At least three-fourths of the practices of the chosen sport or sports must be attended, and a player must participate in a tournament in these sports.

When the student ends her college course, if she has earned 1500 points, she is eligible for a letter.

During this and the past week, several women have earned points in tennis. Beginning Wednesday afternoon at 4:00 o'clock, there will be an additional chance through hockey practice, Prof. Louise McDonough, adviser, announced. Regular practices will be held every Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday afternoons at 3:30 o'clock.

PRICHARD REVEALS ERA EMPLOYS 200

College Gets $4655 a Month; Many Students Work Part Time

Approximately 200 students are now employed on full or part time with funds granted the college by the Emergency Relief Administration, Prof. Lucy Prichard, chairman of the student employment committee, revealed yesterday.

The grant to the college of $2655 a month was intended to make employment for 177 students but more have been given jobs because of the inability of several to work full time. More than 1000 students in 20 colleges of the state have been granted positions through ERA funds, William N. Beehler, state administrator, said yesterday.

Band Will Attend Festival at Elkins

The 45-piece college band will leave Huntington Thursday morning in a chartered bus to attend the Mountain State Forest Festival at Elkins, Dr. Harry E. Mueller, of the music department and director of the band, announced yesterday.

The decision was made Saturday, although the band had been invited over a month ago to attend the festival. Delay was caused by lack of transportation facilities, Dr. Mueller said.

Approximately 15 state musical organizations will participate in the festival program.

JOURNALISTS WILL SPONSOR TRIP TO NEW YORK DEC. 27

Six Day Trip to Gotham To Include Ocean Journey

Arrangements for the third annual tour sponsored by the department of journalism have been completed and the journey will be taken during the Christmas holiday, Prof. W. Page Pitt, head of the department, announced last night.

At no extra cost the party will spend an additional day in New York City than was previously announced, Professor Pitt said. The group will be entertained on New Years eve with a party on Times Square.

A feature of this year's trip will be a day's trip on an ocean-going liner from Norfolk, Virginia, to New York City and return. The party will leave on "The Sportsman," crack Chesapeake and Ohio passenger train, at 1:42 a. m., December 27, and return after a stay of six days, on January 2, 1935, at 11:45 p. m.

The total cost of the trip is to be $49.50, Professor Pitt said. This price includes transportation, accommodations at the Paramount hotel in New York, all meals, a banquet to be attended by newspaper celebrities, tours of the city and through Radio City.

The tour will be made by members of the department of journalism and of the United High School Press association of West Virginia.

"The step was gladly taken because of popular demand, and we consider it a happy choice since it enables the department to offer a more comprehensive, enjoyable and instructive trip" at an amazingly nominal sum," Professor Pitt said last night.

Reservations for the trip are now being taken at the department of journalism in the library.

CLASSICAL CLUB TO MEET

The Classical club will meet Wednesday evening, October 3, at 7:00 o'clock in Main 20, Ruby Thompson, president, announced yesterday.

The officers of the club are: Ruby Thompson, president; Helen Wellman, vice-president, and Beulah Hedrick, secretary.

Three hundred Italian university students are in this country this fall on a tour of American colleges and universities.

World Moves On As Frosh Scientists Find New Values

By C. M. WILKERSON

This is the Century of Progress. Culture is expanding and science is sweeping up the long reaches to the pinnacles of discovery. Old established criteria are buckling, and ingenious new ones stand in their stead. And freshmen scientists of Marshall are doing their share to explode the old theories.

Only a few years ago vitamins were wholly unsuspected food factors. Now every schoolboy knows the vital role they play in our lives. But it took a Marshall freshman to discover that, "vitamin E profoundly affects reproduction and taxation."

Another standard fell when a freshman recently defined a group of metric values.

"The millimeter," he wrote, "is the smallest measurement. The centimeter is a medium measurement, and the meter is the largest. The meter is a little more than three-fourths of a mile!"

However, there is some disa-

Student Directory On Sale October 13

Student directory will go on sale October 13, Prof. Isabella Wilson, head of the home economics department, announced yesterday. The directory is published each year under the auspices of the home economics club. This year plans for the directory are under the direction of Allie Notter, teachers college senior, president of the home economics sorority, Kappa Omicron Phi.

