Famed Poet Tells Story Of Homeland

Enthusiastic Audience Greet's Jesse Stuart's Second Engagement

Amicable Jesse Stuart, poet of the Kentucky hills, told many stories on his life in W-Hollow, and read from his book of sonnets to entertain a capacity audience last Wednesday in the auditorium.

The famous "Robert Burns of America" re-won the praise of many who heard him last May, and won many new admirers who heard him for the first time Wednesday.

Stuart immediately caught the interest of his listeners by his humorous reference to his early school days in the "old house on the top of the hill." That little house, he said, contained a representative of the Stuart family from 1909 to 1935. "When I was a child," Stuart said, "I had to milk cows, feed hogs, pull weeds for the hogs, and cut firewood, so school was an interesting place to me. My father has always loved schools although he cannot write his name now, and the rest of the family liked school too."

Stuart went to Greenup, Kentucky, after graduating from high school and worked on the streets for 75 cents a day. He soon advanced to a job paying $3 a day and while at this work decided to go to college and "amount to something."

He then went home and told his mother and brother, but not his father, he said, that W-Hollow wasn't big enough for him, and set forth to college and later recognition in the literary world.

Stuart decided on a small college in eastern Tennessee. It was while there that he had his first poetry published. His verse appeared in the college publication, of which he was editor.

After leaving college there he went to Vanderbilt university. The

Allen Speaks Over Radio

First Broadcast Of College Series Announced By Gilbert

President James E. Allen will be featured on the first of the radio programs to be sponsored by the college during the year. He will speak on December 3, at 4:00 o'clock. His topic will be "Marshall in the Centennial Year". A vocal solo is being arranged to round out the program, to be presented over station WSAZ.

Second in the series will be a question and answer program by Dr. Roy C. Woods, of the education department, and Dean Otis G. Wilson, of teachers college. Dr. Woods will ask questions on "The New Campus Training School" and Dean Wilson will give the answers. This program is scheduled for December 10 at 4:00 o'clock.

The radio programs will be continued each Thursday afternoon from 4:00 until 4:15 o'clock, and will feature addresses by faculty members and programs by student organizations. The committee in charge includes Dr. Gilbert, Dean Otis G. Wilson, Dr. W. E. Greenleaf, Miss Ruth Flower, and Prof. W. C. Tucker.

The college Alma Mater will be the theme song for the series.

Dr. Frank Gilbert of the program committee, said last night that the remaining programs will be announced as soon as they are arranged.

'Candida' Set Will Satirize Pre-War Period Furniture

Satirizing the architecture and furniture of the pre-war period in England, the stage setting for "Candida" will attempt to arouse in the audience a mood for the proper reception of the action. Work on the set, designed by Jack Steelman, will be started tomorrow.

Although the set satirizes the cumbersome and inefficient architecture of the time, it makes no effort to portray interpretive art, keeping the design in the realm of realism.

It will indicate the personalities of two of the main characters by means of the furnishings on the two sides of the stage. Morell's side of the room will be cluttered and disorderly, while the side belonging to Candida, his wife, will be the exact opposite.

Skillful lighting and the playing of one scene in silhouette and shadow will relieve the monotony of the rather drab stage.

Dr. Woods' Article Published In News

Dr. Roy C. Woods, of the education department, has written an article which was published in the November issue of the Peabody Reflector and Alumni News, monthly publication of the George Peabody College for Teachers, Nashville, Tennessee.

The article is entitled "Educational Development in West Virginia." It discusses certain institutions which have been in existence for a time in the state, and have died from lack of support.

Chi Beta Phi Hears Allen

State-Wide Convention Will Open Thursday for Three Day Session

President James E. Allen will speak before members of Chi Beta Phi, honorary scientific fraternity, at a state-wide convention to be held here November 26, 27, and 28.

President Allen will speak preceding a luncheon at 1:00 o'clock at the Hotel Frederick. His subject will be "Science and Social Progress."

The entire program for the convention has not been arranged yet, according to Harold Hendershott, president of the local chapter.

Students Voice Approval Of Stadium Sound System

Determined to get a cross section of student opinion upon the use of a public address system for the announcement of cheers at the stadium The Parthenon's inquiring reporter found yesterday that seven of ten students interviewed at random favored the continued use of the sound equipment.

Despite this seemingly one-sided consensus there were still enough opposition expressed to disprove any claims of unanimity of opinion, the reporter found. For example Richard Voce, sophomore, declared that the mechanized cheering squad would lose a great deal of its color and traditional spirit by using the amplifier. He admitted that the leaders could not always be heard at the top of the stadium but attributed this to their attempts to announce cheers at times when the crowd is noisiest.

