Challenge

Issued By First Year College Class

The Second and Third Year College classes have been challenged to a debate with the First Year Class. Arrangements have not been made yet, but it is thought that the debate will probably take place before the end of the present semester, under the auspices of the Erophiian Literary Society. It is rumored that the First Year Class has several debaters who gained many laurels at the high school, and they are confident of victory. However, the challenged classes also have made some good material to choose from, and a spirited debate is promised. We should like to see some other classes wake up and take an interest in something beneficial.

For fear that the debate won't keep them busy, the First Year Class has also challenged the Senior Secondary Class to a contest in oratory and reading, this contest to be held coincidentally with the debate. This also promises some excitement. The First Year Class seems to be determined to establish an enviable reputation for pep and school spirit this year. Let us hope they generate a great deal of enthusiasm among the other classes.

Scholarships Awarded

Eckard, Davisson and Frasure Honored

Announcement has been made of the awarding of the scholarships for this year. The Rotary Club scholarship of $100., which is for a member of the third year college class, has been awarded to Garry Eckard, the president of the class. A better selection could not have been made, as Garry is respected by everyone who knows him as one who stands for everything that is right, and who does not hesitate to make his stand known, no matter what the opposition may be.

The Kiwanis Club scholarship was awarded to W. N. Frasure, more popularly known as "Deacon." He is one of the founders of the "Ministers' Club" here, and is in every way worthy to be the recipient of the honor conferred upon him.

Hon. G. A. Northcott, a most loyal and devoted friend of Marshall, yearly gives two scholarships of $75., each. These have been awarded to Hugh Davisson and Carrie Coffman. "Davy" is too well known to every Marshallite to need further mention here. Miss Coffman finished the secondary course here in 1914, and will return to school next semester. Altogether, the committee showed excellent judgment in awarding the scholarships.

"No," said he, "It is the most expensive imitation I could find."

Music Supervisor

Marshall Obtains Services of Talented Musician

Miss Hannah Cundiff is a recent addition to the faculty of Marshall college as supervisor of vocal music. She has charge of the model school music, public school music course for normal students, glee clubs and orchestras.

Miss Cundiff is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin. She was supervisor of music in the public schools of Madison, Wisconsin for two years, and director of the music department at Oshkosh State Normal, Wisconsin, for nine years. She has had charge of glee clubs, children's operettas, and festival choruses. She is author of the text book "Suggestive Facts and Methods in Public School Music". Her wide experience in important positions of the past assures Marshall College of excellent service in her department. We are fortunate indeed in being able to secure the services of a teacher having the many qualifications with which Miss Cundiff is endowed.

Quinlan Elected Captain, 1920 Football Team

Featuring one of the most successful annual football banquets ever held by any Marshall college team was the election of "Jimmie" Quinlan as captain of the Big Green football team for next year. The vote was unanimous. Quinlan has been one of the hardest workers on the team during the past season and is one of the best centers in the country. He richly deserved the honor of leading the Green and White hosts next year.

The banquet was held at the Hotel Farr. Sixty-one plates were set and all occupied. The boys attacked the rich

The life of ye editor is not strewn with roses by any means, although misguided and uninformed readers may have that idea imbedded somewhere in the gray matter of their cerebral convolutions. Another disappointment has loomed up to add its sombre shadow to the gloomy collection of blasted hopes and unfulfilled desires that mark our progress (?) along the paths of journalism. Said disappointment is this: This is the football number of our struggling sheet, THE PARTHENON; according to convention, and the fond hopes cherished and nurtured in ye editorial brain, the number should have sported eight delectable pages, each graced with the likenesses of our handsome and stalwart warriors of the gridiron, while a group picture of that stellar aggregation held forth on the front page in all the glory due to their merit and accomplishment. But alas for the futility of mortal aspiration! No half-tones or groups are forthcoming, and prosaic type must try in its weak and ineffectual way to convey to the reader what we had so fondly hoped would be portrayed graphically.

Warned by previous experience of the folly of making rash predictions and promises which circumstances unforeseen at the time would not allow us to fulfill, we make no effort to say just when we shall be able to get a cut or group. But rest assured that whatever our limited means will allow us to secure for the PARTHENON, will be secured. In closing permit us to wish you one and all a happy Christmas and a merry New Year, and may each student of Marshall return with the determination to do everything possible for the advancement and upbuilding of the best school in West Virginia.