The directory will be on sale in the hall of Main building. Price of the book has not been fixed, Prof. Wilson said.

The directory has been published under auspices of the department several years, and is looked forward to each year as a student convenience.

Proceeds from advertising and sale of the pamphlet will go to the home economics club. Final plans for the directory were made at a meeting held last week. Huntington business and professional men and persons out of town may obtain a copy by communicating with the home economics department.

SORORITIES PLAN NEW METHOD OF DEBT COLLECTION

Provision May Be Made to Enlist Aid of Administration

By BARRON POLAN

Plans to enlist the cooperation of college officials in the collection of sorority debts will go before the college council this week. The Panhellenic council unanimously approved the plan at their regular monthly meeting held yesterday afternoon, Louise Dickerson, president of Panhellenic, announced last night.

The plan, according to Laura Wallace, Delta Sigma Epsilon president who suggested it, is similar to that used successfully by leading western universities.

Leading provisions of the proposed legislation are as follows:

1. The administration will withhold grades of those sorority members who are back in payment of dues;

2. Transfers to other colleges would be practically impossible for students in arrears in payments since grades will be withheld.

Wallace Explains Plan

If adopted, this legislation will do much to strengthen the position of campus social organizations, Miss Wallace explained. The chief objection of the faculty has been to the weakness and lack of organization among the campus groups. The financial security, an inevitable outgrowth of the proposition, will increase the prestige and independence of the sororities.

In addition to this, it will bring school authorities into closer con-

THEY SPIN NOT

CONSIDER our cheerleaders. They toil, though they do not, of course, spin. They work every game to the end that Marshall may win. And what do they get? That is the question.

They get some notoriety, perhaps a little cooperation, some praise, but no new sweaters, no trousers, no awards. Shall we blame the capitalist system?

No. A thousand times, No. The fault (if there is one) as we see it is that someone in the general rush to dress up football at Marshall has forgotten that well-dressed cheerleaders are a part of the game.

If (Kipling wrote a poem once and called it "If") new uniforms for our cheerleaders is a matter of money, we would like to observe that many people (simple souls) who attend football games understand nothing of triple wing back passes and unbalanced halfbacks. These people come for the color and life, for the youth and high spirits they find. They (the same simple souls) can read all about the game in the newspapers, but they cannot capture in any written account the thrill that is football's.

If (Now children, who wrote that poem?) the question of money seems quite beside the point, The Parthenon believes that we should costume our cheerleaders in the latest style merely as a matter of school pride.

So strongly does The Parthenon feel on the subject that we gladly take this opportunity to be constructive and suggest that, if the money for new uniforms is not forthcoming from where it should forthcome, we proclaim a "New Uniforms for our Cheerleaders Tag Day" and raise the money from the student body. True, our experience with the tag day for a buffalo was nothing short of disastrous, but our luck is bound to change.

ARMS AND CONSCIENCE

We have often wondered as we read of the senate investigation into the sale of munitions just how the "Merchants of Death" felt about their gruesome business. Occupied as they were in a task that could not be excused on grounds of either pleasure or necessity, could it be possible that they were never troubled by pangs of conscience. Did they never feel ashamed of their high calling?

Our wonderment was diminished somewhat when we read in last week's "The Nation" an excerpt from a letter of Frank Sheridan Jonas, South American representative of Remington Arms and Federal Laboratories, to Owen Shannon of the Curtiss-Wright company.

Writes Mr. Jonas, "The Paraguay and Bolivian fracas appears to be coming to a termination, so business from this end is probably finished. We certainly are in one hell of a business, where a fellow has to wish for trouble so as to make a living, the only consolation being, however, that if we don't get the business someone else will. It would be a terrible state of affairs if my conscience started to bother me now."

The last remark of Mr. Jonas is interesting. It reveals to what extent a point of view can be warped by circumstance. To us, a terrible state of affairs will result only if the consciences of millions of persons do not begin to trouble their owners immediately.

tact with campus leaders and social activities.

The fact that this system has had such favorable reception at the many colleges and universities using it, will probably result in its favorable consideration by the college council.

Dean Bacon Approves

Dean Lee Fairchild Bacon, when asked her attitude in regard to the new plan, stated that any plan which received such student acclaim must have some merit.

