Macrame-- 'fringe' benefit tied in knots

By BECKY JOHNSON
Feature writer

Remember all the trouble you had learning to tie your shoelaces? Your fingers seemed clumsy and stiff but you kept trying. And finally the strings went together.

Well that's the way macrame is for the beginner. Like tying shoelaces, it becomes easier with practice, until you can almost do it blindfolded.

Pronounced mak-ra-may, the word comes from the Arabic word, migramah, which means fringe or braid, according to Michael I. Cornfield, assistant professor of the Art Department.

"Macrame is the art of creative knot tying," said Cornfield. "It dates back as far as the 12th or 13th centuries."

"Sailors contributed greatly. In their spare time they knotted articles to sell in the far east."

Macrame has come and gone over the centuries. Now it's back and students are busy tying knots.

Why do students like to tie knots?

"It's relaxing," is the usual answer.

"I like to do something when I sit around and talk," said Gail Myers, Long Island, N.Y. junior. "And when I macrame I have something to show for my time."

"It's more necessity than art for me," said Pat Case, White Sulphur Springs junior. "My budget is low, so I make things to wear."

Since Cornfield has had only about six persons in his macrame class each semester, he believes that most students teach themselves to do macrame. Others like Gail have been taught by a friend.

"Macrame has now reached a height of interest in Huntington," Cornfield said. "It took longer to get here than many places."

"I've been teaching the class for four years now."

In Cornfield's class students can "explore in a new media to see what kind of aesthetic pleasure one can get out of this kind of materials."

Macramed pieces are used mostly for decoration, he said. "The work provides interest in colors, textures and shapes."

As for the value of the pieces he feels, "they are good to sell but only if someone is really interested in the particular piece. There is too much work involved for the finished product to be inexpensive."

His class begins by doing sample pieces of the four basic knots, he said. He then covers wrapping, binding cords with other cords and variations of the knots.

After the students master the basics they make a wall hanging.

He added that for students not wanting to take the class for credit, there will be classes in macrame offered at Huntington Art Gallery in March. One of these will be taught by he and his wife.

Not only is macrame a relaxing pastime, but it is also a cheap pastime. Only a minimum of equipment is needed.

"ART OF CREATIVE KNOT TYING"

Mazie Wiepper, Charleston sophomore, learns macrame

Add scissors, T pins or straight pins, blunt needle for finishing, white glue, rubber bands and ruler and you are ready to go.

Cord for knotting can range anywhere from waxen thread to clothesline rope. The board can be made from cardboard marked in inch squares or covered with inch gingham print. Or a white foam board or pattern cutting board serves well.

Need something to do in your spare time?

"Go out and buy a fifty cent book and try until you make something decent," Pat said.

All you need is a little patience, time and lap room.

You may even get the reaction Gail got when she gave her first belt away. "I can't believe you made that! Did you?"

Campaign, color inform campus election on way

By JEFF DUNCAN
Staff reporter

With filing rules settled, ballot positions secured and formal introduction of candidates out of the way, Student Government candidates are preparing for next Wednesday's election.

Two candidates have withdrawn from the race. John Williams, candidate for campus senator and Rob Welker, senator candidate announced their withdrawal prior to last Tuesday's withdrawal date.

"Campaigning has run smoothly," according to Pam Marshall, election commissioner, with no irregularities or infractions to mention.

Several candidates, however, were upset over the Student Court decision that no candidate may run for two offices.

At Student Senate meeting Tuesday night, Sen. Jack Nolan, off campus senator, expressed disapproval in the Courts decision concerning split tickets. He said he feels that the situation deserves considerable attention so that future candidates will not be misinformed, causing them to withdraw from the campaign.

Active campaigning has begun with one candidate hanging a Marshall student in effigy to exemplify the apathy among Marshall students. Other signs have shown up in a multitude of colors throughout the campus at the Student Center, library, Smith Hall and Old Main.

All students wishing to vote in the election must present both a validated ID and activity card. All regularly enrolled students, both graduate and undergraduate are eligible to vote.

Privacy will be insured during the voting period and none other than voters and poll workers may be in the designated polling areas during voting. Candidates may not work at the polls at any time.

