Committee approves degree program

By CINDY GABLE
Reporter

The Academic Planning and Standards Committee Thursday approved plans for a new master's degree program in the School of Medicine, recommended to University Council that all teachers be required to distribute course requirements, and approved three changes in the Graduate School.

If approved by University President Robert B. Hayes, the Master of Science in Community Health program will begin at the summer semester of the 1980-81 school year.

The new program combines classroom learning with actual medical practice to improve health care in rural areas. Dr. David Heydinger told the committee, "The School of Medicine was developed to meet health care needs not met in rural areas and West Virginia.

"It was felt Marshall could not be a traditional medical school. The traditional schools are not meeting these needs," Heydinger is associate dean for academics and clinical affairs and chairman of community medicine.

Students must have graduated from a medical school before they are eligible for the program, which lasts from five to eight years, Heydinger said.

The program will have students working in school for several months, then practicing medicine in a rural area. The process will be repeated several times before the degree is awarded.

Dr. Robert W. Coon, vice president/dean of the School of Medicine, said Marshall was the first school in the country to offer this type of program.

"We feel if this is valid for rural community health care, it would be just as valid for inner-city health care, too," Heydinger said.

The committee also adopted a recommendation that would require all teachers to prepare course requirements during the first two weeks of the semester. These requirements would be distributed to students and would include attendance policy, grading policy, approximate due dates of exams and major projects, and the general course content.

The request for course requirements was made by Student Body President Ed Hamrick. Clendénin senior, Hamrick presented his proposal to University Council and University Council referred it to the Academic Planning and Standards Committee.

The committee decided to send it back to University Council with its recommendation.

Dr. James E. Joy, standards subcommittee chairman, said students requested the requirements because they wanted to see what they were getting into with a course and what the professors expected.

Student representative Terry L. McNeer, St. Albans senior, told the committee at the previous meeting that several students complained about term papers and other large projects being assigned very late into the semester. She said they hoped the course requirements would help solve the problem.

From the Graduate Council, the committee approved a change in the Master's of Clinical Psychology degree, increasing the required hours from 36 to 45. Dr. Paul D. Stewart, dean of the Graduate School, said the increase was keeping in line with other programs throughout the country.

The committee also decided graduate students could overlap some hours from their first master's degree, if they were completing a second master's degree. The specific courses would have to be decided by the advisor, Stewart said.

The committee also said graduate students should take the GRE general aptitude section before admission to Graduate School or during the first semester of course work.

The only exception would be in the College of Business where students were required to take the GMAT.

Johnson reinstated

Marshall University football defensive coordinator Bruce Johnson was reinstated Wednesday following a two-week suspension.

The suspension was due to an incident which occurred in football practice the week leading up to the Appalachian State game. Freshman defensive back John Thomas was involved in the incident, in which he claimed to have suffered a separated shoulder.

"My lawyer has told me to refer any questions to him," Thomas said when reached in his Reston, Va., home over the Thanksgiving holiday.

While Thomas claimed his shoulder was separated, MU trainer Vic Winburn told the Associated Press that Thomas had practiced in a scrimmage after the incident occurred and that he had a bruised shoulder.

Reached in his Reston office, John Thyden, Thomas' lawyer, had no comments. But Thyden claimed his client's shoulder was separated.

"If I don't have a statement for you in six to eight weeks, I am sure you will be able to read the court records for your story," Thyden said.

"In the best interests of my client, I can make no statement concerning the matter at this time."

In Thursday's Herald-Dispatch, Thyden was quoted as saying, "We will wait and see what the university's attitude will be... things of that nature."

Marshall backfield coach Reggie Oliver said, "You would have to say there is a degree of negative effect to a point. It's bad ink."

"A lot of the players, their families, and coaches want to know what it is all about," Oliver said. "As a coaching staff, we have just got to keep it going and get our act back together."

After many days of unseasonably warm weather Marshall students, like everyone else, are going to have to bring out their cold weather gear in order to keep warm.

Friday

The Hawk is swooping

Today we can expect variable cloudiness with a chance of scattered snow flurries, according to the National Weather Service. Probability of snow accumulation will be 40 percent today and 30 percent tonight. Today's high will be 35 degrees with a low of 25 degrees tonight.