Christmas Program at Last Student Gathering

One of the features of the student meeting was the introduction of Miss Hannah Cundiff to the student body, as the latest addition to the music department. After her introduction by President Hamilton, Miss Cundiff sang some songs for the occasion. A short Christmas program had been prepared as this was the last student meeting before the holiday vacation.

Miss Cundiff's rendition of the "Floral Dance" and "Dannie Boy," an Irish melody, brought great applause from the student body. Following her songs Dr. Hamilton told a Christmas story for the occasion that held the interest of his hearers from the start to the finish.

After the short Christmas program was completed Bradley Workman made a short but stirring appeal to the student body in behalf of the Parthenon.

He urged the students to get into the spirit of the school and boost it by helping put a good live paper out so that the Parthenon staff would not be ashamed to exchange papers with other schools.

Arrangements For Student Volunteer Convention Made

All arrangements for sending Marshall's quota of three delegates to the Student Volunteer Convention at Des Moines have been completed. The delegates, Prof. C. E. Hedrick, Mae Yoho, and Erville Sowards, will leave on C. and O. train No. 3, December 29. Thanks to the interest and enthusiasm of the alumni and especially some of the alumnal, and the loyal response of the student body, sufficient money to defray the expenses of the delegates has already been collected.

Marshall is to be congratulated upon sending delegates to such a convention, and at such a time.

REVIEW OF FOOTBALL SEASON—ONE OF BEST IN HISTORY OF SCHOOL.

BY A. F. REILLY

The Marshall College football team made the most remarkable record this year that any Big Green team has ever enjoyed. A record of eight victories and three defeats, scoring 302 points to their opponents 13 is one of which the Big Green gridironers can well be proud.

The success of this season has not been due to any effort of one individual, but a result of earnest co-operation and hard work of every member of the squad, faculty, members of the student body and citizens of Huntington. Without this co-operation it would have been impossible for the Green and White team to have made their splendid record.

A large measure of the credit for this season's work is due to Bradley Workman and Captain Hugh Davisson. Turning from overseas, these two stalwart athletes enlisted in the Marshall team with the same wholehearted and selfless spirit that characterized their work in the army, joined hands and worked incessantly for the good of Marshall College.

The schedule this year was not all that could be expected, but was the best obtainable and proved satisfactory. This year's schedule was made up in the spring and many of the schools against which the Marshall team wanted to play had long since closed their schedules. Next year it is planned to play the longest teams in this section, including Cincinnati, Kentucky State, Transylvania, Georgetown, Marietta, Ohio University, Davis and Elkins, Muskingum, Terbein and Kentucky Wesleyan.

The Big Green opened the season with an overwhelming victory over her ancient rivals, Morris Harvey College, by the score of 76 to 0. This game awakened football followers to the fact that the Big Green team was a powerful organization that would be hard to stop all season, and the following games proved this opinion to be correct. The Morris Harvey lads were completely outclassed at all stages of the game.

Broadus College was the next team to fall before the Green and White team. Though the Marshall team did not play up to its best form it succeeded in defeating the Philippi lads 27 to 0.

Greenbrier Military School appeared next on the Marshall schedule and proved easy prey and were defeated 65 to 0. The Davis and Elkins game at Elkins was hard fought from start to finish but the Big Green was returned a winner by the comfortable score of 33 to 0. The Transylvania contest at Lexington on November 8th was the hardest fought game of the year. Transylvania had one of the greatest teams in her history and played a great game against the Big Green, but the Marshall eleven was not to be denied and emerged from the contest victorious, 20 to 0. This was a well earned victory and the entire Marshall team played in splendid form.

Greenbrier was played a return game at Lewisburg on the following Saturday and was defeated 29 to 7, although the Marshall team put up a ragged contest and were scored upon for the first time of the year on an intercepted pass that was not covered by the Big Green team.

The Muskingum game on November 15th was the best local attraction and the Big Green eleven triumphed over one of the best teams in Ohio, 19 to 6. The local team showed their superiority all through the contest and showed that they could play any team in the Ohio conference to a standstill.