"My progressive policy," she explained, "will countenance the furthering of any constructive plan backed by the women. Naturally, I do not know the attitude which will be adopted by the college council, but I feel sure that they will consider it carefully, since the girls have shown their approval."

Asked whether this might not have some effect on women considering a sorority, Laura Wallace expressed the opinion that such an action would make the candidate think of the matter in a business like manner.

"It would simply serve to eliminate first year women who regard the pledging of a sorority lightly. Those who remain active for about three months and then drop out are a liability to a social group."

MEET THE BARRON

SCOOP

An ambitious journalist from Huntington high school looking for some feature material at City Hall, happened to run into Bill Pritchard and Gwynn Lytton in one of the outer offices.

The fledgling wanted to interview one of the inmates at the local pen, so Bill with a very straight face informed her that he had a criminal record—volunteered his life story on condition that his name would not be used in connection with the article. This agreed to, he proceeded to recount intimate details—lurid facts about the underworld. He waxed eloquent—became more and more convincing as he described his escapades, confinements, manouevers which made John Dillinger look like a punk. In fact, at the conclusion of the recital the credulous reporter eyed him with awe as Public Enemy number one.

Several days later the article appeared in print. "Of course," said the author, "the story sounded authentic, but after a little investigation, I found that he was not a former prisoner, but a police reporter kidding me along."

What is this thing called journalism?

LEGREE

On the campus there is a freshman taskmaker who has no small opinion of himself or his abilities. But incidents conspired to lower his tiresome conceit at the expense of a clever, good natured freshman.

The first year men had just adjourned en masse from the gym to the Fountain, as is the custom after their meetings. There was the usual amount of horse play, all of which encouraged one of the boys to cut up a little. One thing led to another and before anybody knew the reason, he was imitating the upper classmen who had been so ambitious in wielding the paddle. Spurred on by bravos from his classmates, he began a verbal imitation:

"Now boyths," he lisped, "please don't call me handsome. Ever thinth I wath elected the handthomest boy at Marshall, everybody calls me Pretty Puss."

This called forth another round of applause. But alas! One of his audience fas the upperclassman who was the object of his derision. Were his cheeks red!

DIPLOMACY

Bruce Burns manages to get hold of trouble without asking for it. But his latest mix-up was with a street car, and that was the second casualty of the day. Bruce tactfully made a hasty exit before the gendarmes arrived, leaving the battered car in the possession of a companion.

The lad, who felt his responsibility keenly, tried to appease the curious onlookers with answers loaded with condescension. An important-looking elderly man who had seen the accident, approached the young man, asked a couple of questions and began to look provoked about the episode.

"I'll be damned," he said, "if that isn't the last car he'll wreck." "Oh, yeah? . . . and what might you be doing about it?" queried the vigilant.

"Well, I'm only his father," replied Mr. Burns, senior, walking away from the upstart whose face was beginning to acquire a deeper shade.

Zontini Scores Twice As Big Green Fights In Rain To Down Pioneers 12-0

Winners Take To Air To Bag Both Markers

By NATHAN ANDERSON

Daring a steady downpour of rain, approximately 1,500 spectators witnessed the Thundering Herd open its 1934 gridiron campaign with a 12 to 0 victory over Transylvania university in Fairfield stadium Saturday afternoon.

The condition of the playing field was fit for most anything else but playing football. From the opening kickoff, drenched athletes struggled back and forth with the soggy, slippery ball, for the breaks that never came, and the game was decided on the merits of the two teams with Captain Zontini scoring two touchdowns for the Big Green in the last half of the game.

During the first quarter, and the early part of the second, the Big Green fought with its back to the wall most of the time. The Pioneers kicked the ball down to the 10-yard stripe where Keadle picked it up and returned to the 15-yard marker. Line plunges did not seem to net either team any yardage, and at this point both elevens staged a punting duel, with Transylvania gaining a slight advantage over the Herdsmen.

Perhaps the nearest the visitors came to making any points was when Goyette attempted to handle a couple of punts on his own goal line in the first period. On both occasions he came dangerously close to stepping in the end zone as he ran wide to escape the advance of tacklers. However, as time wore on, the fine booting of both Goyette and Keadle, soon put the Big Green out of the danger zone.

