SIX NEW PLEDGING RULES ADOPTED BY FRATERNITY GROUP

Second Annual Bridge Tour-namment to Begin Today at
Kappa Alpha House

Six new rushing rules were adopted by the Interfraternity Council, at a recent meeting of that organization in the Alpha Theta Chi fraternity house.

The new rules are:
"To be initiated, 12 college hours" shall be interpreted to mean "12 college hours passed at Marshall," at mid-semester by persons having 26 college hours.

Transferred students shall be classified under the rules covering freshmen on rushing.
Freshmen shall be rushed the first, second, and third week of each semester.

The first week shall begin the first Monday after registration.

Lists Due Tuesday

It was also ruled by the council that the official lists of pledges must be filed by 9:00 a. m., Tuesday of the fourth week of the semester.

An interim of one full semester shall occur between the time a member has his pledged "dropped" or "broken" before he may pledge any other fraternity.

Any fraternity breaking rushing, or pledging rules may be brought before the Interfraternity Council. If found guilty of this infringement the Interfraternity Council will fine the offender $25 for each offense.

Bridge Tourney

The second annual bridge tournament sponsored by the council will start Tuesday afternoon.

A committee consisting of Hank Davis, Arthur Baumgardner, Bob Turner, George Garner, and Duncan Sturm has been appointed by the council to draw up a new constitution for that organization.

The committee will probably complete the first draft of the constitution by the last of March.

The rules for the tournament are as follows:

1. Five rubbers shall constitute a match.
2. The winner of each rubber shall be awarded one point.
3. The highest total of the five rubbers shall count two points.

4. A match will be forfeited if it is not played when scheduled, unless arranged.

5. The team having the highest number of points at the end of the tournament shall be declared the winner.

The schedule of play is as follows:

Tuesday, March 5, Kappa Alpha vs. Alpha Theta Chi 2; Alpha Theta Chi 1 vs. Phi Tau Alpha 2; Phi Kappa Nu 1 vs. Alpha Kappa Pi 2; Phi Tau Alpha 1 vs. Phi Kappa

Winners In Debate

LEGION DEDICATES FLAGPOLE FRIDAY

Prof. Claude E. Crumb is Chairman of Ceremonies
Committee

Dedication of the newly-erected 50-foot flagpole will be conducted by the Huntington Post number 16 of the American Legion, Friday afternoon at 1:00 o'clock. Prof. Claude E. Crumb, chairman of the dedication committee, announced yesterday.

An American flag has been donated by the Legion and will be presented to President M. P. Shawkey as part of the dedication ceremonies. The flag is 8 by 12 feet and is a new non-fray type.

The college band, under the direction of Dr. Harry E. Mueller, will participate in the program, playing several selections.

The flagpole and plaque with the Marshall inscription were erected by ERA labor under the direction of James L. Mullen, superintendent of buildings and grounds.

Several years ago the American Legion provided for the construction of a flagpole at the Model school.

Because she believes a modern mother should keep up with her daughter and because her own daughter is to receive a degree next June, Jeanette G. Brill, only woman magistrate in Brooklyn, has taken up some college work she left off when she took the bench seven years ago, and will receive the degree of Bachelor of Science at New York university, next June.

Three Groups Name Officers

Julia Chambers and Garnet
Floyd Named New Sorority Presidents

Three Greek letter organizations have announced new officers elected during chapter meetings, last night.

Julia Chambers, teachers college senior, was elected president of Pi Kappa Sigma sorority, and Garnet Floyd, teachers college junior, was elected president of Alpha Sigma Alpha sorority.

Other officers elected by Pi Kappa Sigma include Louise Hankla, vice-president; Phyllis Hart, treasurer; Mary Lou Geary, corresponding secretary; and Louise Hart, recording secretary.

Alpha Sigma Alpha also elected Meryl Patterson, vice-president; Frances Steele, treasurer; Doris Hart, secretary; Virginia Danner, editor; Mary Louise Cottrill, chaplain; Mattie McCorkle, collegiate representative; and Alison Prentice, registrar.

Several changes were made in the Phi Kappa Nu fraternity officers last night. Bill Gregory was elected secretary to fill the place made by the resignation of Norman Shumate. Shumate took the post of treasurer which Bill Paten resigned. Ben Tobin was elected news reporter.

Latin Club To Hold Contest

Horace Translation Contest to be Sponsored by Classical Association

The Classical association will sponsor a state contest for colleges in a translation of Horace, Ruby Thompson, president of the association, announced yesterday.

