Miss Marshall And Attendants Crowned At Homecoming Dance

Human Rights Group Is Abolished By Senate; Usefulness Seen Ended

The Student Senate abolished the year-old Human Rights Commission last week which was established for the purpose of investigating racial discrimination practiced against Marshall students by Huntington businessmen.

The limited powers and duties of the old commission were reallocated to the Student Government Affairs Committee.

Claren Brooks Andrews, Arlington, Va., senior senator, who was the coordinator of the Human Rights Commission, argued for the abolition of the commission, saying that only three problems had been presented to it within the space of a year's time.

Mrs. Andrews also added that the Human Rights Commission was created in the fall of 1962, and that it was set up on a year-to-year basis. "One year is up,"

Mrs. Andrews told the rest of the senate, "and I believe the commission's usefulness is over. At the time it was founded, I felt that it was needed, but it isn't needed any more."

The opposition was led by Dr. Simon D. Perry, assistant professor of political science, who is serving this year as Student Government advisor.

Dr. Perry argued that the commission should not have been killed simply because it was not active. "There are a lot of inactive Student Government commissions and committees," Dr. Perry said, "but we don't kill them solely for this reason. The same is true in the state and national governments."

A compromise was agreed upon in that the commission's duties were shifted to the affairs committee.

Mrs. Andrews instigated the action concerning the Human Rights Commission in a motion to the senate.

In other senate action last week, Sally Montgomery, a graduate student from Huntington, was approved to serve as the senate's single graduate senator.

Greeks Plan MD Drive

A door-to-door campaign will be conducted Sunday from 2 to 4 p. m. by members of the Panhellenic and Interfraternity Councils to raise money to combat muscular dystrophy.

Co-chairmen of the drive are Artie Jo Hamb, Mallory senior and Fred Gumm, Montclair, N. J., senior. This is the first year the fraternities and sororities have been asked to conduct the drive. All donations will be sent to the National Muscular Dystrophy campaign headquarters and redistributed in the Huntington area.

The canvassing will be done by one boy and one girl from each fraternity and sorority. The pairings will be announced later.

The entire city will be covered by the groups on Sunday. The canvassers will wear arm bands with the MD insignia for identification.

People wishing to donate should look for the arm bands before donating.

Further details may be obtained from either Artie Jo Hamb or Fred Gumm.

Winners Of Signs, Parade Are Listed

By GARY KEARNS
News Editor

What a Homecoming! What a weekend! What a day!

Homecoming, 1963, is history now, and it's a sure thing that it will be remembered for a long, long time. Almost any adjective synonymous this side of biggest could be applied to last weekend. It was wild.

The winners of the sign competition are:

In the mixed division, meaning an organization made up of both men and women, the German Club topped all the others; in the women's division, Alpha Xi Delta social sorority, the sorority that is the home of this year's Miss Marshall, captured first place; and in the men's division, Pi Kappa Alpha social fraternity won.

The German Club's sign, which was electrically illuminated both Friday and Saturday nights, was placed on the main campus, near the main gate on 16th Street. The other two signs were located on the front lawns of the winning organizations.

The winners of the car-slogan race are:

Delta Omicron and Phi Mu Alpha, national and campus music honoraries, respectively, in the mixed division; Sigma Sigma Sigma social sorority grabbed the women's division trophy, and Lambda Chi Alpha won in the men's division.

Of course, the main attraction of Homecoming this year — the game — proved to be the only disappointment, even heartbreak, of the entire celebration, but the fact can still not be discounted that the festivities were the most exciting of all time.

For instance, far more alums came "home" than ever before. And it is far from a secret that the whole city of Huntington was practically jumping with enthusiasm all last week, to say nothing of many of the small surrounding communities, some even over in Ohio. And you know how the students, themselves, felt.

The reason was obvious; everybody knew it. The Big Green was leading the Mid-American Conference and there was the Homecoming game with second-place Bowling Green. It was the most important game so far in the annals of the university, and this alone made the entire Homecoming program the most action-packed ever.

Take the parade, for example.

