Spaulding Is Frosh President

The Parthenon

MARSHALL UNIVERSITY STUDENT NEWSPAPER

Vol. 63 HUNTINGTON, W. VA. FRIDAY, OCTOBER 11, 1963 No. 14

Glaser, Cargal, Petty, Williams Gain Senate

By GARY KEARNS
News Editor

Hobby Spaulding of Huntington was elected president of the freshman class in Wednesday's election, amassing 123 votes.

He was ratified as the leader of his class by the Student Senate with only one dissention—Danie Stewart, Barboursville sophomore senator and president of the sophomore class.

Four freshman senators, plus one alternate senator, were also ratified by the senate as representatives of the freshman class. There was no opposition to these students.

Highest Vote Getter

Gathering the highest number of votes, and therefore becoming not only a senator, but also freshman vice-president, was Nancy Glaser of Hawthorne, N. J., with 195 votes.

Janie Cargal of Huntington came next with 194 votes; Kathy Williams of Huntington with 180; Diana Petty of Huntington received 167, and Sam Samworth of Huntington was elected alternate senator with 144 votes.

A total of 509 students went to the basement of the Student Union Wednesday and pulled the levers of the voting machines for their desired candidates.

Light Turnout

Student Body Vice President Marna Paulovicks, Wheeling senior, expressed displeasure concerning the lighter-than-light turnout.

This was about par with last year's number of students voting in the freshman election when about 500 went to the polls.

There were about 25 candidates vying for Student Government offices.

A controversy developed Wednesday concerning one of the election campaign signs.

One of the explicit regulations for the campaign was that no candidate was to have more than eight posters or signs on campus announcing his or her candidacy. Also, no sign or poster was supposed to be larger than five feet by 10 feet.

However, one candidate, a presidential aspirant, Hobby Spaulding of Huntington, had two 10 foot-long signs connected together directly in front of the Student Union. There were some people who questioned the legality of this, saying that this was actually only one sign 20 feet in length.

Therefore, the controversy. Spaulding, himself, believed his sign to be legal, and so did Student Body President Kenny Gainer, Charleston senior, and Dot Wheeler, Huntington senior, and Election Commission coordinator.

Sign Believed Legal

Miss Wheeler said that she and President Gainer had discussed the situation, and that they had decided that if Spaulding "wanted to place two signs next to one another it was his business." One sign simply spelled out "SPAULDING," and the accompanying poster had "FOR PRESIDENT" lettered on it.

As for those who thought the

Teachers' Program Is Expanded With $50,000 Foundation Grant

A $25,000 grant from the Ford Foundation, announced yesterday, has made it possible to expand the experimental teacher education program being conducted jointly by Teachers College and the State Department of Education in three West Virginia counties.

Dean D. Banks Wilburn of Teachers College said that last year's grant of $15,000 was given directly to the Mason County Board of Education, where the program was first initiated.

This year the Ford Foundation allocation to Marshall University makes it possible to expand the program into Cabell and Kanawha Counties. A total of 34 Teachers College students currently are enrolled under the direction of 18 teachers in those counties. Last year, in Mason County, there were 14 students and seven teachers in the first semester.

The program is under the direction of Dr. Eric Core, associate professor of education. The increased grant makes it possible to employ Hillard Hoffman, assistant professor of education, who has completed all his work toward the Ph. D. except his thesis. Professor Hoffman will help Dr. Core supervise the program.

In addition, the grant will be used for travel expense, evaluation of the program, and bringing to the counties consultants on special teaching techniques and for an annual in-service workshop concerning supervision of the program.

The program, as now set up, works this way:

Teachers College students, in their junior year, are assigned to schools in one of the three counties for the first semester of each year and receive a stipend of $1,000. They work under the direction of a "lead" teacher. In the second semester, the juniors return for classroom work on campus.

During their senior year, student teachers work in one of the three counties during the first semester with a stipend of $1,100. The second semester is spent on campus.

Students enrolled in this program require 4½ years to graduate, instead of the usual four years.

Senators Recommend Naming Men's Gym After Gullickson

A resolution by Dean Thompson, Huntington junior alternate senator, recommending that the Men's Physical Education Building be named the "Swede" Gullickson Gymnasium, was passed by the Student Senate Wednesday night.

Bertie Ann Humphreys, Huntington senior senator, requested that Senator Thompson's resolution be changed to read that the senate "recommended" the action, rather than having the name change "resolved," as the first presentation of the resolution read.