On the other hand Gordon Neely, senior, called the sound system "the

Typical Freshman Elected; Nominees To Be Interviewed

Classes Choose Candidates for Queenship of Annual Fete

Primary balloting to determine who will mount the Victory Queen's dais at Vanity Fair Thanksgiving night, resulted in the selection of the following women to represent the various classes: senior, Maxine Davis, Sigma Sigma Sigma; junior, Lucille Lane, Theta Rho; sophomore, Mary James; and freshman, Donna Jean Miller, Theta Rho.

Students will indicate their final choice next Tuesday, from 12:00 to 1:00 o'clock, when the polls in the west room of the Student Union building will be open.

Twenty-one women received a total of 392 votes in the primary voting, with the major portion of the ballots being cast in the freshman class.

Cliques Revealed

The election revealed the presence of well-organized factions among the women, with the usual campus political situation reversed, as the leaders of male groups solicited votes for the women of their choice. Pleas that the voters cast their ballots for women with the most stately and regal appearance were drowned in the wave of partisanship sentiment that inevitably takes command in such a situation.

Aftermaths indicate probable permanent dissension in at least one sorority, and hard feelings among the various groups in college hall.

Although the senior nominee usually wins the scepter, it is quite probable that this election will see a departure from that custom, inasmuch as this year's senior candidate did not receive the backing of her sorority in the primaries, but relied upon the support of the independent women. They now have another fish to fry, in the person of their sophomore candidate, making the final outcome of the campaign seem very gloomy indeed for the senior representative.

Enthusiasm Seen

Typical election day demonstrations of unchecked and generally misdirected enthusiasm were noted in various quarters, especially in College hall, where women who had pledged their loyalty to a sorority candidate found themselves more than slightly unpopular for the moment.

The women who ran second to the winners in each class were: freshman, Jean Wilson; sophomore, Audrey Burgess; junior, Frances Snyder; and senior, Eunice Byrnside.

Harold Kelly Chosen by Frosh to Represent Class at Dance

Harold Kelly, of Portsmouth, Ohio, was selected "Typical Freshman" at a meeting of the freshman men in the gymnasium last night. He will take part in the ceremonies at the Victory Ball dance next Thursday night at the Vanity Fair and will be presented a sledge hammer with which to ring the victory gong. He is a Phi Kappa Nu pledge.

The four nominees for the victory queen election will be presented over radio station WSAZ during an electrical recording program which will feature the music of Freddie Bergin and his orchestra, who will play for the Thanksgiving night dance.

Begins Tonight

The first program will be an introduction and an interview of Donna Jean Miller, of Logan, freshman representative, by Fred Burns, WSAZ sports announcer, tonight at 5:45 o'clock. Tomorrow night, Mary James, of Oak Hill, representing the sophomore class, will be interviewed.

Lucille Lane, of Belle, the junior class representative, will be third on the program which will be given Monday night at 5:45 o'clock, and Maxine Davis, senior representative of Glen Rogers, will conclude the introduction programs Tuesday night at the same hour.

Musicals Resume

The musical portion of the program will be continued Wednesday afternoon at 4:45 o'clock and will be concluded the next afternoon at 5:45 o'clock.

Arrangements for the broadcast were made by C. P. Tinsley, president of the American Business club, and W. C. McKeller, general manager of station WSAZ.

Beauty Queen And Victory Ball Tradition Began In '27

It is a custom around here—this business of beauty queens, and it all started way back in 1927 as a side light to a West Virginia Wesleyan-Marshall college football game which Wesleyan won 19 to 0. To assuage their wounds the boys in Green crowned a queen of the ball. In April of that same year the staffs of the Parthenon and the Mirabilia got together, and jointly threw a dance in the gym. This time they were ruled over by a Mirabilia Beauty Queen. The men of letters at Marshall danced gaily, little knowing that they were helping to sow the seed of tradition for beauty queens.

Everyone, it seems, thought that football garnished with beauty was a good idea, and in 1928 they again selected a campus beauty to govern for the evening. This year their joy knew no bounds, as Marshall won 13-7, and Dorothy Davis, Tri Sig, wielded the scepter over the throng. The next piece of pleasing pulchritude to be picked to reign at the dance was selected from among the dancers on the floor. The paper files failed to name the fair damsel. Later on that year the staffs of the Mirabilia and Parthenon again chose a queen to rule at their Beauty Ball. This time the lovely creature was a Pi Kap, Lelia Hill.

For 1930's Homecoming Louise McMahon, Tri Sig, was the reigning beauty at the ball. The men from Marshall and Wesleyan played that year's game to a tie.

