Varel, Bailly Choral Group Due On Campus

THIS FRENCH CHORAL group will "sing from the heart" when it appears at the college Convocation at 11 a.m. Thursday in Old Main auditorium. Songwriters Varel and Bailly are shown at the left.

Convocation On Thursday Features 9 Frenchmen 'Singing From Heart'

You won't have to pay $15 cover charge to see and hear nine ebullient Frenchmen at the 11 a.m. Thursday Convocation in Old Main auditorium.

That's the charge when "Les Chanteurs de Paris" are booked at the Waldorf-Astoria's Empire room.

Varel and Bailly, noted French composers and musicians, will be one of the highlights of this season's college Convocation series, according to Curtis F. Baxter, associate professor of English.

Varel and Bailly's songs, satires, vignettes and musical philosophies have—in the past six years—been heard in almost every country in the world. "Les Chanteurs" do most of the vocalizing along with Varel and Bailly.

The reason for the group's success, Varel says, is because, "We sing from the heart."

Their first "public" appearance was a fluke. They began writing music while in Paris air raid shelters during World War II. Later, as the "refugee duo" in Algiers, their songs were beamed back to France and became overnight successes in French show business.

"Les Chanteurs" were brought into the act in 1955, and the seven men were trained under the rigorous musical discipline of the society known as the "Little Singers of Paris."

They came to the U. S. for the first time in 1957 with six weeks of bookings, and this continued through a solid six months of engagements.

In 1958 they spent eight months touring the U.S., Canada and the Caribbean, which included concert, cabaret and television work.

Dr. Alma Noble, professor of French, and her advanced French language classes, will be host to the group at a noon luncheon.

22 Show How To Do It

High School Students Meet Challenge

By JOE WORKMAN
Feature Editor

Can high school students compete with Marshall students on the college level?

A number of local high school students proved themselves equal to the challenge of college courses as indicated by grade reports for the first semester.

Twenty-five seniors from six Huntington high schools were allowed to enroll in Marshall as part-time students last September upon recommendation of their principals and providing they had a 3.5 or better grade average.

Three of these students had to withdraw due to transportation and schedule problems. Of the 22 who completed the semester's work, 10 earned a grade of "A"; 11 a grade of "B"; and one a grade of "C".

Several professors reported that these students ranked first in their classes. The only "A's" earned in Professor Julius Lieberman's German 101 class and instructor Hilbert H. Campbell's English 103 class were earned by high school students.

Melville Gill, associate professor of business administration, said, "The high school student I had was one of my better students and I thought she was a college student until the end of the semester."

Out of four professors interviewed, three reported perfect attendance from the high school students and all of these said the students did excellent work in oral participation as well as outside classwork.

Speakers Set For PKA Founders Day Dinner

Congressman Ken Hechler (D-Cabell) and Dr. Melville Hopkins, chairman of the Marshall Speech Department, will be featured speakers at the annual Pi Kappa Alpha Founders Day dinner, Feb. 28, at the Georgian Terrace of the Hotel Frederick.

Pi Kappa Alpha has been active on campus since 1946. Prior to that time, the group was known as Phi Kappa Nu, local fraternity.

Bill McNelis, Charleston senior, is president of the fraternity. Vice president is Myers Jarrell, Whitesville senior, and Carl Hickey, Huntington senior, is secretary-treasurer.

President of the local alumni chapter of the fraternity is Robert Alexander, director of placement.

Monitor's System Rapped By Court

Ultimatum Sent To Student Senate; Judges Want Law Revised Or Else

By RALPH TURNER
Staff Reporter

The Student Court has issued an ultimatum to the Student Senate, refusing to handle any more line-breaking cases until the Monitor System Law is revised.

Chief Justice George Knox, Huntington senior, said, "We (Student Court) find that the Student Monitor System law is unfit and inadequate. There is too much controversy over what is actually considered line-breaking."

This statement followed the conviction of Lucy Witte, when controversy arose over what is line-breaking and when should a ticket be issued.