Senator Humphrey's motion was also approved by the senate, in that the senators do not have the final word of authority on whether the building will be named after Gullickson or not.

Thompson said that the final decision on the name change will have to go up through the university administration, or even probably to the State Board of Education.

The senate also Wednesday night passed a move placing Marshall in the running for the "Turtle International"—a race featuring turtles among various colleges and universities around the world.

Runoffs will be staged at the different schools, with the big finale coming with the most adept turtles racing in the "International."

Fumes Cause Evacuation Of Hodges Hall

The approximately 175 residents of Hodges Hall, men's dormitory, were orderly evacuated from the building around 9:00 p.m. Wednesday night as a result of a carbon monoxide leak in the dorm's boiler room.

According to C. S. Czkelly, superintendent of buildings and grounds, the gaseous fumes began escaping into the boiler room because the damper was shut, therefore closing the exhaust stack.

The escape of the carbon monoxide fumes, which is a silent killer, had completely filled the boiler room of the dorm, and had begun to creep into the dorm's first floor.

Czkelly said that the premises had been checked by buildings and grounds personnel at both 4 p.m. and at 6 p.m., and that nothing unusual was noticed.

When the strong fumes were noted, both the Department of Buildings and Grounds, plus the Huntington Fire Department were called.

Mrs. Beatrice Terry, dormitory hostess, said that when she opened the boiler room door after having been notified of the fumes, that her eyes "were almost put out" as the gas rushed in her face.

Carbon monoxide is a deadly gas that results from combustion of certain materials, which usually escape through an exhaust stack to prevent dangerous fumes.

Stanley's AND Sage Steamer Sayings

By KAY SAGE & SAM STANLEY

School spirit is definitely better. One reason has been the success of the football team the past two weekends. Another reason is that the new freshmen seem to have an abundant amount of pep left over from high school days.

But we've had exuberant freshman classes and early successes on the football field before and the spirit was still lacking.

The difference this year seems to be a new-found pride in Marshall from the students and a whole lot of hard work. Work from groups such as the Robe, and the downtown "Rally Around Marshall" plus some imaginative stunts from fraternities and sororities. This has brought forth a tremendous support, not for just the football team, but for Marshall itself, of which the football team is just a part.

The ball got rolling at the Marshall Leadership School at Cedar Lakes near Ripley early in September. "We've got to have pride if we're to succeed" wasn't exactly the theme of the camp, but it was the main idea pounded into the heads of the nearly 100 campus leaders who attended.

RAM picked up the ball the next week and then the Robe staged its snake dance and pep rally and now the school spirit and pride is bubbling over.

Will the situation continue to improve? Definitely so if the football team continues to succeed. If the football team returns to the losing rut, then the work of the Robe, RAM and Greek organizations will be that much harder.

Let's hope that RAM gets the downtown support, win or lose. Let's hope the Robe continues its work, win or lose. And let's hope that, after rush is over, the fraternities and sororities continue their stunts, win or lose.

In other words, let's keep this pride of Marshall and we are bound to succeed.

We've praised the Robe earlier, and now it's time to complain a little. It was a good idea to give $25 to the organization with the biggest percentage of members at the football game last Saturday. And no one complained when Tau Kappa Epsilon was the winner, because everyone was assured that the Tekes did have the biggest percentage.

But somehow along the way the word got out that the Robe didn't even begin to count those present (a most difficult task in the first place) but just threw all the names in a hat and drew one out—TKE.

It looks as though the Greenbackers will be discontinued this year because of lack of student body enthusiasm. However, plans may begin for an active freshman card section next year. The bulletin board outside of Old Main has taken on a new look. It is an informative map of the campus which was contributed by the Alpha Chi's. . . .

Why don't they have price tags on the food in the campus cafeterias. People who don't have meal tickets, but do eat there occasionally, should know the price of the food they are buying. . . . The looks of the campus has improved during election time with fewer and better signs. . . .

A tip of the hat to Robert Dollgener, new head of the intramural program. Dollgener has revised the touch football rules, has scheduled games on two different fields and where some teams were able to play only three or four times in the past, they'll now be able to play twice that amount. . . . The band looks better and sounds better this year and is beginning to hold the crowd in their seats at halftime. . . . Thomas S. O'Connell, associate professor of music, also rates a back-pat. . . . And Mr. O'Connell, we won't complain a bit if you delay intramural football games for a little bit of extra practice. . . . Your band goes before the public and represents Marshall. . . . And the intramural program can miss a game or two, and should be glad to do it.