It was the longest, the most unique, and it had the largest number of participants of any other Homecoming parade in history. And it was witnessed by more people, far more people than ever before. Patrolman William Page of the Huntington Police Department estimated the crowd along the official line of march — from 14th Street to Eighth Street on Fourth Avenue — to be at least 12,000. That's 12,000 people jammed within six city blocks!

Indeed, there were many places downtown where the many thousands stood 10 deep on the sidewalks. Hotel and office windows were filled, to say nothing of the roofs. The City Parking Port looked like a giant grandstand.

And that old perennial weatherman must have surely been an alumnus, for he couldn't have arranged a more beautiful day; it wasn't too hot, and it wasn't too cold and there wasn't a cloud in that amazingly blue sky.

Five judges and their spouses, two members of the Homecoming Commission, plus the campus press were seated on the official reviewing stand to watch the big parade "Pass In Review" — the Homecoming theme.

The parade was made up of the whole Marshall University ROTC Battalion, the Big Green Band, plus six area high school bands, of which the Birch High School Rockettes from Delbarton proved to be one of the favorites of the cheering thousands. Numerous convertibles and 22 antique autos were interspersed throughout the entire parade, as were the bands.

The convertibles contained university, state, county and city dignitaries, including the parade's honorable marshal, Lt. Col. Patrick H. Morgan, chairman of the university's ROTC Department.

Colonel Morgan tabbed the splashy parade as "one of the best that I have ever seen in Huntington. Our marching units were exceptional, the crowd turnout was simply great, and the idea of using the old cars was fine."

Those old cars added the unique touch to the procession. Temporarily donated by near and not-so-near old car hobbyists, they dated from 1905 to 1935, with nine years left out in between.

There was only one float in this year's parade, but when you saw it, that was enough. It was breathtaking, and so were its occupants, for it was the float bearing the Homecoming queen—Peggy Tucker, a senior from Bluefield — and the five members of her court, which included the junior, sophomore and freshman queens, plus the Homecoming queens of both the Logan and Williamson Branches of the university.

Besides the many variations of newness to this year's procession, these two branch queens were new additions, too.

But THE queen, Miss Marshall of 1963, took the cake. Elegantly dressed in a white full-length chiffon gown, long white gloves, a brown mink stole and holding a bouquet of a dozen red roses on her lap, Miss Marshall looked every inch the queen she is.

And it was both touching and heartwarming to see her momentarily forget where she was, and to wave, give a great big beautiful smile and to throw kisses at her friends as she would spot them in the crowd.

The antique cars were judged by the officials during the parade, but the signs, which had the purpose of welcoming back all the visiting alumni—giving them a "greeting card" reception — were judged the night before, Friday.

Unusual Music At Convocation

Lasry-Baschet Structures Sonores will be at Convocation tomorrow at 11 a.m.

The Lasry-Baschet Structures Sonores is a group of six Frenchmen who present a most unusual program of new sounds. Their instruments are designed from metal sheets, plastic balloons, glass rods and steel bars and do not use electric or electronic equipment.

Percussion, classical bows and glass bows are used to energize these instruments. The glass gives no sound, but works as a bow with water as resin. This humid bow energizes a tuned steel rod. The amplifier is either a balloon, a tube or a free metal sounding board.

The six Frenchmen have been heard and seen in the Oscar winning movie, "The Sky Above and the Mud Below," as well as an appearance on the Ed Sullivan Show.

They received a two-page spread in the Jan. 4 issue of "Life" magazine.

The Lasry-Baschet Structures Sonores is capable of playing music written for violin, cello or organ. Thus the repertoire of the group includes music by Bach, Vivaldi and Bartok as well as original music by Lasry and even Jazz.

ARTISTS SERIES

Tickets will be on sale in the Old Main Auditorium Hall Nov. 14 and 15 for the Artist Series Nov. 18. The Schola Cantorum will be presented at the Artist Series.

Letter To Editor

Dear Editor:

We apologize profusely that Marshall University has not been listed as such on our SCOREBOARD SHOW, but hope you will give us just one more chance.

We trust you will be watching Saturday, Nov. 9, when we will give the score of the Marshall University-Bowling Green game.

