State Officials Celebrate Opening Of New School In Wednesday Chapel

In celebration of the opening of the General Albert Gallatin Jenkins Training school, members of the board of public works, the state board of control, and the state board of education, spoke at an assembly Wednesday morning.

The building, named in honor of General Albert Gallatin Jenkins, Cabell county soldier, will be opened for classes Monday, President Allen announced. Dr. Allen presided over the program. On the stage in addition to the state officials were Miss Grace Jenkins, Ironton, niece of General Jenkins and Dr. George R. Jenkins, New York City, nephew, and Miss Margaret Jenkins, a daughter seated among the students in the crowded auditorium.

White Commends Workers
The guests were seated on the platform following a short program by the Madrigal Club under the direction of Dr. Harry Mueller. "We hope the new training school will train our men and women to teach our young people to take advantage of the great natural resources at their command," explained Phillip P. Gibson, member of the State Board of Education. The next speaker to be introduced by Dr. Allen was Col. George S. Wallace, president of the Huntington park commission, who spoke on General Jenkins' achievements. In conclusion Col. Wallace said that the greatest service the school could render would be "to produce men and women of the same fiber and high ideals as General Jenkins."

Col. John Baker White, president of the state board of control extended his congratulations upon the opening of the new

Auto Chassis Presented To Engineering Department

Machine Valued At $2,000 Is On Display In Central Hall Of Library

A 1938 Dodge automobile chassis, valued at approximately $2,000 was presented to the engineering department of the college Tuesday by Dodge Motors, Inc., a division of the Chrysler Corporation, and is now on display in the library.

The chassis is one of eight built for exhibition purposes and later presented as permanent gifts to colleges and universities. It was secured after several months of effort on the part of Prof. J. Paul Stoakes, Prof. A. E. McCaskey, Dr. William E. Greenleaf, and Max Biederman, local Dodge dealer. Initial contacts with the Chrysler Corporation were made by Prof. Stoakes, through a relative who is employed by the concern.

The machine is of red, white and blue, and chromium finish, and is stripped to reveal all of the integral parts of the automobile. It will be on display in the library until further notice, and the engineering department will supply a man to answer queries of visitors and delegates to the United High School Press congress have been especially invited to inspect the machine by Prof. McCaskey.

The machine will be used, according to Prof. McCaskey, to aid engineering students in the study of auto mechanism and mechanical drawing. Students will later tear down the chassis and make blueprints of the parts before reassembling it.

He further stated that the chassis was placed on exhibition to enable student drivers, or those who intend to learn to drive an opportunity to gain a better understanding of the fundamental mechanisms of automobiles.

An engineering exhibit is planned for some future date, at which the chassis will be displayed and the functions of various parts explained by students in the engineering department.

Donnelly, now a member of the University of New Mexico faculty, and formerly head of the political science department here. Dr. Donnelly is also well-known for his books analyzing the presidential campaign.

He was probably thinking about the political situation when "Already late to an important luncheon, Dr. Donnelly was irked one day last week to discover, when about to start, that a rear tire was flat. He summoned a garage trouble-shooter post-haste, stood about impatiently while the tire was being changed. When the job was finished he jumped into the machine, tried to insert his key. It wouldn't fit. His own car was parked immediately behind, O. K."

Wolfard Talks To Chamber Meeting

"Economic Fundamentals in American Business" was the topic of the speech of Prof. L. A. Wolfard of the Commerce department before the Chamber of Commerce, Wednesday evening at 7:00 o'clock in Room 2 of the Morrow Library.

"One's buying power is his producing power," says Prof. Wolfard, who later added, "The sum-total of one's buying power is the sum total of his producing power. The cycle is perpetual, one can not buy if one does not produce, but if one does not produce his buying power is automatically negative."

In closing, Prof. Wolfard stated, "As we produce, so shall we share."

seventy-five cents which he has thrown on the campus mud... adds fifteen cents for shoe-shine and heaves another sigh... mmhghghgmm. Weather certainly is deceitful stuff... Why it looks just like summer. Is that the bell? My gosh... the paper ought to do something about assignments that take over an hour. I've worked all I'm going to for today... I think I'll go over to the Union and put my last nickel in on "The Joy Trumpet." Another spring-flied breeze sweeps o'er his locks and reporter cuts campus toward the Union. Blades of grass bend frightened heads as Gigantic Monster No. 1138 passes over them. Strains of "Rock It For Me" float out with another one of those breezes. College sure is tough!