And to bring things to an end, wouldn't it be nice if all the clocks on campus gave the same time.

THE ZETA BETA TAU fraternity recently moved into their new house at 1669 Sixth Avenue. This is the first house the fraternity has had on campus. The ZBT's as they are called were organized and took their first pledge class two years ago.

MU Alumni Association Joins 3rd Annual CAUSE Campaign

By SHERI O'DELL
Staff Reporter

The Marshall University Alumni Association joins the third annual CAUSE campaign this year for the first time. This is the College Alumni United in Support of Education which is a joint fundraising venture of all twenty public and private institutions of higher learning in West Virginia.

The campaign is sponsored by the West Virginia Association of College and University Presidents. Five major state communities will host the campaign this year according to Elizabeth V. Hallanan, association executive director.

The first CAUSE was held in Charleston in 1961. Last year the program expanded to include Beckley and Clarksburg. This year it has added Huntington and the Wheeling-Moundsville area.

Walter Collins, alumni director of West Virginia Wesleyan College and over-all chairman of the campaign, said that response from alumni in all communities covered so far has been "heartwarming." Some institutions have reported as high as 85 per cent affirmative response according to Collins.

CAUSE received considerable national attention and praise for its originality and success. Contacts are entirely by telephone with alumni of various institutions serving in their respective communities as representatives of their alma maters.

John Sayre, university alumni director, announced that the Huntington campaign will be from Nov. 9-21. Marshall received participation from nine chapters, seven in Huntington, one in Barboursville and one in Ceredo-Kenova.

QUESTION: Should fraternities be allowed to reserve sections at football games?

Evelyn Meek, Huntington junior:

"Yes and no. They shouldn't because it's unfair to those who can't find seats because they're saved. They should because Marshall needs their cheering."

Pat McGrath, New Martinsville junior:

"I don't know. It seems unfair to those who don't belong to a fraternity, but it does create a stronger cheering section."

Joe Ricketts, Huntington freshman:

"Yes, organized cheering influences spirit in the school section, adds to the excitement of the game and thus brings spectators."

A 20-year-old Copenhagen, Denmark, coed is spending a year on the Marshall campus to learn the ways of American female attorneys.

Vibeke "Vibsen" Rosing has completed two years of pre-law study at the University of Copenhagen. She is in search of a more liberal academic and social education here to prepare her to major in law when she returns to Copenhagen, the city of her birth.

Throughout her three years at the Gymnasium (which is comparable to our high school and first two years of college) and her first year at the university, Vibsen worked in the reservations department of the Scandanavian Airline System to partially finance her desire to study abroad and to satisfy her wanderlust.

Her ability to converse in English, French, Swedish, German and Norwegian, as well as Danish, was her greatest asset for the job, Vibsen explained. The "interesting, but sometimes difficult" duties include phoning to London, Paris, Rome, Vienna and other major cities, during which times she had to speak various languages.

In November, 1962, this radiant red-haired lass applied to Marshall University for admission and scholarship aid. She was immediately accepted for admission, but received no assurance of a scholarship until May, 1963.

The home of her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Borge Rosing of Huntington, was graciously opened to her during her stay. Within a few days after her arrival, she began her orientation into a strange world of an American university's registration lines, traditions, slang, and freshman guides.

One of the first objects of Vibsen's fascination was the unique willingness of students, especially the "ones with the green arm-bands", as she described the freshman guides, to go out of their way to be considerate and helpful.

Vibsen cited one example of this during Freshman Week when she came to the Hootenanny in the Student Union. After the festivities, she was to call her uncle to pick her up. In searching for phone funds, she found the cupboard bare—not only of a dime, but of her purse and telephone number. She had left it in Mr. Rosing's car.

Upon seeing a student whom she recognized as a guide, Vibsen reports that she approached him, explained her dilemma, and asked if he would please help. When they were unable to locate her uncle, a very appreciative Danish freshman found herself being escorted home by two of Marshall's true gentlemen.

Her amazement at the American male's courtesy to women in general, not just to "the one he is trying to impress," and the American female's expectance of such treatment, led Vebsen to question some of their traditions. She wonders why an escort should "walk all the way around these big cars" just to open the door for his date, who, in Vibsen's words, "is just as capable of opening it."

