U Officials Investigate Vandalism

Local law enforcement agencies and university officials are investigating property damage done to a residence in the 1500 block of Fifth Ave. The damage occurred Saturday night sometime after a party held at the Sigma Kappa, social sorority, house in the same block.

Some 350 university and visiting high school tournament students were present at the affair held at the sorority house. Local police were called to quell the disturbance.

Patty Poliskey, St. Albans senior and president of the local chapter said, "I am not ashamed of the conduct of any of those present. Much singing and cheering went on but there was no destruction of property at the party which broke up promptly at midnight."

In reaction to a statement made by a local official that the students acted like "kids", Miss Poliskey said: "I agree that the person or persons involved in the vandalism later that night showed immaturity. Their actions did more harm than good and was a bad reflection on the university. However, the actions of the partygoers cannot be classified as childish."

Miss Poliskey continued by saying that she would like to make a personal appeal to anyone considering retaliatory action to please use the energy in something more constructive.

President Stewart H. Smith said "Dean Buskirk, Dean Willey and I are making a careful investigation. The student body president, the presidents of the Panhellenic Council and the Inter-Fraternity Council are co-operating with us. Saturday night's demonstration apparently was an outbreak of a situation that has been developing for some time over a law suit concerning the violation of a restricted housing code."

Although many non-college people including some high school students who were in the city for the tournament participated in this affair, we are assuming responsibility for whatever damages were done.

I am confident that the majority of our students who did not participate in this demonstration share my regret of this unfortunate incident."

... Cast In 'Royal Gambit' Roles

Curtain Rises Tonight In 'U' Theatre Finale

The Marshall University Theatre will present the play, "Royal Gambit", for its third and final production of the year tonight through Friday in Old Main auditorium at 8:15 p.m.

"Royal Gambit", by the German author Hermann Gressieler, is a play with a thesis: The play takes place in the sixteenth century where the author presents Henry VIII and his six wives as symbols of modern man, and regards his age as a parity of modern times. The political, scientific, and military horrors of this century are results of the Renaissance fear when men threw off the fear of God and sought to command their own destinies.

The play is under the direction of Mr. Clayton Page, associate

68-Foot Clothesline Serves Daredevil

Imagine climbing a 68 foot tower atop a four-story building in the wee hours of the morning! Someone braved cold, wet, windy weather early Thursday morning to hang a wash on top of the Science Building.

There are no accessible steps to the fourth floor and whoever placed their laundry on the roof had to use the elevator which is operated by key.

The unidentified person was heard to remark that "you can almost see Charleston from the roof." He also said that if he had known what it was like up there ahead of time he wouldn't have gone.

His next project—"college-status" for Marshall.

Plans Completed For Annual Fair

389 High School Science Enthusiasts Scheduled To Compete In Exhibition

Plans for Huntington's annual regional science fair are now complete. The fair, which begins this Friday, is open to schools representing 20 counties in West Virginia, Kentucky, and Ohio.

A total of 389 junior and senior high school exhibits have been entered, compared to more than 800 last year. The reason for the smaller number of entries this year is that a new rule was instituted limiting all senior highs to twelve entries and all junior highs to six.

There were a total of 36 local science fairs in preparation for the regional fair, and an all-time high of 54 schools will be represented in Friday's fair.

Classification of the 389 entries is as follows: eighty-seven in junior biology, 93 in junior physical science, three junior group exhibits, 87 senior biology, 34 senior chemistry, 52 senior physics and engineering, 19 in senior earth science, and 14 senior high group exhibits.

The fair will be held in the New Men's Health and Physical Education Building, and will be open to the public from 7:30 p.m. until 10 p.m. Friday, and from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday. Presentation of awards will be at 7:30 Friday evening.

Vet's Club Talent Show Now Slated April 14-15

The dates for the annual Veterans' Club All-Campus Talent Search, originally scheduled for April 7 and 8, have been changed to April 14 and 15. The change was made because of unforeseen circumstances. Curtain time is 7:30 each night.