Kentucky Wesleyan furnished the Turkey Day attraction and fell before powerful Marshall eleven on a very muddy field by the score of 33 to 0. This contest marked the closing of the greatest season in the history of Marshall College and one that it is hoped is only the beginning the better ones that are to follow.

The Marshall eleven was made up of several of the former Marshall stars, many players who formerly starred on the Huntington high school teams and other players who were developed this fall.

Captain Hugh Davisson made a splendid leader both on and off the field. His example to his men was the very best and the Big Green team was very fortunate to have a man with such sterling qualities at the head of their team. Very courageous and absolutely fearless, Davy's work at end was one of the biggest features of the entire season. The fact that Davy will be with us again makes all Marshall followers rejoice.

Bradley Workman's value to the team cannot be overestimated. He played a wonderful game at quarterback. His keen generalship, passing and all around work was largely instrumental in the record made by the team. In addition to that, his presence on the field during practices and his aid in coaching the men was a great help in moulding together the powerful aggregation that represented Marshall this year. His announcement at the annual banquet that he would return to school next year is the cause of great rejoicing among the followers of the local team.

Big Jim Quinlan, who will lead the Green and White eleven next year, loomed up as one of the greatest centers in the country. His passing was steady and accurate. Very enthusiastic, intelligent and a persistent fighter, Big Jim was a most reliable link in the Big Green line. Great things are expected of this man next season.

"Fat" Pitsenberger came to us from the Sewell Valley with no experience in football, but learned fast and developed into one of the best guards who ever wore the Green and White. This lad has a great future before him and will be a bright star on the Big Green line next year.

Heavy Hatfield was a running mate with Pitsenberger at the other guard and played a bangup game throughout the season. Hatfield played his best game against his strongest opponents and demonstrated that he is best when hardest pressed.

Macdonald and Old "Trusty" Tallman were the best pair of tackles seen on Marshall field in many years. This pair were bearcats at breaking through the opponent's line and smearing plays. No teams this year succeeded in gaining ground over the Big Green tackles. Both of these star linesmen will return to school next year and continue their star work on the Big Green line.

Earl Farrington proved a fine running mate for Captain Davisson at end. Farrington is one of the best all around football players on the Marshall squad. A deadly tackler, excellent receiver of passes and a good offensive man, he proved to be a very valuable asset to the team.

Bobby Crawford played four games at end and gave an excellent exhibition but unfortunately left school and was of no further benefit to the team.

Douglas Freutal played a remarkable game at halfback scoring 109 points for the Big Green team, scoring all but one touchdown after a run of 30 yards or more. Doug's equal in carrying the ball over tackle and through an open field has never been seen on Marshall field. The lad has a wonderful gridiron career before him as he is a bright star in the making.

"Snooks" Winters at half, played a consistently good game all year. This was his first year of college football and he played a remarkable game. Winters carries the ball well, is very courageous and improved in each game of the season, until at the close of the season, his work was high class in every department. Winters will be back next year and great things are expected of him.

Carl Anderson played a great game at fullback. Handicapped by injuries in the first part of the season, Andy came to his own in the latter part of the year and showed himself to be a star of the first rank. His defensive work and protection for the passer stood out prominently in every game. All season he played fearless ripping ball and could always be depended upon for that necessary final yard. Andy will be with us again next year.

Eric Damus came to us from Cincinnati, protege of Boyd Chambers, and proved a very valuable asset to the team. Damus is very fast and a consistently good ground gainer and strong defensive player. His work in the Transylvania game was par excellent. Damus will make a great player for the Big Green team next year.

Denver Smith injured his right shoulder at the first of the season, but showed a wonderful spirit all year but did not get in playing condition until the latter part of the season, when he jumped into the game and played remarkable ball. Smith will be eagerly watched next season, as he has all the qualities of a star backfield man.

"Red Crist" played at quarterback and at end and played smart football in either position. Crist showed his best form in the Kentucky Wesleyan game and with another year of football will be a great player.

Britt Thomas was the all around utility man of the Big Green team. He worked at center, guard, tackle and in the backfield, and played equally good in all positions. Tommy was a very valuable man and a great all around player.

