Eisenhower And Underwood Win In Straw Vote Over Dems

By MARJORIE CAPPELLARI
President Eisenhower and Republican gubernatorial candidate Cecil Underwood were the choices of a cross section of Marshall students, winning out over their Democratic rivals, Adlai Stevenson and Robert Mollohan, in a straw vote conducted Monday by The Parthenon.

The President and Underwood both received a large majority of the votes of students in 11 A. M. classes who were polled by Parthenon reporters.

Eisenhower defeated Stevenson 974 votes to 516. Underwood, House of Delegates minority leader, won out over Mollohan in the race for the governorship of West Virginia, tallying 854 votes, and Mollohan received 532.

Students voting were asked to indicate if they were eligible to vote in the forthcoming election. A breakdown of the voting of the two groups gave the President 406 votes from students of voting age, to 248 for Stevenson. Of the students below voting age, 568 voted for Eisenhower and 268 for Stevenson.

Students eligible to vote gave Underwood 360 votes and Mollohan 216. Students below voting age chose Underwood 494 to 316.

There were a number of write-in votes, one of which was T. Coleman Andrews, candidate for the presidency on the newly organized States Rights Party.

Joe Smith received one write in vote, as did Elvis Presley. United Mine Workers chief John L. Lewis was suggested by one student as running mate for President Eisenhower.

When asked to name his choice for governor, one perplexed student carefully printed, "One's about as bad as the other."

The straw vote was recorded on printed ballots and students were asked to name their preference for president and governor of West Virginia.

Ballots were placed in a sealed envelope in the presence of each class instructor and were locked in a cabinet until they were counted Tuesday afternoon. Unused ballots were destroyed.

Counting the ballots were Miss Virginia Lee, associate professor of Journalism, Ben W. Hope, associate professor of Speech, Freda Johnson and Mike Perry, who represented the Young Democrats Club, Bill Brook of the Young Republicans, and Parthenon staff members Ann Garrity, Suzanne Hensley, Pat Friend, and Marjorie Cappellari.

National Symphony Orchestra Appears On Next Artist Series

The National Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Howard Mitchel, will appear at the Keith-Albee Theatre Thursday, November 8, at 8:30. This is the second of six regular Artists' Series programs, of which full-time students may choose two.

Tickets for the concert will be available Monday only because of the Tuesday holiday. All tickets must be called for and picked up the same day.

A special note of interest is added to the concert by Jane Hobson, mezzo-soprano, who is a resident of Huntington.

Born in Nebraska, she completed her early education in Missouri and later attended the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music. She also studied in Paris at the Alliance Francaise and at the American Conservatory at Fontaine-bleau.

After several leading roles in stage productions, Miss Hobson's singing career was launched in earnest in 1948 when she sang at Carnegie Hall under Leopold Stokowski in Debussy's "Blessed Damsel," and performed under Arturo Toscanini in Beethoven's Ninth Symphony. These performances brought critical praise, national publicity, and a series of engagements. She now studies with Margarete Mazenauer.

Mayberry, Smith, Wright, Corns Pledged By ODK

By H. G. CANTLEY

Omicron Delta Kappa, men's national honorary leadership fraternity, will tap four men during halftime ceremonies at the football game at Fairfield Stadium on Friday night, November 9.

Those men chosen for membership in the leadership fraternity are: Paul Martin Wright, Huntington senior; George Oliver Smith, Huntington senior; John E. Mayberry, Beech Brook junior; and John H. Corns, Charleston junior.

The pledge membership of these four men was made public last night at the ODK smoker.

The fall tapping is an annual ceremony and will consist of the active members of the Circle welcoming the new pledges. The actives will assemble on the field during the ceremonies. When the pledge's name is called, he will then walk onto the field and be welcomed into the Circle.

The pledges of the organization must experience a pledge period before they may become active members. During this period the men must plan and accomplish a project of their own choosing and present it to the school.

To be eligible for the honorary, a man must be of junior, senior or graduate status in the college, have a 2.5 overall average, receive approval of the active membership of the local Circle and meet definite standards of leadership in at least two unrelated fields of endeavor based upon a point system.

The point system used by the local Circle allows a candidate a certain number of points for a term of office if he performs his duties well.

General Completes ROTC Inspection

The first informal ROTC inspection of the school year was last Tuesday by General Mason H. Lucas, who is Special Assistant for Reserve Affairs to the Deputy Commanding General, Second Army.