With regard to voting, Donna Hamblin, election coordinator said that "voting this semester will be done by IBM card." The votes will be counted at the computer center in the basement of Old Main with the assistance of Carl Thomas, head of the computer center.

Polling places have been designated in the multi-purpose room for transient and off campus students and the Organizational Workroom of the Student Center for dorm students.

Totals will be announced by the election commissioner after the election, provided that no questions of irregularities are pending before the Student Court. Violations would include infractions committed before and during the election.

All campaign material must be removed from campus by 8 a.m., March 1 in cooperation with Buildings and Grounds.

NEWS THIS MORNING

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States and China Thursday took a major step toward full diplomatic relations with the establishment of liaison offices in each nation's capital.

The development was announced in a communique released simultaneously in Washington and Peking to reflect "the progress that has been made" since President Nixon visited the mainland a year ago.

Presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger told newsmen the agreement worked out in his recent trip to Peking is an important step toward normalization relations with the Communist regime.

And he said the President's China trip started the two nations toward a better understanding.

"After the end of the war in Vietnam, and in these discussions in Peking, we were able to begin to travel some of these roads, and to move from the attempt to eliminate the obstructions and the mistrust to some more concrete and positive achievements," he said.

As a sign of the good will generated by Kissinger's nearly 20 hours of talks with Chinese leaders in Peking, the mainland government agrees to release within the next two months two U.S. military prisoners: Navy Lt. Cmdr. Robert J. Flynn and Air Force Maj. Phillip E. Smith.

Kissinger also indicated a third American held by the Chinese, CIA agent John Downey, might be freed in the second half of 1973.

OKINAWA (AP)—Spec. 5 James L. Scroggins, 25, of Mulberry Grove, Ill., was the third American to lose his life in Vietnam hostilities since the cease-fire went into effect Jan. 28.

He died early Friday at an Army hospital in Okinawa of burns he suffered when his helicopter was shot down a week ago in South Vietnam.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The government conditionally rested its case against Daniel Ellsberg and Anthony Russo Thursday but said it would present last-minute testimony next Tuesday about fingerprints flown here from Saigon.

The government called only 10 witnesses in four weeks of testimony trying to prove espionage, conspiracy and theft charges against Ellsberg and Russo in connection with the leak of the government's top secret war study.

SUTTON W. Va. (AP)—The body of a 52-year-old Ohio man was pulled from the wreckage of his twin-engine aircraft Thursday after the plane went down in the Elk River south of this Braxton County community, state police said.

The victim was identified as Robert L. Holston of Tipp City, Ohio, just north of Dayton. State police said his plane struck power lines above W. Va. 4 and construction for Interstate 79, then travelled several hundred yards before crashing into the river.

Super-subs Bachelor, Imperi spark win over stubborn UNCC

By TOM BUNEVICH
Sports editor

A pair of substitute guards came off the bench to lead the Thundering Herd past a scrappy North-Carolina—Charlotte team, 69-65, in the Charlotte Coliseum last night thus keeping the hopes for a post-season tourney alive.

Eric Bachelor, becoming a scoring wizard in the time he gets to play, and Greg Imperi, teamed with the already-hot Mike D'Antoni, to score crucial points and pull away from a 61-61 deadlock.

Bachelor and Imperi, playing for Bill James and Ty Collins, who both fouled out in the early minutes of the second period, managed to score only four and two points, respectively, but as it turned out they were the crucial buckets.

With 3:05 left and the score tied at 61-all, the Herd called a timeout and installed the seldom-used back-up men. Mike D'Antoni converted both ends of a one and one situation to give the Herd a narrow 63-61 lead, before the pair went to work.

Imperi, missing a lay-up, but hustling for the rebound, scored a bucket, and Bachelor, playing the high post in a semi-freeze offense, followed with two field goals to set the Herd on its way to the win.

While the Herd led most of the way, it was the shooting of Mike D'Antoni and Randy Noll that kept it close when the lead was faltering.

D'Antoni hit for 21 points, most of which came on long jumpers, and Noll scored 18 points and hauled down eight rebounds. The 6-8 senior had only four points and three rebounds at halftime.

