Morris Places Ban On Non-Students

Union Manager Acts Following Assault On Senior; Pay Mixes Are Still Open

Wednesday night mixes will be closed to non-Marshall students effective immediately, according to Don Morris, manager of the Student Union.

This decision came as the result of an incident following last Wednesday's mix in which Clark Todd, Huntington senior, was attacked by a number of non-Marshall students. He was treated at Cabell-Huntington Hospital for lacerations and a possible concussion.

3 Youths Arrested

Three youths, all residents of Charleston, were arrested by city police and charged with felonious assault. Two of them waived to the grand jury. The other, a 15-year-old youth, was held in the detention home pending juvenile court action.

Todd explained that from six to nine youths were in the group and that bottles were used in the assault. He said the attack occurred after one of the youths had asked for a cigarette. Todd replied that he didn't smoke and a few moments after the youth rejoined his companions, Todd

It's a shame when a Marshall student is attacked right on the campus. Action to prevent similar incidents should be taken and Student Union Manager Don Morris should be praised for already initiating such action. Non-students are now banned from Wednesday night mixes except when they are pay mixes. The decision on pay mixes is up to the Student Senate and we hope the senators will follow Mr. Morris' example and ban non-students on Wednesday nights. It's true that banning nonstudents from the mixes may not prevent further incidents. However, such action will discourage attendance by persons who do not belong. Wednesday night mixes are overcrowded as it is. Additional outsiders do not help the situation.

Challenge" will be the topic discussed by Harrison Salisbury, Pultizer Prize winning correspondent and world traveler, during the Community Forum Friday at 8 p.m. in Old Main Auditorium.

7th Scott Lecturer Is Named

Editor and writer Herbert Brucker will deliver the seventh Scott Lecture April 29-30, according to President Stewart H. Smith. Mr. Brucker, formerly associate dean of the School of Journalism at Columbia University, is the editor of the Hartford (Conn.) Courant, the oldest American daily newspaper of continuous publication, and vice president of the American Society of Newspaper Editors.

His lectures will deal with various phases of "public opinion."

The Scott Lectures were initiated by Dr. and Mrs. Francis Scott in 1956. They donated a sum of money to promote interest in the humanities through formal and informal lectures. In addition to the public lecture, the speakers lecture to classes and participate in informal discussions with students.

The donation also provides for the printing and distributing of the public lectures to selected colleges and universities.

Poet Robert S. Hillyer delivered the first Scott Lecture in the spring of 1957.

Since then, Dr. Dexter Perkins, political historian; Willy Ley, pioneer space scientist; Dr. T. V. Smith, political philosopher; Dr. scene and the events in America. John S. Brubacher, educational philosopher; and Dr. Walter Blair, chairman of the Department of English at the University of Chicago, have appeared on the series.

Salisbury, who is now director of national correspondence for "A New Look at the Soviet The New York Times, is a noted authority on Russia and its satellite nations. He returned from one of his frequent journeys to Russia and the Far East earlier this year.

During Salisbury's 30-year career, he has covered many nationally known stories such as the assassination of Louisiana Senator Huey Long, Vice President Richard Nixon's trip to Russia, Premier Khrushchev's American tour, Al Capone's trial, the Russian front during World War II, New York's juvenile delinquency problem, the competition between Russia and Red China, and the 1960 elections. He was also the winner of the 1954 Pulitzer Prize for foreign reporting.

During his most recent trip to the Soviet Union, which included more than 20,000 miles of traveling, Salisbury gathered facts on the widening gap between the two Communist giants. The trip included visits to Iran, Afghanistan, Pakistan, Outer Mongolia, Soviet Central Asia, and the Soviet Union.

Salisbury has covered many Russian leaders' visits to the United States and has talked with Khrushchev, Mikoyan, Kozlow and Suslov. A series based on a reporting trip to all Iron Curtain countries won him several awards in 1958.

Salisbury now divides his time among reporting trips abroad, coverage of domestic politics, foreign affairs, and political events in Washington and New York. He is the author of many works which include "Russia Re-Viewed," "To Moscow-And Beyond," "American in Russia," "The Shook-Up Generation," "Moscow Journal," and "The Northern Polmyra Affair."

Salisbury has claimed universal audience enthusiasm as he presents solid facts and crisp analysis of the international

One doesn't have to be around Helen Hayes or Maurice Evans long before he senses the interest that these two great of the American theatre have for today's college student. Both Miss Hayes and Mr. Evans glow with enthusiasm when they talk of the numerous campuses they have visited on their joint tour throughout the country. At a press conference Monday, they spoke earnestly and parentally to school reporters. They are cordial, but reply yes or no to newspaper veterans.