In 1931 Paul Specht's orchestra played for the dance following the game, which Wesleyan won 13-0. That was the year "Gip" Battles starred for the Bobcats and ran wild in practically every game. That year, also, Alice Chandler, Pi Kap and now Mrs. James Gracie, wore the regal robes. With that affair the beauty queen tradition became firmly cemented into the minds of Marshallites. The following year (1932) Marshall won from the Bobcats 22 to 0. Zontini ran amuck that day to upset all the dopsters. The same year Doris Edmondson, Delta Xi Delta, was the beautiful girl on the campus, and she held sway over the festivities. Ted Brewer and his orchestra played for the dancing after the game.

In 1933, the music of Bernie Cummins and his New Yorkers were featured at the Victory Ball. Featured with him were a group of campus beauties attending the queen, Alice Margaret Chapman, Pi Kap. Marshall lost to the team from Buckhannon 12 to 6, a heart breaker. The tradition grew apace with the years and became more firmly entrenched in the Marshall scheme of things.

Nineteen hundred and thirty-four saw Virginia Sydenstricker in the role of Victory Queen. The evening of that Thanksgiving was a gloomy affair. The Wesleyan Bobcats gave the Herd a prize drubbing to the tune of 39 to 0. Red Nichols and His Pennies played for the dance that night.

Claudine Harris played the regal monarch in the 1935 edition of the Marshall Victory Ball. West Virginia Wesleyan won from the Thundering Herd 12 to 6. Barney Rapp and His New Englanders played at the ball at Vanity Fair that night.

STUDENTS VOICE OPINION ON SOUND EQUIPMENT AT GAME

(Continued from Page 1) suggest improvements which might be made in the cheerleading and in the cheering section. Paul Willis, Voce, Georgia Wilby, and others thought that the students would respond to calls for cheers more generously if they were announced while the crowd was fairly quiet. This way more students would understand the cheer to be given and would not have to wait until the yell was half through before chiming in.

Others, including Rex Woodford, Donna Jean Miller, and Jane Vaughan expressed the belief that better cheers would result if more trouble were taken to organize a cheering section.

On the whole the inquiring reporter found students generally favoring the use of the sound system if a satisfactory method could be devised for the collection of a fund to pay the rental.

Prof. Wolfard Is Elected Delegate To New Council

Prof. Lee A. Wolfard, head of the commerce department, was elected representative of the commercial section of the S. E. A. to the National Council of Business Education.

Prof. Wolfard said that the council is new among the leaders in Commercial Education throughout the nation. Its membership is limited to not more than three representatives of any association.

Because of the limited membership the type of research work which can be done and the nature of discussion in the annual meeting of such a small group of experts should yield very definite and progressive results, he stated.

(Continued from page 1) university employed 60 janitors, 50 colored and one white, and he was the white one. While at Vanderbilt a professor entered one of Stuart's manuscripts in a contest conducted by the Atlantic Monthly, and he missed the first prize of $5,000 by one vote.

"I think it was a good thing I didn't win that money," Stuart said, "because if I had I probably would never have written 'The Man With a Bull-Tongue Plow.'" I returned to the farm soon after the contest and started plowing and writing."

His book of over 700 sonnets, "Man With a Bull-Tongue Plow," was written in 11 months. It is in the third edition now. The first month after the release of the book he received 503 letters, five of which were proposals. His second book, "Head O' W-Hollow," a collection of short stories, is in the second edition.