All home basketball games sold out

By MARCIE BUTLER
Reporter

All public seats for the 1979-80 Marshall home basketball season have been sold out, Joe Wortham, ticket manager for Marshall, said.

The only remaining seats are for student distribution, Wortham said.

Students have been put into groups in which they can pick up their tickets, the same as last year, Wortham said.

Groups will be rotated at every game, giving each group priority over the others for pick-up of tickets. The priority group will have the first two days of distribution to pick up their tickets while the remaining students will have the next two days.

Priority group I contains the students whose last name begins with letter O through Z. Group II consists of students with last names beginning with A through F, while students who have last names beginning with letters G through N are in group III.

Group II will have priority for the Dec. 6 game against Wilmington College. Students in this group can pick up their tickets Nov. 29-30. The remaining students can pick up tickets Dec. 3-4. Any remaining tickets will be sold to the public Dec. 5-6.

Tickets will be distributed at the Athletic Ticket Office, located in the 1800 blocks of Fifth Avenue across from Twin Towers.

Students must present a valid I.D. and activity card to receive their tickets. One additional ticket is allowed per student provided he has an additional I.D. and activity card. The ticket office is open Monday-Friday 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Students must present their I.D. along with their ticket to enter the field house.

Priority group III will be able to pick up their tickets for the Dec. 8 game against CCNY Dec. 3-4. The pick-up dates for the other students are Dec. 5-6.

Remaining tickets will go on sale to the public Dec. 7-8.

Dec. 4-5 is the pick-up date for the Dec. 10 game against Ohio University for students in group I. Groups II and III can pick up their tickets Dec. 6-7. Remaining tickets will go on sale to the public Dec. 8-10.

Group II is the priority group for the game against Davidson College on Monday, Dec. 17. Students in this group can get tickets ninth floor lounge of South Hall. The theft is believed to have happened sometime between Nov. 12-16.

On Nov. 23 Dan Petry, RA on the second floor of Twin Towers East, discovered the telephone at the desk of TTE was pulled from the attached wiring and removed from the office.

Also on Nov. 23, damage to a photo-copy machine in the lobby of TTE was reported. The coin box of the machine was torn away from the body of the machine, but was still intact.

A security unit checked the machines in the other dormitories and found all of them to be secure.

A dusk-to-dawn light and pole on the north side of College Avenue adjacent to South Hall were reported damaged on Nov. 22. The pole was found lying on the ground with the bulb and light covers broken. It was reported that the pole was apparently struck by a vehicle.

A Twin Towers West resident reported the theft of a textbook valued at $14.95 from a table near the cashier in the Twin Towers cafeteria sometime between 6-6:30 p.m. on Nov. 20.

Security office files crime report

By BILL GRAF
Reporter

Security office reports filed for the past two weeks include a complaint by Larry W. Watson of 104-A Hodges Hall of a stereo receiver and turntable stolen from his room on Nov. 20.

Watson said the equipment, valued at $350, was found missing after he returned from playing basketball at the Memorial Field House. Watson said that he had secured the room before leaving, and it appeared someone had entered the room either with a key or by picking the lock.

In other activity, 15 feet of metal fence railing and 10 feet of brick wall located near the northeast end of the Science Building was damaged when Cheryl Meadows allegedly lost control of her car and ran into the wall at 7:53 p.m., Nov. 16.

The Huntington Police placed Meadows under arrest for driving while intoxicated. Meadows, who gave two Huntington addresses, claimed that someone cut in front of her in the 1600 block of Third Avenue causing her to lose control of her auto.

On Nov. 26 a black telephone base and receiver were reported stolen from the theft of a textbook valued at $14.95 from a table near the cashier in the Twin Towers cafeteria sometime between 6-6:30 p.m. on Nov. 20.

Reaction to registration system positive

By RICK CHAPMAN
Reporter

It has been a year since the computer registration system was unveiled at Marshall University. The reaction from students to the system has been "overwhelmingly positive," Registrar Robert Eddins said.

