ROTC Cadets Collect Toys For Tots

TOYS COLLECTED in a Food, Clothing and Toy drive, sponsored by Scabbard and Blade, national military honorary, were given to the U. S. Marine Corps' Toys for Tots program for distribution to area children for Christmas. Cadet Capt. Arlie Turner and Cadet Maj. Robert Bledsoe display some of the items collected. The collection was much larger than those of past years, according to Capt. Robert T. Zargan, assistant professor of military science.

FOOD AND CLOTHING collected in the door-to-door canvass by the ROTC Battle Group were given to the Salvation Army for needy families. Pictured here are Assistant Manager John Saydera of the Salvation Army; Cadet Maj. Robert Bledsoe; Cadet Capt. Arlie Turner; Dr. A. E. McCaskey, dean of the College of Applied Science; Lt. Col. Thomas Ariail, professor of military science; Cadet Col. Arvin Vaughan; Cadet Capt. Richard Hale, and Cadet Capt. Harry Underwood.

UN Official Points Out Weakness In Education

By SUSAN ATKINSON
Editor In Chief

"Work hard. There is no substitute for it." This is the advice Dr. Ralph Bunche, undersecretary of the United Nations, gave to college students when I interviewed him Saturday night.

He said that it is during college that the "foundation is being laid for the future. It is the interests, habits, and discipline you develop in college that really counts."

"College is the period when you learn faster. You are not as stubborn and resistant to learning as when you grow older," he said.

When I asked him if he thought college students were well informed on world and domestic problems he replied that in some fields they were but that he had noticed a void in geography.

He also said that he didn't think they knew enough about the Congo or the African situation. In his speech he said, "Our schools and higher institutions are not doing enough to inform the students of world situations. There are not enough people who have enough knowledge to teach about this."

A college education is "indispensable, next to breathing," he said.

Dr. Bunche was welcomed on his first visit to Huntington by a large crowd of college students and people from the city. The audience was very attentive throughout his speech and responded warmly to the humorous incidents he included in his talk.

At the beginning of his talk Dr. Bunche said "I regret I could not be here earlier but this was something beyond my control and must be charged to the Congo." He said that he had to "play hookey" from a meeting in order to keep this date.

The topic of his speech was "Exploding Africa, the United Nations and Peace." He said that the condition in Africa was approaching anarchy and that this was an extremely difficult situation for the UN to handle. He also said that the UN can't take sides; their aim is to give technical and financial help.

A question period followed his talk. Dr. Bunche seemed to enjoy answering the questions, in fact, he was reluctant to leave and catch his train. After several reminders that it was getting late he remarked, "I have missed better trains than this one." The audience heartily approved.

Bobcats, Green Clash Tonight In MAC Game

By JIM DUFFIELD
Sports Writer

The Big Green will be back in action tonight to take on the Bobcats of Ohio University at the Field House. After splitting the last two games the Big Green will be gunning for the big win in the Mid-American Conference.

Most sports writers feel that Miami University and Ohio U. are the dark horses in the conference and will be the teams to defeat.

After hitting only 30 per cent from the floor in the tilt against Miami, Coach Jule Rivlin may try a different combination to get the punch needed to mark up a win against the Bobcats.

Coach Assistant Mike Josephs said, "Ohio U. has a very good team with four regulars back and they will be very strong, but if we play anywhere up to par, we have an excellent chance of winning".

Twelve Students Receive Citizenship

By RICK TOLLEY
Staff Reporter

Seventeen persons received their citizenship in naturalization ceremonies in the Federal Courtroom of the Huntington Post Office Friday.

Twelve of the seventeen were students of the Marshall College Americanization Program, which was organized by Dr. Charles Harper, professor of political science, and Dean J. Frank Bartlett of the College of Arts and Sciences. The program was formed in cooperation with the Immigration and Naturalization Service of the Department of Justice.

To date, 1,167 immigrants have been enrolled in the Marshall program since it was organized here 13 years ago, according to Dr. Harper, director of the program.

The service, which was set up in 1944 to prepare immigrants for their final citizenship examinations, is the only one of its kind in West Virginia.

Of the 1,167 total enrollment, 651 have completed their work and have received their citizenship papers or are ready for the final naturalization examinations. Thirty-two have completed the program so far this year, and 295 are enrolled at the present time.

Students have been enrolled from all the counties in West Virginia, with Cabell and Kanawha Counties first and second respectively in total enrollment. There are also students living in most of the 50 states and the District of Columbia, and in Germany, France, England and Japan.

