dormitories.

The rally will be held on the Intramural Field. A bonfire will be held and the cheerleaders will lead the cheers. The rally will then be dismissed and the students will proceed to Fairfield Stadium for the game.

At the half-time ceremonies for the Marshall and Morehead football game, the annual tug-of-war between the Robe or Men's Honorary and the freshmen football team will be highlighted.

This year due to the limited membership of the Robe, 25 members in all, there will be 25 players chosen from the Freshman squad, in order to give both sides a fair chance, according to Carrol Hoffman member of Robe.

The tradition is that if the Robe wins the freshmen will wear their beanies another week or if the freshmen win, the beanies will not be worn.

Campus Briefs

Young Americans To Form Chapter

John L. Jones, state chairman of the political organization, Young Americans for Freedom, has announced plans for the formation of a local chapter on campus.

Coinciding with the formation plans was the announcement of the first meeting to be held in the Student Union at 7 p. m. next Thursday.

Mr. Jones said that with the creation of the group here in Huntington, and the formation of an advisory board, YAF will now have the resources to form chapters throughout the state.

The organization is primarily a conservative youth movement with the foremost objective of stimulating and mobilizing conservative political action.

Alpha Xi's House Enlarged

By CAROLYN McDONEL
Staff Reporter

One of the 12 fraternity and sorority houses near Marshall's campus has assumed a major change in its appearance since last May. The Alpha Xi Delta house, located on the corner of Elm Street and Fifth Avenue, has undergone a $50,000 enlargement and renovation during the summer.

Downstairs, a new kitchen, dining room, and recreation room have been added. The house's old dining rooms have been converted into a three room suite for the housemother, Mrs. Berdena Sizemore.

The second floor of the house has been enlarged to include a bedroom spacious enough to house 20 girls. The bedrooms previously on the third floor have been converted into a chapter room.

The outside of the house boasts a new side entrance and a private underground parking lot which can hold approximately 12 cars. A direct entrance leads from the parking space to the first floor of the house. The inside of the house will be completed following the installation of the ceilings and floor tiles.

What Happened During Summer?

By GARY KEARNS

What happened on campus this summer while you were away? Well, it was the best of times, and it was the worst of times, but it wasn't dull.

June had a lot. It was the Centennial month of the Centennial summer of the Centennial year, and there was much ado about everything.

Walter C. Felty, associate professor of social studies and Cabell County's representative to the Centennial Commission, presented official certificates of appointment as West Virginia Centennial Colonels to seven Marshall administrative and faculty members.

The summer school enrollment figure was 2,262, according to James Moore, director of admissions. This was 132 more than last summer, he said. Moore added that this was an increase of about six per cent, with the largest upsurge taking place in the College of Arts and Sciences.

And then there was Soupy Sales, whose own skyrocketing career has also served to assure prosperity to the bakeries of this country. A 1948 graduate with a degree in journalism, Soupy returned to the campus to renew old acquaintances—and, inevitably, he made many new ones. When asked if Hollywood was as wild as the press pictured it to be, he said something that Marshall students have known all along: "I have been here four days and Huntington is a lot wilder."

Paul H. Collins, administrative assistant and director of adult education, announced that one, and possibly both, of Marshall's recently established branch schools would open their doors to students this fall. Collins said that the Logan Branch would open in late August, and that the Williamson outlet might also open this fall—if it can produce a registration figure of "at least 100." As it turned out, both of them opened on schedule.

The West Virginia Centennial Showboat, the Rhododendron, premiered in Charleston on June 14, with Dick Reid, Charleston senior, in the male lead. The vehicle was "East Lynne," and it captivated audiences throughout the summer up and down the state's major rivers and tributaries much as it had captivated audiences 100 years ago. Reid was one of four Marshall students to try out for the production.

And there were girls, ah, the girls. Peggy Tucker, Bluefield junior, was one of the five West Virginia coeds to grace the court of the state's Centennial Queen.

On Saturday, June 29, dat old debil, the English Qualifying Exam, was given, and Adrian Gobell, Fairlawn, N. J., junior, found himself in a situation all smokers dread: no ciragettes. But if it was any consolation, he had something like over 5,000 empty packs, for, you see, he was saving them in connection with a national contest. (Cough!)

The Legislative sub-committee on higher learning visited the campus July 1. The group toured the main campus and University Heights and conferred with President Stewart H. Smith and other key administrative officials, discussing matters of educational and economic importance.