Ferguson played a good game on the line, was a conscientious worker, strong on the defense and offensive and will make a great player with another year's experience on the Marshall eleven.

Manager Kenney was always on the job and filled the position in highclass manner.

Bonar, F. Tallman and Lesage worked tirelessly on the field, saw considerable active service and always gave a good account of themselves when in the game. These men will all be in school next year and should make regular positions.

Morgan, Hagee, Cobb, Wilmoth, Sowards, Weser, Eckard, Sheets, Roberts, Harrison, Sayre, Crist and several other second string men will develop into excellent players next year and will be valuable assets to the Marshall eleven.

With a new gymnasium, a remodeled athletic field, the excellent material now in school and those who will join the squad next fall, Marshall should have a great team on the field next year.

food with the same vim that was a feature of their play against their opponent during the football season.

The first talk of the evening was delivered by Frederick R. Hamilton. In introducing his subject of "College Athletics," Dr. Hamilton said he didn't know any more about this subject than the senate seemed to know about the peace treaty, but nevertheless he didn't propose to take six months to discuss it. He said that Marshall needed a new athletic field and a stadium for its athletics above all things. To prove the need for these things, he said Marshall must come up to the requirements in three tests: viz—They must turn out winning teams; they must have a large per cent of the student body take part in athletics there must be a large per cent of the community back of the athletics at Marshall. His talk was interspersed with a number of humorous stories to illustrate his points.

The other principal address was made by Coach Arthur Reilly. He declared that after seeing the members of the team attack the turkey on their plates, that the season's record should be nine victories and no defeats instead of eight. He spoke of the training done by the members of the team and the good condition that the men stayed in all season. To illustrate that, he pointed out that fact that in two of the hardest games no substitutions were made. These games were the Transylvania game and the Muskingum game.

He said that the Marshall team would have a harder and more attractive schedule for next season.

With such a schedule Coach Reilly declared that with all the members of this year's team back, and the new ones that will come in, Marshall should have a successful season next year as the season just closed.

Several addresses were made during the evening that were the occasion of much mirth. Chief among these was Don MacDonald's address on the subject of "Squirrels." "Don" had the crowd laughing from the start of his talk to the finish. The other talks were made by Captain Hugh Davisson, Charles Tallman and Jimmy Quinlan captain-elect.

Enthusiasm ran high throughout the evening and the prospect of the return of all the letter men of this year's team for next year appeared very bright.

Bradley Workman, star quarterback on the Big Green team this fall capably acted as toastmaster.

ErosophianSpecial Program Last Friday

Those who attended the meeting of the E. L. S. held last Friday were treated to a rare spectacle. During the intermission, two "gladiators" disguised and blindfolded, fought a duel with terrible clubs made from old newspapers. The contest was exciting, and was enjoyed to the utmost by the spectators. This contest is one which the Marines use frequently to while away the tedium of inactivity, and is certainly exciting enough to keep even a "devil-dog" on tip-toe. John Eckard, who was listed in the Marine Corps for two years, one year of which was spent in France, where he was wounded at Chateau-Thierry, was the sponsor for the stunt.

The debate which followed was also very interesting. Russell Morris defended the policy of preparedness with forensic eloquence, while Garry Eckard made a stirring talk on the negative.

The intermission is proving a popular feature of the weekly meeting, and some special feature will be given each week at this time. Have you joined yet? "Eventually, why not now?"

Eight States Represented In Student Body

Students from eight states are attending Marshall college, according to statistics that have been recently compiled by the school authorities. Students came from such distant points in the west as North Dakota, and from as far south as Florida. Miss Pearl Alene Shy, of Rolette, North Dakota, traveled almost half way across the continent to attend Marshall this year. Miss Opal Burge, of Waldo, Fla., and Carl Hereford, of Necatee, Fla., are the representatives from the extreme south.

The eight states represented are: Ohio, Indiana, Pennsylvania, Kentucky, North Dakota, Florida, Virginia and West Virginia. Of course the most of the students came from West Virginia but it is interesting to note that students came from eleven different towns in Kentucky, six different towns in Ohio, three in Virginia, two in Florida, one in each Pennsylvania, Indiana, and North Dakota, and from one-hundred and nine different towns in West Virginia. These 109 towns in West Virginia are well distributed over the state.