General Lucas, accompanied by Colonel W. L. Blanchard, Chief of West Virginia Military District, acquainted himself with administration in the Military Science Department and Staff only. General Lucas expressed satisfaction in the department's organization and performance.

Other informal inspections are scheduled by headquarters prior to the formal inspection to be conducted next spring.

Students Alarmed Over Suez Crisis

By ANN GARRITY
MARJORIE CAPPELLARI
LOWELL CADE
GEORGE BENNETT

War appeared in the headlines this week and radios and TV sets blared forth in a stream of news. The Near East, Suez, Israel, the U. N., Egypt—these names began to shape the destiny of the world as the events of a few days threatened peace to all men everywhere.

On the Marshall campus, word was slow to get around and student attitudes were cautious. Wednesday afternoon, as bulletins appeared on the Parthenon board in the Student Union, a spark of tension was in the air and talk of war touched every conversation.

The attitude of most students seemed to be that "this is our war" and those who knew World War II as a child and Korea only a little more intimately, were suddenly aware of the hand of fate on their shoulder.

Earlier in the week, they had not been so concerned. The day the United Nations Security Council met, Parthenon staff members interviewed students on the current crisis.

Forty residents of one dormitory were asked their opinion of the Near Eastern events and twenty-six, or sixty-five percent, had no knowledge of the situation.

Other students had their opinions.

"Another Korea" was a popular term. Sherrill Stowers, Ceredo junior and a veteran, saw it this way. He thought the U. S. should not "be too hasty; wait it out and see." Don Chapman, Milton sophomore, also a veteran, held with this Korea comparison. He added: "It is causing a split in the allies, and helps the communist cause."

United States' foreign policy figured prominently in the comments. Tom Light, Huntington senior, another veteran, had this to say:

"John Foster Dulles put his foot in his mouth last summer when he indicated that we would come to the aid of the attacked country. At that time, Dulles was referring to Egypt's apparent intentions of attacking Israel, and his intention was to support Israel. We are placed in a position where we are on the other side of the fence with Britain and France supporting Israel, and we, if bound to our word, must support Egypt. Basically, the whole fight revolves around possession of the rich mid-east oil fields."

As another veteran, Charles Dinkins of Huntington, put it, "Dulles flipped his lid."

Political overtones were voiced, as in the case of veteran George Tsismanakis, who said that this situation "only proves that the Republican administration's 'peace and prosperity' is a myth proposed to gain votes."

Dave Collins, Huntington senior, sees the U. S. being pushed farther and farther. He feels "like Korea, this is the place. I'd rather go to war and fight them over there than have me fighting them over here."

"I'll go back if I have to," said one veteran, Paul Williams.

This thought of getting into it personally was in the minds of most men. Jim Slater, a Chattanooga junior, commented: "Things look bad. Who knows, we may be yanked out of class and shipped overseas to fight for something that we don't know anything about."

World War III? Veteran Ronald Creamer concluded his statement saying, "I believe that now would be the acceptable time if there is to be a third World War."

Another angle was introduced by Sam Coen, a veteran of World War II, who said "A factor in the dispute is the great number of blood ties on each side of the U. S., particular Jews and Syrians."

As the week progressed, campus radios were doing extra duty and grim faces surveyed the latest newspapers. Bull sessions took a more serious turn and even a joking "you're in the army now" yelled across the Union carried a note of apprehension.

Regardless of their individual opinions, most of the students had one thought: This could well be "our war."

Library Honorary Pledges Sixteen

Alpha Beta Alpha, national science fraternity, pledged 16 students in the Honor Council Room Sunday, October 21.

The first pledge meeting will be Thursday, November 8, at 11:30 A.M. in the Marshall High School library.

College Chapel . . .

A college chapel, long the hope for a growing Marshall, is now becoming a reality.

With the erection of a sign telling the future plans for the Fifth Avenue property, the beginning of this project is apparently not far off.

An interdenominational chapel has a place to fill on this campus, and its realization will be a fine accomplishment for the college community.

Although plans are not yet complete, the structure will provide many features in addition to the chapel proper. Proposed ideas include a large lounge, study room, meeting rooms, dining facilities, and offices for the Religious Counselor, Student Christian Association, and chaplains of various campus organizations.

The facilities will be available to organized college activities in addition to the college fellowship groups.