James fouled out with 16:16 left in the second half, and was replaced by Frank Austin, who hauled down three rebounds before retiring for 'pinch-hitter' Bachelor in the late moments. James had only six points and three rebounds in his playing time.

Collins picked up his fifth personal with 7:32 left, and Imperi replaced him, with the Herd holding what looked like a safe lead at 59-49. But in the next four and a half minutes the Herd was outscored by a 12-2 margin, tying the game at 61 apiece.

Led by Robert Earl Blue, who captured game honors with 28 points, the 49ers struck back and tied the game, forcing the Herd into its problem-causing full court press.

"The team held their poise and played real well in the final few minutes," said winning coach Bob Daniels. "The big thing was our poise."

Daniels, whose team has now won five in a row, continued by saying, "We kept coming back and getting the points or the rebound or whatever we needed to stay in the game."

The game started in 'expected' fashion as the 49ers played a slow-down and set-up offense, and the effects showed as Marshall led by only 30-24 at the midpoint. "They did exactly what we expected them to do," Daniels said, "and we did exactly what they expected us to do."

Also aiding the Herd cause was center Wayne Smith with 10 points and six rebounds.

Marshall shot 60 per cent from the floor by hitting on 33 of 55 shots, while the 49ers converted 45.2 per cent of their shots, it amassed by making 28 of 62 attempts. The losers made seven of eight foul shots while the Herd made only three of seven.

Marshall enjoyed its biggest lead of the night about midway through the second period at 47-35, but the battling 49ers were not to be denied the right to fight back.

Geoff Bommer, a 6-7 sophomore, added 18 points to the 49er cause, but no other 49er hit double figures.

In a fairly-played first half there was only one free throw attempt. Charlotte's Luther Jefferson missed it. The 49ers held a 16-15 rebounding edge in the first half, also.

D'Antoni, hitting 10-15 jumpers at a crucial time, scored his 21 points on nine field goals and three charity tosses. In the first meeting between the two schools earlier in the year, D'Antoni was held to a career low three points.

The Herd will leave Charlotte Friday and head to Winter Park, Fla. to face Stetson College on Saturday at 8 p.m. Then on Monday night, Marshall will face the Florida State Seminoles in Tallahassee at 7:30 p.m. They will return home next Tuesday and host Samford Thursday evening at Memorial Field House. Also on that day, NCAA and NIT tournament bids will be extended. (Related story page three)

SUPPLEMENT TODAY ABOUT MINORITIES

Thought you picked up two papers, today, didn't you?

The added thickness in The Parthenon is a 12-page supplement about campus minorities—the often slighted groups, as well as the tiny subcultures which comprise the population of Marshall University.

The efforts of news editor Julie Mercer and sports editor Tom Bunevich — editors of the special issue, as well as members of The Parthenon staff and minority spokesmen have been utilized for this added extra in The Parthenon.

COMING SOON-- MONDAY ISSUE

'Monday' is coming.

Sure, you say, Monday is coming—it always does at the beginning of the week. This week, however, your Monday will have something new added—a Monday edition of The Parthenon. Titled simply 'Monday', this special once-a-month issue edited by The Parthenon staffer Kathleen Bergeron, will focus on both on and off campus subjects.

The West Virginia Legislature, the Barker's Rifter Park Home and a photo page of faces on campus are among the offerings of this month's 'Monday'.

Look for it in The Parthenon's distribution boxes around campus.

Save engineering petition is started

Students who feel the engineering program at Marshall should be reinstated will have the opportunity to demonstrate their opinions in the lobby of Memorial Student Center today.

A table has been set up by the Student Government and engineering department to obtain signatures from students who are in favor of keeping the program.

The program is currently being phased out by Board of Regents on the grounds that it is too expensive and useless as opposed to a similar program at West Virginia Institute of Technology.

According to Fred Huff, Huntington junior and engineering major, there are many students in the tri-state area who won't be able to attend West Virginia Tech because of the cost and distance.

Huff, one of several volunteers working at the table, said the petitions will be presented to the Board of Regents in hopes they will create a committee to further study the advantages and disadvantages of phasing out the program.

