Freshman 'crams' for juicy final; wins pizza prize

Ten 16-inch pizzas were removed from a metal warming box and placed on the table in front of ten hungry-looking men.

Lots of napkins followed in preparation for what was to happen.

The countdown began. "Three, two, one, go!" a timekeeper shouted, and as fast as they could, the men began stuffing their mouths with pepperoni, sauce, crust and cheese.

After two minutes, Huntington freshman Todd P. Meadows emerged the winner, having downed nine of his pizza's 12 pieces.

"I've had nothing to eat all day long," Meadows said following the contest. "I had no practicing, and I hope not to do this again until next year."

Organized by Student Activities Council, the contest, which took place at noon on Memorial Student Center plaza, was one of Tuesday's Homecoming activities.

Other activities Tuesday included music by singer Jim McGill at 11 a.m. on the plaza and by Rob Harris at 9 p.m. in the Coffeehouse.

Events today include an organizational fair from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. on the plaza and music by Mr. Entertainer from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. on the plaza.

Rounding out today's events is a vaudeville revue of the 1920s entitled "Harlem Heyday." Sponsored by the Office of Minority Students and performed by Afri Productions of New York, the revue is scheduled for 8 p.m. in Old Main Auditorium.

His jaws bulging, Todd P. Meadows, Huntington freshman, does his best to take in the last of his ninth slice during a pizza-eating contest Tuesday on the Memorial Student Center plaza. Meadows won the contest, which was part of the day's Homecoming activities.

Students not gobbling tickets to Roth concert, may hinder future shows

By Abbey Dunlap
Reporter

Future Homecoming concerts at the Huntington Civic Center may be in jeopardy if ticket sales for Sunday's David Lee Roth concert don't improve, the center's director, Sue Thomas, said Tuesday.

Thomas said approximately 5,500 of the total 10,000 tickets available have been sold, and Joe Marshman, coordinator of Campus Entertainment Unlimited, said fewer than 300 of the 1,000 tickets available on campus have been sold.

Thomas said the low ticket sales at Marshall are very disappointing because the concert is for Marshall students, and the future of other Homecoming concerts at the center depends upon the success of the Roth concert.

"It all depends on this show and how the concert is supported," Thomas said. "I've done a lot of work on this concert. If the students aren't going to support a concert, why have it?"

Nevertheless, Thomas said she is optimistic ticket sales will increase later this week.

"Being a general admission concert, there's no real need to purchase tickets in advance," Thomas said. "I think sales will pick up."

Students who have a validated Marshall ID and activity card can purchase concert tickets for the discounted price of $13 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday through Friday at the Memorial Student Center Box Office, Marshman said.

Both Student Government Association and Student Activities donated $2,000 each to reimburse the Civic Center for the student discount, which amounts to $2 a ticket.

SGA and Student Activities will be given back all money not used for discounts, Marshman said.

Marshman said he also hopes ticket sales will increase as the concert date approaches. "We thought we would sell a lot more tickets than we have," he said.

Handicapped facilities, scholars attract magazine editors, dollars

By Chris Miller
Reporter

At first glance, Marshall's facilities for the handicapped and its Society of Yeager Scholars program may not seem to have much in common.

But President Dale F. Nitzschke says they do. Though each serves only a minority of the student body, the entire university is more appealing because of them, he said.

"We spend an incredible amount of money on ramps and automatic doors," Nitzschke said. "And the handicapped here are just a small part of the student population. But we feel it's worth it."

"The same with the Yeager program. We will have a direct affect on a very small number of students, but indirectly, the program will cause good things to happen throughout the university in terms of morale and good feeling. I think everyone will find there will be a tremendous carry-over; the pride will rub off on the rest of the institution."

However, the program, which will bring a new group of 20 academically outstanding students to Marshall each fall for intensive training without cost to them, is not without risk, Nitzschke said.

"But we're willing to try this very bold program," he said. "The program will help those directly involved, but it's also a vehicle which can be effective in getting attention paid to all the fine things Marshall has to offer."