Women's above-the-knee skirts and their custom of "carrying all their books in their arms" are two of the hardest things for Vibsen to accept, she said. Since Danish students carry a briefcase from their first day of school until their final graduation, she finds it rather clumsy to balance a stack of books in her arms. She explained that the Danish briefcases are usually of sturdy cloth construction at first, but progress in quality, as the student progresses academically, to fine leather.

A 10-hour flight across the Atlantic brought Vibsen face to face with the peculiarities of American culture. Any anxiety or doubt that she may have had concerning the next year of her life were cast to the winds on her first night in Huntington, she remarked.

With enthusiasm still in her voice, Vibsen described the brilliance of the lighted city, as seen from her Richwood Road hilltop home, as "making me fall in love with Huntington immediately." She felt assured that she would be warmly accepted, loved, and satisfied, as she definitely has been.

Hobbies Moved 2 To Forefront Of MU's Band

By KAY SAGE
News Editor

Casual hobbies have developed into fine arts for two Marshall seniors, Laura Napier, drum majorette from Huntington, and Jeff Cowden, drum major from Williamson.

Although both have been members of the band since the fifth grade, neither has received professional twirling training.

While she did not try for the position of majorette until her senior year in high school, she was chasen drum majorette at Vinson High School. She received the "Best Majorette" trophy based on twirling and marching, without realizing that she was a contender for the award.

'Golden Girl?'

Laura joined the Marshall band upon entering college, and served as a majorette her sophomore and junior years. She is often referred to as "the golden girl" because of her gold and white uniform.

After graduation in August, Laura plans to continue working at Cabell Huntington Hospital in the field of medical technology.

Jeff was a drum major his senior year in high school and has been in the Marshall band for three years.

Led ROTC Unit

He was leader of the ROTC Drum and Bugle Corps last year and received the "Outstanding Bandsman" award presented by the National ROTC Band Association.

Jeff works with Laura and the majorettes on the routines and designs his own uniforms. He plans to enter the National Academy of Dramatic Arts in New York upon graduation.

Both Laura and Jeff agree that their hobby has been a good experience, and that they have learned showmanship and self-confidence from it.

Strike Up The Band

Leading the band down the field is Jeff Cowden, Williamson senior and drum major.

Regional Youth Group Meeting At Campus Christian Center

A Regional Youth Conference, sponsored by the West Virginia Council of the White House Conference on Children and Youth, is meeting at the Campus Christian Center today with an estimated attendance of 100 students and teachers.

Conference theme is "Today's Youth—West Virginia's Future."

Five forums and workshops will meet this afternoon. Dr. Clarke Hess, professor of education, will participate in a forum on vocations and opportunities in the state. Marilyn Sue Cox, Milton senior, will be workshop leader for a study of "How Can

I Best Prepare For Marriage?"

In the morning session, JoAnn Odum, Huntington sophomore, presided and Dr. D. Banks Wilburn, dean of Teachers College, welcomed the group.

Kenneth Pyles, Huntington senior, is also a discussion group leader on the topic, "Vocations—Opportunities for a Livelihood in West Virginia."

Keynote speaker was the Honorable Mary Conway Kohler, former juvenile court judge of San Francisco, who is currently chairman of the Executive Committee of the National Committee on Employment in New York City.

Dr. Eric Core, professor of education, and Dean Wilburn served on the program planning committee for the conference.

Archeologist Slated To Speak On Area Indian Burial Ground

Indian burial grounds and villages will be discussed tomorrow at the Campus Christian Center at 9 a.m.

Members and guests of the West Virginia Archeological Society will hear state archeologist E. V. McMichael describe his findings of skeletons, artifacts and structural remains at Buffalo Village in Putnam County.

The dedication of the Camden Park Mound historic marker near Huntington today at 6 p.m. will proceed the Saturday meeting. A field trip to the Buffalo Village Excavations is planned for Sunday.

Rev. Clifford M. Lewis, president of the WVAS, will preside over the meeting. The public is invited to attend.

Speakers for Saturday will include Dr. Alfred K. Guthe, director of the Frank McClung Anthropological Museum at the University of Tennessee; Assistant State Archeologist Bettye J. Boryles; O. L. Mairs, Field Archeologist for the Geological Survey.

Charles Davis, president of the Wheeling Chapter of the WVAS; Sam Kessel, non-professional archeologist from South Charleston; and Dr. Paul H. Price, State Archeologist.