WILLIAM C. MacPHAIL,
CBS Vice President, Sports

(Editor's Note: In response to an open letter in The Parthenon, the above letter was received from the CBS Television Network. The editors are happy that the Scoreboard now shows Marshall as a university, but disappointed that the Big Green didn't emerge victorious).

Dr. Smith Cites New Growth; Council Hears Expansion Plan

At an open hearing by the Huntington City Council last week, President Stewart H. Smith and the council discussed plans for acquisition of land east of the campus. Area G includes land between 19th and 20th Streets from Virginia to Fifth Avenue.

The hearing was intended to give property owners in this area an opportunity to question and discuss the proposed expansion. Dr. Smith noted, however, that no property owners protested the action.

The next step in the acquisition will be for the Huntington Urban Renewal Authority to take options and purchase the land. This process will take approximately a year, Dr. Smith said, and will begin in January.

The West Virginia Board of Education has agreed to pay $225,000, the appraised value, after the land has been cleared. This will take approximately another year.

UNION MOVIE, MIX

The movie, "Please Don't Eat the Daisies," will be shown in the Student Union at 7:30 p. m. Friday. Admission will be 25 cents per person. A free mix will be held after the movie. There will also be free mixes tonight and Saturday.

A & S ORIENTATION 100

Arts and Science College sections of Orientation 100 will meet at 11 a. m. Nov. 21 in regularly assigned rooms.

Steps toward the eastern expansion were begun in July, 1961, when the President and Dr. A. E. McCaskey, dean of the College of Applied Science, attended in Washington, D. C., a meeting with officials of the Housing and Home Finance Agency.

Some buildings on Fifth Avenue will not be included in the tract. The 20th Street Baptist Church, which is on the corner of Fifth Avenue and 20th Street would not be included.

Director Lauds Weekend Event

"This was the most successful Homecoming, totally speaking, that I can remember," said John Sayre, alumni director.

He went on to say that the attendance was excellent at every event due mainly to the interest in the football game.

He said that the Hootenanny crowd was approximately 1,000, and commented on the excellence of the talent involved.

The Food-fest at the Union for alumni drew 350 which was an increase of over 100 from last year.

The dance at the Field House had 880 couples while two alumni dances had a combined attendance of over 200 couples.

Sayre said that students are urged to bring in constructive comments and criticisms in regard to future Homecomings.

Does a man really take unfair advantage of women when he uses Mennen Skin Bracer?

All depends on why he uses it.

Most men simply think Menthol-Iced Skin Bracer is the best after-shave lotion around. Because it cools rather than burns. Because it helps heal shaving nicks and scrapes. Because it helps prevent blemishes.

So who can blame them if Bracer's crisp, long-lasting aroma just happens to affect women so remarkably?

Of course, some men may use Mennen Skin Bracer because of this effect.

How intelligent!

Homecoming Events Are Reviewed

The judges were: W. T. Bess; B. B. Lovins; Ronald G. Rollins, assistant professor of English; James P. Sullivan, assistant professor of history, and Mrs. Helen Harold.

But the real kickoff to all the Homecoming ballyho was not the Saturday morning parade. It was a pep rally, which took place on Friday afternoon on 15th Street, between Fourth and Fifth Avenues.

The street was roped off for cheering and dancing and patriotic, go-get-'em speeches.

The rally was sponsored by the Robe, men's honorary, and nearly everybody was there, including the band, the cheerleaders, President Stewart H. Smith and other administration officials, plus the football team and Otto "Swede" Gullickson.

The speaking platform was the bed of a pick-up truck, and after a short, but enthusiastic speech by President Smith, "Swede" took the truck . . . er . . . the stand. And while both students and MU officials listened enthralled, the retired physical education professor and always-great-spirit-of-Marshall, launched into a pep rally talk to end all pep rally talks. He touched on subjects ranging from the past history and glories of Marshall University to college drop-outs.

"Swede" didn't use any amplifying device; he didn't need one, and everybody loved it.

Head Football Coach Charlie Snyder and an alumnus of Marshall, Leonard Samworth, also spoke to the gathering. Samworth is the director of the new Rally 'Round Marshall (RAM) movement.