When told that Marshall University has an active theater organization, Miss Hayes was elated. and immediately began expounding on the basic rule of thumb that the young-aspiring actor must learn.

"An actor must learn to find the author's intention. This came easily for me, because I married a playwrite-Charles MacArthur. After an actor has found the artist's goal, he can turn to perfecting his technical knowledge-his technique.

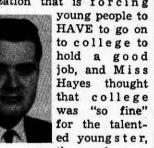

At this point, Mr. Evans said, What Miss Hayes says compels me to sound off against the acting method-that sudden inspiration that supposedly touches an actor and automatically raises him to greatness. Mr. Evans went on to say that newcomers to the theater run to the method only as an excuse to escape the hard work idea of McMillan, Vienna senior, to have success. But, believe me, nothing but hard work is the way to success in this business."

When asked about what they people.

1,000 Students Ink Research Petitions

As a result of the petitions circulated by the Students for the Expansion of Marshall University, more than 1,000 signatures have been obtained, according to Ivan Ash, Barboursville senior and chairman of the student committee

The petitions state that the signers of the document are in favor of the proposed research center and further expansion of Marshall University.

"So that more people will have an opportunity to sign the petitions, they will be kept in cirweek," Ash commented.

Miss Hayes quickly referred the next question to Evans. The query, "What can students do to make compulsory Shakespearereading easy," brought a quick, sure reply. "Speak, read it out loud!" Evans said. "Don't take the music out of Shakespeare by reading it to yourself."

As the press conference drew to a close, a final question was ask of Mis Hayes. "Ma'am, you once portrayed Cleopatra on Broadway, didn't you?"

Miss Hayes answered that she had, but in George Bernard Shaw's "Ceasar and Cleopatra," not in Shakespeare's. The reporter pressed on. "Well . . . what I was really getting at, Miss Hayes, is . . . are you going to see Liz's "Cleopatra"?

Helen Haves smiled and said. "Yes, yes indeed-out of morbid curiosity!"

Dr. Tyson Reports On Progress Of Graduate Study Program

By GEORGE TRIMBLE Teachers College Journalist

The program for the encouragement of graduate study originated in 1960-61 is entering its third year with 54 new entrants, according to Dr. A. Mervin Tyson, the program chairman. The total enrollment is now 236 students.

The program, which covers the College of Arts and Sciences, Teachers College and the College of Applied Science, has a threefold purpose.

It is: 1. To encourage graduate study for all who have interest and ability. In this respect, the idea is to help meet the national need for teaching and research scholars, to inspire able students, and to help deserving students obtain financial assistance through scholarships and other means.

2. To counsel qualified students regarding proper undergraduate preparation, pointing out the ad-vantages of an advanced degree, selection of a graduate school, and pointing out sources of financial aid.

3. To assist qualified students to make application for awards, grants, scholarships, and assistantships for which they might qualify.

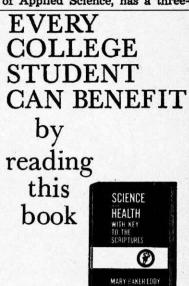

When asked if he thought the program was successful thus far, Professor Tyson said: "Yes, I think it is. We do have this year a larger number of persons elig-FRATERNITY GETS CHARTER will be given. Professor Tyson emphasized that the basic purpose was not to retain students for graduate study at Marshall. He said that students were being encouraged for graduate study whether they planned to attend Marshall or any other school.

He added the hope that many of the best students would remain at Marshall, but that it was an honor for students to go elsewhere.

Professor Tyson also said that an effort would be made this easy" supper discussion group year to develop a system of fol-

WMUL Operas

WMUL is going to be able to continue its plans for broadcasting the Metropolitan Opera series each Saturday providing that an effort is made by the station to delete the commercial material from the programs.

This is the final statement made by the FCC up to this point. It was earlier feared that the broadcasts would have to be cancelled since WMUL is a noncommercial station and the opera broadcasts are sponsored by Texaco, Inc.

The first production of the year was broadcast Saturday over WMUL, and 19 others are to follow.

At 2 p.m. Saturday WMUL will present two short Italian operas, "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "Pagliacci".

Big Green Clawed By Eagles, 76-72

Morris Harvey Upsets Varsity

The Big Green dropped its opener 76-72 to Morris Harvey in what could prove to be the biggest upset of the season for both teams.