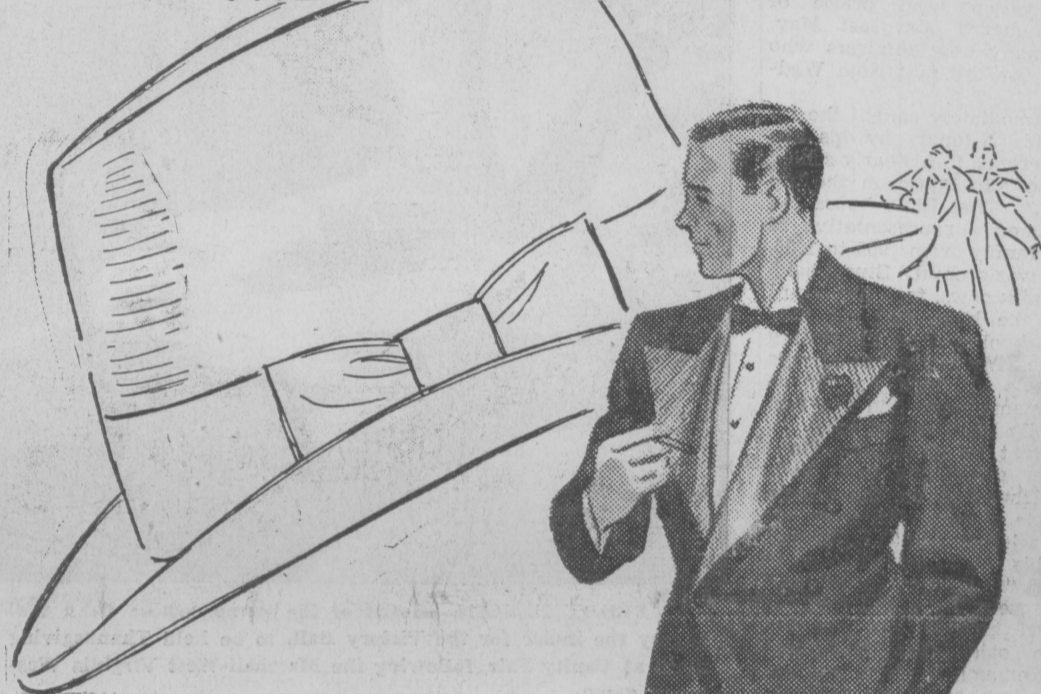

Stuart autographed his books and talked to friends in the bookstore after assembly. He discussed books and writers and numerous other things with people who stopped in to see him. Many questions were asked him of W-Hollow and the people who live there.

He returned that afternoon to Riverton, Kentucky, to resume his duties as school teacher and principal of the high school.

Everything is swing these days. A modern music club is being organized at New York university. The purpose is to aid in the understanding of modern music, particularly those forms known as jazz, hot jazz, and springy swing.

The University of New Mexico has purchased a new electric organ for its music department. The organ is available for rent ten hours daily at twenty-five cents per hour. Students can earn credits by taking lessons.

"Better, But - -"

Announcement by the Panhellenic council that it will sponsor a Charity Ball in December is gratifying to the extent that it marks the most promising step made recently toward giving the college its first prominent formal dance. Without question no student affair has ever gained the prominence in formality and elegance that should belong to at least one college function.

The college has been notably unsuccessful in recent years in promoting strictly formal affairs, in the sense that none have drawn crowds in numbers sufficient to pay the actual expenses involved. We have seen this happen year after year in the case of the Junior-Senior Prom. Not once in the years that this function has been held have its sponsors not had to cover deficits of varying amounts from their own pockets.

The Panhellenic council is to be commended for this most recent action, for in planning its dance it has devised a plan which in theory seems to be the most practical ever offered. According to present plans every member of the eight campus sororities will be required to assume the responsibility for one ticket which will cost one dollar. Based upon the present membership of these groups a sale of 210 tickets would be assured, positively guaranteeing financial success.

Thus the pressing problem seems momentarily to be well handled until certain other aspects of the situation are pondered.

In the first place the gathering of 210 couples into the Student Union building represents a physical impossibility. Secondly, granting for the sake of argument that quarters could be found for such a crowd, the fruitlessness of expecting such a throng is accentuated by the fact that 210 men with tuxedos do not exist upon the campus. This has been demonstrated time and again when sororities have found it difficult to find men available for their own private formal dances when crowds of more than 50 couples are exceedingly rare.

It is therefore evident that many of the women who pay for a ticket will never attend the dance nor will they be able to dispose of their tickets, in which event the Charity Ball would be charity indeed.

Regardless of such a state of affairs we do in no way withhold our complete and hearty approval of the council's plan. In our estimation its efforts will come nearer to success than any of those in the past.

HOMECOMING...

It's over. Can Thanksgiving be far behind...?

ON JESSE....

Jesse may be Bobbie Burnish and all that, but he was also an incentive for poetry Wednesday. So with no further ado we herewith present with a blaring of bugles and a ruffle of banners Eddie Aldridge, poet....

The Girl With the Bull Tongue

To thee my love I write with lead. Wondering what thoughts assail your head.

Think you of wine, Or song, or him— On any subject your mind is dim....

P. S.—He wrote it on a chewing gum wrapper....

COMPLAINT....

We would like to register a squawk. We can bear up under most any number of burdens, it matters not whether they are great or small, but when we receive correspondence which begins somewhat on the order of the following we begin to kick.

"I am a young girl desperately in love with a man twice my age. His wife does not understand him. He loves me dearly. What am I to do?" (Signed)

Disappointed in Love.