In a formal statement, the Student Court said: "We will not handle any more cases until the Monitor System Law is revised in accordance with the following recommendations: (1) There should be an adequate definition of line cutting. (2) The clause 'intent to cut line' should be taken out. (3) A violator must go all the way through the line (getting his meal), before he is given a ticket."

Knox added, "Under the present law it is not clear when a line-cutter should be given a ticket. In the Witte case she was given a ticket before she had gotten near the food trays. If we have a law which is clearly stated we can know exactly that the person cut line."

Social Events Eyed For May

Two all-campus social events consisting of a semi-formal dance and an outdoor barbecue are planned in May.

The dance, proposed by Bob Nelson, Whitesville senior and chairman of the Student Government Affairs committee, is tentatively scheduled for May 7, at the Field House. Under the plan two local bands, one rock-n-roll, the other a slow dance band would alternate for the occasion. Tables would be provided.

A $1 minimum fee would be charged all students attending.

Nelson said, "Although not profit-making this year, money for the dance could be allocated from the budget surplus which has not been earmarked for anything."

The barbecue, planned for May 13 on the intramural field, will consist of an outdoor meal with a dance and movie to follow in the Student Union.

Senate Group Rejects Plan

The proposed two-party system has been rejected by the Parliamentary Committee of the Student Senate with a semi-proportional representation system under study as a replacement.

L. D. Egnor, junior senator of Huntington, said, "Our committee has found the two-party-system undesirable. There is no true cleavage on campus except that of the Greek/non-affiliates."

"There is where the division should be made. It is a natural cleavage."

Bob Nelson, senior senator of Whitesville, said, "The new system would be one of the greatest accomplishments the Senate could make. It would be evidence of the Senate representing the whole Student Body. The plan would enhance a natural cleavage between the two groups so that a real two-party system would develop. It would offer a chance of much better representation. There is great potential here."

Ray Bane, speaker of the senate from Wheeling, added, "It has good merit, but I would like to see further study before a decision is made."

The measure was tabled until the senate meeting tonight.

Egnor later reported that the Parliamentary Committee plans several revisions to the new system which will be aired at tonight's meeting.

Oratorical Contest Open To Students

The finals of an oratorical contest will be held here in a Convocation on April 7. The theme is "Challenge to West Virginians."

The contest is open to any Marshall undergraduate. The League of Women Voters is offering prizes of $25, $15 and $10 for the three best speakers. The top winner also will represent Marshall in the State Intercollegiate Oratorical Contest at Jackson's Mill in May.

Interested students should contact Ben Hope, associate professor in the Speech Department.

Anyone Know Everett Hall?

"I'm looking for Everett Hall," said the man at the front door of the Home Management House.

"He doesn't live here," said a resident.

The caller consulted his notes. "It says 'Everett Hall, 1650 Fifth Avenue,'" he persisted.

The coed explained, "Only women live here, students of vocational home economics."

"Then would you see if anybody knows where Everett Hall is?"

She called up the stairs, "Anybody up there hiding an Everett Hall?"

The answer came from Adella Strouss, supervisor of the Home Management House.

"The name of this building is Everett Hall."

Anonymous, Inc.

An anonymous pamphlet concerning the Honor System has made an appearance on campus. It describes itself as "a brief, candid and honest inquiry into this controversial subject, in an effort to present the viewpoint opposing the inauguration of this 'system' on the Marshall campus." The cover of the pamphlet states that its cost was "privately borne."

Ordinarily, we do not devote attention to anonymous statements. In this case, however, the pamphlet seems to be rather widely distributed and deals with a subject of such importance to the Student Body that we believe it necessary to devote some discussion to it.

Some of the questions in the pamphlet are quite valid and certainly must be answered before an Honor System is accepted here.

But, despite the valid questions posed in the pamphlet, we feel that it is not, on the whole, the product of a conscientious, objective study of the Honor System theory. This feeling is further heightened by its presentation under the protective cloak of anonymity.