The University Theatre opened its straw hat season on July 6 with that much-acclaimed comedy, "Come Blow Your Horn." One of the stars of the production was Marshall's own version of Helen Hayes, Julie Andrews and Julie Harris wrapped into one, Grace Barrett. (And that's some wrapping!)

And Marshall's new University Children's Theatre presented the story of "Hansel and Gretel" on July 13. The cast of the play, which was sponsored in part by the Beverly Hills Woman's Club, numbered 15, and included both Marshall students and children of Huntington.

Marshall's cultural activities for the coming year were announced and some of the outstanding personalities include Woody Herman, Dave Brubeck, Sir Julian Huxley, Art Buchwald and Celeste Holm. Also, a road company will present the long-run Broadway dilly, "A Man for all Seasons," so stick around.

A new application for federal funds to be used in financing construction of the proposed Research Center was delivered to Area Redevelopment Administration officials in Washington in mid-July by President Smith. Prof. Juan C. Fors, chairman of the Spanish Department, announced that he and his wife would conduct their perennial tour of Europe again this summer. The trip, termed a "travel study," offered the opportunity for students to see and learn about many of the top cultural an popular attractions on the continent.

As July drew to a close, a request for a 1964-65 budget calling for an increase of $831,851 over the current operating account was being considered by the State Board of Education in Charleston, and a supplementary annex to the James E. Morrow Library, according to Harold Apel, head librarian. The third floor attic of the building was made into shelving space.

The annual University Leadership Camp was in its final planning stages. It was scheduled to take place at Cedar Lakes, near Ripley, from Sept. 5-7, according to Ann Eskridge, Marlinton junior and coordinator of the leadership camp commission. A group of 115 persons, including students, faculty and administrative officers were expected to attend.

The Sports Corner

By JERRY REED
Sports Editor

The 1963-64 grid season is closing in on us and tomorrow night the Big Green will take the field against Morehead State, a team that MU Coach Charlie Snyder feels is one of the best Morehead has had.

Of course it probably has been noted in various newspapers that Snyder thinks his team is no slouch on the gridiron and that following last year's 4-6 record the MU gridgers are looking for just as good a campaign.

The big problem is depth on the line and if one of the regulars is injured then a bad situation will appear, but the guard and tackle positions have experienced men and Coach Snyder admits that he has "five outstanding ends." In the backfield each position has at least two capable men to fill the post. At quarterback Snyder and his coaching staff have the problem of selecting the best out of three candidates and up until now the job has been difficult.

Larry Coyer, Alex Sansosti and Howard Miller are the three at present while senior John Griffin, one of the top candidates earlier in the year, is out temporarily due to a chest injury. Interest is mainly on the quarterback position because Coach Snyder was left with the same task last year after Ralph May graduated and Bob Hamlin was selected. Hamlin proceeded to set records in passes completed and total yards gained for a MU signal caller and ended up as one of the best quarterbacks in the nation as judged by passing and yardage gained.

Another player to keep an eye on is end Jim Cure. After a successful year in his sophomore season attention will be focused on him to see how he progresses. Cure was selected to the first team All Mid-American Conference squad and set Marshall records as well as a MAC record for his pass catching and yardage gained.

At the center position Snyder said he will have to go with one of two sophomores, Tom Good or George Kasonavich, because his senior prospects Dave Forinash and Ralph White are out with injuries.

So a look at the team on paper gives the impression that the Big Green is strong, but a lot of problems have to be worked out. However, the outlook is brighter than it has been for the past few years. At least right now the football situation is one that all MU fans should want to support and be proud of. Get behind the team tomorrow night and help spur it on.

NOTES AND QUOTES . . .

Coach Sonny Allen is issuing a call for all those interested in running for the cross-country team that is being organized this fall. All candidates, freshmen or upper classmen, are asked to report to Coach Allen in the Men's Gym as soon as possible. The schedule for this sport is now being organized and, according to Coach Allen, "All we need now is the boys."

We were talking to basketball coach Ellis Johnson the other day and he informed us that he acquired a few good college prospects for the freshman squad this season. It sounds like he has the material to work so let's hope everything works out all right.

The intramural program is under new leadership this year, as most everyone knows, but what everyone doesn't know is that Mr. Bob Dollgener is behind the students all the way and his door is open to those with new ideas — and even complaints. Drop in and meet him or better still join the intramural program and see how it is run.

Cross-Country Track Returns Following Four Years Absence

After a four-year layoff a cross-country team will be organized this fall under the direction of Coach Sonny Allen.