That, my friends, is going a bit far. Even though it wrings our heart we still can't stard it. Their fervid pleas are to no avail. We have no desire to become a victim of the "sob sister" racket. There is but one alternative, Duncan (Dorothy Dix) Sturm. Eminently suitable is he, possessed of a warm sympathetic heart, a man with all the qualifications necessary to fill the role, experience, personality, and a firm desire to right the wrongs so wantonly distributed by the darts of Den Cupid. Let's all get behind Sister Sturm and make his presence felt....

BUZZINGS....

Whee! Whee! Only thirty-four more days until Xmas... Just who had the organ in the auditorium Monday? Dr. Halley all but tore his hair... Not twenty out of the entire student body realize the significance of the hundred year anniversary Marshall is having. Not eight of the twenty are helping to advance the college in any material way. Invisible influences combat any and every effort put forth to aid the school. The influences are so invisible that we dare not name them. And we could name them if the man with the blue pencil would let it by... Freddy Bergin? Freddy Bergin? Have we heard that name?... Frank'e Davis, Pi Kap, is the gal who loosed the barrage of criticism concerning the males on the campus... Personal nomination for the busiest man on the college campus—Allie Shelansky. He has more fingers in more pies than any other two persons in school... Mr. Anonymous and your diary... "Snake" Halstead rises to remark that he only works for a guy and does not own any sound equipment at all... Congrats to the CA's... Beauty queen picking is over. Now its preening time... At he present time a bull sheet would be the thing. And no mistake... Half the numbers in the Home Ec Club's current edition of the student directory are wrong. Well, maybe not quite half... There is a tap dancing class or school just over the editorial offices of The Parthenon. You should try concentrating with that rat-a-tat-tat going on over your head... We possess the prize list of telephone numbers to be had anywhere. Much better than the city directory. Quality not quantity is what we have. Will rent them out for a certain fee. A fee of certain proportions understand... Answer to "William Tell" Estler—Yes, we know what we have. And right proud we are too... "Chuck" McGhee was feeling a little out of sorts when he composed his offering to the Homecoming edition... Jesse Stuart has something about his personality which seems to draw his audience right out of their seats in their effort to help him along with his speaking. Talk about the audience being with the speaker... It seems we spied a few chrysanthemums at the Miami game. More the better....

The Yellow Jacket printed these suggestions, that the freshmen might conduct themselves properly at the Randolph-Macon opening dances:

- 1. Do not attempt to climb in the back window without first removing the iron grate. Many serious injuries have been previously caused by this.
- 2. Do not throw cigarette stubs down your date's back. Make a good impression by flipping it into the lobby.
- 3. Do not leave any girl standing on the floor alone, unless you have danced with her for at least 45 minutes.
- 4. No open razors will be tolerated on the dance floor. All throat slitting can be carried on out in the athletic field.
- 5. Do not place discarded chewing gum on the orchestra's instruments or in the chaperone's chairs.
- 6. It is not proper to bring dates to and from the dances in oxcarts. A model T Ford will serve the purpose much better.

The Arkansas Traveler says: How NOT to be a success as a date:

- 1. Always ask him to put your suit-case size purse in his already bulging Tux pocket.
- 2. Tell him how grand the "visiting fireman" last week was... "he bought me this, and he bought me that...."
- 3. Always talk about how pretty your hair looks and what tortures you went through to get it fixed.
- 4. Always insist on a two-bit package of cigarettes.
- 5. Always ask foolish questions at the football games, right at the crucial moment.... it helps distract his mind from the game.

I WENT TO PIT COLLEGE

By Lauren Gilfillan

"Sometimes I used to wish I was a college graduate holdin' a white collar job, and then agin, I was sorta proud of bein' a miner. You know, we fellas got an old gag we pull every cncet in so often. We say we went to Pit College."

"Pit College?" "Yeah, the college with the black gates. It's a gag, see. There's Pitt university in Pittsburgh, 'n' so we say we went to Pit College in Ave-lonia. We say we ain't got our diplomas yet."

Johnny Cersil, speaking. Johnny worked in the mines until he was nineteen. Then the communists came to Ave-lonia and started to organize strikes. After that Johnny didn't work any more. He and his neighbors picketed the scabs, held Red demonstrations, and lived off the Relief. Johnny was not dumb. He read Marx and Lenin, and became interested in Sacco and Vantetti.

Into this militant mining town came the author, twenty-two years 'o'd and just out of college. A New York publisher dared her to go out to the coal fields and put down what she saw. She saw plenty, and she put it down in black and white.

As a social document, the book is free from propaganda. The author observes the plight of the miners with an alert but impartial eye. She explains the cause of communism. But refuses to suggest remedies.