Reporter sighs thusly: "mmmmmmmmhm") Well—better get goin'. Reporter picks up one foot and places it approximately 11 inches ahead of previous position. While placing one foot, lifts other foot and with repetition of these complicated machinations attains a huge flight of cement steps. He continues the same foot processes at a forty-five degree angle and after 2.6 minutes (flat) grasps the stone post at the top of the steps.

I must speak to Mr. Mullen about changing the angle on those steps. They're terrific! I wonder if spring weather warps them any; they seemed almost to unsteep this winter. Notebook, crammed with papers crowded with incoherent notations and drawings, slips from untight grasp of shoulder appendage, and large and small sheets of white paper float gently on a breeze.

Student clutches one sheaf of paper and mumbles "Why I ever let someone talk me into buying a looseleaf notebook... just like the rest of the American public... getting talked into something..." Stoops for one more elusive sheet and falls over branch left by men trimming trees. Says word which must be omitted here. Looks about to find himself seated on thousands of little blades of grass... ooh, what would Prof. Stoakes say? ...and turning around discovers he just missed a hyacinth.

Oh, what lovely colors those things have... too bad I'm not poetically inclined like my Uncle Geoffrey was... Let's see now there's a Greek myth about Hyacinthus... the God Apollo got too hot and scorched his friend and so changed him into a posey so he could stay down on earth and not take any risks of getting burned... or maybe that

Welcome, U. H. S. P.

Today and tomorrow the college plays host to delegates to the twelfth annual congress of the United High School Press of West Virginia and the eighth annual convention of the West Virginia Journalism Teachers Association. Under the auspices of our department of journalism the high school press association has grown tremendously since its founding in 1926, until at the present time it is rated as one of the best organizations of its kind, and the yearly convention here is eagerly anticipated throughout the school year by those who work on high school newspapers. Delegates to past conventions have had visits to our campus, both instructive and entertaining and have returned to their homes bearing good will for the college as a result, good will which could not be purchased at any price, nor amassed by any amount of publicity releases. Further, it has always been a pleasure to have them with us, if only for their enthusiasm and obvious enjoyment and appreciation of the program.

This year the delegates will be offered a program equal to any in the past, and all prospects augur a great time to be in the offing for all concerned. Lest some of our visitors feel ill at ease, we bid them full welcome to our campus, and sincerely hope that their brief sojourn with us is both profitable and pleasant.

It Is To Marvel

It has happened. The millenium has come. The student body is on the very brink of light, following the untold eons of terrifying darkness which threatened our lives and limbs at every turn. We are about to come into our own. Safety and a reasonable assurance of life after college is about to be bestowed on us, and arduous and painstaking efforts to secure these benefits are about to be halloed with the saintliness of good deeds well done.

No longer shall the gin-soaked moron with more gasoline than sense rule the No-Man's Land between the Sixteenth street gate and the opposite curb. No longer shall the swift delivery truck, the lumbering van, the wobbling jalopy, the arrogant town car, or the frenzied taxi hurry past in unbroken procession while students stand in fear of sudden annihilation and meekly wonder about the prospect of getting across the street intact by sundown.

All of this has been relegated to the barbarous past, along with the tortures of the Inquisition, the pillory and stocks of the Puritans, and the Versailles treaty. Progress in its relentless march forward has at one fell swoop crushed beneath its heel the thousand dangers which threatened us.

There is to be a traffic light placed at the college entrance on Sixteenth street. Let us say no more, but only bow in solemn contemplation of the marvels of our civilization, and perhaps mumble softly and wonderingly to ourselves the immortal words of Morse's first telegraph message, "What Hath God Wrought?"

Friends In Need

It's necessary, I suppose, to have a couple of friends, and I guess there are people who think a girl is pretty important, but taken together they can cause a lot of trouble. That's how Pete Barrow got jammed in a telephone booth.

Pete, it seems, had slipped off quietly from two of his friends, and after a long wait they started a search. Finding him, at last, in a phone booth at the College Corner and being, like all true friends, willing to share his last dollar, they promptly climbed in the booth with him and closed the door.