Additional signatures will be taken today from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Recommendation on activity fees awaits final approval of regents

Proposed recommendations for student activity and service fees have been sent to the Board of Regents for final approval. If approved, the new fee structure will go into effect for the 1973-74 school term and there will be no increase in activity fees for full time students.

Dr. Richard Mund, vice president for student affairs, said Thursday that with these recommendations, one half of the committee work on student activity fees has been completed to determine the increase and decrease of the activity fees.

The other half of the committee's job is to provide some guidance and assistance to those people who administer the programs, activities and services. In effect, the committee suggests to the various program directors how they might economize without affecting the quality of the services provided.

Mund said, "a lot of work went into fairly apportioning the fees of part time and summer school students both of the graduate and undergraduate levels and that the efforts of the committee were to insure that everyone pay his fair share."

'Bach' show spoofs music

By PAUL WINNELL
Staff reporter

Those who attend the Keith-Albee Theater performance Wednesday night will hear a Bach of a different color, quite unlike the performance of Virgil Fox and his "Heavy Organ."

"The Intimate P. D. Q. Bach (1807-1742)" will appear at 8 p.m. as a part of the Mount Series.

The performance is described by Jim Martin, coordinator of Student Activities and Cultural Events, as a musical parody in the form of a musical act. It is a spoof of serious music, and is similar to the humor of Victor Borge, Martin said.

"Erotica" variations for banned instruments and piano" for instance, is a parody of Beethoven's "Eroica Symphony" which was performed at the Keith-Albee Theater by the Vienna Symphony last year as part of the Artists Series.

More obvious spoofs are "The Reign in Spain" and "Hansel and Gretel and Ted and Alice."

The program consists of selections "From the notebook for Betty-Sue Bach" for unaccompanied piano, "Erotica" variations for banned instruments and piano, and "Toot Suite in C Minor" for callopie for four hands.

The show also includes "Diverse Ayres on Sundrie Notions" for bargain counter tenor, "Worm and Discontinuo" which is a commercial on drugs.

The performance features Professor Peter Schickele (a stage name) and The Semi-pro Musica Antiqua, bargain counter tenor John Ferrante and David Oei, keyboardist.

Students may obtain tickets in Memorial Student Center lobby from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and they will be available through the performance day. A valid activity card is required.

A SPOOF OF CLASSICAL MUSIC, P.D.Q. BACH, WILL FEATURE "Erotica" variations from banned instruments Wednesday night

Coed athletic budget termed slighted

By MIKE SHAMBORA
Staff reporter

The women's intercollegiate program budget is not sufficient for the women to travel first class, according to Dr. Dorothy Hicks, director for the women's athletic program.

Dr. Hicks said, "We sometimes have to stay in dorms, with five or six girls to a room because of the lack of money." "The girls have to sometimes even bring their own bed fittings," Dr. Hicks added.

The current budget allows women only about $5 a day for food. The men's program has money for men to eat up to $15 per day.

Dr. Hicks said women didn't need as much money as the men for food, but they should get more than they do now.

Dr. Hicks said another problem caused by current budget is that there is not enough money to buy medical insurance for all women in the program.

"If men get it medical insurance, then women should also," Dr. Hicks said.

A ten-cent increase in activity fees was requested by women's athletic program last November, but a decision has not been made.

The activity fee committee has submitted a proposal for a 15 cent increase for the women, on the condition the women's program would come under the men's program.

Dr. Hicks commented this would be against the philosophy of the women's branch of the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA).

She said the increase would be more than sufficient to meet their needs, but feels they should decide if they want their program to be under the men's. Four groups have submitted proposals to the President's office. Dr. Hicks said "It is now up to the President to decide the future structure of women's intercollegiate sports."

According to Caroline Collins, a secretary at the Piedmont airlines' charter-sales office at Tri-State airport, the cost of chartering the type of airplane used for the round trip to Columbia S.C. is $2,825.78. The total cost for the one night trip for 20 people was more than $3,500.