The contest will consist of a translation in poetry or prose of an ode from Horace's writings. The first prize, Miss Thompson said, will be a Horace plaque.

The requirements for the contestants are that students be enrolled in the classical department of a state college.

The translations of the odes must be submitted before June, it was announced. The three best contestants in each of the 26 states entering in the national contest of the same nature are to compete for first place.

The occasion of such a contest is the 2,000th anniversary of the birth of Horace.

FAIRMONT WINS ONE ACT PLAY CONTEST

West Virginia Wesleyan
Takes First Place in Debate Contest Finals

Concluding three days of speech contests at the annual West Virginia Intercollegiate Speech association speech festival, Fairmont State teachers college won the one-act play contest Saturday with "Once There Was A Beggar," by Richard Parrish.

Second place went to Concord college with "Highness" by Ruth Giorloff, while Glenville State placed third with "The Flattering Word," by George Kelley.

Sublette Outstanding

Margaret Sublette, who played Anne Borodin in the Concord play, won the judges decision for the most outstanding actress in the contest.

Mickie Tobin, of Concord; Paul Richmond, and Claude Lawson, of Fairmont; Paul Sutton and Royce Buchanan, of Glenville; and Alice Fox, of Davis and Elkins, won honorable mentions.

Gets Cup Permanently

By winning the contest this year, Fairmont won permanent possession of the association's cup for that event.

Cincinnatian To Play Here

Mme. Karin Dayas Will Be
Guest Soloist at Marshall
Symphony Concert

Mademoiselle Karin Dayas, pianist of the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music, will appear on the Marshall college symphony concert program to be given in the city auditorium at 8:30 o'clock on March 18. Dr. Harry E. Mueller, director of the symphony orchestra, announced yesterday.

Mademoiselle Dayas will play as a solo the Liszt Concerto in E flat.

The soloist, who has instructed many well-known pianists, lists among her pupils Miss St. Elmo Fox, of the college piano department, Miss Madie Carroll, and George Strickling, prominent local piano teachers.

Eight Thousand Years In College Would Cause A Lot of Headaches

By L. VINTON MURPHY

How would you like to be carrying 25,322 hours of college work?

That's exactly the total number of hours being carried by the entire student body here at Marshall this semester.

If one student were to earn that many hours, and if he attended college two semesters each year, carrying the normal 16-hour load each semester, it would take him almost 8,000 years to complete the work.

This student's tuition, at the present rate of $28.75 per semester, would cost him nearly $460,000. His books, at an average of $10.00 per semester (said by many to be a conservative estimate), during his 8,000 years course, would cost $160,000. If he were not an aspiring author, and if he did no more writing than was necessary, he would use approximately 3,200,000 sheets of paper, 30,000 pencils, 32,000 pen points, and 125 gallons of ink.

"How many headache powders would he take?" asks the college pessimist.

"Dunno," replies the college optimist, "but think how smart he'd be."

"Yeah!" interrupts the college wit. "After our 8,000 year man obtained his 2,000th A. B. degree in the year 9935 A. D., wouldn't it be fun to arrange a meeting between him and Einstein and King Solomon, and couldn't he make them look like kindergarten candidates?"

An increase in faculty salaries was approved, in effect, by the state board of public works yesterday in making amendments to the Marshall biennial appropriation for recommendation to the house and senate finance committees.

The total appropriation represents a $20,000 increase over the amount allowed Marshall for the last two years.

The salary increase, according to the board's action, would come from collections at the college, not from the general tax fund.

Personal Services Asked

An increase of $27,000 for "personal services" (salaries and other compensations) was approved by the board. A large part of this item would come as a result of reductions in other parts of the college budget.

Proposed changes in the college budget are:

Personal services; first asked $245,000 a year, now $272,000.

Current expenses, first asked $67,000 a year, now $45,000.

Equipment, $9,000 for the first year and $3,000 for the second year, now $14,500 for the first year and $8,000 for the second year.

$331,500 Asked

A total of $321,500 for the first year and $315,000 for the second year was originally budgeted for Marshall.

The board now proposes that Marshall receive $331,500 for the first year and $325,000 for the second year.

It was at first proposed that Marshall get $110,000 of its money from the collection of fees. The new provisions call for the collection of $120,000 in fees at the college.

Other colleges in the state had their budgets passed on and amended at the same time as the Marshall budget was approved by the board of public works.

Fairmont Expenses Reduced

Current expenses at Fairmont State Teachers college were reduced from $21,000 to $19,500. The appropriation for equipment was raised from $4,000 to $6,500.