I have no record of what Pete's girl thought of the whistling and singing which the two friends commenced, but Pete himself was displeased. With a few well-turned phrases he told them they'd better stop or they'd see what would happen to them. Completely intimidated, they quit singing and lit cigarettes while Pete finished his talk.

Now, one cigarette is a phone booth is bearable for a time, but two in a booth that's already had the biggest part of its air displaced by three bodies can soon grow irksome. The two friends decided it was time for expansion and yanked on the door. At this point they made an important discovery. The door of a phone booth folds inward when it opens so that, although it's easy enough to close on three people, it's practically impossible to open it again.

It didn't help any when College Corner patrons came back to the booth to inspect them through the glass and blew more smoke in through the cracks. Pete was mighty discomfited, especially when they put him under the little seat so his friends could crowd back enough to let the door open. College students are whimsical as hell.

Time Changes All

The old order changeth. The gear shift lever is on its way out, miniature golf is no more, and the football squad plays "button, button who's got the button?" every evening after school with Peggy Dunbar. This is an age of change, of growth and improvement. It is not for any man to interrupt the steady, relentless march of progress. So with bowed head, I yield to a notice recently published in the new magazine "Ken" which announces that Charlie McCarthy dolls are now outselling those of Shirley Temple.

It wasn't until I read this item that I realized what a grip Shirley had on me—how intimately my life was woven with hers. For the past few years every child character in each novel, magazine, or newspaper story that I've read has automatically become for me Shirley Temple. No matter what race, creed, or physical characteristics these story characters may have, for me they all have lovely spring-like curls, enormous dimples, and saccharine voices. I'm wondering if I can ever successfully substitute these attributes for evening clothes, a loosely hung jaw, and a monocle. It will be hard.

Alpha Psi Omega To Pledge Seven

At a meeting Tuesday, April 12, of the dramatic fraternity, Alpha Psi Omega, seven students will be pledged to the fraternity.

Initiations for the pledges will be held in a few weeks. Those to be pledged include: Lenore Lamb, Martin Leiner, Bob Buskirk, Jon Light, Pauline Burke, Gene Slutz, and Jane Kincaid.

Entry to the group requires acting in several productions or working on production details.

High Schools To Be Shown Campus Films

By ELMORE S. MOSSMAN

This year for the first time high school students will be given an opportunity to look "back stage" at Marshall student life. When members of the faculty speak at various high schools this spring to encourage enrollment they will present in connection with their talks a 16 millimeter motion picture showing various campus activities and classes.

The movies will be taken under the direction of Dr. Leslie J. Todd, of the chemistry department. Scenes on the campus and in various laboratories have already been photographed on a trial reel, most of which will be included in the finished film. The complete motion picture will be photographed by Prof. A. G. Moseley, of the chemistry department.

The movies, according to Dr. Todd, will show typical scenes in several classrooms, together with a few shots taken on the campus and extra-curricular activities. They will be shown with the 16 millimeter projector recently purchased by the college.

Technical films will also be projected before the high school students, together with those showing the student activities. These have been obtained from various manufacturers and show industrial application of the sciences. Dr. Todd plans to utilize this photographic equipment later in demonstrating experiments in his lectures on chemistry.

Travel Information To Be Placed In Union Building

To create and stimulate interest in travel, foreign countries, and foreign peoples the Student Union Advisory Committee, under the direction of Dr. John T. Krumpelmann, dean of men, will sponsor an exhibit of travel literature, pictures, and discussions in the Student Union Building beginning Friday, April 8.

To secure latest authoritative information about foreign travel the committee is sending directly to travel agencies in Russia, Germany, Sweden, Switzerland, Austria, Canada, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Great Britain, France, Italy, New Zealand, Mexico, Egypt, Japan, and Latin America.

"It is probably the prevailing conservatism of our colleges and universities which is in large part responsible for their reputation for radicalism. Far from being red, or even liberal, they are, on the whole, strongholds of conservatism and important agencies in maintaining the status quo." University of Michigan's Pres. Alexander Ruthven believes this conservatism should "give grave concern to every person interested in human welfare."