About 500 students turned out for the afternoon rally, which was just about the number who stayed up to cheer the victorious-over-Western Michigan Big Green home two weeks ago.

There was also plenty of rock 'n' roll in the form of music at the rally, too, which was piped from the records of local radio station WKEE. The station's popular new disc jockey, Tommy Tucker, was there, announcing and spinning the many platters.

A little later on that evening, the Homecoming hootenanny unfolded in the main gymnasium of the Men's Health and Physical Education Building.

Dean Thompson, Huntington alternate junior senator, and one of the coordinators of the Homecoming Commission, expressed some concern prior to the program, noting that there have been so many hootenannies as a result of the current craze that he feared "that the students have been hootennanned to death."

But evidently this wasn't the case, for a goodly number attended the affair — and seemed to heartily enjoy it. The show featured The Huntsmen, The Migrants, The Slimy River Bottom Boys and Guerry Mathews.

The Migrants, however, stole the show. They were a funny, funny group, and they were clearly the hit of the evening and the audience let them know it.

Also Friday evening, the Marshall University Theatre presented its second performance of its adaptation of Christopher Fry's "The Lady's Not for Burning." There was also a presentation Thursday night and one Saturday night.

The play was staged in Old Main Auditorium, which was crowded Thursday evening, and even packed Friday night. And this is remarkable, considering the hootenanny, which was also well attended on the same night.

Thompson said that the attendance at the hootenanny "was much better than anticipated."

And then there was that ball game on Saturday afternoon, immediately following the big Homecoming parade Saturday morning. And, oh, what a ball game it was.

The expected overflow crowd did just exactly what it was expected to do—it overflowed. At 1 p.m. the stadium was three-fourths filled, and even before that, during the noon hour, Fairfield was nearing the half-filled capacity.

The permanent banked stands, themselves, were packed solid, and the auxiliary end zone bleachers were over half way full. And if you had put all those people, including the many dignitaries, who were either sitting or standing elsewhere, these seats would have been filled, too. The end zone bleachers were supplied by Leonard Samworth and his RAM delegation.

And, speaking of the dignitaries, there were lots and lots of V.I.P.'s at the game—around 70 in fact.

These included Gov. W. W. Barron and Mrs. Barron; Fourth District Congressman Ken Hechler; State Auditor Denzil L. Gainer, the father of Student Body President Kenny Gainer, Charleston senior; State Treasurer John H. Kelley and Mrs. Kelley, and numerous members of the West Virginia Senate and House of Delegates.

Also, Dr. David E. Reese, commissioner of the Mid-American Conference was there with Mrs. Reese, plus other state, city and university officials, including George L. Garner, mayor of Huntington, and Mrs. Garner, and, of course, President and Mrs. Smith.

Governor Barron, who arrived at the game just a few moments after the beginning kickoff, commented on the "wonderful day."

Mrs. Barron, looking lovely in a dark green suit and matching hat, said that she was "thrilled to death, very thrilled" by it all.

The state's first lady also took note of our Miss Marshall by saying, "You have a simply lovely Homecoming queen. I know Peggy, you know. She was one of the state's Centennial queens, and I got to know her on our trip to the Rose Bowl parade last New Year's Day. She's a wonderful girl."

Congressman Hechler said that "this is the most tremendous crowd I have ever seen in Huntington. All this is of tremendous importance to Marshall." Hechler also commented on "the colorfulness of the parade," and expressed pride in the great turnout of alumni.

Dr. Reese, when asked what he thought of it all, simply said, "Terrific, terrific." When asked his reaction to the spirit and the enthusiasm which had gripped the imagination of the entire city and state, Reese said: "As a commissioner, I have never seen anything like it before."

Miss Marshall, Peggy Tucker, was also interviewed as she and her lovely and stately court rolled around the field on their mobile throne, labeled "Bounty Of Beauty." Peggy said, "I don't know how to say it. It's just something about the spirit of the school."

President Smith said that "this was the greatest Homecoming in the 18 years that I have been at Marshall." Dr. Smith said that he was especially pleased with the fine weather and the large and enthusiastic crowd.