In recognition of the Americanization Program, Dr. Harper has represented West Virginia and Marshall College at the National Citizenship Conference since 1949.

Governor-Elect Watches Big Green In Action

GOVERNOR-ELECT WALLY BARRON sat next to President Stewart H. Smith during the Marshall-Clemson game last Thursday evening. Mr. Barron was among the visiting dignitaries at the college that day. It was also his birthday and spectators joined in singing "happy birthday, Wally."

FOUR VOLUNTEERS from Sigma Phi Epsilon help decorate the Christmas tree in the Student Union. Windows and doorways also were dressed up for the holiday season by these and other students.

Commission Picks Aids

Chairmen of the Parents Weekend Commission were named last week by Paul Beckett, Huntington junior and Parents Weekend student coordinator, and ratified by the Student Senate.

They are: Susan Langstaff, Huntington senior, publicity chairman; Bill Tow, Logan senior, correspondence chairman; Jim Mosko, Kimball senior, finance chairman; Stan Boose, Huntington junior, department display chairman; Forrest Jones, Huntington senior, events chairman; David Todd, Huntington senior, Friday chairman; George Wooten, Hollidaysburg, Pa., junior, Saturday chairman; Joyce Rutledge, Huntington senior, Sunday chairman; and Barbara Robertson, Huntington junior, hospitality chairman.

According to John Sayre, Parents Weekend Faculty Coordinator, these chairmen have had one meeting to brief them on their jobs and to discuss the prospective members under each chairman.

The members are being chosen in order that all social groups, housing units and unaffiliates will have complete representation.

Student 'Elves' Decorate Union

By SUE MOSS
Staff Reporter

The Student Union has been given a new dress for the Christmas season.

The windows, doorways, archways, and fireplace were decorated with greenery, candles, icicles, tinsels, and lights by volunteers from Sigma Phi Epsilon and Lambda Chi Alpha, directed by the Student Union Activities Committee and Bill Gillespie, assistant manager of the Union.

Probably the outstanding features are the brightly decorated tree standing by the fireplace and the front windows painted by Bob Vacheresse, Windsor Heights senior.

The decorating Friday afternoon, followed by a free Christmas movie, and a mix Friday evening, began the schedule of holiday activities for the Union.

Tomorrow night will highlight the week's activities with a mix. There will be carol singing during an intermission and dormitory residents will have special late permission.

Jan. 4 Deadline For Et Cetera

James Wellman, Kenova junior and publicity chairman of the Et Cetera commission, announced today that the deadline for entries to be published in the March 1 edition of the magazine has been extended to January 4.

Also this year the commission hopes to be able to print another edition on May 1.

In the past the winners have been awarded cash prizes, but this year prizes will be achievement symbols, so as to present a lasting memory of the work put in on the publication.

Thai Student Seeking Admission To College

Four foreign students, including the first Thailand (Siam) citizen in Marshall College history, have applied for admission here.

The Siamese applicant is Miss Santiyangkun Chun, who plans to enter in September, 1961. Miss Chun is now attending the National Chenghi University in Formosa.

Two student nurses at St.

Mary's Hospital have been accepted for admission here the second semester of this academic year.

The students, Miss Consuelo Wong of Cotabato City, the Philippine Islands, and Miss Amy Wang of Formosa, will enroll in Nursing Education. Both plan to return to work as professional nurses.

The other applicant, Dong Whan Kwon of Korea, is now attending Peabody College for Teachers in Nashville, Tenn. He has applied for admission to the Graduate School in February, 1961.

Cage Spotlight Focuses On Slater, Sydenstricker; Both Are 'Transfers'

By BILL TOW
Sports Writer

In the next to last profile series, two transfer students are in the spotlight — Mickey Sydenstricker and Gene Slater.

Gene Slater stands 6-2 and tips the scales at 190. He is originally from Ripley and played high school basketball. After he graduated he went to West Virginia University and played ball for one year under Fred Schaus.

The main difference between Mountaineer and Big Green ball is, he said, "in defense and mostly in offense. At Morgantown they use free-lance, while here we use a set offense."

The sophomore guard likes the fast break and both the zone and man-to-man defense.

While at Ripley High school, Slater played in the North-South game and the All-State Game, and also in the Little Kanawha Conference where he was named the most valuable player. He was their leading scorer, averaging 29 points per game. His total in a single game was 51 points.

Slater played summer league ball last summer with Mickey Sydenstricker and other Marshall players and considers Jerry West the most outstanding player he's ever played against.