The answers to some of the questions in the pamphlet would appear to be self-evident in the light of the Honor System theory. The answers to other questions have already been given in black and white in The Parthenon or Honor Commission pamphlet.

As a rule, the entire pamphlet seems to indicate that the author, or authors, have considered only the negative viewpoint toward the Honor System.

If the favorable view had been considered, we feel the author would have found that a number of his questions could be answered by the basic requirement of the Honor System theory that would have to be met before its successful installation could be achieved. This requirement is—a strong desire for the system on the part of the large majority of the students, their understanding of it, and their willingness to uphold and cherish it above personal considerations.

Perhaps the author is as guilty of one-sidedness in his study as he accuses the Honor Commission of being in its approach. At any rate, we are certain that this pamphlet will be taken with a grain of salt by all open-minded students and faculty members who read it.

The Honor System is of such implication that it cannot be lightly regarded. Each individual has an obligation to devote much objective thought to the system before he makes his decision to favor or disfavor it. And, he has an obligation to seek actively the answers to his questions.

The Honor Commission, on the other hand, has an obligation to be completely thorough in its development of its plan for an Honor System here, and to be prepared to answer the most technical question concerning its operation.

Dear Sir:

I can not see how any student can say there is any social activity at Marshall whatsoever.

It is my opinion that if you are a Greek or go out with someone who is a Greek you have a wonderful social life at Marshall. What happens to those who are not Greek? I'll tell you what—I have seen this happen—a person has nothing to do but go to class, come in and study, stuff yourself with junk, and start to go into a deep state of depression and want to go home.

Have you ever been out with a group of friends talking about their colleges and how much fun they are having at college? Isn't it pitiful that you cannot say anything. Oh, yes, you can say, "I have an activity card"—but it is only good for ballgames and Artist Series programs which come about once every two months.

It is my opinion that a student does not need an activity card. It would be a lot cheaper to pay each time you go to the "many activities".

Every school needs social outlets. Everyone needs a cultural background and I believe a student could have one if the Student Government would organize a more workable social program—one which would include every one and would be included in our activity fees.

Nancy Russell,
Alderson Sophomore

Dear Sir:

I wish to express my opinion on the subject of social activity on campus. I agree with Bobby Nelson that the student government should provide funds for the purpose of setting up social activities.

The social needs of the campus as a whole should be just as important as the honor system and the Awareness Commission. Although these are important issues, there is no reason to forget everything else to concentrate all efforts of the student government on them.

LETTERS TO EDITOR

I feel that if the social conditions on campus continue as they are, the enrollment of Marshall will suffer.

I think if all the students on campus will back the program of more extensive social life, conditions will improve.

Big Green Wins 86-79, Milhoan Nets 37

By RON HUTCHISON
Sports Editor

With the greatest individual effort of the season by a Marshall player, team captain John Milhoan led the Big Green to a sparkling 86-79 victory over the Eastern Kentucky Maroons.

Scoring a career high of 37 points in Marshall's home finale, Milhoan was the spark that ignited the scoring drive. The unassuming senior did everything with the ball but inflate it before the game. In true swan-song fashion Milhoan has his best night of his career, scoring 23 markers in the first half and 14 in the second stanza. He tallied 27 of Marshall's first 55 points.

Coach Jule Rivlin's cagers started out slow but quickly warmed to the occasion and began to run with the tall Kentuckians. Marshall took the lead permanently at 36-35 and were off to the races. The Rivlinmen led 44-37 at the midway point.

With Milhoan hitting from all angles and positions plus the rebounding of Bob Burgess and Bruce Moody, the Big Green showed its early season form.