About that crowd. Some were students and some were alumni and some were just people, but they were everywhere.

From standing and milling around on the sidelines to sitting in the stands to peering through the fences from outside, they let the world know who they wanted to win. And it's a wonder the rest of the world didn't hear them, for the cheering was tremendous.

And if you'd never seen ordinary policemen lose their usual composure and scream and wave their helmets in the air, you would have seen them at Fairfield Stadium Saturday.

And from the many vendors, who were so busy watching the game and yelling their heads off, that they were too busy to sell their soft drinks, to the photographers in the little press plane which kept circling the stadium, you knew that nothing quite like this had ever happened here before.

All the visiting alumni were treated to a food fest in the Student Union immediately following the game. And there were two special dances for the alums this year. One — at the Hotel Prichard — was quickly added after the other dance, in the main ballroom of the Hotel Frederick, was sold out.

The main Homecoming dance, however, in Memorial Field House, which was for students and all those alumni who wished to attend, was the real climax to the gala of gala weekends.

The Bo Diddely Trio didn't make it, to the great disappointment of many, but the big dance was still quite an affair. The Mel Gillispie Orchestra supplied the dance music and there was the coronation of Miss Marshall of 1963.

This event, alone, was one of the weekend's highlights, for it was an impressive sight to see all of the Homecoming queens escorted to the front, introduced, and then to see the Miss Marshall of a year ago, Brenda Keys of Kopperston, give the new queen her crown and her best wishes for a fruitful year-long reign over the Big Green.

The coronation ceremony was bathed in purplish - blue spotlights. All the other lights in the Field House were put out. The ceremony took place about midway through the lavish dance, which began at 9 p. m., and which ended around 1 a. m.

Francis Fabi, Monaca, Pa., junior senator, and one of the coordinators of the Homecoming Commission, said that many people were blaming the commission, itself, for the absence of Bo Diddely. "Would you believe it," he said, "that there are a lot of people saying WE sent ourselves that telegram from Bo Diddely, saying that he had car trouble?"

And a lot of other people wondered, as all the old cars and the queen's float circled Fairfield Stadium during the halftime celebration, just what group would build the float next year.

It will be handled this way from here on out: the honor — and the task — of building Miss Marshall's throne-on-wheels will be rotated among the campus social fraternities.

True, Homecoming, 1963, had a few things that we hadn't counted on, like the absence of the antique car which would have represented the sophomore class in the parade. This was the result of an auto accident concerning the car, itself, on the way to the festivities. No one was injured.

And then there was that ball game score, which didn't make too many people around here too happy. All this, plus the fact that Bo Diddely didn't show up.

But there were a lot of good things about this year's Homecoming, too.

For instance, the dance crowd had Leroy Angus, Milton senior, who did impromptu Bo Diddely chats, instead of Bo Diddely, himself, and such an unexpected number of alumni appeared on the scene that an extra dance had to be put on the bill at the Hotel Prichard. The Joe Avis Combo played for this, and the Brownie Benson Orchestra made the music at the other special alumni dance, the one across town at the Hotel Frederick.

Dean Thompson expressed his pleasure with the whole weekend, saying "We certainly won't go in the red."

John M. Sayre, the director of development and alumni affairs, was ecstatic as he looked back on all the festivities.

So, we may not have won the game, but Homecoming, 1963, still made history, good history, encouraging history for Marshall, and even if you just stood on a street corner and watched the big parade go by, you made history, too. You were a part of it.

Marshall's Homecoming Celebr

TWO MEMBERS of Lambda Chi Alpha social fraternity, the winner of the car-slogan competition in the men's division, precede their fraternity's car down Fourth Avenue during the Homecoming parade. The over-all theme of the car was "Forecasters Of Doom?"

ABOVE IS THE winning alumni welcoming sign of Alpha Xi Delta social sorority, which captured the trophy for the women's division in the "greeting card" competition. And the picture below captures a split-second moment at the big dance in Memorial Field House when the Homecoming queen, Peggy Tucker, almost lost her crown seconds after receiving it. Miss Marshall of 1962, Brenda Keys, a graduate student from Kopperston, looks on, as if ready to catch it.