It will come as a shock to some of us that such conditions could really exist in the enlightened commonwealth of Pennsylvania. Yet, if the truth were known, worse things could doubtless be found even nearer home. Those of us who feel that the outside press has not been fair to West Virginia will read this book and marvel that we have fared as well as we have at the hands of the journalists.

CORRECTION

The Parthenon wishes to correct a statement made in Tuesday's issue in the column "diary of a collegian" in which it was said that Mr. Earl Halstead was the owner of the sound equipment used by the cheering squad last Saturday. Upon investigation it was found that Mr. Halstead was not the owner nor was he in any way connected with the owner. On the contrary he had consented to connect the equipment which had been rented from the King and Irwin Radio company.

Mr. Halstead did not receive any monetary consideration for his efforts nor did he participate in the distribution of the money taken up at the game.

Collegiate World

Some of the unusual names of Northwestern university students tend to be alcoholic.

There are a couple of Beers, a Booz, a Beerman, a Brewer, a Bender, and a Bock—not to mention six Steins. Some of the non-alcoholic names are: Pond, Pool, Brook, Lake, and Rainwater.

An oddity-hunter might raise his eye-brows when he learns that there is a sophomore who is a Frosh, a lawyer who is a Heckler, and two dentists named Toothaker and Jirka.

Other surnames tended to become nautical and horsical: Sailor and Seaman and Steed, Stirrup and Saddle. A few other combinations deserve mention, Frizzell and Fry, Creed and Motto, and Finger and Bone.

Contrary to tradition, Smiths did not lead other names in representation. The Johnsons were first with the Millers and Smiths following up in that order.

Dr. Foster Kennedy, professor of clinical neurology at Cornell university Medical college, told the ninth annual graduate class of the Academy of Medicine that noise is a major hazard of modern existence and is an important contributing factor to excessive fatigue, which, in turn, often invites chronic ill-health and premature old age.

Dr. Kennedy estimated that between 60 and 80 percent of our population at present has ear trouble caused by mechanical noises. Noise, he stated, should be listed with gases, toxic liquids, fumes, dusts, bacteria, and chemical rays as a hazard in industrial plants.

Big Green Sportlites

By Bill Keesler

While viewing the battle between the Big Green and Miami last Saturday, we just couldn't get over the amount of help the gridders had in the stands. There must have been at least thirty umpires and referees calling all the plays for the teams, and if every one wasn't perfect, well it must be the quarterback's fault. Fate is funny that way. Up one minute down the next.

Personally, we admired the fight the Big Green displayed in holding down the greatest team Miami has put on the field at Fairfield stadium in quite some time. Wagner, Redskin quarterback, flashed All-Buckeye ability, and the work of the Miami line was a spectacle that everyone couldn't help admiring.

The Buckeye coaches who predicted the conference standings this season seem to be hiding their faces. The two predicted leaders of the loop are at the present time fighting it out for the last position. The Big Green, in the consensus of the Buckeye master-minds, seemed to be the most improved eleven in the conference, and all agreed that with all lettermen returning next year and with the addition of some brilliant frosh talent, the Big Green will be hard to beat for the championship.

As long as Marshall is to remain in the Buckeye conference they are going to have to put up with the use of negroes on rival teams. Lets all be good enough sports to realize this, and root as strongly for one as the other. Didn't Lincoln say something about every man being created equal?

Now that the sale of tickets indicates an overflow crowd for the annual Big Green-Bobcat tilt, and with the assurance that the pulchritude selected for the Victory queen candidates at that classic is of the highest standard, we all hope that the election of the queen will be on her beauty merits instead of something else.

GOSSIP

Rufus Carney, the Big Green grigger who fell prey to old man appendicitis, is back in school and raring to go... It goes to show you what a little conditioning will do... From a secret source we find that Captain Herb Royer is a sure bet for one of the backfield berths on the All-Buckeye team. Betcha at least two more Big Green will be on there with plenty to spare... The Thundering Herd, back in 1919 went through the season undefeated and scored 312 points to the opponents 12... Of course this is 1936 and the teams the Big Green plays are of a much higher caliber... So far this season they have piled up 315 points to the opponents 72... Still leading the nation's scorers. The Herd has been able to cop but three contests in their 11 game rivalry with the Bobcats that dates way back to 1911. They won that first game 14 to 0.

ODD FACTS

Most of the younger Joe Colleges around the campus don't recall the good old days when dirt racing was as much a fad as eating is today. It seems that one of the racing mortals of that day was brought to my attention the other day. Fonehouse Martin, one who digs up copy for me when time is short, had an uncle who was one of the top-notch drivers in his day. On a bright sunny afternoon this uncle went to do his racing chores, got there a day late and all he found was his nose running. Which reminds me that mine is too and it is time to say adios...