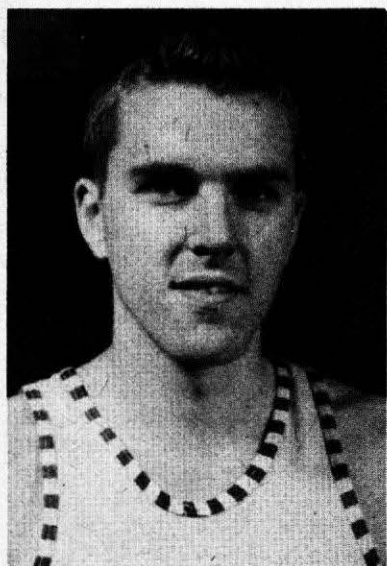

In the second half, fancy dan Lew Mott came off the bench to guide the sizzling fast break. A balanced scoring attack in the second seto gave Marshall the ball game as Eastern began to crowd Milhoan. The slim senior added 14 points while Burgess and Mott chipped in with 10 apiece.

The preliminary game saw the Sonny Allen coached Little Green revenge an earlier season loss by beating Swearingen 87-81.

Phil Carter topped the frosh with 24 points. Willie Daniels and Jerry Morrison each had 18 markers. Corky Layman and Larry Williams added 11 and 10 points respectively.

Getting back to Milhoan, only complimentary things can be said of his performance and the thunderous ovation he received was well deserved. He was as a team leader should be, great.

Grapplers Lose Third Straight

Marshall's varsity wrestling team, coached by Ed Prelaz, suffered its third straight defeat and seventh in 10 matches when host Baldwin-Wallace College scored a 19-10 victory.

Jim Mattern and Earl Rine were the only Big Green grapplers to chalk up victories. Mattern pinned Jim Wright in the 123-pound class, while Rine decided Jim Trimmell in the 130-pound division.

After that, the Big Green grapplers had rough sledding. Clyde Cyrus was pinned in the 137 class, Ralph May was decided in the 147, Richard Thomas was decided in the 157, and Harper Hill was decided in the 167 class.

Marshall's Bob Wilson then drew with Tom Domin in the 177 division and Alpha Mayfield lost in the heavyweight division on a decision.

The Big Green closes out its regular season Saturday when it meets Fairmont State. Following this, Marshall will compete in the Mid-American Conference tourney at Kent State.

Yearbook's Theme: Service To State

"Marshall Serves the State," has been chosen as the theme for the 1959-60 Chief Justice. The 248-page yearbook is scheduled to be issued May 25.

"Work is progressing very well and we think the book will be out on time," Judy Pullen, Barboursville junior and editor of the Chief Justice, said.

The book will contain two color pages—one at the beginning of the book of the state flag, and the other a two-page spread of Old Main. The cover design is an outline of the map of West Virginia in green and white.

Bob Vacheresse, Windsor Heights senior, announced that "ads hit an all-time high this year. We are very pleased to say that they sold very well."

WAA ELECTION

Cadet Program Faces Changes

Beginning with the 1960-61 school year, the courses for ROTC cadets will be changed to conform with a general cutback across the nation in the face of criticism leveled at the U.S. Army, program, according to Capt. Robert Zargan, assistant professor of Military Science and Tactics.

Greatest changes will come in the advanced courses, with basic courses remaining much the same, Captain Zargan said.

The professor said the move is intended to head off further criticism from a number of the 233 colleges and universities now helping to produce military officers.

About 20 per cent of present military instruction will be replaced by regular college courses such as science psychology and political institutions, Captain Zargan said.

College juniors and seniors will receive field training in weapons and tactics during six-week summer camp periods, he added, in order to meet both academic and military requirements.

The Army said the changes were designed to "stimulate increased intellectual attainments among ROTC students and to lessen the training load on cadets seeking technical degrees.

FRESHMAN DORM OFFICERS

Serving as officers of Freshman Dormitory this semester are: President, Brenda Keyes, Kopperston; Vice President, Johnna Jackson, Belle; Secretary, Judy Haddix, South Charleston; Treasurer, Judy Compton, Mullens, and Chaplain, Janet Steele, of Sarah Ann.

JOHN SAYRE

... To Aid Homecoming

Sayre To Serve As Co-ordinator

John M. Sayre, director of Development and Alumni Affairs, has been appointed to serve as Co-ordinator of Homecoming activities.

He will represent not only the alumni but also the college administration. He will work with the student co-ordinator, Dean Peters, Twilight junior, and the student committees.