Collegiate World

To obtain a spotty picture of the collegiate mind today, one has but to turn to the myriad of surveys being conducted on college and university campuses. But spotty though the picture may be, the spots do come together to form a pretty solid picture of what collegians think and believe. Witness these results of recent polls:

Skidmore College students favor compulsory chapel attendance and favor sermons on moral standards, personality and philosophy of life . . . . Students and faculty members of Earlham College favor bull sessions, mostly because "we learn facts in them that pros are either unwilling or afraid to give out" . . . . The Council of Church Boards of Education has just released the following figures: In 1,340 colleges and universities surveyed, 88.3 of the students stated they had preference for a particular religious faith. Said the report: "We do not deny that there are dangerous influences at work in some institutions. During the sophomore year there is a distinct tendency away from religion. On the other hand, during the junior and senior years there appears to be a return to religion." . . . . Delegates of 20 institutions at the New England Student Peace Federation conference passed a resolution urging the U. S. government to enter into a new cooperative movement with other nations of the world based on the Christian principles of justice and charity . . . . 81 per cent of University of California at Los Angeles, males voted for the "hard to get" kiss . . . . A majority of Swarthmore College students favor collective action by the U. S. to maintain peace . . . . A U. S. Office of Education survey reveals that 32.4 per cent of the college students live within the county in which their institution is located, 9.4 in the adjoining county, 45 per cent in other parts of the state and 13.2 in other states . . . . 80 per cent of Villanova College students would not fight for the U. S. in a European war . . . . Most of the students there believe President Roosevelt is most popular man in the U. S. . . . . University of Denver students believe there should be more morning classes, fewer in the afternoon.

DePauw University has just opened an endowment campaign to secure $3,120,000 in five years.

Report Criticizes Business Method Of Universities

New York City—(ACP)—Sharp criticism of high-pressure business methods employed by colleges and universities to recruit tuition-paying students was made recently by Dr. Walter A. Jessup, president of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, in the foundation's 32nd annual report.

Many institutions are operating "in constant fear" of losing students, Dr. Jessup's report declared. "Not long ago the representatives of a college dropped in to visit a high school in a small mid-Western city. His purpose was to bring the college to the attention of the pupils of the school. He learned that his was the 83rd visit of a college public-relations officer for that very purpose during that school year.

Even drum majors and tuba players are offered "inducements" to come to college where their talents can be made use of, Dr. Jessup charged.

"There can be no doubt that unbridled competition has led to practices that can only be condemned. The evil thread that runs through the fabric of recruitment devices is the attempt, through them to exploit the student."

"Students who feel the need of using something to keep them awake so they may study during the examination period would do well to resort to the good old fashioned cup of black coffee at repeated intervals." University of Minnesota's Dr. Ruth E. Boynton warns against use of drug-stimulants for midnight-oil burners.

Speaking of the Green

Non-support Of Baseball Team This Year Will Require A Good Alibi

By CHARLIE HICKERSON

Tomorrow afternoon at league Park, the Big Green baseball team will open the 1938 season. Our football and basketball games have been well attended this year and we owe the men who are going to give our school a winning baseball team our support.

Last season our baseball team wasn't supported at all. Especially did the student body and faculty fail in their duty to their baseball players. Excuses such as damp weather, cold weather, studies and other attempted alibis were offered in answer to queries on the reason for non-attendance. Yet one can take a sojourn across the campus in most any kind of weather or during exam weeks and find couples enjoying the weather and brisk climatic conditions.

"The ball diamond is too far away," has been given as excuse enough by many slackers. League Park is nearer to the school than most of the entertainment places that provide a spot for Saturday night dancing. At formal dances those who wish to go, find a means of transportation and St. Clouds Common's and the Country Club both are a long way for a person to walk.

Team Looks Good

Last season we didn't have the best baseball teams but as lame an excuse as that can not be offered this year. We will probably drop ball games. The Yankees don't go undefeated throughout the pennant race yet the experts say that they have a right good ball club and they do have a following.

This is not an attempt to compare the Big Green diamond aggregation with the Yankees but rather an attempt to show you that our ball team needs your support to become a winner.

Color Dots Roster

Our ball team is dotted with colorful performers. Ezra Midkiff, our second baseman, is the son of a former big league star. (Continued on page 8)

Coach Henderson To Present Gold Basketballs To Big Green Squad

Tomorrow night a banquet honoring the Buckeye Conference champion Big Green basketball quint will be given at the Hotel Frederick. Allen Franklin, sports commentator of station WLW in Cincinnati is to be the guest speaker. He will be completing a two day stay in Huntington, as he is also the guest speaker at the banquet tonight of the UH-SP.