Dr. Hicks feels the requested 10 cent increase in fees per student, would be adequate to give fair treatment to the women's program and would allow them to travel first class. Also, it would permit them to stay in motels and have enough money to eat properly and have medical insurance.

The women's present budget is accumulated by a 50 cent portion of the activity fees. This gives them a budget of about $3,100 per semester, for a program involving about 620 students each semester.

The entire semester budget for the women is less than the cost of one overnight basketball trip to South Carolina for the men.

According to Joe Wortham, ticket manager for the basketball team, lodging, meals, and incidental costs for the trip to the University of South Carolina last month, were $800 plus transportation costs.

Musicians to perform for young

Young People's Concert will be 11 a.m. Saturday at the Keith-Albee Theater.

Alfred P. Lanegger, associate professor of music, said the concert will be an hour performance of orchestra numbers played by young student musicians.

The music is made up of the "Hansel and Gretel Overture" by Humperdink, "Aida" by Verdi, "Hungarian Dance No. 5" by Brahms, "Danse Macabre" by Saint Saens, and Beethoven's "Concerto No. 3" for piano and orchestra, according to Lanegger.

Lanegger said 13-year-old Patrick Sinozich of Ironton, a piano student of MU's Dr. Michael Cerveris, will be the featured piano soloist in Beethoven's "Concerto No. 3." Lanegger is conductor for the concert, sponsored by the Women's Club and Cabell County school system.

Adult admission is 50 cents and 25 cents for students.

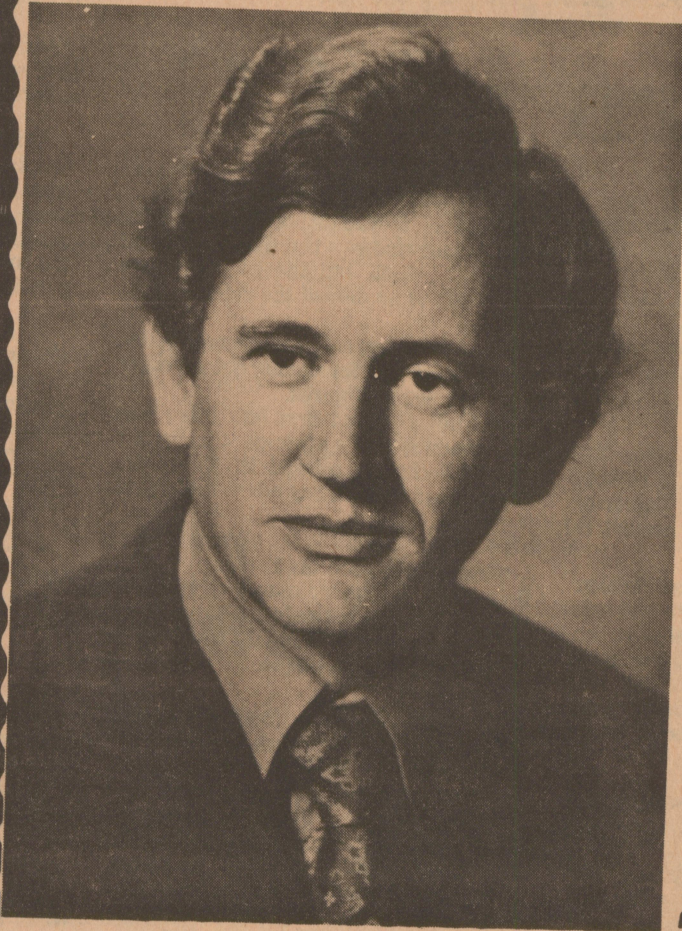

Self-study distributed

Copies of Marshall University's self-study report have been distributed to campus offices and academic departments, according to Dr. A. Mervin Tyson, director of the university honors program. "There is no reason anyone on campus can't get a copy to go over," he said.

Dr. Barker encourage everyone on campus to become familiar with this report before the North Central Accreditation team comes to Marshall March 18-21, Dr. Tyson added.

Nine copies have also been sent to the North Central Association offices and team members who will visit here in the spring. Twenty copies are being held to distribute to the North Central Commission on Higher Education prior to their review meeting in Chicago next July, Dr. Tyson said.