A physical education major, he has not yet decided what he will do after graduating.

Coach Jule Rivlin says of him, "He's a great hustler and a good defensive player who could develop into a starter."

Mickey Sydenstricker is 6-3. A sophomore who originally hails from Huntington, he is an alumni of Marshall High and Russell, Ky. High.

Sydenstricker came to Marshall from the University of Alabama. When asked what the difference between Crimson Tide ball and Marshall's style, he said, "Alabama plays control ball and doesn't know what a fast break is."

Sydenstricker played ball with Big Green team member Jim Gallion. He was picked to play on the All-Star team comprised both of West Virginians and Kentuckians. He also played on the East-West team in Kentucky.

The strapping six-footer was on the same team that Slater was on this summer and says of that, "It gave me a little more experience and I enjoyed it quite a bit." He, too, feels that West was the best hoopster he's played against.

In high school, he was voted the most valuable player.

His highest number of points in one game is 46. He likes loose playing and lots of team action. His favorite shot is a one-handed jump.

Coach Rivlin says of Sydenstricker, "He has excellent speed, shoots well with either hand and has very good timing."

Redskins Scalp Green; Tiger Threat Toppled

By ROGER HUTCHISON
Sports Writer

Coach Jule Rivlin's Green men broke even in their last two games by defeating Clemson 82-65 and bowing out to Miami in a MAC game 64-57.

Following a brilliant win over Clemson last Thursday night at Memorial Stadium in Huntington, the Big Green traveled to Oxford, Ohio, Saturday night and came out second best in the tussle with Miami's Redskins.

Although Marshall out-rebounded their adversary 61-59, the Redskins were ahead where it counts—in the scoring column. Both team's shooting was cold but Miami was out in front, shooting 33 per cent to Marshall's 30 per cent from the floor. Marshall led only once in the game and then just briefly in the first half.

Miami led throughout the rest of the game except for an occasional tie score. Their lead never exceeded eight points and it constantly fluctuated between an eight and a one point lead. But the final minutes saw them score twice in succession and come out of the match a winner by five tallies.

Captain Bob Burgess and Mickey Sydenstricker led Marshall in the scoring column with 20 and 17 respectively. Burgess is also attributed with 24 of Marshall's rebounds.

Miami took the individual scoring honors with Vern Lawson picking up 23 and Daye Zellar totaling 22.

In a non-conference game last Thursday Marshall played a much better ball game when they out-stripped Clemson's Tigers at the baskets. A new man in Marshall's starting line-up, Dick Wildt, is attributed with "making the difference". Wildt totaled 14 points and played only half of the game. He broke the game open in the second half when he grabbed eight of his points in three minutes of play.

Contrary to the records of the Miami game, the records show the Big Green shooting 52 per cent. They also led the Tigers, a taller team, in rebounds 43-38.

Wildt was not the only man shooting with skill. Bob Burgess and Mickey Sydenstricker both tallied 19 points each and Lou Mott was in the running with 11.

Marshall now has a 2-2 record for the season and although their shooting seems cold at times, their performance in the Clemson game promises better times ahead.

Membership Applications Available For Reorganized Literary Group

By BILL PLUMLEY
Teachers College Journalist

The first meeting for application of membership in the John Marshall Literary Group will be held at 7 p.m. today in Room 301 of Old Main. Membership is open to all students, except first semester freshmen.

The group's constitution states that its purpose is "to foster and encourage the reading of books of enduring or topical interest through the use of literary symposiums."

This group is a singular organization with no affiliation with any campus department. Every year a number of students urge the English Department to organize some type of literary society. But, the department feels that this kind of fellowship should be fashioned for and by the students.

The charter members said that the fellowship this group can offer will afford the student a chance to air his ideas on literary works and an opportunity to compare and develop a better appreciation of literature.

Until this group was formed, English was the only language taught on campus not represented by a society. However, this kind of society at Marshall is nothing new, according to the early college catalogues of this century. The literary club was the center of campus attraction in the college days of our parents. The Erosophian, which was born in 1895, gave the students a source of lasting pleasure. It dispersed in 1927 and organized literary discussion has been idle until this year.

Mrs. Lillian Helmes, Buskirk, dean of women, said that she can recall no literary group of any kind on the campus within the 23 years that she has been here.

Thirty people were asked their opinion of a literary club on campus. They were in accord that no feature of the life and value of a school is greater than its literary organization.

Bill Wortham, president of the Student Body and Huntington senior, said that he backs a pursuit of this nature completely.