Letter To Editor

Dear Editor:

Since coming to Marshall University I have heard many people say this is a friendly school and the student body is controlled primarily by Greek fraternities and sororities with token representation granted to the complacent independent.

I classify myself in the latter group, not because I have an ill feeling for the Greeks nor that I have not considered joining one myself, but like many independents I have not the time to sing to my mother nor the money to afford not to sing to her.

The Greeks have demonstrated their leadership ability by controlling student government but I look to see their friendliness image which should make the student body as a whole feel a unity. My unity is not there.

Possible reasons being the unwritten law of reserved table at the union and premium sections reserved at ball games.

Is it any wonder that student support to school athletic functions is considered poor when it appears the administration caters to the minority (Greeks) and not the majority (independents).

Thank you Greeks for our token representation.

two signs illegal, Sen. Danie Stewart of Barboursville and sophomore clas president, voiced the opinion that he was seriously considering taking the topic to the Student Court and presenting it as a case. He said that he believed the signs unfair.

And Fred Reeder, Huntington junior, and a new justice appointee to the court, agreed with Stewart that Spaulding's signs were "not fair."

Clever Signs Noted

Speaking of the signs, some of them were quite clever, as is always the case in student elections.

One candidate tied up an ordinary porch swing to a tree and attached the sign, "Swing With Gates." Another candidate decorated one of her signs with a scarecrow, with the sign reading, "Crow For Diana."

All the signs—and the election as a whole — drew some interesting comments from freshmen, and all of those who were questioned about their reactions were from Huntington.

Becky Turner said that she thought that many of the signs had "some really sharp ideas." Sheila Wilson stated that she was "much impressed" with it all, and Butch Adkins said, "I don't know much about it. Ask somebody else."

Another freshman, Ginny Thomas, said that she believed the elections and everything which went along with it was "pretty good."

Provocative Answer

But David Kiessing replied with the most provocative answer when he said, "The election has been well-advertised, but one thing has surprised me. Since the sororities pledged last week, their pledges who are running are being supported in the election by their respective social organizations, but the boys don't have this same advantage, since the fraternities are just pledging this week."

The turnout of voters during the morning hours — and even at lunch time — was extremely light. For instance, at 10:15 a. m. only 75 freshmen had voted, and at 11:20 a. m. just 120 students had pulled the levers of the voting machines.

Intramural Golfers To Tee Off Soon

Big Green Faces Tough Buffalo Team

The Sports Corner

By JERRY REED
Sports Editor

Well, the dazzling comeback that the Big Green staged for the win over Toledo last Saturday is history, but the big factor in that game is the extra incentive that the team should now have.

That come-from-behind victory proved to the MU squad that it can produce when the chips are down and, taking a look at the remainder of the schedule, this win could prove invaluable against the likes of Bowling Green, Ohio University and even against the Buffalo Bulls tomorrow.

Some of the fans had left Fairfield Stadium and missed the dramatic pass from quarterback Howie Lee Miller to his end Bob Pruett and the dramatic part about it was not only the third down and 15 yards to go situation, but also that Pruett tipped Miller off that he could beat the TU defender on that particular pass pattern. And he did!

The Buffalo Bulls have an outstanding team, as can be seen by their record so far this season by beating Villanova, Gettysburg, Ohio University and tying Holy Cross. The 7-0 win over OU was quite a surprise since the Bobcats were picked to win the MAC along with Bowling Green. But upsets do happen and let's hope this was an upset.

The meeting tomorrow will be only the second time the two schools have met. In the first contest MU came out on the short end, losing 37-12 in 1959. Unfortunately that season was the best on record for the Bulls when they compiled a 8-1-0 record. But this season MU could prove to be a stumbling block to the Bulls and put an end to their so far undefeated record.

MU Coach Charlie Snyder has had his scouts out looking at Buffalo and he has been impressed by what they have told him. They run and pass well. This second year in major college status for the Bulls could be a big one for them.

CROSS COUNTRY MEET TOMORROW

Tomorrow at 10 a. m. a sport will be revived under the direction of Coach Sonny Allen. After a four year lay-off the cross country team will get into action again and, according to Coach Allen, "the boys are really anxious to see what they can do."

Only three of the freshman players have experience in this sport and the varsity members are just out there to give it a try and show what they can do. It should prove interesting since the Morehead team appears to be in the same shape since it is in a rebuilding program and the runners are green to this sport also.