MU students to sing folk songs

Performances by two Marshall students highlight this weekend's entertainment at the Student Center Coffee House.

Alternating performances by Mary Holderby and Sonny Gibbs are scheduled through Saturday.

Ms. Holderby, St. Albans graduate assistant, plays music similar to Joni Mitchell and Joan Baez. She features both standard six-string and 12-string guitars in her performances.

"I think most people recognize me for my use of Joni Mitchell's format," said Ms.

Holderby. "That is probably how I will do the most of my songs."

Ms. Holderby played in the Coffee House last December and often plays in the Christian Center Coffee House. Her performances are scheduled for 4 p.m. and 8 p.m. today and 8 p.m. on Saturday.

Gibbs, a Huntington freshman, will also play folk music along with some rock. He is a member of the Zeta Beta Tau fraternity and often plays for their functions.

Gibbs' performances are slated for 5 p.m. and 9 p.m. today and again at 9 p.m. on Saturday.

Each performance will last approximately 45 minutes, according to Ward L. (Skip) Cornett, Coffee House program director.

"We are having the early performances on today because some of the faculty may like to attend said Cornett. "We would like to get faculty members more involved with the students and their type of music."

Honorary society open

Alpha Lambda Delta, freshman women's honorary, has released membership applications which are available in the dean's offices and Memorial Student Center main desk, according to Jan Taylor, Point Pleasant Junior and Alpha Lambda Delta secretary.

Women who were freshmen the spring or fall of 1972 and had a 3.5 overall average either semester are eligible, Ms. Taylor said. Applications must be returned by March 3 to Dr. Louise Hoy, professor of classical languages, third floor of Old Main. Applications may also be mailed to Alpha Lambda Delta, Old Main.

Marines, Sears student hunting

Office of Career Planning and Placement next week will conduct interviews from the Halls of Montezuma to the stores at Beckley.

According to the interview book, eight different representatives will interview during the week.

One of the eight is U.S. Marine Corps, whose representative will conduct interviews Monday until Wednesday. No appointment is necessary.

Next Monday Marbon Division of Borg Warner Corp., a plastic material manufacturer will interview persons with B.S. Degrees in chemistry needed for positions as plant and developmental chemists.

Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Co. will conduct interviews Tuesday. The firm wants to interview people for positions in sales and sales management.

Deluxe Check Printers, Inc. will interview Wednesday. Persons with majors in business, history, journalism philosophy and speech are wanted for sales trainees.

Arthur Anderson and Co. and Sears, Roebuck and Co. also will be in the placement office Wednesday.

Rish Equipment Co. and Westinghouse Electric Co. will interview interested persons Thursday.

Persons interested in any of these interviews contact placement office this week.

Sizzling serves not cooling off

Some call her "Little Miss Cool" and some call her "Little Miss Icicle," but I call her just plain amazing. Still numb? Well, I'm talking about professional tennis' 18-year old whiz kid, Chris Evert.

As a 16-year old from St. Thomas Aquinas High School in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., Chrissie gained her first national attention by whipping several top-notch professionals to cop the Virginia Slims Masters in April, 1971. She proved herself further when she stunned stormy, powerful Virginia Wade of Great Britain to win the Wightman for the United States in August of the same year.

In the 1971 U.S. Open at Forest Hills, N.Y., she stole the show, rebounding time and time again from the brink of disaster to win four straight matches on center court.

However, in her semi-final match she was defeated by the women's premier player, Billie Jean King. Ms. King saw Chris' long range value to the sport and commented, "This is a 17-year old kid who's beating the best players in the world. It's beautiful."

Before losing to Ms. King, Chris had won 46 consecutive matches, in everything from junior tournaments to international competition. Her setback to Ms. King only ended her Cinderella Saga for a spell of a few months... until the middle of February, 1972.

It was at this time, while playing in the Women's International tournament in Fort Lauderdale, she won, and blasted Ms. King off the court.

Chris met Evonne Goolagong in the semi-final match. After winning the first set 6-4 and leading the second 3-0, Evonne went woosh... and it was all over 4-6, 6-3, and 6-4, the Aussie had won.