Ford Blair, Huntington senior and club president, had this to say about this year's show: "The annual talent search is the only event in the school year which is entirely dependent upon the student body. In the past your support has produced two fine shows. This year, we are looking to your support and your talent to make this third annual talent search a big success."

Last year the show produced acts which appeared on a special show during Parents' Weekend and also presented a benefit show at the Veterans' Hospital. Some of these acts will be making special guest appearances at this

Five judges, still to be selected, will judge the entries on a point scale. Half of the acts will appear the first night, and the high scorers will make a second appearance on the second night, but the second appearance will not be in competition.

The Master of Ceremonies for the shows is Brian Bobes, Wheeling senior with Pal Joey, (Joe Hughes,) Moundsville sophomore.

Admission is 50 cents per person, and the tickets will be on sale at the door. Advance sales will also be conducted by Vets' Club members.

Solons Appoint Student Judge

In a recent Senate meeting Jerry Meadows, Hinton junior, was appointed to the Student Court, and George Wooten, Hollidaysburg, Pa., junior, was appointed to the Student Activities Board.

Bill Wortham, Student Body President, praised the Hospitality Commission for their work in conjunction with the high school basketball tournament. A campus tour was organized Friday morning and an informal dance at the Student Union that night. Saturday morning a breakfast Hop was given at the Union with a talent show, door prizes, free do-nuts and coffee.

Football Enters With Spring

Spring Practice Begins

PADS WENT ON and the footballs came out Monday as spring football practice began. Coach Charley Snyder expected 64 men to don the uniforms and fight for six positions left vacant by graduation. Jim Yoho, Rucker Wickline, and Everett Vance are just a few of the veterans expected to fill a big gap left in the line. The backfield seems to be in good shape since no one will be lost via graduation.

Grads Vacate 6 Posts; 64 Hopefuls Turn Out

Marshall University began their spring football training Monday and 64 men were expected to be out. St. Clouds Commons park was the scene of the action.

Coach Charley Snyder is looking to replace six men who will be graduating either in May or at the end of the summer session. These six men are: Guard Wilson Latham, guard Larry Jarret, center Robert Reed, ends Toddy Fugate and Norman Mullins and tackle David Lowe.

There will be six regulars working in the spring practice including linemen Jim Yoho and Rucker Wickline, and backfield men Harper Hill, Millard Fleming, Dixon Edwards and Ralph May.

Coach Snyder said that most of the interior line was gone this year. The guard position will see Clyde Pierce, Jim Keatley, Ray Dennison and Doug Long. Everett Vance and Bob Maxwell will return to the tackle spot. Rucker Wickline and Roger Jefferson are in the center spot. Jim Yoho, Bill Nardo and Jim Michael will be in at the end posts.

Two new men, who will be sophomores next year are Mike Hicks from Charleston and Steve Freeman of Morgantown. Coach Snyder is watching these men in relation to next year's line. Other linemen are Jim Jarret, Ron Painter, Autie Ratcliff, Dennis Skeens and Stan Smith.

Marshall's quarterback position lists five prospects, they are Ralph May, Bob Hamlin, Charles Fletcher, Dick Fillmore and John Griffin.

Returning to the halfback slot are Jasper Wright, Harper Hill, Milard Fleming and Richard Thomas. Dixon Edwards and Gary Zickefoose will be back in the fullback slot. Other returning backs are Jim Evans, Don Harrah and Malcolm Price.

Huntington High Wins A A A Crown In Annual State Basketball Tournament

Huntington High—AAA class, New Martinsville—AA class, and Barrackville—A class, all rolled on to victory in their respective classes Saturday in the State High School Basketball Tournaments at Huntington's Memorial Field House.

Huntington High's Pony Express whipped Beckley by a score of 78 to 70 to take the AAA crown. Ricky Ray and Billy Allen each picked up 24 points for the Pony Express and carried the load for Huntington High. Ray had four fouls to his credit during half of the game but he still led his team in the fast break attack.

