Registration schedule announced

By Linda L. Jones
Staff Writer

Advanced registration for all summer sessions begins April 2-6 for presently enrolled Marshall students.

Copies of the schedule of courses for summer sessions are available in the Registrar's Office in Old Main room 104. The schedule will not be distributed around campus because of a smaller number of students taking classes, according to Robert H. Eddins, registrar.

First term classes are from June 11 to July 13; second term classes are from July 16 to August 17; intersession classes, which are aimed primarily at public school teachers, are from May 14 to June 9, Eddins said.

Advanced registration will be April 2-6 from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Friday.

Regular registration will be April 9 through June 8 at the same time periods, Eddins said. Advanced registered students may adjust their summer schedules anytime during this period, he said.

Tuition fees must be paid by June 1 for all advanced registered students. All registration and schedule adjustments made after that must be accompanied by fees, Eddins said.

Late registration schedule adjustments for the first summer term will be June 12 from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.; a non-refundable $15 late fee will be assessed, Eddins said.

Regular registration for the second summer term is July 16 from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at the registrar's office. Late registration for the second summer session will be July 17 from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.; a non-refundable $15 fee also will be required assessed.

Fees for one semester hour for in-state students are $32 for undergraduates and $45 for graduates. The fees for out-of-state students for one semester hour are $97 for undergraduates and $140 for graduates.

Although usually buzzing with students' laughter and chatter between classes, the MU Jazz Ensemble rocked the Memorial Student Center with a different kind of music Monday.

Black Awareness Week continues...

By Dawn Johnson
Staff Writer

Plenty of activities remain on the calendar for the rest of Black Awareness Week. Events scheduled include a "Soul Food Feast" at 4 p.m. today in Twin Towers Cafeteria. The menu will include barbecued ribs, greens, baked beans, corn bread and other specialties. There will be a fee charged.

Wednesday evening there will be two showings of the movie "The Wiz," at 7 and 9 p.m. in the Science Hall Auditorium. MU students will be admitted free with ID and Activity cards and general admission will be $1.50.

Dr. Alvin Poussaint, associate dean of student affairs and associate professor of psychiatry at Harvard University Medical School, is scheduled to speak at 8 p.m., Thursday in the W. Don Morris Room in the Memorial Student Center. The topic of his keynote speech will be "Black Protest to Black Politics." Following the speech there will be a reception in the Alumni Lounge.

Poussaint is author of the 1972 best-sellers "Why Blacks Kill Black" and "Black Child Care." He has written numerous articles for lay and professional publications and served as consultant to the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, and the Congressional Black Caucus.

Preceding the Black Awareness Ball scheduled at 10 p.m. Friday, at the Convention Center Hotel, will be a Fashion and Variety Show at 7:30 p.m. in the Morris Room in the student center.

Rounding out Black Awareness Week will be a Step Show at 9 p.m. and a Disco Dance at 10 p.m. in the Morris Room on Saturday. WMUL will broadcast live from the student center and provide the dance music. Admission will be $1 for MU students and $2 for the general admission.

A one woman show starring Elaine Blue, a former Marshall student, entitled "Moods and Works of Blue" was presented Monday night in the Morris Room in the student center to kick off the week's festivities.

One of the poems performed by Blue was entitled "Kin Folks" which is a poem of a conversation between a mother and her first born son about the strong bond of a black family as seen during a reunion.

Blue is a 1980 graduate of Marshall University and founder of the Huntington Theatrical Ensemble. Some of Blue's most popular works of poetry were performed during the presentation which was described as a portrait of people and life.

Group wants changes halted

By Alisa Minor
Staff Writer

The Advisory Council of Faculty has "sided with the colleges" and approved a resolution which asks the Board of Regents to withdraw its proposed mission changes which would affect four state colleges, according to Dr. William E. Coffey, professor of social studies and ACF member.

The resolution requests that the BOR "withdraw its proposed mission changes and to consider such changes in accordance with the established BOR planning procedure."

Coffey said the council is "not denying that the BOR has a right and a duty" to change the missions of these colleges.

"However," he said, "we don't want them to ignore their own established procedures."

The proposed changes would affect Bluefield State College, Concord College, West Virginia Tech and West Virginia State College.