OTTO "SWEDE" GULLICKSON highlights Friday afternoon's pep rally on roped-off 15th Street. The rally, which also featured dancing in the street, served as the big kickoff to the big weekend. The crowd of mostly students numbered about 500 at the afternoon rally, which was also attended by the band, the cheerleaders, the football team and university officials, including President Stewart H. Smith. The rally was sponsored by The Robe, men's honorary.

THE WINNING CAR in the women's division, entered by Sigma Sigma Sigma social sorority, jaunts along Huntington's Fourth Avenue during the parade. The year for this car was 1927, the year "Lucky Lindy" hopped across the Atlantic. Claren Brooks Andrews, Arlington, Va., senior, is Col. Charles Augustus Lindbergh.

HERE'S SOMEONE who attended Friday afternoon's pep rally who had a good view. About 500 people, mostly students, came to the rally, which was sponsored by The Robe, men's honorary.

RELAXING DURING the half-time celebration at the game are Mrs. John H. Kelley, (left), wife of the treasurer of West Virginia, and Mrs. Opal Barron, wife of the governor. Mrs. Barron told The Parthenon that she was "thrilled to death" in being able to attend a portion of Marshall's Homecoming festivities, and said that she thought our Homecoming queen, Peggy Tucker of Bluefield, "was just beautiful."

Yugoslav Coach Is Due To Visit MU

By JERRY REED
Sports Editor

The coach of the first foreign basketball team to ever defeat the U. S. in international competition will arrive in Huntington on Dec. 2 in connection with a tour of West Virginia, Ohio and Kentucky.

Aleksander Nikolic is now in Charleston and will tour Parkersburg, Morgantown and Montgomery before coming to Huntington. He is in the state to observe West Virginia's educational program, industry, and especially the brand of basketball played here. The 39-year-old Belgrade resident is actually on a 120-day visit sponsored by the U. S. Department of State to study American basketball methods.

Nikolic will be in Huntington for six days and will observe the Big Green cage practice sessions at 3:15 p. m. on Dec. 2 through Dec. 6.

On Dec. 3 at 7 p. m. the Yugoslav coach will meet with the Physical Education Majors Club and at 2 p. m., before the Dec. 6 basketball practice, the coach will observe a gymnastics exhibition. Nikolic will attend the opening basketball contest on Dec. 7 between the Big Green and Morris Harvey at Memorial Field House.

While in the Mountain State, Nikolic will be accompanied by Blaine Dowler, supervisor of health, physical education and safety for the West Virginia Department of Education.

Dowler was sent to Yugoslavia in 1962 to teach the American style of basketball and Nikolic is now returning that visit to learn more.

Following Dowler's visit, the Yugoslav team became a power in last spring's World Basketball Championship games and it finished in the runner-up spot, beating the U. S. squad in the process.

Nikolic plans to observe cage techniques at various state high schools and colleges.

TIME OUT FOR REPAIRS is taken by the Big Green squad. Bill Winter had some pain due to equipment trouble and Coach Ed Prelaz came in to make the necessary adjustments.

Coach Allen's Problem: Frosh Cagers Too Tall

By RICHARD EDWARDS
Sports Writer

Freshman Basketball Coach Sonny Allen has an unusual problem as far as basketball players are concerned. Allen's team is too tall.

That's right, Sonny's cagers are too tall for their own good. And, although height is a must in the game of basketball today, Sonny wishes he had a couple real quick little men.

Sonny's team consists mostly of players that were centers in their high school cage days and, as a result, Allen has to teach most of his players how to play new position.

To add to Sonny's problem of re-education of certain members of his team is the fact that he only has a seven-man team. If someone gets into foul trouble in a close game, Sonny will have to be ready to play himself.

Members of the team with the position they played in high school and the position they will be playing for the Little Green are: Keith Blankenship (6-1), forward in high school, now a Marshall guard; Charles Hicks (6-6), center in high school, playing forward for the freshmen; Charles Krolides (6-4), forward in high school, a forward at Marshall, too; Jim Madison (5-9), forward in high school, too short for anything but a guard position in college; Bill Pfeilsticker (6-6), center in high school, and he'll remain at the center post; Richie Simmons (6-3), center in high school, move to forward; and Bill

Wetsell (6-3), forward in high school, guard for the Little Green.