BROUGHT TO LIFE

Miami - Cincy Game Closes Buckeye Season

Redskins Can Cinch Title By Beating Bearcats On Thanksgiving

The game between the Miami university Redskins and the University of Cincinnati Bearcats will close a hectic Buckeye conference year on Thanksgiving Day. If the Redskins can display the same powerful offense and defense they did in defeating the Big Green, the title is as good as theirs.

Miami must win this game to be assured of the 1936 Buckeye championship. If they lose, the title will go to the Ohio university Bobcats, champions in 1935. If the Bearcat-Redskin battle is a tie, the crown will be divided between the Miami team and their arch-rivals, the Bobcats.

This year has found the conference in more of a turmoil than in past seasons. All teams started out as champions, and then turned around to play very erratic ball. The pre-season favorites, Ohio Wesleyan, fell very flat, and are assured at least a tie for the cellar position with the Bearcats if the Cincy team loses to Miami.

Cincinnati found themselves in the limelight at the beginning of the season, as the experts figured they had an excellent chance to finish in the money. They too, failed the dopesters and the best they can do is finish in fifth place by defeating Miami.

Glenville Opposes Bobcats Saturday

Wesleyan Team Boasts An Impressive Home Record

Coach Cebe Ross and his West Virginia Bobcats are preparing for their last home game of the season this Saturday with the Glenville teachers. The Glenville team boast a high scoring combine, but the record of the Bobcats on their home field is so much more impressive that it overshadows the punch of the invaders.

In the last ten years, the Bobcats have lost only three games on their home grounds, and the chances of Glenville turning the trick are very slight. The Rossmen this year have startled the football world with upset wins over Duquesne and Catholic universities. Since October 14, 1933, the Wesleyan team has gone undefeated and untied on its home field.

If the Methodists win the state crown this year, they will come into permanent possession of the cup awarded to the champion of the conference each year.

Introducing The Herdsmen

By BILL KEESLER

Another of the sophomore stars who is studding the Big Green football picture is fullback Buck Jamison, one of the hardest plunging ball carriers in the Buckeye conference.

Buck did not start the season as a regular fullback, although he saw plenty of service in every contest. As the year went along his defensive playing improved so much that he now gets the starting call. When the Big Green is on the offensive, Buck never fails to produce those few needed yards when called on. He is one of the best defensive players on the squad; when it comes to backing up the forward wall, Buck has no equal on teams the Big Green has faced this year.

Although his playing has been consistent throughout the schedule, Buck played his best game last Saturday against the Miami Redskins. He backed up the line like an all-American and consistently cut down Miami backfield men who were seemingly away for touch-down jaunts.

He is a native of West Virginia, making his home in Glenville, where he graduated from high school. Buck is also an excellent basketball performer, and more than likely will be seen with the Big Green hardwood quint when the season starts. A powerful player, he tips the scales at 185 pounds and is six feet tall.

One of the sophomore linemen who shows signs of developing into one of the Buckeye's outstanding tackles is Junior Bolyard.

Bolyard played consistently brilliant football and was at the height of his game in the Dayton encounter. Unfortunately he twisted his knee, and was forced to sit on the sidelines for the following two games. Although he was back in action long before the coaches expected, he never regained his full power because of the aggravated injury. He has been in the last few games, and several times was playing on sheer will power and determination alone. He just wouldn't say when he had enough. Although not at his best for the past few games he has been one of the standouts in the Big Green's line, and with the coming of a new year we should see some brilliant line work on the part of this promising sophomore.

Junior is one of the team's biggest players, towering six feet three inches and weighing 198 pounds. He is an exceptionally good student.

Pack 'A' Tops P. K. Nu's For Volleyball Title

Champions Take Second Straight League Crown

Independents Win Three Out of Four Games for Championship

Coming from behind after losing the first game, the Wolfpack "A" won the men's intramural volleyball championship last night by beating Phi Kappa Nu's team by the scores of 18 to 21, 21 to 16, 21 to 12, and 21 to 11. In winning this title the Wolfpack's won their second successive intramural championship of the year.

Phi Kappa Nu won the right to play the Wolfpack for the volleyball championship by defeating the Wolfpack "B" two straight games on Wednesday night by the scores of 21 to 3 and 21 to 12.

The fraternity team, champions of the "A" loop, started out strong and won the first game before the independents could get their forces organized. Changing for the second game, the Wolfpack team got the jump on the fraternity men and ran up a lead that was unsurpassed by the Phi Kappa Nu's belated rally.