8,000 Are Expected At Gridiron Opener

An attendance of 8,000 or better is expected at tomorrow night's football opener against Morehead in Fairfield Stadium, according to Neal B. "Whitey" Wilson, athletic director.

"We expect that many if the weather is good," he said. The renovated stadium can seat 10,000.

Students who wish to take dates to MU games can do so by buying a $1.50 ticket at the athletic office. If they wish to sit in a reserved seat section with their parents, they can have their activity card punched in the athletic office and a reserved seat ticket will be issued to them at no extra cost.

A meeting was held Tuesday afternoon for all candidates interested in cross-country running.

"We still need a lot of boys and all those interested please report to me at the Men's Gym," Coach Allen said.

As of right now two meets have been scheduled with Morehead State Teacher's College runners. The first one will be here on Oct. 12 with a second meet slated for Oct. 26 at Morehead.

"We're hoping to have five matches scheduled before the Mid-American Conference," Coach Allen added.

The MAC meet is scheduled for Nov. 9.

WAA MEETING MONDAY

The Women's Athletic Association will hold its organization meeting at 4 p.m. Monday in the clubroom of the Women's Gym. All members are urged to attend.

Green Faces Morehead In Grid Season Opener

The Big Green grid squad opens the season against Morehead State Teachers College tomorrow night and Coach Charlie Snyder expects a "tough game" against what he calls one of the "best Morehead teams in a long time".

"We're strong and experienced at some positions but a big problem is that we haven't got enough depth at other positions," Coach Snyder commented.

"At the end positions we are real strong because we have five outstanding ends in Jim Cure, Bob Venters, Jim Perry, Jim Lewis, and Bob Pruett," Snyder said.

The tackle and guard positions are where Coach Snyder is worried mainly about depth. Co-captain Everett Vance and Mike Hicks will hold down the tackle slots while Bill Winters and Richard Turner will be at the guard positions.

At center Snyder said that he would have to go with one of two sophomores, Tommy Good or George Kasonavich, since the two senior candidates for that position are out with injuries. Dave Forinash and Ralph White are out for the season due to these injuries.

In the backfield Snyder plans to run an offensive and defensive team. On the offensive team he has three quarterbacks to choose from in Larry Coyer, Howard Miller and Alex Sansosti. (The starting line-up was announced yesterday after The Parthenon's press time).

At the tailback position will be Jim Brown or Jack Mahone while Zeke Myers or Jabo Williams will hold down the right halfback job. Al Rhinehart or Dave Boston will handle the fullback chores. Brown, Myers, and Rhinehart saw the most action last season at these positions.

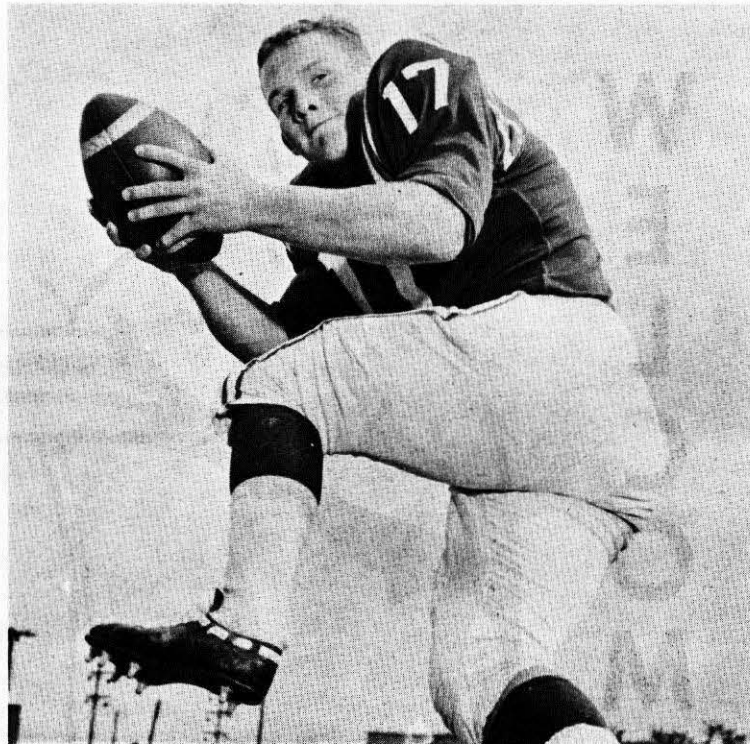

In the defensive backfield will be Larry Coyer and Dick Fillmore at the deep back positions and Paul Turman and Glen Bell will be the corner backs.