Bane Sarrett picked up 29 points for the Beckley Flying Eagles and helped keep them in the game against the Pony Express. Sarrett picked up the best scoring record of the AAA tourney and grabbed a near record of 22 rebounds.

New Martinsville won the AA title by beating the Milton Greyhounds, 60 to 51. Milton's loss came through a period of cold shooting because they got off one more shot than their opponents and nearly managed to control the boards, with 51 rebounds to the Magnolia's 53.

New Martinsville shot a 35 per cent from the floor which outstripped Milton's 27 per cent and won the game, easily. Carter Castilow grabbed 17 rebounds and had 22 points to lead the Magnolias to victory.

The Barrackville Bisons wound up a perfect season by downing White Sulphur Springs, 71 to 65. The Bisons played and won 27 games this season. Barrackville had 55.3 per cent from the floor to win the crown. The Bison's Johnny Carpenter tossed in 24 points in the last quarter to pull his team out and help them win the title. The biggest standout of the game was little Johnny Swann of White Sulphur Springs who poured in 33 points. Swann is only 5-8 and he weighs 135 pounds, but his brilliant playing got him a two minute ovation from the crowd.

Town Puzzles Tourney Fans

One of the deep mysteries of the recent West Virginia State High School Basketball Tournament was the exact location of the town of Elk Garden. The fans, many officials, and even Joe Retton, coach of the Barrackville Bisons who faced them in Class A play, didn't know where the community was situated.

Coach Retton said, "I don't know where it is. They play a zone. That's all we know about them."

Finally game time rolled around and the whereabouts of Elk Garden was solved.

It seems that the town is hidden in the farm land just south of the Maryland border in Mineral County. To pin point the community, it is located 20 miles from Keyser and 40 miles from Cumberland, Md.

And so one of the great mysteries of State High School Basketball Tournaments was solved.

SUSAN ATKINSON AND VINT JENNINGS

Students Interviewed For News Internship

Vint Jennings, managing editor of the Charleston Daily Mail, visited the campus Thursday to interview prospective journalism graduates.

Mr. Jennings visits Marshall University, W. Va. University, the state colleges, and schools in Ohio and Virginia each year in conjunction with the "campus recruiting" program.

"We are looking for brighter graduates from journalism schools to fill positions in fields in which we are weak," he said. Science is one field in which they are weak, he commented.

Mr. Jennings also interviews students for the W. Va. Internship program, under the sponsorship of the W. Va. Press Association, on these visits.

He interviews around eight graduating seniors in each school plus about 10 students eligible for an internship. Two or three of the seniors interviewed are actually hired under the program.

Three journalism students were employed on the internship program last summer. They are: Patty Poliskey, St. Albans senior, Charleston Daily Mail; Joe Workman, Princeton senior, Beckley Post-Herald; and Ralph Turner, Huntington senior, Charleston Gazette.

The internship program is based on the academic achievement of the students and only after they receive the recommendation of the head of the journalism department. Each student employed on the intern program must have completed his sophomore year in school.

Most of the students are hired in the field of news editing, however, Mr. Jennings said one student was placed in advertising.

Approximately 10 interns are employed each summer throughout the state excluding those students employed by the Huntington papers.

The students were previously hired exclusively for daily papers but jobs on weekly editions are being added this year.

Paperback Books Gain Popularity On Campus

By CAROLYN REED
Feature Writer

Popular novels, classics, or historical accounts—all of these and more can be found in paperback editions at the Marshall University bookstore.

There is a wide variety of paperback books available for required reading or individual enjoyment according to Percy Galloway, manager of the bookstore.

Mr. Galloway said that when paperback books were first introduced in this country, the American public would not accept them. But by making the covers more decorative and artistic the companies found they sold better. Also a hard cover is being developed that can be put on paperback books to make them more durable.

On the Marshall University campus there are numerous books which are required as supplementary reading by the English department ranging from "Huckleberry Finn" to "Grapes of Wrath".