At the young and talented age of 17, Chris made her first trip to the Wimbledon Championships in London, England. Accompanied by her mother, an aunt and uncle, her priest, her school principal and "more pretty little pastel hair ribbons than Doris Day could dream of," she was prim, proper and perfect for Wimbledon.

A few weeks earlier she led the U.S. Wightman's Cup team to victory and won the Women's Championships at Queens Club.

The two, Chris and Evonne, had played only at Wimbledon, when they met again a few weeks later during team competition between U.S. and Aussie women. Chris, the 17-year old pixie of a player, captured a three set victory to even up the "David vs. Goliath" rivalry at one a piece.

Ms. Evert won the biggest prize of them all in the richest tournament of them all, the $100,000 Virginia Slims Championships at Boca Raton, Fla.

Two and a half hours of practice each school day and eight hours a day on weekends, has made Chris Evert the star she is today. Her soft curve of yesteryear has become respectable and her forehead has become more of a complement to her superb backhand.

There is no heat wae in sight that is going to cool off "Little Miss Icicle." "You've come a long way baby," but "you've still got a long way to go."

Scotch Doubles to roll

Women bowl first ball, men bowl cleanup

A Scotch Doubles bowling tournament will be held in Memorial Student Center recreation area this weekend, according to Tex Pertee, recreation supervisor.

In Scotch Doubles, men and women bowl together as a team. The women bowl first and then the men try to knock down any pins left.

The tournament will have a handicap based on a combined average of 330 and the total number of pins knocked down will constitute the winner.

Only 16 teams will participate in the tournament and 9 have already signed up.

Six games will be played Saturday with the first one beginning at 2 p.m. There will be a three dollar entry fee per couple, according to Pertee, and prizes will be awarded.

Interested persons should check at the recreation desk as soon as possible, says Pertee, as only seven places are yet available for teams to participate.

A TGIF with all sororities and fraternities will centralize activities during Greek Week.

"With a TGIF in the middle of the week and a possible chance of having a dance-a-thontohelp benefit Muscular Dystrophy this Greek Week will really be a big success," said Buddy Ross, Beckley junior, and vice-president of Interfraternity Council.

Two contests have been set up for the sororities to participate in. One will be an egg-eating contest where women will feed eggs to men from the different fraternities.

A grape-eating contest is also scheduled with the women doing the eating.

Greek Week activities begin April 28 with chariot races down Fourth Avenue.

LEADERSHIP

Why wait years? A few good men and women can enter a world of responsibility and authority almost immediately after graduation... through the Marine Corps Officer Candidates Class. From OCC, men and women move quickly into a wide variety of interesting, rewarding, and challenging fields, including aviation.

Learn how to lead. Learn how to lead the best—United States Marines. See your Marine representative.

The Marines are looking for a few good men. The Marine Officer Selection Team will be at the Career Planning and Placement Office, 1620 Fifth Ave. the 26th, 27th, and 28th of February from 10 AM to 3 PM.

Two wins hold key to bid

By TOM BUNEVICH

It will be Florida and the land of the sun, and the Marshall Thundering Herd will be hoping it shines bright when it plays a two-game series with two Florida teams in the next three days.

Saturday at 8 p.m., the Herd will face a tough Stetson College team, and Monday night will meet Florida State.

"These two games will be the clue to our tournament chances, and will be games that we'll have to be at our best to win," Herd coach Bob Daniels said.

In Saturday night's meeting with the Stetson Hatters, the first game between the two, the Herd will be facing a team in its second year of competition in the NCAA's university division.

"They have always had good teams, and this year is no exception," said Daniels, speaking of the Hatters, currently 15-9 on the year. "They should give us all we will be able to handle."

Then comes the game with the once second-ranked Florida State Seminoles. Daniels again seems to know the situation.

"Until lately I said that this team (Florida State) has the best team we will meet this season," said Daniels. "But they have had their problems and it has effected their play. But we can by no means take them lightly."

The Seminoles have now lost seven and won 16, and they too are bidding for a post-season tourney, and Daniels thinks this factor will make it a much tougher game.