Skepticism about the program is normal, Nitzschke said. "I think it's natural for various departments on campus to be concerned about how the program will work. But what we all need to realize is that the Yeager program will provide more support to the whole university, in terms of both people and dollars."

Dramatic increases in both public support for Marshall and money coming to the university from private sources

Seventh American missing in Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon - An underground group Tuesday claimed it kidnapped a 56-year-old American and alleged he worked for the CIA and the Israeli secret service. The United States denied the charges.

The Revolutionary Justice Organization, a group believed made up of Shiite Moslems loyal to Iran, identified the hostage as Edward Austin Tracy of Vermont.

If Tracy's abduction is confirmed, he would be the seventh American missing in Lebanon. The Revolutionary Justice Organization claims to hold one of the previous American kidnap victims.

The group made its claim in a handwritten note in Arabic delivered to the Beirut office of a Western news agency. The statement was accompanied by a photograph of Tracy and a photocopy of his passport.

Allegations of his kidnapers that he works for the CIA are totally without foundation.

The white-haired Tracy writes illustrated children's books. He was one of the fewer than a dozen Americans who remained in west Beirut after the latest exodus of foreigners in April prompted by a series of politically motivated kidnappings.

The underground group did not say when or where Tracy was abducted.

"The Revolutionary Justice Organization announces the arrest of Jewish American spy called Edward Austin Tracy after he was definitely proven to be ... feeding the (Israeli secret service) Mossad and the CIA with information (and) ... spying for the CIA," the group said in its statement.

In Washington, White House spokesman Larry Speakes said Tracy "has no connection with the U.S. government. Allegations of his kidnappers that he works for the CIA are totally without foundation."

In Tel Aviv, officials in the Foreign Ministry and the office of the prime minister declined comment on the allegations Tracy was linked to Mossad.

A U.S. Embassy official said Tracy had been living in West Beirut for a long time. The official said he could not confirm that Tracy was kidnapped.

He speaks some Arabic and frequently visited U.S. news agency offices in Beirut to seek help in marketing his books.

Tracy often was seen sitting in sidewalk cafes in West Beirut's Hamra commercial thoroughfare. Lebanese waiters who know him said they have not seen him in two months.

17 plead guilty; federal trial canceled for Kermit drug case

HUNTINGTON - Guilty pleas from 17 defendants in the Kermit drug case eliminated the need for a federal court trial that had been scheduled to begin Tuesday, an assistant U.S. attorney said.

Joseph Savage, the prosecutor in charge of the case, said a hearing is scheduled Thursday in Parkersburg for two remaining defendants, Kenneth Murphy and Glen Mullins. Mullins is a former Kermit police officer.

Seventeen other defendants - including Kermit fire chief Wilburn Preece and his son-in-law, former Kermit police chief David Ramey - have already entered guilty pleas, Savage said.

According to the prosecutor, the defendants will be sentenced in two groups, with possible jail sentences ranging from 5 to 18 years. The defendants also could be liable for fines of up to $750,000, Savage said.

55 more diplomats booted out; Soviets say game should stop

WASHINGTON - The United States, retaliating for the expulsion from Moscow of five American diplomats on spy allegations, has decided to kick 55 to 60 Soviets out of the country, two U.S. officials said Tuesday.

An announcement by Secretary of State George P. Shultz was expected later Tuesday.

Earlier, President Reagan said he would respond to the expulsion of the five U.S. diplomats, but gave no details of his plans.

A meeting was held Monday at the White House. Among the measures considered was the expulsion of Soviet diplomats from their embassy here, said U.S. officials who declined to be identified.

In Moscow Tuesday, Gennady Gerasimov, a spokesman for the Soviet Foreign Ministry, said, "If the United States will insist on continuing this game of tit-for-tat, then this can continue indefinitely. We consider it is time to stop."

Justice officials won't charge members of Nazi People's Court

BERLIN - West Berlin justice officials announced Thursday they have decided against prosecuting members of the Nazis' infamous People's Court, which sentenced more than 5,000 people to death during the Third Reich.