One would naturally think that Cabell county would have more communities represented than any other county in the state since Marshall is located in the very metropolis of that county, but more different communities are represented in Mason county than any other county in the state. In this respect Cabell county is tied with Wayne county for fourth and fifth place. Mason county, always well represented at the local institution, has sent students from ten communities, Fayette county from nine, Kanawha has sent students from eight, and Cabell and Wayne have contributed students from six communities. Other counties well represented are Wyoming, McDowell, Wood, Mercer, Putnam, Raleigh, Boone, Mingo, Monroe, and Jackson.

Most all the students coming from distant points have finished their high school courses and have come to Marshall to prepare themselves for teachers or other professions. A good percent of the student body this year comes from graduates of Huntington high school. As Marshall enlarges and adds to its courses there will be more incentive for high school graduates to come here for finishing educations.

Dr. Frederick R. Hamilton, President of Marshall, will make every effort to add the fourth year of college work to the course next year. If he succeeds in doing that Huntington will at last take her place among the leading educational centers of the state.

Workman

Chosen Post Commander Of The American Legion Here

Another recognition of the esteem in which Marshall is held in the community was the election of Bradley Workman as Post Commander of the Huntington Post of the American Legion at the first annual meeting held last Saturday evening. Several students and alumni are members of this post, and Workman's election is of interest to every Marshallite. The choice was unanimous, Captain McNulty, the opposing candidate, withdrawing his nomination and urging every member to support Workman.

Julius Fischback, who was elected chaplain, is also a Marshall man, having finished his secondary work here in 1914. Marshall men make good wherever they choose to work, and this is but another addition to the long list of successes Marshall men have achieved.

Classical Association

The December meeting of the Classical Association was held last Saturday, as announced. The severity of the weather made it impossible for a great many of the out-in-town students to be present, so the attendance was small. This is to be regretted, as an excellent program had been prepared and was well presented.

Mae Yoho talked on the "Saturnalia" and illustrated her talk with cerei. Then those present played the Roman game with the cerei, trying to blow out each other's candles and keep their own lighted. Miss Yoho won the prize for being the most expert at this game.

Another number was "Roman Holidays" by Marion Burt and Margaret Greenslaite; this was illustrated with the game morra, played with nucis, and seemed to be greatly enjoyed by all. (If you don't know the meaning of all these terms, ask one who was there.)

A talk on "The Games of the Aeneid" was given by Helen Wallace, who ably presented her topic. A playlet, "Accilla and Cassius" was given by Elsie Sowards and Cecil Billups, members of the beginning Latin class. The next meeting will be on the third Saturday in January.

Lucille Gallup has the mumps and was not in school last week.

The Dorm girls who went to Epworth League at the First M. E. Church last Sunday were treated to a rare sight. The most dignified waiter appeared in the flowing robes and artistic "vest" of a Hindu, while his worthy co-worker was resplendent in the gorgeous habiliments of a Mohammedan. The autocrat of the small dining room appeared in the appropriate role of snake-charmer, and looked quite charming in the barber-pole style of dress. And we didn't think turbans could be so becoming!

The Dorm was well represented at the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra Concert, and at the Leo Ornstein Concert also. We believe in improving our cultural opportunities, and realize that here at Marshall is an ideal place to do so.

Another candy-making party took place at the Dorm the other evening. Ask Don Weser about it.

Dramatic Club

Plans Under Way To Give Two Plays

Since we have so many students possessing histrionic talent, the Dramatic Club has been formed with the idea of giving opportunity for the growth and cultivation of our budding actors and actresses. It is the present plan to give two plays, one in the beginning of the second semester, and one near Commencement. One has already been selected, and from a hurried perusal, we should say it is a scream from start to finish. Selection of the participants will probably be made soon, and prospects for a most successful presentation of the farce are very bright.

If you even suspect that you might possibly have an undeveloped talent for acting, come to the next meeting of the club and let Miss Andrew size you up. Perhaps you yourself will be surprised at the ability lying dormant within the unprobed depths of your personality.