Prior to that time, the less efficient and time-consuming class card system was in use.

The computer registration system was first used in the fall of 1978 for the spring semester of 1979.

The majority of students favor the computer system over the class card system.

Eddins says he has graduate students asking him, "Why didn't you do this 15 years ago?"

Students "appreciate knowing what is available," Eddins said, however, the trauma students face when told a class is closed will continue no matter what system is used.

The only way to face this problem, Eddins said, is to "be prepared for a closed section with viable alternates."

Eddins says that pre-registration for the next semester is restricted to currently enrolled students for a two week period because he feels an "obligation to currently enrolled students" and they should have the first chance at the classes before those students not already enrolled.

After that time, any fully-admitted student in good standing, with no obligations to the university, is free to register at any time.

Eddins sees one improvement he would like to make that would benefit the student in case of an error in their registration. At some time after schedule adjustment, he would like to send each student a copy of their official schedule as it is recorded on the computer.

Any errors found should then be brought to the attention of the Registrar's office, and any changes made before the beginning of the semester.

Nine out of ten errors in registration are the result of carelessness on the part of the student. Transposition of section numbers for a class is a common mistake made by students, he said.

Eddins suggested that a student have someone else compare his schedule work sheet with the schedule of courses to help eliminate any errors in section numbers.

By doing this, the student can help deter any confusion in his schedule before it is programmed into the computer.

Coiner will edit Parthenon

By ROBIN STANTON
Reporter

The positions of editor and managing editor of The Parthenon and editor of Monday Magazine for the 1980 Spring semester were filled Thursday at a meeting of the Board of Student Publications.

Andy Coiner, Flatwoods, Ky., senior, was named editor and Kima Johnson, Williamston senior, managing editor of The Parthenon. Beverly Childers, Pedro, Ohio, senior, was appointed to continue as editor of Monday Magazine.

Coiner, Johnson and Childers were the only applicants for the positions.

Coiner has had experience as a copy editor on The Parthenon as well as professional experience. Johnson is presently Interchange editor and has worked as a reporter on The Parthenon.

Childers has had previous experience as editor of Greenlight, a summer magazine on campus.

"Our goal is to make The Parthenon a smoother functioning news gathering service for the academic community," Coiner said. "We want to, and we will stay on top of campus news events and any newsworthy event affecting the Marshall community. We also want to humanize the paper as much as possible and try to get more in touch with the students and their views," he said.

Johnson said, "We want the paper to have more solid coverage. We also want a larger staff so it will run smoother."

Terry Kerns, adviser to The Parthenon, said, "With the talent and experience we are getting, I think it will be a quality student newspaper. Although I'm excited about getting them, I will miss the people we have here now. They have done a great job of filling in when we needed them."

Coiner and Johnson will assume their positions with the Jan. 17, 1980 edition of The Parthenon.

By SCOTT K. BLOUNT
Reporter

Marshall University's chemistry department has received continuation of its accreditation by the Committee on Professional Training of the American Chemical Society (ACS), MU Provost Olen E. Jones Jr. said.

"Marshall's chemistry program has enjoyed uninterrupted accreditation by this body of professionals since 1963," Jones said.

Dr. E.S. Hanrahan, dean of the College of Science and former chemistry department chairman said, "Marshall's chemistry program more than meets the minimum standards set by the ACS."

"The ACS accreditation is very important to a program such as ours," he said.

Dr. James E. Douglass, chairman of the chemistry department, said the accreditation is needed for several reasons.

"It is a valuable tool for us in recruiting both our undergraduate and graduate students," he said. "It is also advantageous in recruiting the caliber of faculty we want for our program."

On the undergraduate level, Marshall offers both the professional Bachelor of Science in Chemistry degree and the B.S. degree with a chemistry major.

The graduate programs are similar, with one providing the advanced work for students preparing for doctoral work and the other more of an interdisciplinary track in the physical sciences.

"The chemistry department faculty members should be congratulated for their dedication and commitment to providing a high quality program," Jones said. "In the not too distant future, I would hope that all of Marshall's programs, where possible, will attain similar approval by the appropriate professional group."