Glenville State was appropriated $7,000 a year for equipment and $14,600 for expenses.

West Liberty Teachers college was appropriated $2,000 a year for equipment.

Shepherd State Teachers college was granted $15,500 a year for current expenses. New River State was granted an appropriation of $14,000 for a new building.

Teachers Students Alternate Athletics With Public Offices

By MARGARET BAYLOUS

George Clark, teachers college junior, is the only mayor in school, while Harold (Buddy) Kaiser, sophomore, the only town marshal.

Clark, who is 25 years of age, is a guard on the basketball team, and a baseball player. He is serving his second term as mayor of Athalia, Ohio. During his first term, three years ago, he was the youngest mayor in Ohio.

He drives to school each day, and at night, in addition to studying and playing basketball, he administers the government of his town. He is also a mayoral magistrate and presides at trials of his fellow-citizens.

In his first campaign for mayor in 1932, he won the election by three votes after a house to house canvass. The population of Athalia is 225. Two years later he contested for mayor and won by one vote. At the same time he ran for the job of town clerk, but lost.

Clark went into politics to find out what it was like. He likes it, but he plans to teach commerce when he graduates.

Harold Kaiser was a high point man on Marshall's basketball team this year. He is Clark's brother-in-law. He ran for town marshal last year at the request of Clark. Kaiser's father was the former town marshal.

Their terms expire December 31, 1935.

MIX REPORT

A portion of The Parthenon staff, slightly vexed at the number of requests that it was wrathful on the subject of student mixes, attended a student mix last Saturday night. A brief report follows:

The orchestra was good. No complaint from that section. The faculty behaved beautifully. The floor was crowded, but so are all dance floors, if the dance, by modern standards, is to be a success.

The dance was not completely democratic, but, for that matter, nothing charged for ever is.

There were a number of high school students there, but they were nice people. It would be foolish, we thought, to ban them unless it can be proved that Marshall students cannot get in the Union because it is over-crowded with high school students. That would be difficult to prove.

THE PRODIGAL AND THE HATRACK

ALMOST nine years ago, it was in April, to be exact, The American Mercury, under the editorship of H. L. Mencken, published a well-written article by Herbert Asbury entitled simply, "Hat-rack." The article, as anyone knowing Mencken and the "Mercury" might have suspected, dealt not with antique furniture. Instead it viewed calmly and wittily, without program or invective, the status of prostitution in a small mid-west town. The article, at its best (or worst, according to one's degree of broad-mindedness) was neither destructive nor constructive. It was no more than revealing.

Nonetheless, Boston, as anyone knowing the history of Boston since the American Revolution might have suspected, grew livid with horror. The article and the magazine containing it were banned from Boston's libraries and news-stands and buried in vituperation to await the resurrection. In haste to join the general requiem for the damned, libraries all over the country cancelled their subscriptions. The Marshall library was among the pallbearers.

With the banning of one issue we have no particular quarrel. If to some it seemed unfit for college students, we can point out only that some have grossly misjudged the sanity and balance of the college student along some lines. To us it is unfair and slightly recalcitrant that nine years later we should still be forbidden the Mercury.

One of our graduates, Franklin Burdette, has been accepted by the Mercury. The least we could do in return would be to re-accept the Mercury in our midst.

Its vitriol has been somewhat diluted. H. L. Mencken, its fountain of ridicule, is gone. Perhaps it is no longer the force it was during the "twenties," but it is still one of our best magazines. In nine years we should have dipped into forgetfulness and fallen prey to forgiveness. In a few days the issue containing Mr. Burdette's article should be admitted to the Morrow library. Since it is cheaper, the library might just as well subscribe to the magazine by the year.

MEET THE BARRON

FISHY?

The tallest story I have ever heard was told me only yesterday. I have something of a weakness for this sort of prevarication told with sober mein and professed truth. The best kind is that which makes one wonder after it is all over whether that thing might not really have occurred. It is this subtle, yet convincing intimation of truth, itself more convincing than an actual verity, which makes books like James Hilton's "Lost Horizon" a really great novel.

While this tall story has nothing resembling truth, it was told by one of the most scholarly of our professors, who told it so straightforwardly that you believe it—almost. With the climax you become an infidel.

The story of this gentleman and a scholar (for such he really is) is concerned with a pet goldfish. As part of an experiment proving that environment is a greater factor than we suppose, he deprived the fish each day of about a thimble-full of water. Finally the remaining water was negligible. After that it disappeared altogether.