It cannot be denied that the Pioneers were playing a better brand of football in the early part of the game than was the Big Green. Time and time again their forward wall would break through and stop a play before it ever got started. In the backfield the punting was superior, as was also the line bucking of their sturdy backs.

In the second quarter, both teams played on fairly even terms, with the Thundering Herd taking the situation a little better in hand. However, no very long gains could be played on fairly even terms, withing most of the period.

Doing the almost impossible, it was by the air that the Big Green was able to defeat the Transylvania lads in the closing second half. Dandele sent in Zontini and Kincaid to replace Wilks and Goyette, and the fireworks began.

After an exchange of punts and a couple of fumbles, Marshall got the ball on the Pioneer 33-yard stripe. When a first down hadter gotten under way when Wellman, with the ball on his 30, faded back and tossed the water-logged ball to Zontini, who was brought down on the enemy's seven-yard stripe. Wellman and Zontini then smacked the middle for short gains, and then Captain Zontini crashed over for the remaining yards for the first touchdown.

Another goal line march was starting in the waning moments of the third quarter when Zontini turned in a 19-yard run to place the ball on Transylvania's 40-yard marker. However, this march was stopped for the moment when Marshall drew a 15-yard penalty, placing the ball back in mid-field and setting the stage for the climax play of the game.

No sooner had the fourth quarter gotten under way when Wellman heaved the ball 20 yards to Zontini, who ran the remaining 30 yards in the old "snake-hip fashion" to evade would-be tacklers on every side, and to cross the

Thin-Clads Will Resume Practice

Few candidates for the cross-country race, to be held Thanksgiving Day, have as yet reported for uniforms. Rainy and threatening weather last week delayed the workouts and kept the majority of the contestants from reporting. Track Coach Francis "Skeets" Farley said he expects 35 or 40 to turn out this week, however.

This initial cross-country run is to be held in connection with the "Homecoming" celebrations on Thanksgiving Day, November 29. Plans are to have it start from Fairfield stadium, journey through Ritter park, and finish at the stadium during the half of the W. Va. Wesleyan-Marshall football game. A silver loving-cup is to be awarded as first prize. Second and third places are to receive awards also.

Although cross-country racing is not on the program of the Buckeye conference annual track-meet held at Delaware, Ohio, it is a feature of the individual inter-scholastic meets between the schools in the Buckeye circuit.

This new thin-clad emulation is being staged with the view of developing a team to compete with other schools in the Buckeye league. Coach Farley says he expects to have an aggregation capable of matching the other Buckeye schools in the near future.

goal line for the second and final marker. Kincaid failed to convert the extra point with a placement kick.

In the remaining few minutes of play, Coach Dandele made several substitutions, but no further scoring resulted. It was no secret that Dandele was praying for good football weather so he could put some of his newcomers in the game in order that he could get some idea of how they would react under fire. However, under the circumstances, he is forced to wait until next Saturday, when the Big Green meets Bethany college, to get a line on his new material.

In spite of the bad weather and Three runs by Breitenstein from the center of the field featured the yard line, from where Llewellynn from the seven-yard line for the count. A partly blocked punt gave Miami the ball on Kentucky's 25-second score. Llewellynn hit center the muddy conditions of the field, both teams played exceptionally good football. There were several fumbles and the kicking of both teams was below par, but yet no big mistakes were made that proved costly to either eleven.

With the exception of the first quarter, the Pioneers offensive power was rather weak, and other than a few end sweeps by Britt and Wilson their main aim seemed to be to out-punt the Big Green, and hope for a break in Marshall's territory.

Schwalm, captain and right end for the Pioneers, lived up to expectations, and played some bang up football. On several occasions he broke through the Big Green's defense and tackled the ball carrier before he got started.

An end on the Thundering Herd eleven also comes in for his share of comment. Fred Hurt who started right end for the Big Green performed like a veteran, and he is almost certain to retain the terminal position for the balance of the season.

Goyette, Wellman and Wilks carried it over in short successive line plays.

TURLEY AND MOHLER STAR:

John Turley and Henry Mohler, big guns in the Ohio Wesleyan backfield, ran wild over the inexperienced Heidelberg colleges eleven last Saturday and defeated them 24 to 0. Wesleyan collected 13 first downs to Heidelberg's two.