Coach Allen's team is loaded with plenty of talent, as well as height. Richie Simmons played at Pineville High School and was the most sought after high school basketball player in West Virginia in 1962. Simmons is not the only former high school star on the frosh team. Wetsell and Blankenship were former All-Ohioians in 1963. Another freshman standout is Madison. Jim is only 5-9, but every inch of him is all basketball player.

In high school, Madison's head coach was Sonny Allen, and Allen has this to say about his former high school product.

"Jim can jump like he has springs in his shoes. He was the Tri-State's leading scorer in 1963. That should tell you of his scoring ability, and he is tremendously fast. He's just great."

The Freshmen play their first game Dec. 7 against Morris Harvey at the fieldhouse.

TWO UNHAPPY BIG GREEN BOOSTERS are shown here during the MU-Bowling Green game. Mike Woods, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Woods, and Steve Kauff, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Kauff, both of Huntington, went down to defeat along with their favorite team.

Tourneys Due

Intramural football championships will start tomorrow at 3:15 p.m. on the intramural field. The standings for intramural football to date finds four teams in first place. They are, SAE's, Beavers, SPE's and Raiders.

Eleven teams will be in the championship playoffs. It will be a single elimination tournament.

The sign-up sheets for speedball, soccer and cageball are now available in the Student Union. Today is the deadline for signing up for competition for the three sports. Cageball competition starts today in the Men's Gym.

Wildt Due To Air Home Cage Games

There will be a new voice heard over WMUL this basketball season. It will belong to a former Big Green player, Dick Wildt.

It seems as though Dick just happened to walk in to the office of Adrian Gobell, WMUL's program director three weeks ago and offered his services. WMUL gladly accepted the offer.

Wildt will be broadcasting all Marshall home games;

BOWLING GREEN'S LONGEST pass of the day came on a 17-yard toss from quarterback Jerry Ward to halfback Jim Goings (28) to give the Falcons a first down in the drive for the winning touchdown.

Final deadline to have your portrait in the C. J. is Nov. 23rd. Students are requested to go directly to:

Ma'Del Studio, 1018 Third Ave.

Hours: Mon. thru Sat. — 9 A.M.-5 P.M.

No Appointment Necessary

If you have previously registered for a portrait and have missed your time, or lost your receipt, you also should report to Ma'Del Studio by Nov. 23rd.

'We Just Ran Out Of Steam'--Swede

Snyder, Perry Comment On MU's 21-14 Defeat

By DAVID PEYTON
Assistant Sports Editor

"We played a whale of a game. We just ran out of steam."

These were the sentiments of the grand old man of MU athletics, Otto "Swede" Gullickson, and at least some of the 11,000 MU fans who turned out to watch the Big Green lose its biggest game of the season to Bowling Green State University by the score of 21-14.

One of the largest crowds in the history of Fairfield Stadium saw the Big Green's chances for sole possession of the MAC championship go down the drain and with the hopes went MU—all the way to fourth place in the conference.

The first half of play saw the same MU team that upset Buffalo and trounced Western Michigan, but the second half saw a MU team that was tired, tired, tired. As the BeeGees had done so many times before, they put into play their reserves, and through one of the roughest, toughest, bone-crushing halves that MU fans have ever witnessed, the Falcons wore the Thundering Herd into near physical exhaustion.

"Our players played a good, hard game," MU's Coach Charlie Snyder said, "and they have nothing to be ashamed of. Bowling Green is without a doubt the best team we have played all year, and it has the best personnel we have faced."

The first important play of the game came with about four minutes having elapsed in the first quarter. Halfback Jack Mahone took a handoff from signal-caller Howie Miller on BG's 47 and ran around the right end into the end zone. Tackle Bill Winter kicked the extra point and MU lead 7-0. Then, at the other end of the half with less than a minute remaining, Howie passed to wingback Jim Cure from the Bowling Green 26 and connected. Cure outstepped BG's defense and ran into the end zone for the score. Winter's kick was again good and MU found itself 14 points ahead at the half.