Pay laundry machines another boost to costs

The Housing Office is proposing the installation of pay washers and dryers under the assumption that by paying for use, maintenance care for the machines will improve. It makes one wonder how the machines have been serviced when residents in dormitories have not actually had to deposit a coin that would not be returned to them. Presumably, maintenance care had been provided along with all other services in residence halls. And presumably, student housing fees paid for it. So now, in addition to their normal dormitory expenses, which underwent a recent increase, students will be paying for laundry expenses out of their own pocket. Not that a quarter a load is a lot of money. On the contrary, it is relatively cheap compared to commercial laundries. But the pay machines are serving, in effect, to increase residence hall fees. And the key is — out-of-pocket expenses, not figured into the regular fees — will not be as noticeable. Perhaps the maintenance care of the washers and dryers will be improved with the new system. Certainly a service that leaves students searching for working machines could stand improvement. However, we can foresee the muttered complaints as students ransack for quarters in buildings that lack change sources.

Equilibrium

The Parthenon weighs the issues

Thanks to Huntington City Council which voted to extend the two-hour time limit of parking meters surrounding campus to a three-hour time span. Members of the council expressed support of Marshall and expressed desires to help alleviate the parking problem.

Since students are already paying $21.50 of their Activities Fees for many events they do not take advantage of, the proposed $1 charge at basketball and football games seems unnecessary. Students will have no control over the money, proposed for use for non-revenue sports, and may end up paying for something because they are interested in football and basketball.

South Hall residents appear to be having difficulties. Heat adjustment and lack of hot water have been plaguing the dorm students. Since it has been said the problem is not a new one, perhaps the administration can figure out how to alleviate the problems.

The Academic Planning and Standards Committee shot down a proposal amending the credit/no credit option. Students will still have to take their chances in deciding beforehand whether they can handle the class and hope they do not realize they can do "A" work in it after it is too late.

Another Student Senate backed proposal was voted down by the Academic Planning and Standards Committee. The senate had proposed that teachers observe a "dead week" before finals. Had the proposal been adopted, students might have had a week to prepare for the tests deemed of importance by faculty members instead of rushing to get the regular semester's work load finished.

Committee concludes SALT II is unfair to U.S.

WASHINGTON — A report drafted by a decisive majority of the Senate Armed Services Committee concludes that the SALT II treaty is unfair, unverifiable and "not in the national security interest of the United States." A committee majority, said by Senate sources to be 11-6 and perhaps greater, is prepared to recommend the Senate not ratify the strategic arms limitation treaty with the Soviet Union until major changes are made. Although the committee's conclusion has no official standing in the Senate ratification process, it is bound to have a psychological impact on the embattled treaty. The report, which may be voted on early next week, was made available by a staff member of a senator opposed to the treaty. The aide asked not to be identified publicly. Sources said the vote of Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., is still hanging in the balance. Meanwhile, Frank Moore, the chief White House lobbyist on Capitol Hill, said the Senate will not be able to complete work on the treaty until after the first of the year. He said chances for ultimate ratification are good, although neither supporters nor opponents currently have the votes needed to prevail. Treaty opponents said the pact is not likely to reach the floor at all in 1979 and vowed to mount a filibuster on the motion to proceed. They said the current crisis in Iran has further poisoned the atmosphere against the pact.

and one staff aide said, "It's as dead as a doornail." The Armed Services Committee had a long series of hearings into the provisions of the pact, which ran parallel with a similar examination conducted by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. The Foreign Relations Committee voted 9-6 to recommend the Senate approve the pact. It said that on balance, the accord represented a useful framework which could be used to produce deep cuts in nuclear arms in SALT III. And it said Soviet compliance with its terms was adequately verifiable. The majority on the Armed Services Committee disagreed.