The investigation was closed because the surviving officials of the Nazi court are too old or sick for trial, a statement from the West Berlin Justice Ministry said.

About 20 judges and prosecutors who ran the court are living in West Germany.

He said the decision means none will be charged with Nazi crimes in West Berlin. Technically, another criminal investigation could be opened against them in West Germany.

The People's Court, opened in Berlin in 1934 and based there, was the Nazi tribunal for trying cases of treason, espionage, and "demoralization" of the Nazi war effort.

Glancing back

Marshall College 1956.

Homecoming shifts into full gear with the naming of Homecoming queen Margaret Quintier, otherwise known as "Miss Marshall," who'll be crowned at the dance by Student Body President Robert Alexander (now dean of the college of business).

It is reported that 24-units have entered the Homecoming parade, the majority of which are floats from sororities, fraternities and other campus organizations. The Thundering Herd holds out hope for a victory over Kent State, after having lost the last six years' Homecoming games. The Saturday contest will determine who is runner-up behind Bowling Green and Miami in the Mid-American Football Conference.

Also announced in the Oct. 19 issue of The Parthenon is the beginning of a four-year program in conjunction with Cabell-Huntington Hospital for a Bachelor of Science in Medical Technology.

Advertisements show wool-sweatered young men and plaid skirted women advertising Winston ("tastes good like a cigarette should") and Chesterfield cigarettes.

A feature story details Marshall College's landmarks, including a buffalo head mounted in the Shawkey Student Union, the brick terrace (located between Old Main and Memorial Student Center), and a sign at the "entrance" of the campus in front of the James E. Morrow Library, which "will direct wayward alums (since) ... the change in the campus has been quite pronounced.

An editorial in the following edition of The Parthenon complains about Student Government's ineptitude in having to scramble to name Homecoming judges for the parade and other events after a mix-up disqualified those already named.

In that same issue, it is reported that a $3 million budget is approved by the state Board of Education for Marshall College, which now has a growing enrollment of 3,573 students. The bill includes appropriations for a $1.7 fine arts building with auditorium. The budget must, however, go to the state budget director and the board of public works for final approval.

In the pre-Homecoming edition of The Parthenon, a student columnist offers advice on etiquette, because "now that the social season is in full swing, it's time for a refresher course in social manners ... pretty is as pretty does." Some pointers listed:

For women:

■ Leave the chewing gum at home (when going on a date). Nothing ruins an appearance more quickly than chewing gum in public ... don't comb your hair in a booth.

■ Don't be too shy to let him (your date) know what you would like (to do) ... and be considerate of a man's pocketbook.

For men:

■ Remember to walk on the curb side of the street ... open doors for a woman and hold them for her to go through. ... A man never takes a woman's arm but should, if circumstances permit, offer his.

■ Telephone early for a date so the young lady can plan what to wear ... And, finally, don't drink too much when on a date; more men are refused a date for this reason than any other.

Notable quote

"Russia might have been atheists when we had money, but now that we are broke we ain't going to let religion interfere with business. Some nations can come over that worship a golden calf, but we will recognize them as long as they will buy the bronze from us to keep the calf golden. We sell to the Chinese and they are heathens, just like the Republicans," said Will Rogers in 1933 about the United States recognizing Russia.

No bonfire? No floats? What happened to Homecoming?

What has happened to Homecoming? So many things about it are wrong, wrong, wrong.

We're not having a bonfire this year because someone decided students didn't want to be all dressed up with nowhere to go after the fire went out.

Please.

After a very nice bonfire, students have always headed out together to local establishments to continue their Homecoming celebration.

And remember when the bonfire used to be after the Homecoming parade on Thursday night? No, no, no. This year the parade is on Saturday morning when most students are having their first date with sleep for the week.

And if moving the day isn't bad enough, someone has moved the parade. It used to be down Fourth Avenue, which is quite accessible to students, but now it's down by Ritter Park where students will have to drive to reach it.