The JMLC consists of a chairman, Jack R. LeMaster, Huntington junior, who will finish his term January 17, 1961, and an executive secretary, Bill Plumley, Huntington, second semester freshman.

It will take an amendment of the group's constitution to levy dues, according to Mr. David K. King, instructor in social studies and faculty advisor to the group.

Those students who join the group on or before January 1, 1961, will be charter members.

Planning Week Begins Feb. 19

The annual Life Planning Week is scheduled for Feb. 19 to 22, according to June Spencer, Mason senior and chairman of the planning week committee.

The general theme will be "How to Live Every Day of Your Life."

One change in the program this year is the absence of classroom speakers. "In the past," said Miss Spencer, "the committee has brought in many outside speakers to participate in the program, especially in classroom sessions."

"We are trying to integrate the program as a campus-centered function and in order to do this we plan to use only one principal outside speaker."

The keynote speaker for the program will be Margaret Blair Johnstone, lecturer and author.

Fireside chats will be continued this year, but they, too, have been altered somewhat. Miss Spencer said, "This year we hope to have interested faculty members, rather than off-campus people, conduct these informal discussions. The primary purpose of this change is to allow free exchange of ideas between faculty and students in an informal atmosphere."

The fireside chats will be held at various housing units on campus and in the fraternity and sorority houses.

... Receives Grant

Dr. Martin Barnett Is Awarded Grant

Dr. Martin D. Barnett, assistant professor of chemistry, has been awarded a $6,300 research grant from the Petroleum Research Fund Advisory Board of the American Chemical Society.

The grant, which covers the period from February of 1961 to August 1962, will be used to encourage and finance undergraduate research at Marshall College on "The Chemistry of Some Bridged Ferrocenes."

Dr. Barnett, who received his Ph. D. degree from the University of Mexico in 1958, has been with the college since September of 1959.

Woman In Man's Role Impressed By Marshall

By ERNESTINE MONDAY
Staff Reporter

"I am tremendously impressed with Marshall College," was the remark of Mrs. Aileen M. Lofgren, Personnel Officer for the U. S. Navy Hydrographic Office.

Mrs. Lofgren was on campus last week to interview graduates interested in civil engineering. She is the first female recruiter to be on campus for the purpose of interviewing students for a governmental agency such as hers. She is one of the very few women employed in this field in the nation.

She explained that she entered this field by mere circumstance. The employment officer for the agency had previously been doing all of the college recruiting himself, but this became such a complex task that he decided to employ someone to help him. When it was decided that a woman should be given the job it caused quite a bit of unfavorable criticism. Mrs. Lofgren was the woman selected. She feels that her success in the field has been equal to any male recruiter.

Mrs. Lofgren made many favorable comments about Marshall. She said, "In my experience I encounter all sorts of placement than any school I have visited."

She is a graduate of George Washington University with a major in psychology and a minor in sociology. Her home is in Washington where she lives with her husband and daughter.

She has been employed by this agency for 10 years and her work covers the months of September through May. As expressed by Mrs. Lofgren, the opportunities in this field are simply a matter of taking advantage of them.

Mrs. Lofgren spends only one day at each school she visits. Her future plans include interviews at the University of Georgia, University of South Carolina, and Miami University. This will be the first time she has interviewed at any of these schools. This is the first visit of any representative from her agency to Marshall. Mrs. Lofgren will visit the campus again next year.

RABBI TO SPEAK

Rabbi Frank Sundheim, of the Ohav Shalom Temple, will be the guest speaker at the meeting of Kappa Delta Chi, preministerial honorary, at 3 p.m. today. He will speak of the subject, "A Jew Looks at Christmas."

The meeting will be on the second floor of the Student Union. All students are welcome to attend.

PICTURES SCHEDULED

Juniors Will Aid In Revamping Of Faculty Advisory Program

Juniors in the College of Arts and Sciences will be filling out questionnaires tomorrow as the first step in the college's effort to make the faculty advisory program more efficient, Dean J. F. Bartlett announced.

They will assemble in the Science Hall auditorium at 11 a.m. Dean Bartlett said the students affected are those with 58 to 90 hours of credit at the beginning of the current semester.

"These students are expected to attend this session," the dean pointed out, "in order that we may call upon their experience to strengthen the faculty advisory program."

The College of Applied Science and Teachers College already have contacted students to get their opinions on the current advisory program.

"We are working together," Dean Bartlett said, "to improve this program."

The three-page questionnaire will require about 30 minutes of the student's time.