Show Teamwork

Displaying the championship form that has carried them to the majority of intramural titles for the past four years, the Wolfpack aggregation set the ball up for the front line players and won the third game of the match by the one-sided score of 21 to 12. The independents, taking advantage of their superiority in height, won the last and deciding game of the championship match by another lop-sided score of 21 to 11.

In winning this championship, the Wolfpack team kept up its march in quest of winning more championship plaques than any other previous intramural team. The volleyball champions completely dominated the 1935 intramural program, winning four of the main intramural events.

Basketball Starts

The 1936 intramural basketball schedule will be drawn up the first of next week and play will begin the first Monday after Thanksgiving vacation. The Wolfpack also won the basketball crown last year, and with the return of all their veterans this year they are the decided favorites to cop this event.

This year the basketball leagues will be divided up into three loops instead of the usual two, with the Wolfpack playing in the fraternity league, because of the lack of competition in the other loops.

The members of the winning volleyball champions are: John Boone, Tom Huron, L. Wilcox, Merle Bias, Dick Sidebottom, and Buster Vest. The champions will receive a plaque, and the individuals will receive intramural medals. The members of the Phi Kappa Nu team are: Boyd, Richardson, Gorman, Simmons, Sturm, Terry, Stephens, Hopkins, and Tippett.

Cam Will Help Choose Coaches

Cam Henderson, Big Green athletic director and head coach, was notified Wednesday of his appointment as one of three college coaches to have a hand in the annual North-South high school football classic held in Charleston on New Year's Day.

The Big Green mentor was appointed to the post by I. E. Ewing, president of the board of appeals of the State Athletic Association. That group recently decided to handle the selecting of the all-state eleven and the New Year's Day gridiron event.

Coach Henderson, two other college coaches yet to be named, and the tutors of the two teams that played last year will pick the two coaches who are to handle this year's event at the capitol city.

Herd Senior

JACK WEAVER, tackle, will be the only man playing his last game for the Big Green in next Thursday's battle with the Bobcats.

Hill And Dalers Compete Monday

Revived by Prof. Otto Gullickson after the lapse of two years, the cross country race will be held Tuesday, November 22, with 14 contestants primed to set a new record on the two and one eighth mile course.

From the starting line at Fairfield stadium the runners travel along city streets to Ritter Park. Here they cut through the woodland and over hills circling back to the stadium to the finish.

Julius Rivlin finished first in a trial run last week with an amazing burst of speed in the last 50 yards, beating Arty Franzello, high school track star, by a few yards.

Big Green Points To Annual Battle With Bobcats

Team Gradually Rounding Into Shape for Turkey Day Classic

Showing more determination than ever, the Big Green footballers yesterday completed one of its hardest and longest practice sessions of the season, as they battled a freshmen team armed with Wesleyan plays.

The Green team is gradually rounding into shape, and with a week to spare before the big Turkey Day tussle, should be in much better physical condition than it was in the Miami university game last Saturday.

Green Works Hard

The Big Green enjoyed a one-day lay-off Monday afternoon, but went to hard work on Tuesday as they scrimmaged against the red-clad frosh team. The varsity had the upper hand throughout the hour's scrimmage. Due to injuries the Green has been unable to engage in any serious rough stuff work until now. With only a week left in which to prepare the team for the invasion of one of the nation's most powerful elevens, Coach Henderson is taking no chances on his team becoming soft and stale, as a win for the Big Green over the Methodists will firmly establish the Hendersonmen as state champions.

The Wesleyan team is bringing to Fairfield stadium one of the greatest backfields in the country. The game this year is attracting more notice than any game of the series for the last ten years. The Bobcat backs have been playing together for four successive years of football wars and are rated tops as a combine.

CO-ED SPORTS

By MARIE FISHER

Winning their third straight game of the season, Lottie Mae Ray's field hockey team took undisputed possession of first place in the women's intramural hockey league.

Ray's team beat Lorrain Quick's by the score of 2 to 1. Marguerite Harlow was the deciding factor in her team's win, as she scored the winning tally late in the second half.

The half ended with the score knotted at one all. The winners took immediate command of the game in the last period and the outcome was never in doubt after the second goal was scored by the Ray team. The losers never seriously threatened the winner's territory as they only had the ball in Ray's field once during the second half.

After winning the first match from Virginia Pinnell's team, Lorraine Quick's team dropped Wednesday's game to them 4-0. Her team was also defeated Tuesday by Lottie Mae Ray's team 5-2.

The last game of the season between Lottie Mae Ray and Virginia Pinnell is scheduled Monday.

Frank is on the infirmary list, and it is doubtful whether he will play against the Bobcats.