And the parade itself?

No floats.

WHAT IS A HOMECOMING PARADE WITHOUT FLOATS?

Ronald McDonald House

To the Editor:

On Sunday, Sept. 7, a football game was played at Fairfield Stadium between the first- and second-year Marshall University medical students. It raised approximately $3,000 for the Ronald McDonald House.

I want to express my gratitude for everyone who helped me with the benefit game.

We did this project for three reasons. First and foremost, we did it for the children and their families. A lot of families come to Huntington and they have no friends and no money and end up sleeping, eating and living in the halls of the hospital. Second, we wanted to show the community and the surrounding areas that there are medical students, physicians, and businesses who care. Lastly, although we ultimately raised approximately $3,000, we wanted to give the Ronald McDonald House all the publicity we could since its big fund-raising drive is soon.

I would like to thank Dean Lester Bryant, Donna Beckett, and Beverly McCoy who helped secure the stadium and helped with promotions. I would also like to thank Linda Bowen and Theresa Tweel from Marshall University who helped in many different ways; Clint McElroy and the people at WKEE radio for an excellent job of promoting the game for us; Pam Rawn and Chris Rowe who helped distribute fliers and letters to the Cabell Medical Society; Ned Nethercutt and the other referees who devoted their free Sunday to help us. Especially, I would like to thank Student Government for their generous contribution and support.

Many area businesses helped out. Stationers Morgans and the MU Bookstore were kind enough to devote jerseys. The Pied Piper, McDonald's, Jimbo's and Ted's Imperial Lanes donated prizes. I would like to thank the physicians from the Cabell County Medical Society who contributed much of the money and, lastly, all my friends from outside the medical school and my friends from the first- and second-year classes who made it all possible.

Robert C. Anton
Huntington medical student

We're having banners instead. Banners? How perfectly exciting.

And remember when the Homecoming dance was on Saturday night so the football players could go and the queen could reign over at least one activity?

Not this year. The dance is on Friday, before the queen is crowned at halftime during Saturday's football game and when the football players cannot attend.

So what if there was nowhere to go after the bonfire. It was late and you could go to bed.

Now we get to twiddle our thumbs Saturday night after the football game ends about 4 p.m.

Oh, but we have a concert this year on Sunday. Yes, we do.

David Lee Roth.

Yep, he's a big name — for 16-year-old girls.

It's not as if Marshall had been working all year to get a big name. The Civic Center director just happened to notice that Roth had a cancellation and she went about getting him at the last possible minute.

Only 300 student tickets have been sold and Sunday's around the corner.

And yet people wonder why no one gets all worked up about Homecoming.

Priority for freshman council is 24-hour visitation policy

By Sherri L. Richmond
Reporter

A 24-hour visitation policy for first semester freshmen is one priority of the Freshmen Advisory Council, which has formed a sub-committee with the student senate and Don Robertson, assistant dean of student affairs and residence life.

The Freshmen Advisory Council began last year as a branch of the Student Government Association with the main goal of getting freshmen students involved in the decision-making process, according to Steve Justice, co-chairman of the council.

“We can get together and voice our opinions about the concerns of the students.”

Steve Justice

“We can get together and voice our opinions about the concerns of the students,” Justice said.

The council, co-chaired by Justice and Myron Fields, is composed of 17 freshmen students. At the council's first three meetings, members discussed working on many of the problems which freshmen students face. The top priority for the council is to allow 24-hour visitation for first semester freshmen.

“We also are concerned with losing the 'suitcase college' image which Marshall has gotten,” Justice said. “Some suggestions have been to have weekend dances or concerts for the students so they would have reasons to stay here.”

Justice also said the council thinks something needs to be done about the inadequate parking for students and the lighting situation.

“Another problem Marshall has is that of lighting around the campus,” he said. “It is really dangerous for students to walk across campus at night.” Justice said the council will talk with administrators about providing the needed lighting.

“This council has the potential to alleviate all the problems that freshmen have adjusting to college life,” he said.