Hostage trial possible

TEHRAN, Iran — The Moslem militants holding the U.S. Embassy declared Thursday that a trial of American hostages would become "inevitable" if the deposed shah is allowed to leave the United States for Mexico. A spokesman said a trial could begin "very soon" and hinted that the estimated 50 hostages also might be maltreated. Doctors at New York Hospital, where he has undergone gallstone and cancer treatment, have told exiled Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi he can travel, and a spokesman for the shah says he might return to his Mexico residence within 10 days. The new threats in the deepening crisis came after more than one million Iranians, chanting hatred for the "Yankees" and their willingness to die, poured through Tehran's streets in a massive show of religious devotion to Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's holy war against America. The United States, trying a new diplomatic tactic, asked the International Court of Justice in the Netherlands to order Iran to release the embassy hostages. A world court ruling would further bolster Washington's hand before the U.N. Security Council, scheduled to meet this weekend in a session many regard as crucial in the diplomatic campaign to end the confrontation peacefully. Iran's religious rulers were waiting until the last minute to announce whether the now acting Foreign minister, Sadegh Ghotb-zadeh, will take part in the U.N. debate. Ghotbzadeh was expected to announce the decision at a news conference scheduled for Friday. The threats against the hostages, held since the embassy was seized Nov. 4, were made in a statement by the militant students carried by Tehran Radio and in a spokesman's telephone interview with the Associated Press. The embassy militants have threatened previously to put the hostages on trial as "spies" if the United States allowed the shah to go anywhere but back to stand trial. "If the U.S. government does not return the ousted shah to Iran, and if it implements the plot of sending him to another country, the trial of the hostages will be inevitable," the radio statement said. U.S. officials have said a trial of the hostages might be the only thing even "more unacceptable" than the hostage-taking itself.

Marshall to improve mine conditions

WASHINGTON — Labor Secretary Ray Marshall pledged Thursday to work with the new leadership of the United Mine Workers union to improve the conditions of coal miners and strengthen the union's position at the bargaining table. Marshall spoke briefly to UMW executive board members and district presidents summoned to Washington by the union's new president, Sam Church.

Church, who replaced an ill Arnold Miller on Nov. 16, said he called the meeting to brief union leaders on plans for the upcoming UMW convention, which opens Dec. 10 in Denver. "I want you to know that since you have new leadership now that I pledge the cooperation of the Labor Department in working with you," Marshall said. He said the department has been working with the union to improve its collective bargaining position in the health and safety of miners.

Mount Hope drug seller arrested

BECKLEY — Last December, a warrant was issued for a Mount Hope man, charging him with selling marijuana to an undercover police officer. Earlier this week, the man was arrested — after he applied for a job as a Beckley city police dispatcher.

Wayne R. Penn, 22, applied for the dispatcher's job about two weeks ago, said Beckley patrolman Bob Daniels. A routine check of the application by Lt. Lewis Roles turned up warrants for Penn on two counts of sale and transfer of marijuana. The officers then went to the Raleigh County courthouse, where they found a still valid warrant from January on the marijuana charges. So when Penn came to the station to find out about the job, he was arrested.

Financial records of Shah checked

TEHRAN, Iran — Iran's banks are turning over financial records of a government investigating team seeking evidence to support Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's accusation that the shah and his family diverted billions of dollars in public funds to their own use. The investigation is being carried out by officials of Iran's Central Bank under the leadership of the bank's new governor, Ali Reza Nobari. One document shown to The Associated Press by Nobari was a handwritten, four-line note under the royal letterhead instructing Tehran's Mell Bank to transfer $1.5 million to Credit Commercial de France in Paris last November. The document was signed, "Fatima Pahlavi," the name of a sister of the deposed Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi. The handwriting and signature could not be independently verified as that of the sister.

Pope visits Turkey

ISTANBUL, Turkey — With an embrace and "a kiss of unity," Pope John Paul II and Patriarch Demetrius I opened talks Thursday aimed at reuniting the Roman Catholic and Eastern Orthodox churches after nine centuries of discord. More than 1,000 people packed the cathedral, including Patriarch Demetrius and the 12 members of his Holy Synod, the Orthodox Church's ruling body. The pope said he hoped the leaders of the two largest branches of Christianity could one day celebrate Mass at the same altar. Demetrius, spiritual leader of 200 million Orthodox, greeted the Polish-born pontiff earlier in the day at Istanbul's Yesilkoy airport on his arrival from the Turkish capital of Ankara. "I dare to hope that this day of unity is near. Personally I would wish it to be very near," the pope said in the Roman Catholic Cathedral of the Holy Spirit where he sang his first Mass on his three-day visit to Turkey.