The opening game "iters" seemed to affect both teams at the outset along with cold shooting on the part of both teams. Morris Harvey pulled away in the opening minutes and was never headed. Only in the last four minutes did the Big Green start to come back and it pulled within two points with 20 seconds left. But Tom Brown of MH was fouled and he sank both shots to put the game on ice with three seconds left.

A surprise to the Marshall fans was Forrest Newsome, sophomore guard. He scored 14 points and tied with Butch Clark for high scoring honors for MU.

A dejected Coach Jule Rivlin sat in the stands after it was all over and pointed out that shooting percentages and rebounding figures would show why the game was lost. But he added quickly, "We'll be back".

The 1-2-2 zone defense that the Golden Eagles employed was actually an experiment but as Coach "Sonny" Moran commented, "When we found that Marshall wasn't hitting from the outside we decided to stay with the defense."

Coach Moran felt that the main factors in the win were due to the fact that his team did a great job on the boards, out rebounding MU 61-48, and that they never lost their momentum due to the play of center Dick O'Neal and guard Jerry Moore.

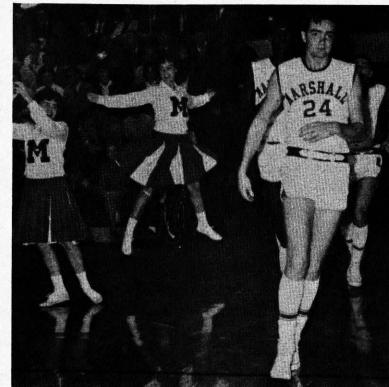

"We've got a pretty fair ball club, but I'm sure Marshall players are better shooters than they were tonight," Moran added.

He was referring to the 29 per cent shooting average from the floor by the Big Green. But Morris Harvey only had a shooting percentage of 36 per cent.

"I don't think it's time for us to rest on our laurels and I certainly don't think that it's time for Marshall to bury their heads in the sand," Coach Moran concluded.

Tremendous Ovation For Stunned Player

The Morris Harvey player went up and flipped over his opponent. A groan went up from the crowd as he landed on his back.

CO-CAPTAINS Dick Wildt (front) and Phil Carter lead the Big Green onto the floor just prior to the start of Saturday night's game against Morris Harvey.

Strong Morehead Five To Play Green Tonight

By DANNY BARBER Sports Writer

The Golden Eagles of Morehead State College, fresh from a 28-49 romp over Hanover College, tangle with the Big Green tonight in a rivalry-colored attraction at Memorial Field House. Marshall mentor Jule Rivlin is optimistic that his team can bounce back from a moraledropping defeat suffered at the hands of Morris Harvey Saturday night in the lid lifter of the 1962-63 card. The Eagles took advantage of a "cold", 29 per cent shooting which plagued the Green, and went on to notch their first win here in the 62-game series between the schools.

Coach Bobby Laughlin brings a strong Morehead five to the game—One which he rates as having more speed and better shooting than the team which topped MU twice last year. Despite the loss of nationally-ranked scorer Granny Williams, Laughlin tabs his team as equal to last year's quintet.

Pokley, a member of the team which ran up a 14-8 season last year, rates a lot of respect from Coach Rivlin. "He is probably one of the best pivot men we will see this year," commented Rivlin. "In fact the whole team is loaded." He foresees no changes in the Big Green lineup and doesn't plan any specific changes from the strategy used against Morris Harvey.

Rivlin said he hopes his team "has gotten the jitters out of its system." He feels this was a leading factor in the Morris Harvey game. He has scheduled two more practices on the Field House floor to help the team adjust to conditions there.

ARROW FOUNDED 1851 Traditionally the Finest for Discriminating Men

The trainers of both teams rushed to the injured player's side. After several minutes the cager slowly got to his feet and was helped to the dressing room. At this point a standing ovation was given the stunned player.

This was the scene at Memorial Field House Saturday when MU cagers tangled with Morris Harvey. The injured player was guard Jerry Moore who did a back flip over the head of MU's Phil Carter. Moore had to be removed from the game and the fans gave him a tremendous ovation. He was the standout of the game and MU fans showed sportsmanship in applauding the efforts of the hard-driving Eagle. He later returned to the lineup.

Loan Applications Due By Dec. 15

All students desiring consideration for university loans next semester must submit their application by Dec. 15 of this year. The applications should be turned in to the Dean of Men's office in Old Main.

Dean of Men S. A. Shaw announced that no more National Defense Education Act money is available for additional loans but that all students now on loans from this act will receive the remainder of their loan for this year. Shaw also stated that all applications for loans and scholarships for the '63-64 school year must be submitted to his office no later than April 1.