Eric P. Thorn, associate professor of English, says he requires the paperback because there would not be enough library copies to go around, and even if there were the editions would be different. He adds that by requiring students to buy paperback copies it gives them a start toward their own reading library. So the paperback novel has found a home in the English department.

It has also found a home in the speech department, one of the increasing number of departments using the paperback as a text book. Dr. Ben W. Hope, associate professor of speech, uses a paperback book as a text in his course in argumentation and debate. Dr. Hope says he chose the paperback because for the material covered it is the best book. It also is less expensive, allowing for the use of supplementary materials.

Students at Marshall also have definite views about the paperback as a text.

Jerry Ashworth, Huntington junior, says he feels that for students anticipating keeping books after a class if finished the paperback is not desirable.

Atwood Luter, Bogalusa, La. sophomore, expresses the opinion that since the paperbacks are easier to carry as well as easier to read they are quite acceptable.

Ed Martin, Nitro senior, says he likes them because they are cheaper and don't weigh as much as hardbacks. Furthermore a student would not have to be quite so concerned about bad weather ruining the cover, as he would with a hardbacked book.

John P. Killoran, Huntington senior, prefers paperbacks on an economical basis, and expresses the feeling that a paperback handled with care will easily last through one semester, or even longer.

Moffat To Speak

THIS WEEK'S GUEST speaker for the Speak Easy meeting will be Dr. Charles Moffat, professor of history. "The Causes of the Civil War" will be the discussion topic. The club will meet in the lower dining room of the cafeteria tomorrow at 5:30 p.m.

'Tomorrow's Weather Man' Topic Of Meteorologist's Talk

Professor Robert T. Duquet of the College of Mineral Industries at Pennsylvania State University will be on campus April 6 to speak on the subject of meteorology.

The first lecture will be on "Tomorrow's Weather Man" and will be at 11:00 a.m. "Meteorology as a Science" will be the subject of the second lecture to be given at 2:00 the same afternoon. Both lectures will be in the Science Hall auditorium. Following his afternoon lecture, Mr. Duquet will interview students interested in his field of work.

Mr. Duquet, Canadian by birth, attended Loyola College in Montreal, obtaining a B.Sc. in physics. He was a graduate student at McGill University for one year, and the University of Toronto for one year, and was granted a M.A. in Meteorology by the latter. He came to the United States in August 1955 to study for a Ph.D. in Meteorology at New York University. He is a member of the American Meteorological Society, the Royal Meteorological Society of England, the American Geophysical Union and Sigma Xi.

Mr. Duquet's lectures will be opened to interested students and the public.

Do all Air Force Officers have Wings?

Decidedly not. In fact most executive jobs are on the ground. Of course, all officers may apply for pilot and navigator training if they meet the eligibility requirements. There will always be a need for piloted aircraft. And it is foreseeable that in your working lifetime, there will be piloted spacecraft—piloted and navigated by Air Force officers.

But right now, there is also a big future for college-trained Air Force officers on the ground. New and exciting technical jobs are opening up. Important administrative positions must be filled as World War II officers move into retirement.

How can you—a college student—become an Air Force officer? First, there's Air Force ROTC. Then for college graduates, men and women in certain fields, there is Officer Training School. The graduate of its three-month course wins a commission as a second lieutenant. Other ways are the Navigator Training program, and the Air Force Academy.

Some benefits that go with being an Air Force officer. Starting salary plus allowances compare with the average in equivalent civilian jobs. Then there's free medical and dental care, thirty-day vacation, the chance to win graduate degrees at Air Force expense, and liberal retirement provisions.

No, Air Force officers do not need wings to move up. There's plenty doing on the ground. Perhaps you could be one of these young executives in blue. Ask your local Air Force Recruiter. Or write, Officer Career Information, Dept. SC13, Box 7608, Washington 4, D.C., if you want further information about the navigator training or Officer Training School programs.