Herd, UC ready to play basketball

By DAVID JONES
Sports Editor

The Thundering Herd basketball team opens their 1979-80 season hosting the University of Charleston tomorrow night.

Charleston opened their season last night with a West Virginia Conference game against rival West Virginia State.

"We're looking forward to it," said Glen Korobov, head coach of the Golden Eagles. "We've had six weeks of practice and we should be ready to go."

Charleston, who has won two of the last three meetings with MU, returns all five starters from last year.

Joe Lucas, a 6-foot-3 junior, is the team captain at guard. Last year he had 27 points and 14 rebounds against MU.

"He's a great leader," Korobov said. "Joe Lucas is a tremendous human being. If I could mold my son after anybody it would be Joe. He just does everything so hard. He is a lot like Greg White of Marshall."

The other guard spot will go to either Buddy Valinsky, a 5-foot-9 former all-Pittsburg selection, George Richardson who stands 6-foot, or Emil Boatwright, a former W.Va. all-state selection from Logan.

Boatwright may get the call because of his success against Marshall in the past. He scored 33 points in two games last season against the Herd.

"H's had some good games against Marshall," Korobov said. "To be honest, he will probably start."

The center is 6-foot-6 Anthony Young. "He is a good player," Marshall head coach Bob Zuffelato said. "He has done a really good job for them."

The forwards are 6-foot-4 Rick Semeta and 6-foot-5 Bob Wehrmeyer. "I have always liked Rick Semeta. He works real hard. He hustles all the time and he is the type of player they have that works well for the."

One of the first men off the bench will be 6-foot-7 center-forward Rocky McFadden who started one game last year against Marshall.

"He is playing really well right now," Korobov said. "I look for him to make a key contribution to our team again this year."

Marshall will counter with a deep, yet young team. The Eagles will see a reburied Greg White this year. White, the point guard, averaged 8.9 points a game this year.

In Marshall's two exhibitions he scored 32 and 20 points, taking many more shots than last year. "We are looking for a more balanced attack," Zuffelato said. "To get that, Greg will have to shoot more."

The wings will be either Barry Kincaid or James Campbell at right wing and George Washington, last year's second leading scorer with a 16.2 average, will be on the left side.

Campbell was the sixth man a year ago and averaged 8.1 points a game in slightly over 17 minutes playing time per game.

Kincaid is a freshman from LaFollette, Tenn., where he was all-state.

The post players will probably be Larry Watson and Ken Labanowski. Watson, a sophomore, was the first big man off the bench last year. The 6-foot-8 Huntington native scored 14 points and had 10 rebounds against Winnipeg.

"Watson is a highly underrated player," Korobov said.

Labanowski, a 6-foot-8 junior, was the third leading rebounder in the conference last season with an 8.9 average.

He averaged 12.8 points a game, third highest on the team. "The enthusiasm Labanowski plays with will make a difference," said Korobov. "Last year we had our hands full with him and he had a bad shoulder."

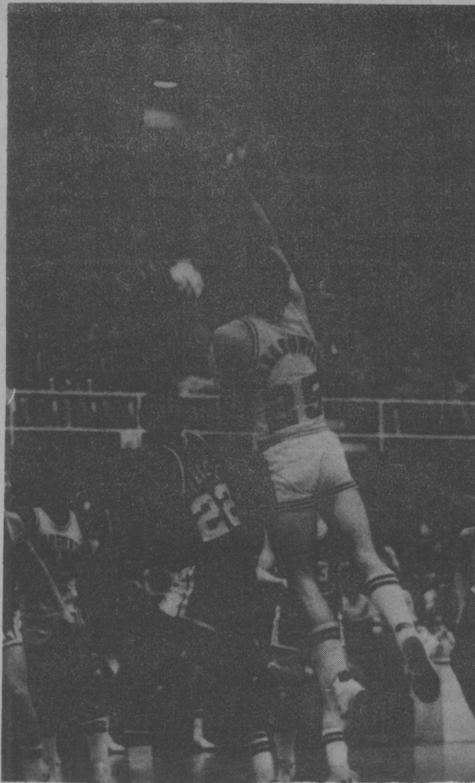

Robert Price, who started every game last year but only one at the low post, figures to see plenty of playing time. Due to a violation of team rules, it is doubtful he will start against UC.