Franklin will be remembered as the sports reporter who made all the favorable comment on the Big Green quint during the past basketball season while they were in Cincinnati performing against the Bearcats.

Bill Strickling will preside over the affair from the toastmaster's chair, as he has done at the preceding honor banquet. (Continued on page 8)

Paletti Is Released From Hospital Wednesday Night

Aldo Paletti, Big Green three sport man who broke his right ankle last week during baseball practice was released from St. Mary's Hospital Wednesday evening. Although the ankle was badly broken, the man who was being groomed to hold down the first base job for the diamond crew remained under observation at the hospital last week as a precaution against complications.

The lanky Paletti has been up and around on crutches since his return to the campus and he says that he will start immediately catching up on the school work that he missed.

The combine carrying off top honors last year, Phi Kappa Nu, will have two teams entered in the loop.

The games are to be played on a diamond located between the football practice field and Hodges and Laidley Halls. All contests will be started at 3:40 o'clock except the second game.

Varsity Diamond Crew Meets Oberlin Tomorrow

Baseball Team Will Be Led By Jack Siens

Opening Contest Of Season Will Be Played At League Park

By CHARLIE HICKERSON

Jack Siens, newly-appointed captain of the Big Green baseball team, and his mates will ring up the curtain on the 1938 season tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at League Park, engaging a touring Oberlin nine.

Advance reports would indicate that the visiting outfit is taking the present season seriously, since the game with the Big Green will conclude a training trip that has carried the invaders into southern Ohio, Kentucky and West Virginia. The trip is the first of its kind in Oberlin history in the last 30 years.

Oberlin is attempting a 19-game schedule which includes their games in the Ohio conference where they are recognized as a tower of strength.

Green Improving

The opposing faction will be encountering an up-and-coming diamond crew when they take the field against the Herd sluggers. Since they began practice early in the spring the pupils of Coach Henderson have shown marked improvement. The Big Green teacher is not making any idle threats or forecasts but promises each opponent plenty of opposition.

The characteristic "hustle" of Henderson coached teams is evident in the actions of the ball club, and with the addition of experience their tutor expects them to develop into a formidable crew.

Siens Chosen

Jack Siens at first base probably has more natural talent than any member of the squad. His love for the game is second to none and his experience in and his knowledge of the game were strong factors in Coach Henderson's selecting him as this year's leader. Captain Siens is a senior and a product of Huntington.

Henderson, in his tentative lineup, had Siens on first base, Ezra Midkiff at second, Jack Morlock shortstop, and George Ayersman guarding the hot corner. In the outfield "Duke" Rivlin will be patrolling left field, John Angelo the middle pasture, and Clyde Underwood in right. Chub Watson will be catching the slants of either Nelson "Scatterarm" Bragg, or Elmer "Schoolboy" Bauld.

assistance of two member institutions, moved up action from a proposed session May 27-28 at Athens, O. The University of Cincinnati's withdrawal early in the year was a forerunner to applications for membership from the two schools admitted Tuesday and from Butler of Indianapolis, Ind.

Official sanction of the step by the athletic departments of Xavier and Western State is necessary before the membership is completed, but that is expected to be nothing more than formality.

Vote Is Unanimous

Officials of Cincinnati's Bearcats were not in attendance at Tuesday's gathering. Although their resignation does not take effect until June. The vote among the other schools was unanimous in approving Xavier and Western State Buckeye members.

George Gauthier, secretary of the loop, disclosed the information regarding the meeting after learning that the facts had "leaked" out. He said that the two new members would not play full schedules in football or basketball until 1939-40, spending the year of probation playing what games can be arranged. The majority of other five members have their schedules completed for next year, but will "sandwich" games when possible.

Both schools will necessarily spend a year in probation, and will not become full members until 1939. They are expected to attend all meetings, however.

Hodges Wins Water Polo

PKN Team Beaten In Overtime Period; Mahoney Scores Winning Points

By GENE SLUTZ

Playing their second consecutive overtime match this week, the "beef trust" mermen of Hodges Hall came from behind to defeat the Phi Kappa Nu water polo aggregation, Wednesday night, 3 to 1.

The contest was bitterly fought from the start to the end, and neither of the teams gave an inch in tight situations. Jim Provance performed some able guarding, embarrassing the victors with sound duckings consistently.