In other action, the ACF approved a resolution which calls for the "circulation of a survey among all faculty and staff to ascertain likely participation (in a plan) to partially waiver (school) fees for faculty and staff employees and dependents who attend state colleges."

The ACF also requested that "West Virginia University obtain a cost and benefits estimate for a system-wide voluntary optical-dental insurance plan."

The council also requested that the "BOR use all available personal service money to implement the salary schedule to the fullest extent."

Spring practice opens Parrish era at Marshall

Marshall's head football coach Stan Parrish led his troops Monday for the first time when the Thundering Herd opened spring football practice at Fairfield Stadium. The Herd is allowed 20 spring practices under NCAA guidelines and will conclude the drills April 27 with the annual Green-White game at Fairfield Stadium.

The Herd will work out on Mondays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Fridays - from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. - leading up to the spring game, which will begin at 7:30 p.m. Parrish and his staff are instilling new offensive and defensive systems into the Marshall program.

More than 90 players, including several walk-ons, are in pads for spring drills, which went pretty well Monday, Parrish said. The Marshall coach said the Herd's offense will be based on a controlled passing attack and Monday Parrish had his quarterbacks, Carl Fodor (who entered the spring No. 1 on the depth chart), Tim Kendrick and Ted Carpenter throwing the football for more than half of the practice.

Parrish said Fridays will be used for scrimmages but added the team is still about two weeks away from its first scrimmage, emphasizing that learning the new system is more important now.

Parrish said he and his staff will spend a lot of time this spring putting in new offensive formations.

Korean consul general to speak at MU Thursday

The Korean consul general to New York City, will discuss "U.S.- Korean Relations: An Economic and Political Perspective" at 8 p.m. Thursday in Smith Hall 154, according to Dr. Soo Bock Choi, professor of political science.

Choi said Dr. Se Jin Kim, who will leave his position as consul general for a higher government position, is visiting Charleston and Huntington until Friday.

According to Choi, Kim was promoted to vice secretary of the Department of Commerce and Industry in Korea Tuesday, and will assume the responsibilities of that position Sunday. Choi said as consul general, Kim has had responsibility for all consular and resident affairs and consulate economic and trade matters in twelve eastern seaboard states, including West Virginia.

He said Kim hopes to establish rapport with the cities of Charleston and Huntington during his visit. While in Huntington, Kim will meet with MU faculty members, government officials, and some community leaders. He will receive a key to the city from the Huntington City Council after his lecture.

Kim has served as consul general since December 1980. In 1983, he was elected to a one-year term as president of the Society of Foreign Consuls, an organization which promotes cooperation and good will among members of the consulate community in New York.

Kim was educated in this country and has taught at a number of American and Korean universities, including Eastern Kentucky University and the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

Kim has written, edited, or co-authored nine books concerning inter-

Korean or U.S.-Korean relations and the Third World. He has also written articles for scholarly publications.

Kim frequently lectures at academic institutions, and these have included Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy, Columbia, Harvard, Princeton, and Penn State universities.

Choi said Kim's visit was arranged by several faculty members and is sponsored by the College of Liberal Arts and the Department of Political Science.

Thursday's lecture is free and open to the public.

Barboursville freshman wins Miss Marshall pageant

After the last long walk around the runway, with six hearts quickly beating, Lorre Lewis, Barboursville freshman, won the crown Sunday at the Miss Marshall Scholarship Pageant.

The pageant, held at Convention Center Hotel's Pompeii Room, included private panel interviews and a show.

The interviews, an individual talent exhibition and a swimsuit competition were the basis of the judging for the six women.

The five other contestants were Laura Rogers of Barboursville, Yvea Duncan of Logan, Jennifer Brammell and Victoria Wilburn, both of Huntington, and Robin Stark of Clarksburg.

Duncan, first runner-up, won the talent portion by singing "He Touched Me," and Lewis won the swimsuit competition. Lewis danced to "It's Raining Men" for her talent entry.

During her interview, caring was the word Lewis said she picked when asked to describe herself in one word.

"They also asked me what I look for in a man," she said, "and what I would tell someone about West Virginia if they were a stranger to the state."