Price connected on 51.4 percent of his shots last season and was the eighth leading rebounder in the SC with a 7.3 average per game. He also averaged 8.9 points an outing.

"When you are just starting a season, every game is critical for both teams," Zuffelato said.

"From my past two years here, I know playing Marshall is something special for both the University of Charleston and Morehead State. I just wish we had more game experience under our belts."

Gametime is 7:30 p.m. at the Memorial Field House. The game will be aired by WMUL-FM sports. Stan Howell, John Friedman and Mike Ruben will call the action.

Ticket sales up 300, no reserved seats

A "full house" is expected for the Marshall basketball game Saturday night, said Joe Wortham, athletic ticket manager.

Three thousand five hundred season tickets have been sold, making this year a sell-out and putting sales up by 300 from last year, Wortham said. Between 1,000 and 1,500 student tickets have been distributed out of 2,300. The remaining tickets can be obtained at the ticket office by Marshall students or purchased after 9 a.m. today by the public as general admission tickets.

"I anticipate a big crowd buying tickets today," Wortham said. "A lot of students are unaware of the student pick-up, so it has been about average for the first game."

The ticket office has gone back to the policy of two years ago, Wortham said. No student reserve seats will be distributed this year. "Students seem to favor the policy of first come first serve more last year's reserved seating," Wortham said.

Marshall vs. the University of Charleston game can be viewed live on WMUL TV at 7:30 p.m. Saturday. All 79-80 Marshall home games will be on WMUL TV, either live or delayed, said to John Evenson, sports information director.

Campbell may start against Charleston

When Robert Price and James Campbell were demoted to second team following a curfew incident, it brought back memories of the gridiron season.

Football had already left a bitter taste in Thundering Herd mouths with the Sonny Randle controversy and suspension of Bruce Johnson.

But the two players and head coach Bob Zuffelato have handled the situation well and the problem seems over.

Asked if he felt he would play much this weekend against the University of Charleston, Campbell said, "I think I will start because I knew that I wouldn't start going into the Winnipeg game because I missed curfew."

"He (Zuffelato) told me if I worked hard that I would start and I am pretty sure I will."

Asked if the punishment was justified, Campbell said, "I think it was. I knew when I got back that I had broken the rules and I knew something had to be done about it."

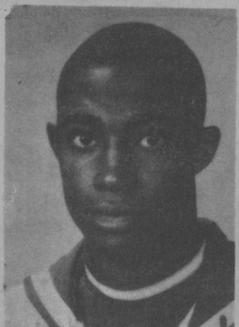

Campbell averaged over eight points last year as the sixth man on MU's 11-16 squad and was penciled as the successor to high-scoring left wing Bunny Gibson long before the 1978-79 season was over.

That had not materialized of late, with freshman Barry Kincaid starting ahead of him in the Winnipeg game.

However, in the exhibition game with the Wesmen Campbell scored 13 points and hauled down six rebounds in 18 minutes.

The 6-foot-5, 190-pound stand-out from Memphis, Tenn. was not completely happy with his game.

"I think I should have made a few more shots five of 11 than I did. It was due to a lack of concentration I should concentrate more on shots.

Overall, I was pretty pleased, except for those missed shots. I should get a few more rebounds than I did, too. I only had six," Campbell said.

Robert Price could not be reached for comment, but he improved his position in the last week also.

In the exhibition win Price played eight minutes but had four rebounds and two points.

Price, a starter at low post as a freshman, was the eighth leading rebounder in the SC last year with 191 and made the conference all-freshmen team along with George Washington.

"I'd say they have both helped their standings tremendously," Zuffelato said after the Winnipeg game.

If Price or Campbell do not start, sophomore Larry Watson will replace Price and Kincaid will replace Campbell.