The first period was a mere repetition of the previous deadlock. Hodges Hall had their smaller men in the water and were being slightly outplayed although unscored upon. Rufus "Pop" Carney broke the tie in the second session in favor of the Fratmen after a mad dash to retrieve the loose sphere.

Immediately after Carney's score, Bob Adkins tallied on a fast "break."

The victory established precedent, since it marks the first time that a team representing Hodges Hall has been returned winner of an intramural crown.

Herd Coach Hurt In Fall

Coach Cam Henderson suffered a painful although not serious injury to his left shoulder early in the week when he fell trying to get out of the way of a foul ball during baseball practice. He neglected to consult a doctor before Wednesday when he lost almost complete use of his arm.

According to Coach, the doctor "put my arm in somekind of an airplane contraption" with orders to give the shoulder a complete rest for ten days. His actions have been hampered somewhat during the past few days as he has been able to handle but one of the two sport practices, whereas before he had been conducting both the football and baseball sessions, at intervals.

ABC HONORS

Gold basketballs will be given to Chub Watson, George Ayersman, Luey Wilcox, Julius Rivlin, Jack Morlock, Yost Cunningham, Aldo Paletti and Elmer Bauld, members of the squad, and to Charlie Hickerson, manager, by Coach Henderson. The Herd mentor will give a short resumé of the past season, later talking on next year's prospects and outlining certain aspects of the game.

Pat Quarles will explain just what is going to happen on Rally Day, and why the occasion is being held. President James E. Allen will follow him and speak on the benefits that the college will derive from Rally Day; and finally Hanley Morgan will show how Rally Day is going to benefit the city of Huntington.

and he conducts himself right well around that second base cushion, too. Johnny Angelo, all outfielder, who stands about I've-feet-two and runs the hundred yards in close to ten seconds will be around to give you thrills with his speed and dash.

Duke Rivlin, of basketball fame, is playing his first year of baseball and will give you an eyefull. He will make plenty of mistakes but he will do plenty of good out there. He is learning fast and shows plenty of "try."

Vets Stabilize Squad

Veterans like Chub Watson, Jack Siens, George Ayersman, and Nelson Bragg give the team that stabilizing influence and they also play baseball. Some afternoon when you are beginning to get a little bored watch the way that ball zips over to first base from third when George lets loose of it. Then try it some day and you will realize that Ayersman has a great arm.

Then this fellow Siens can show you plenty. He weighs around 175, which isn't so much; but watch the ride he gives that ball as it comes in. He swings so easy and graceful that one seldom notices how good he really is.

Game Has Glamor

It's little incidents like those mentioned that add the glamor and appeal to the game that rightfully deserves first ranking in the sport field. Baseball is known as the great American Pastime. Fiction, drama, poetry and moving pictures have all given inside pictures on this game of games and yet tomorrow there won't be 100 of the student body down at League Park to see the Big Green in their first game.

BOWERS ATTENDS MEET

Dr. E. V. Bowers of the psychology department is in Chicago this week, attending the meeting of the North Central association.

LAB SCHOOL'S

Kirby Represents Board

"The new training school on Marshall campus will be second to none in the state," said David Kirby, secretary of the state board of education. Mr. Kirby brought the regrets of his superior Dr. W. W. Trent, state superintendent of schools, at not being able to attend.

State Auditor Edgar B. Simms said he was glad to visit the college in the line of his duty as a member of the board to approve appropriations for their operation.

Officials Introduced

The last speaker of the assembly was Richard E. Talbott, state treasurer, who said, "I hope to see Marshall college grow until some day it will be known as the great Southwestern University of West Virginia.

Dr. Allen expressed the congratulations of Governor Homer A. Holt on the opening of the building, and his regrets at not being able to come after which Dr. Allen introduced the following members present on the stage: M. D. Carrico, member of the state board of control, Fred M. Hawkins, state purchasing agent, Dr. Otis Wilson, dean of teachers college, R. E. Hyde, of the department of education,

O. G. Rife, administration secretary of education, H. C. Hamilton of the department of education, and F. G. Watson, state fire marshal.

Attend Luncheon

Following the assembly the guests were entertained with a luncheon held in the College Hall dining room, after which came a tour of inspection of the new training school, Hodges Hall and Laidley Hall.

Rev. W. P. Hooper, pastor of the Highlawn Presbyterian church was in charge of devotionals.