All went well with the fish, who got along beautifully without his "staff of life." One day the pet bird died, and the fish was deprived of his crystal home and transported to the bird cage. Here he lived tranquilly (and, we are led to suppose, took a course in voice culture) until one very unfortunate day. The owner had neglected to remove the bird bath. The fish foolishly fell in and, (hold your breath for the pay-off) the versatile gold fish drowned!

I think I died a year ago—
I cannot quite recall,
I think I died last May or June,

If it were death at all.
I did not feel a bit of pain—
Nor yet a sense of fear,
I went as shadows do with dawn

As year gives way to year!
I closed my lips against my heart—

And all my dreams denied—
For when love came I closed the door,

CHERCHEZ LE FEMME

The ideals of poets, sages, and mystery story writers have been women. Some are good, some are bad—all are interesting. Their descriptions of attractive women, however, have always seemed totally inadequate.

Here are some interesting combinations to juggle:

Personality by Jansman, Greer and Powell.

Wit by Chappel (Mary), and Harts (Louise and Phyllis).

Hair by Berry (Helen Grace) Sis Brobeck, Underwood (Kate), Dunfee.

Grace by Haldane (Jessie) Archer (Louise), Annie Comer Davis.

Eyes by Vinson Van Sant, Mary A. Power, Carden (Ruth), Curry (Myrtle), Deacon.

Vivacity by Simmons and M. A. Phillips.

BARRON FACTS

There is a guy in school tagged John Barron . . . Sorry to disappoint you about that new column which one of The Parthenon "ears" flaunted Friday last . . . Friend Herby Timberg, who roamed hereabouts a week or so back, stopped the show at the annual Friars benefit last Sunday . . . The show coined 12 grand clear profit and sported a real galaxy of talent . . . Mary Jane Shoffstall and Hunter Kincaid still compatible . . . The town is now swamped with what is known as Bock . . . "I Get a Kick Out of You," is a swell tune with the best of lyrics . . . Surprisingly, we concur with the opinions of Messrs. Toole and Stokes in regard to would-be columnists . . . And so to work.

Marshall Script-o-Graphs

By CLARENCE BOGGS

Do you want to broadcast? Then DON'T do the following:

Talk too close to, or too far away from, the microphone.

Fail to pay attention to what the control man is signaling.

Shout or whisper.

Talk too rapidly or too slowly.

Kick or hit the "mike."

Rustle papers.

Walk around or turn head away from the microphone.

Broadcasting is a "cinch," he thinks, if you can keep all those "don'ts" in your head, speak clearly without mumbling, and have a pleasing voice and something interesting to say. That's all.

And he ought to know, for when Arthur Viehman, (who holds the distinction of being Marshall's only radio announcer) steps before the microphone, he suffers no touch of that devastating "mike fright" that paralyzes the beginner. He got over that four years ago when he began his broadcasting as a Huntington high school senior. Despite the fact that he rapidly stepped from the amateur class to the more lucrative one of a professional, he doesn't intend to go on with radio work.

Instead, after graduating this June, he hopes to enter Vanderbilt university and study medicine. Perhaps he'll become radio's "talking doctor." And if he does, Arthur hopes the same thing won't happen to him that he allowed to happen to a local minister the first time he worked in the control room.

It seems the good reverend had been eloquently delivering his usual Sunday sermon five minutes before Arthur discovered that the microphone wasn't turned on.

Piano Students Give 3rd Recital

Music Hall Is Scene of Third of Series of Presentations

Students of the piano department gave the third of a series of studio recitals in music hall, last Wednesday night.

Only students who can play their numbers with some degree of proficiency are permitted to take part in these recitals, it was announced.

The complete program follows: "The Blacksmith," (Frederick Lemond) Samuel Lawrence.

"Dance by Moonlight," (Whelpley) Virginia Nicholas.

"Woodland Whispers," (Braunghardt) Bess Martin.

"The Marionette," (Frantz) Betty Watters.

"Prelude Fantastique," (Addison) Helen Danley.

"Polonaise," (Beethoven) Marjory Anne Swann.

"A Scottish Poem," (MacDowell) Helene Cotton.

"Elegie," (Nolet) Peggy Dunbar.

"Etude Melodique," (Raff) Jeanne Childers.

Sonata Op. 46," (Beethoven) Alice Virginia Casto.

"Rhapsodie d'Auvergne," (Saint Saens) Mildred E. MacGeorge.