CAGE PRACTICE TO START

Basketball Coach Ellis Johnson will gather his cagers together Tuesday for the first practice session in preparation for the first game on the tentative date of Dec. 7 against Morris Harvey.

Johnson is anxious to get started and wants all students interested in trying out for the varsity squad to report to him at 3:30 p. m. Monday afternoon for a picture taking session and then the regular practice will start Tuesday at 3 p. m.

Coach Johnson also invites any spectators to the practice session. So, everyone will be able to see what is in store for the Big Green this year and what players to look for when the team takes the floor in the first game.

GYMNASTS TO PERFORM

The Danish Gymnastic Team is on the campus today to perform for the student body and give demonstrations tomorrow for the physical education majors. Today at 3 p. m. the first performance will be given in the Men's Gym. Admission for this performance will be 50 cents. Tomorrow at 10 a. m. the gymnasts will give instructions to the men and women physical education majors in addition to the performance at 7:30 p. m.

The admission for the Saturday night performance will be 50 cents for students and $1 for adults.

Bob Dollgener, intramural director, should be commended for getting this team to come to Marshall. This gymnastic team is composed of many of Denmark's top gymnasts and they are now on tour of the eastern United States.

NOTES AND QUOTES . . .

Jim Cure, Big Green end, dropped to third place in the national pass receiving rankings but don't lose track of him in these rankings because after displaying the pass attack against Toledo, which was in the top 10 in pass defense, the MU aerial offense could prove to be an outstanding factor in the remaining games. And Cure is the number one receiver. But after Toledo's upset the fans and scouts had better keep their eyes peeled for the other end of the line.

The intramural program is in full swing now and the aggressive play shown by each team is a credit to the Intramural Department since it has instilled the enthusiasm in the players by operating on a new system this year. Not saying that the other system was not desirable, but the flight system that has been put into operation this season gives the players more incentive now that they are playing in brackets with opponents of equal caliber.

The Big Green goes up against an undefeated, once - tied opponent tomorrow afternoon at Buffalo, but the MU squad will have upset on its mind after downing Toledo last week and gaining a tie for second place in the Mid-American Conference.

The State University of New York at Buffalo, member of the Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference, has beaten Gettysburg, Ohio University and Villanova while being held to a tie by Holy Cross. The big win on the Bulls schedule of most interest to Big Green fans is the 7-0 victory over the OU Bobcats since Ohio University is a co-favorite with Bowling Green to win the MAC.

"We've scouted Buffalo twice this season and we feel that they have a good team and we're looking for a real good game from them," MU Coach Charlie Snyder said.

"They pass well and their running attack is equally effective and they are just generally a strong team," Snyder added.

"We are not planning any new tactics against Buffalo but I feel we'll pass a lot if the situation calls for it."

The Bulls are led by quarterback John Stofa, a 6-3, 202-pound senior, who has a personal offense record of 1,883 yards in two seasons. Buffalo Coach Richard Offenhamer describes him as "cool, calm, and calculating with just a touch of the gambler."

Two other top rated players on the Buffalo squad are tackle Gerald Philbin and end Larry Gergley. Philbin is rated as the Bulls greatest tackle ever and eastern coaches have said he is the finest tackle in the ECAC. Gergley, a 6-1, 220-pounder, is known to be dependable in the clutch and is also rated as one of the top ends in the ECAC.

The Big Green has met the Buffalo Bulls only once before, losing 37-12 back in 1959 when the Bulls went on to a successful 8-1-0 record.

Coach Snyder plans no changes in the line-up so this means Howard Miller will be the signal caller and joining him in the backfield will be halfbacks Jack Mahone and Zeke Myers, along with fullback Al Rinehart. At the ends will be Bob Pruett and Jim Cure. At the tackle positions will be Everett Vance and Mike Hicks and, holding down the guard positions, will be Bill Winters and Richard Turner.

The Bulls have 19 returning lettermen and nine of these are in the backfield, while on the line they are at least four deep and a letterman is at every starting spot on the line.

MU end Jim Cure dropped from the top spot in the pass receiving statistics across the nation. Cure is now ranked third behind John Simmons of Tulsa and Texas Western's Jim Evans. Cure is leading the MAC, however, with 14 receptions for 149 yards.

Quarterback Miller is a solid second in the MAC passing department with 23 completions out of 50 attempts for 305 yards.