Commenting on the pre-season polls that predicted MU last Coach Snyder said, "No one likes to be picked last and with 20 lettermen back we hope to prove that we're not a last place ball club."

"We feel like Butler was an inferior ball club compared to the Ohio Valley Conference teams we play and also inferior to the Marshall ball club," Morehead State Coach Guy Penny said after his team's victory over Butler last week.

"About 18 boys are all we have to go with Saturday night and I think Marshall has better reserve strength and could possibly run two teams against us without any trouble," Coach Penny added.

Last year MU defeated Morehead at Morehead 26-18 and in the series between the schools MU has won 14, lost two, and tied two.

LARRY COYER, junior quarterback, may be the top choice of Coach Charlie Snyder to handle the signal calling duties for the Big Green in the lid-lifter tomorrow night against Morehead State.

An Editorial

Good Luck, Big Green!

Go get 'em, Big Green!

The varsity football team, pictured on this page along with the coaching staff, opens the season tomorrow at 8 p.m. in Fairfield Stadium. The opponent—Morehead College, no slouch when it comes to grid-iron battles.

Head Coach Charlie Snyder begins his fifth season at the Marshall helm with tomorrow night's action. Each year the team has shown improvements. During the 1962 season, Snyder's team posted a 4-6 record; but anyone who bothers to look at the schedule this year will be convinced that it's a tougher one.

The Parthenon extends best wishes to the coaching staff and the team for a successful season; but win, lose or draw we know there's going to be some good football for the fans to see.

So be out at Fairfield tomorrow night and help cheer the Big Green in its opening debut. The team has worked hard to get in shape and each of the players deserves your support. See you at the game!

U. S. Fitness Queen Set For Movie, Trip Abroad

Strange, adversity. When Patrick Bouvier Kennedy died last Aug. 9, a Marshall coed's plans for the coming year were greatly altered.

Nina Hatfield, Charleston senior, and a physical education major, was all set to begin a tour of Europe as the winner of a search for the best qualified American female physical education major when the President's son died after only living a day and a half after his birth.

Her trip to Europe—plus the President's reception for her in Washington—had to be canceled.

"Everyone thought that it would be better if we postponed the trip until next June," Nina said, "because of the death of little Patrick.

Filming Will Begin

"But the filming of the physical education picture, by 20th Century Fox will begin in a couple of weeks in Chicago. I will fly out there on weekends to film my scenes. The picture should be completed by Christmas."

She was speaking of a film, the production of which goes along in part with the honor of winning the national contest.

The picture will feature Nina as the girl of the type most likely to best impress Europeans as the ideal American girl. She said that she would travel with the film for about a year in this country, and that she would accompany the picture in Europe.

It will be shown in regular movie houses in this country, besides being sent to colleges and universities and to physical education centers.

Selected By Council

The President's Council on Physical Fitness selected Nina out of a group of 200 women. The contest was sponsored by Lanvin perfumes. Nina's name and picture were submitted to the Council by Dr. Alta Gaynor, chairman of the Women's Physical Education Department.

The winning qualities which a candidate for the honor had to possess to be a finalist—and a victor—in the contest were the appearances of health, poise and wholesomeness. Three finalists were first chosen, and out of the three Nina was the one picked as THE Fit American.

The only requirement for entry in the contest was that the woman must be a college student and a physical education major.

Received Publicity

Before the trip and the ballyhoo were postponed, but immediately after she won, Nina received much national publicity in the newspapers and on radio and television, but especially in the newspapers, because pretty girls are always good copy.

Nina's sojourn on the continent will last about a month. Besides making public appearance in France and Scandinavia, tentative plans call for a meeting with the Mayor of Paris, and, possible, with Madame Charles de Gaulle.

Before leaving for Europe, however, she will be the guest of honor at a reception given in New York City by Mayor Robert Wagner.

Exchange Student Basis

While she is in Scandinavia, Nina will also be an exchange student.

This summer, when she was receiving so much attention right after she was announced as the contest's winner, she made a statement to the press that caused a lot of laughter—and agreement.

It was the kind of statement that you'd expect from Nina Hatfield—typically American.

She said that it really didn't bother her too much that the Soviet women seem to outshine our girls in physical contests. "At least, we don't have to look like they do," she added.