Attendance at morning chapel for students at Harvard university averaged 63 daily during the past year.

Bess Lawton and Elizabeth Lipscomb Elected Vice-President and Secretary

Officers of the newly-formed Secondary Education club were elected recently.

They are: John Largent, president; Bess Lawton, vice president, and Elizabeth Lipscomb, secretary.

The club, formed each second semester by the members of the Education 440 class, is sponsored by Prof. L. E. Vander Zalm, class instructor. The purpose is both educational and social.

Speakers will be obtained for each meeting. Efforts are being made at present to have Mr. A. J. Gibson, state supervisor of high schools, to speak before the class.

Only two meetings, besides social affairs, will be held during the semester, the first of which will take place March 20.

CORBLY IS SPEAKER

Prof. L. J. Corbly, of the German and astronomy departments, was the guest speaker and teacher at last Sunday morning's meeting of the Men's Bible class at the First Presbyterian church.

Herd Cagers End Season With 26-18 Victory With Bobcats

Elmo Patrick Takes Scoring Honors by Collecting Nine Points

Staging a powerful scoring attack in the last three minutes of the game, Coach Dandeleit's Big Green cagers ended their 1935 basketball campaign with a victory over West Virginia Wesleyan by a 26 to 18 score.

It was a fitting finish for two veterans on the Herd squad, Thomas Hallanan and Hunter Kincaid. Both were playing their last game for Marshall. Both will graduate in June.

Because of the inability on the part of both teams to connect with the basket, the first half ended with a remarkably low score of nine-all. Returning for the second period the scoring continued to be close until Patrick was put out of the game on personal fouls and Kaiser was substituted, with but three minutes remaining to be played. Floyd was sent in at center, when Coach Ross put his tall pivot man, Ross, into the fray.

In a twinkling of an eye Floyd hit the bucket for two points and Kaiser tallied with three double-deckers in a row to put the game on ice for the Big Green.

Patrick was high point man for the Herd, ringing up nine points,

Men's Intramural Basketball Tournament Enters Final Week of Play

Sammy McEwen, of the Faculty, won the Men's intramural handball singles for the second year in succession yesterday afternoon by defeating Fred Fields, Alpha Theta Chi, in the championship match, the best three out of five games, 21-18, 13-21, 21-9 and 21-18.

McEwen came through the preliminary meets, winning over Finley Russell, Dwight Plymale and Claude Crumb. In the semi-finals he downed Elda Carney, 21-14, 18-21, 21-9 and 21-19, to qualify for the final match.

Fields reached the finals by trouncing Ray Bertram, Rufus Carney, Robert Stephens, Don Burns and Walter Dove.

McEwen will be awarded a plaque and medal.

Entries for the doubles should be in by this Friday, Prof. Otto Gullickson, intramural director, announced. This tournament will begin Monday afternoon, he said.

The Men's intramural basketball tourney will draw to a close Thursday night. The winners of the two loops—"A" and "B"—will

Initial Session Of Baseball Workouts To Be Held Today

Six Veterans Will Report to Form Nucleus of Diamond Club

The 1935 edition of the Thundering Herd baseball combination is to meet this afternoon to lay plans for the coming campaign and to start preliminary practice, Coach Roy M. Hawley announced yesterday. Uniforms and equipment will be issued today, the head mentor added.

The prospects for this season look very good, according to Coach Hawley. The pitching position was the only department on the diamond nine that had him worried, he said, but the appearance of Lionel Porter, a tall "portsider," and with Carrol Coleman expected to "come through," he feels that the box will be well taken care of. Hunter Kincaid and play for the championship Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights of next week. Kappa Alpha No. 2 is leading the "B" circuit and has it practically "cinched." The race in the "A" loop has been close, but the winner at this time looks like Wolfpack "A."

Wolfpack "A," 66-Whippets 22.

Claude Parker will also be candidates for this position. Who will win out remains a question.

Two outfield positions will be taken care of by the veterans, John Zontini and Earl Wellman. Elmo Patrick will probably fill the other post.

The hard-hitting Carlton Edmonds will hold down first sack with Thomas Hallanan on second. At the present time there are no other candidates for these places.

When Len Priode left school last year he also left the hot corner open. Herndon Wilkes, who has been showing some flashy playing in the city league, will be out to cop third base.

Eddie Goyette, the "Connecticut Yankee," is a veteran hold-over in the short-stop post, and he looks good for the position this year.

Peppery Captain William Craig will be the eyes of the ball club again as catcher.