Activities designed by alumni to 'Celebrate' Homecoming

By Cindy Cook
Reporter

A reception, campus tours, and lunch-under-the-tent, as well as entertainment from various area musical groups, are among the activities to “Celebrate” Homecoming weekend, according to Cynthia A. Warren, chairperson of the Alumni Association's Homecoming Committee.

Events sponsored by the Marshall University Alumni Association begin with a reception, “An Evening with Marshall Friends,” from 8 to 11 p.m. Friday in Suite A of the Huntington Civic Center. Dynasty, a musical variety group, will entertain. Price for the reception is $8 per person, with each person receiving two coupons for drinks. Additional legal beverages will be 50 cents and soft drinks are free.

On Saturday, campus tours originating from the lobby of Memorial Student Center at 9:30 a.m. will be conducted. Complimentary coffee, tea and doughnuts will be provided.

The traditional lunch-under-the-tent will be held at Prindle Field (adjacent to Fairfield Stadium) from 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Saturday. This year's menu will include hot dogs with all the trimmings, baked beans and potato salad.

Beer will be served to those over 21 and soft drinks will be available. The Lucky Jazz Band will entertain. Price for the lunch is $5 per person.

The first 300 women attending the lunch will receive a complimentary Homecoming pom-pom corsage.

Co-sponsors of the lunch are Jimbo's Carry Out, Sam's Hot Dog Stand, Archer's Flowers, Inc., Pepsi-Cola bottling co. and A to Z Rentals.

Following the picnic, Coach George Chaump will lead the Thundering Herd in the homecoming game against Davidson. Kickoff is 1 p.m. at Fairfield Stadium.

The homecoming dance, sponsored by alumni representatives from five fraternities, is set for 9 p.m. Friday to 1 a.m. Saturday in the West Hall of the Huntington Civic Center. Music will be provided by Maurice Williams and the Zodiacs and Harold Melvin and the Blue Notes.

Prices and details can be obtained by calling John Justice (736-1205), Joe Feaganes (522-0557), Doug Hardman (736-9301) or Scott Archer (736-2246).

A big band dance, sponsored by the Kiwanis Club for the Boys Club of Huntington, is scheduled for 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. in the Civic Center's East Hall. Further information can be obtained by calling Dallas Thacker at 523-4037 or 523-5120.

First on-campus visit for council Friday

Marshall will be the site Friday of the first campus meeting of the Student Advisory Council to the Board of Regents, according to the council representative.

Helen Matheny, Mineral Wells senior, said she seized the opportunity to invite the members of the Student Advisory Council to Marshall when they said they would like to schedule the council's meetings at different campuses across the state so that they could gain a better understanding of student needs.

The Student Advisory Council, made up of representatives from the state's 16 colleges and universities, will have its regular meeting at 10 a.m. in Memorial Student Center 2E10, Matheny said. The council also will host a public forum at 1 p.m. in MSC 2E11-12 to give students a chance to inform representatives of student needs at Marshall, Matheny said.

Petersen gets conference nod for near-record game

By John Tolarchyk
Sports Editor

Quarterback Tony Petersen became the first Marshall player to get Southern Conference honors this year when he was unanimously selected as the conference offensive player of the week for his 394-yard passing display against East Tennessee State University Saturday.

The 394 yards performance is 33 yards short of Marshall's single game passing record of 427 yards set by Marshall standout quarterback Carl Fodor against Furman in 1984. With a few breaks, Petersen probably would have broken the record. A 35-yard pass in the end zone was intercepted by a one in a hundred circus catch and another long gainer to Barber was called back for a holdin penalty.

Petersen completed 21 of 39 passes and two touchdowns, including an 80-yard touchdown bomb to Mike Barber on the second play of the game.

Petersen, who started the season as the backup quarterback, replaced starting quarterback John Gregory when he injured his knee in the fourth game of the season against Eastern Kentucky. Since then the junior quarterback has lead the Herd to wins against ETSU and Virginia Military Institute and a loss to Furman.