But the Bowling Green Falcons were far from being down. In the second half, the Falcons began their game all over again—this time on the ground almost entirely.

On a kickoff return from defensive back Dick Fillmore, BG quarterback Jerry Ward followed instructions to the letter and marched the ball over the goal line in 18 plays, 16 of which were running plays. The try for 2 points was made, but failed.

In the fourth quarter, BG had worn the MU team to near exhaustion with its rough ground game. Bowling Green scored 15 points in the fourth quarter on a 10-yard run by halfback Jay Cunningham and a plunge from the two by fullback Jim Wisser. Q-back Howard Ankney ran for two points after the second TD while the fullback converted a kick after the third.

Bowling Green coach Doyt Perry had a great deal of praise for MU's grid team. "Marshall University has as good a team as we have faced all season," he said. He went on to say though that he didn't think MU was "quite as explosive" as some teams the BG's have played.

When asked about the change in tactics in the second half, Perry said, "We usually go to a running game in the second half." He said that they weren't getting anywhere in their passing attempts in the first half, so the only thing they could do was run.

Coach Snyder said that he expected the strong attack in the second half, but he "thought they would pass more."

Snyder went on to say that he felt that MU didn't get any breaks in the last half. "If we could have gotten a break or two in a couple of situations, it would have been different," he said.

Perry agreed with Snyder, but said that the reverse had happened in the first half. "I'm sure Mahone is a good runner, but that 48-yard run in the first quarter was a break," he said.

The game left both teams for the worse physically. A second half injury sent Bill Winter to the hospital for X-rays, and it was discovered that he had only chest bruises.

Bowling Green's guard Mel Foels was sidelined early in the game with a sprained ankle and probably won't play in BG's game with OU this week. Quarterback Jerry Ward was hospitalized temporarily because of an injury to his head, but Perry said, "He'll probably play at OU."

Perry spoke of the account of the game in the Huntington newspaper. He said that the paper made it look as if the main objective of Bowling Green was to physically exhaust MU. "This wasn't the aim," he said. "This is the way we play football." He said that this couldn't have been the objective because "the second team wasn't that good."

Perry went on to say that they have been behind at least 14 points in about four games, but have come from behind in all but the Miami game of two weeks ago.

The passing attack of Jim Cure was outstanding. Cure upped his catches to 35 for this season and is on his way to beating the record set in the 1951-52-53 seasons when Jim Sweirczek caught 84. To date Jim has caught 70.

Coach Snyder summed up the entire game when he said, "If it would have been our first 11 against their first 11, it would have been a different story."

Only one Big Green player commented on the defeat.

"The intercepted pass broke out back and then they just wore us down with their reserve strength," Gue Bell, corner linebacker, commented.

THE ALMOST PASS INTERCEPTION by defensive deep back Dick Fillmore could have given the Big Green another chance to score in the first half of the 21-14 loss to the Bowling Green Falcons. Fillmore dropped the ball and gave the BeeGees a new lease on life. (Photos by Joseph Shields and James Stone, Parthenon photographers).

JIM GOINGS (28) IS ALMOST GONE — but he's tripped up by Mike Hicks under the pile and defensive back Glenn Bell (42) gets set to make the final stop.

THE STORY IS TOLD by the scoreboard as end Jim Cure is pulled down after making his fifth reception of the day against the Falcons. With 2:52 left on the clock the time had almost run out on the Big Green in its bid for the conference championship.

1. What's the matter, no appetite?
I have more important things to think of than food.

2. Worried about exams, huh?
No, about getting old.

3. You're kidding?
Not at all. I've reached a milestone today. I'm 21. The days of my youth have flown.

4. You should be celebrating not brooding.
The age of responsibility is upon me.

5. How come you're not a member of the Drama Club?
Already my father's talking about my being "self-supporting." I see responsibilities all around me - wife, children, lawn, leaves.

6. Relax. You can let Living Insurance from Equitable take care of responsibilities. It can provide for your family, your mortgage, the kids' education ... even build a sizable retirement fund for you.
Say, this is good spaghetti.