Lewis won numerous personal care items from local businesses, including $200 toward an evening gown for the Miss West Virginia Pageant from Delmar's of Ashland.

The winner of the pageant, which will be at Clarksburg the second week of June, will travel to Atlantic City, N.J., for the Miss America Pageant.

1982-83 yearbook supplements being distributed on campus

Remaining copies of the 1982-83 Chief Justice yearbook supplement will be available this week in Parthenon boxes, according to Kim J. Metz, Mineral Wells junior and yearbook editor. The 1983-84 Chief Justice is complete, she said, and should be delivered to campus the last week of April.

The new yearbook will be distributed to full-time students from both semesters, Metz said. Three thousand books will be available and distribution will be at the Memorial Student Center during the last week of classes, she said.

The book will contain sections about activities and events from the school year through the month of March, Metz said. Activities and sports after April 1 will be included in a 32-page supplement to be distributed next fall, she said.

The book will contain 40 pages of color photos, Metz said. The division pages and cover art work are by students of Robert Rowe, assistant professor of art.

The theme for the 240-page book is "Shades of Gray." Metz said the theme was chosen because there were many unanswered questions during the school year.

Reel World String Band to play

The Reel World String Band from Lexington, Ky., will be performing at the Christian Center from 8 to 11 p.m. Friday.

Reel World is a group consisting of four women, who play traditional and contemporary folk and bluegrass music, according to Martha Lloyd, campus minister for the United Methodist Church. The instruments the women play include the banjo, the bass, acoustic guitar, the hammer dulcimer and the mandolin.

The band was formed in Lexington, during the International Women's Conference and since has toured throughout the United States.

"The band is well worth your evening," according to Elizabeth Bonzo-Savage, a local woman who has heard the band perform. "To be able to see them for a dollar is a bargain."

Bonzo-Savage also said that this band can be an inspiration for any women who see it perform.

This activity is being sponsored by the Women's Center and the United Methodist Church for their monthly coffee house. Admission will be $1 with food available for sale. Everyone is welcome to attend. Dress is informal.

MIT instructor to speak at MU on neurology

By Helen Matheny
Staff Writer

"The Effects of Specific Nutrients on Brain Function" is the speech to be presented by a Massachusetts Institute of Technology professor of neuroendocrine regulation, 8 p.m. Thursday in Smith Recital Hall.

Dr. Richard J. Wurtman is a lecturer in medicine at Harvard Medical School.

"Dr. Wurtman is a world-renowned authority on the effect of food on brain activity," Dr. Susan DeMesquita, assistant professor of physiology, said.

DeMesquita said Wurtman believes brain chemicals or neurotransmitters can change brain function which in turn changes one's behaviors.

"He has proposed that what you eat is capable of influencing various behaviors such as appetite, sleep patterns, memory -- even sexual behavior," DeMesquita said.

She said he believes changes in behavior following a meal reflect the alteration of brain chemistry. "His ideas give a new twist to the old saying that you are what you eat: Dr. Wurtman is implying that the way you act and behave may reflect what you ate at your last meal," she said.

"Although his ideas are still controversial, clinicians are using specific foodstuffs to treat depression and anxiety as well as sleep disorders and memory problems," DeMesquita said.

The program and the reception following are open to the public.

ATOs to sponsor casino night

By Richard Sullivan
Staff Writer

The Coffee House will be transformed into a casino Thursday night, when the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity pledge class sponsors "casino night," complete with a roulette wheel, blackjack, and poker games.

Prizes available include "Coors" coolie cups, buttons, posters, mirrors, a case of beer and a fifth of Jack Daniels, according to Michael A. "Andy" Brison, who is coordinating the event.

Participants in the activity, which will run from 8 p.m. to midnight, will receive $1,000 in play money for each dollar they contribute. The play money will then be used for playing the various games set up in the Coffee House.

At 11 p.m. some of the prizes will be auctioned off for the bidder with the largest amount of play money.

The pledge class is sponsoring casino night to raise money for fraternity bills, Brison said. If any money is left over it will go toward activation fees for pledges.

Brison said he doesn't think there will be any legal problems with running card games and a roulette wheel in the Coffee House, since only play money is being used.