A transfer from San Joaquin Delta Community College, he has season totals of 48 completions in 99 passes two touchdowns and six interceptions. His longest pass was the 80-yard touchdown pass to Barber.

John Spellacy was nominated as defensive player of the week, but was not selected, according to Becky Goodman of the Sports Information Office.

Quarterback Tony Petersen follows through after a pass earlier in the season. Petersen was selected as Southern Conference offensive player of the week.

Braine says student fees needed

By Vina Hutchinson
Sports Writer

Although Therese S. Tweel, athletic ticket manager, said student attendance has been good at football games, Athletic Director David Braine said students who choose not to attend sports events should not be exempt from paying the athletic fee.

The student athletic fee of $37.50 is part of a $70.65 institutional activity fee all full-time students pay. "You can't have one without the other," Braine said. The athletic fee goes into a state nonappropriated account which pays for general expenses such as travel, room and board for athletes. Braine said the student fees comprise an important part of the Athletic Department budget. "We could not operate without it," he said. "We plan and count on it."

Student fees, which allow students to attend Marshall sports events for free, comprise 19 percent of the budget, while general ticket sales make up 27 percent.

Braine said he has not seen the need for an increase in the student athletic fee since his arrival at Marshall a year ago. He and Joe Wortham, business manager, said an increase has not been discussed.

Home game bad dreams turn to nightmares away

By Doug Smock
Reporter

Marshall soccer has had bad dreams playing at home, but they are nothing compared to the nightmares on the road last week.

After the Thundering Herd went through a 1-4-1 homestand, Coach Jack DeFazio jokingly said, "Maybe its good we get away from home." After losing last Wednesday to Ohio State, 3-0, and Saturday to Davidson by a whopping 6-0, he was scratching his head.

"It's just one of those quirks," DeFazio said of the Davidson game. "This was the time both goalkeepers decided to have a bad game." The Wildcats scored three goals in the first half off Marshall starter Allen Hurley, and matched that total in the second off David Templeton. The Wildcats improved their record to 4-10-1, while the Thundering Herd dropped to 3-8-1.

Mike Friedlander started the Davidson scoring barrage at the 29:20 mark with Tracy Hankins getting the assist. The Thundering Herd added to its own woes by accidentally putting the ball in its own net at 32:40. Friedlander set up Chip Whittmann for the first of his two goals late in the first half.

Whittmann's second goal was also set up by Friedlander, coming at the 66:52 mark. Davidson got its final two goals in the last five minutes of the match, the first coming at 85:35, scored by Craig Mathison and assisted by Chris Jones. Friedlander finished the scoring at 87:20, with Rob Vest getting the assist.

The Herd defense was hurt by the absence of freshman Mark Bongarzone. Bongarzone received a red card in an altercation at Ohio State. Not only does a red card result in ejection from the game, NCAA rules mandate suspension from the next match. "We had to do some switching around as a result," DeFazio said. "It hurt us a lot."

Marshall's scoring problems persisted as the Herd suffered its fourth consecutive shutout. "It isn't as though we aren't generating anything," DeFazio said. "Davidson wasn't as kind to us as Ohio State was, but it seems there is always some breakdown at the offensive end, a missed crossing pass or something."

Marshall had just four shots stopped by Davidson goalkeeper Josh Rudde. For the Herd, Hurley had five saves, while Templeton had two. Davidson outshot Marshall, 22-7.

ces will be some results of the program, Nitzschke said.

Attention already has come to the university as a result of the program, he said. The president said he was contacted by Leader's Magazine recently to write an article on the advantages of pairing higher education with business.

The publication's editors read about the Yeager program and were impressed by it, Nitzschke said.

The program also will begin to produce leaders — a task higher education as a whole has neglected in recent years, Nitzschke said.

During the 1960s, colleges and universities made a determined effort to treat all students equally, Nitzschke said. "By treating everyone the same, the end result was average. All students are not the same. Why not exploit the different and special talents some students have?"