Danish Team Arrives Today For 2 Shows

By CAROL FOX
Staff Reporter

Internationally known Danish Gymnastic Team consisting of 16 men and 16 women was due at Marshall University today for two performances. Performances will be held in the Men's Gym; the first demonstration at 3 p. m. today, and the second demonstration at 8 p. m. Saturday.

The performances, each a minimum of two hours, will demonstrate the following activities: free exercises; ball drill; long horse; tumbling; and Native Folk Dancing.

Members of the Danish Gymnastic Team are college students selected from the entire country of Denmark every three years. Prior to their selection the members have had four years of gymnastic training. Members never tour the United States more than once, as a new team is selected every three years.

Tickets were sold yesterday and today in the Student Union by members of the Physical Education Major's Club. Phys. Ed majors have also covered dormitories, fraternity and sorority houses, also college approved homes. Admission is 50 cents for all students and $1 for adults.

BOB PRUETT

Pruett Leaped, And Team Won

"I guess I was just there 'first-est' with the 'mostest'". These were the sentiments of MU end Bob Pruett after his 53-yard pass-catching effort during the MU-Toledo victory last Saturday night.

Commenting on the pass that he caught from signal-caller Howie Lee Miller, Pruett went on to explain, "He (Toledo defender Don Baker) was there in front of me. I jumped and he jumped, but I caught the ball. I got pretty excited, I guess, and I ran and the next thing I knew, I was over."

Little Green To Open Season Against Bobkittens Tomorrow

By DAVID PEYTON
Sports Writer

The Little Green will travel to Pt. Pleasant tomorrow for its first game of the season with the Bobkittens of Ohio University. Game time is 8 p. m.

Commenting on the struggle, freshman grid coach Charlie Kautz predicted that "unless we have injuries, we should give a pretty good account of ourselves." He also said that a definite weak point of the squad was the guard positions.

"We only had 24 boys come out for the freshman team this year. OU had about 90," Kautz commented.

As to the starting lineup, Kautz said that Joe Harenza, a 6-0, 183-pounder from Bethel Park, Pa., will probably fill the quarterback slot. In other positions, 6-2, 249-pound Jim Woody, and 6-4, 190-pound Curtis Keese will take on the job of tackles. Ken Simpson, 6-1, 193 pounds, and Dennis Miller, 6-0, 191 pounds, are slated to start as ends.

At the guard positions, where Kautz said one of the trouble spots lies, there will be Russell Legg, 6-0, 192 pounds, and either Bill Schuller or Herb Young. Center for the clash is scheduled to be Keith Winters, 6-1, 186-pounder from Ripley.

Cross Country Thinclads Face Foe Tomorrow

The newly organized cross country team will meet its first test tomorrow at 10 a. m. at Ritter Park against the Morehead Golden Eagles cross country team.

MU Coach Sonny Allen has 17 runners under his direction and the boys are "anxious to get started." Only three of the team members have experience in cross country running but the others "have been working hard and getting into shape."

"I'm interested to see how we come out tomorrow because Morehead is in a rebuilding program and we feel we are equal to them in this sport," Coach Allen said.

"Outher Dunning, Gary Prater, and Ellis Wiley are our top runners since they've had quite a bit of experience from high school cross country meets," Allen said.

"We haven't had cross country track here for four years so it's hard to say what we have to look forward to, but we're going to give it a good try," Allen commented.

The starting line for the meet will be at 12th St. in Ritter Park near the tennis courts and will finish up at the far end of the park at 12th Ave. and 8th St.

The schedule after tomorrow's meet is: Morehead, away, Oct. 26; West Virginia State, home, Oct. 30; Concord, away, Nov. 2.

The four meets are in preparation for the Mid-American Conference Meet at Bowling Green on Nov. 9. In that meet varsity and freshman runners will compete in their own classes.

In cross country meets the low score wins.

ROTC Group Is Reorganized

Marshall's ROTC has changed from a battle group to a battalion. This change is the result of a new Army concept, Reorganization of Army Division, which began in 1962.

Under this new plan, flexibility, firepower and responsive command is increased. The most important addition is the support command, which provides a compact headquarters which supports the unit commanders and furnishes additional division functions.

The battalion consists of a Headquarters Company and five other rifle companies. The Headquarters Company contains members of Battalion Command and staff; the Drum and Bugle Corps, the Counterinsurgency Platoon and the Color Guard. Each rifle company contains two platoons of two ten-man squads each.

This year a new company has been added, E Company.