The Seminoles are led by 6-11 high post man Reggie Royals, averaging 16 points per game, and 7-0 low post man Lawrence McCray, scoring at a 14.8 clip. The wings are occupied by 6-2 Otis Cole, averaging 10.9 points, and Otis Johnson, scoring at a 6.7 clip. Dennis Burke, a long-haired, 5-9 guard is the other starter with a 2.7 average.

The Herd will return home Tuesday, and play its final regular season game Thursday at home with Samford, meanwhile awaiting the official word of a tourney selection committee, which will meet and pick teams on the morning of March 1—also my birthday.

Cage tickets available Monday

Student tickets for priority group G-N for the Samford-Marshall game on March 1 will be available on Monday at the Gullickson Hall ticket office, according to Joe Wortham, athletic ticket manager.

Wortham also announced that all other student tickets will be available Tuesday and Wednesday between the regular office hours of 8:30 and 4:30.

"The Diamond Store of Huntington"

The Concerto Soloists of Philadelphia will perform today at 8 p.m. in Smith Music Hall as part of the Forum Series. The group, assembled in 1965, is unique in America. It consists of 15 instrumentalists who average 24 years old and are prize winners of many major international competitions.

With their conductor they perform music from the baroque, rococo and classical periods.

The ensemble, which also bills itself as a group of excellent soloists in their own right, stands and alternates positions throughout the performance.

They use a string bow specially conceived for and commissioned by the Concerto Soloists to assure the articulation necessary for the proper performance of 17th and 18th century music.

Marc Mostovoy, conductor, whose specialty is the performance of the baroque and classical repertoire, researches and edits all scores used in the performance.

Much of the music, which is performed for the first time in America, is not available on recordings.

The Concerto Soloists have commissioned music from many young American composers and are credited with having introduced several important baroque operas both locally and nationally.

Students travel to Kent State

Eleven students and one professor from Marshall will attend a weekend symposium at Kent State University entitled "Change as a Phenomenon in the Modern World".

Workshops at the meeting will deal with the nature and response to changes in political, social and educational systems, as well as in the arts.

Four Marshall students will participate in a panel discussion about how students should prepare for visiting or living in foreign countries to avoid cultural shock.

The symposium is sponsored by the Regional Council for International Education (RCIE) and will include both American and foreign students.

Marshall students attending are Gordon Mtetwa, Tina Battis, Becky Bernadez, Jane Arrington, Jessie Lazaro, Leila Lazaro, John Ndege, Edward Lo, Julia Sevd, Lynn Grassie and John Wilkes. Dr. John C. Platt, associate professor of philosophy is also going.

The world's second best reproduction system.

...the basis of this outrageous claim: Linear Sound. Speaker designers have been talking about Linear Sound for years. But until EPI came along, nobody had it. So what do we mean by "Linear Sound"? It's what the sound of an EPI speaker looks like on a frequency response graph: a practically straight line. So: Linear Sound. On the bass end, down as low as 22 cycles, there's exactly the amount of bass that was recorded. With no artificial boosting to impress the innocent. On the treble end, up as high as 20,000 cycles, EPI speakers deliver overtones that, on ordinary speakers, just fade out. So what you end up with is a reproduced sound that sounds just like the original sound. With no artificial coloring added. And nothing taken out. Linear Sound. It comes out of eight fantastic speakers, from $55 to $1000, made by Epicure Products Inc., One Charles St. Newburyport, Mass. 01950.

SOME OFFICE JOBS ARE MORE INTERESTING THAN OTHERS

In the old days if a man wanted to be an executive and craved adventure too, he could skipper a clipper ship.

Today...the clippers are gone...but the supersonics are here. And swashbuckling executives still get their chance.

That's maybe a million bucks worth of plane. And when you fly it the responsibility's all yours.

If you'd like to mull that over every time you bank or roll at 1,400+ mph, try for Officer Training School after you graduate from college. After completion of this school you will attend pilot training and have a starting salary of more than $9,800 annually. Also, remember the nice idea of yourself, an Air Force pilot, captain of, all you command, getting to visit foreign ports like the clipper captain of yore.

An Air Force officer's life is a great life! Why just be skipper of a desk?