The chapel itself will not be open for Sunday services but may be used by individual students, for weddings, and for weekday services.

Thus it should serve not only the students' religious needs, both personal and organized, but would provide for other phases of student activity.

As plans progress, those who are guiding this project will want to hear the student voice. Definite decisions are yet to be made concerning the structure, including the interior design for the chapel and the style of architecture.

Reverend Lander Beal, student religious counselor, will welcome any ideas students may have on the subject, or such suggestions may be sent to the Parthenon in the form of an open letter.

This will be your chapel. As it will fulfill your needs, so it must have your support. We ask that the students consider their wishes for this chapel and give them voice.

EVEN if you are just starting college in the "Class of 1960," we suggest that you take a long look at where you are going. Know, don't guess, what is offered by fields like engineering and science, finance, marketing and relations. Too often young people discover late in their senior year that they can't qualify for the career of their choice. Why be caught short? Selecting a career and knowing what is expected will make it possible for you to prepare for it now. Many graduates will find their place with industry.

General Electric is typical of many large industrial concerns. We employ over 27,000 college graduates from nearly 700 different colleges and universities. And our future, as the future of any progressive company, hinges on these people. Young men and women that have initiative, analytical and creative ability will make progress with industry. If you are interested, write for information about one or more of the programs listed on this page. These are the principal doorways to success at General Electric. The booklets can also be found at most college placement bureaus in a binder entitled "Career Information."

Big Green Looking For Win Number 3

Hellyer May Be Ready To Go Against Penguins

Coach Royer and his Big Green gridders have high hopes of returning to the winning column tomorrow night when they invade Youngstown after having lost three in a row to the major MAC powers.

Coach Dwight Beede's Penguins, like the Green, have a 2-4 record. Their two wins were over Midwestern, a Texas school, and Baldwin-Wallace.

The one means of comparing the two teams is Morris Harvey. The Golden Eagles edged the men from Youngstown 6-0 at Charleston. The Herd downed the Eagles at Fairfield Stadium, 25-13.

Upon taking a look at the past results of Marshall-Youngstown games, three aces tell the story of the series record. Each team has won one game and one ended in a tie.

Last season the Big Green overcame a 12-7 Youngstown half-time lead to notch their third and final victory of the season, 20-12.

In the two previous games Youngstown trimmed the Green in 1950, 28-13, and in 1952 the two teams battled to a 6-6 draw.

Coach Beede does not use either the popular T formation or the single-wing, but an outgrowth of the single-wing which may be referred to as the A formation.

The Penguins' offense usually lines up with a balanced line, the two halfbacks set up behind the tackles or guards, the fullback or tailback set deep and the fourth man in the wing-back spot or as a flanker on either the left or right side.

A similar formation was devised by Steve Owens of the New York football Giants. Such a formation is a good passing formation and has many reverse variations.

The Big Green, who fought gamely for two quarters against a stronger Bowling Green team, are due for a win and the Penguins appear to be the likely victims.

Coach Royer indicated that there would be at least two changes in the starting line-up for tomorrow night's game.

Jim Simpson, 6-0, 205 pound junior from Mullens, will start at left tackle instead of Vernon Howell and Donzil Hall, 5-11 165 pound junior from Spencer, will replace the ailing "J. P." Jones, who suffered a broken hand in the BeeGee game.

DeOrio is the rushing leader with 437 yards in 77 carries for a 5.6 average. The conference standings find Miami and Bowling Green in first place with Kent State, Western Michigan, Marshall, Toledo, and Ohio U. following in that order.

BUILDING AND GROUNDS

Repainting of the Building and Grounds office and the basement corridor in Old Main was completed last week, according to T. A. Bolyard, Building and Grounds superintendent. The work was done under the supervision of E. B. Wilkinson, chief engineer.

Little Green To Tangle With Highly Rated Cincy Frosh

Marshall's Little Green will be seeking their first victory of the year when they meet the strong Cincinnati University freshmen in their first home appearance of the season at St. Clouds today at 3:30 P.M.

The Marshall yearlings will probably be up for the contest as this is the game that Coach Bill Chambers wants to win most.

Last year the Bearcats yearlings handed Chambers' squad their only defeat in four outings, but the defeat was probably the worst a Chambers coached team has ever been beaten. The score was 72-0.

The Cincinnati team will probably be as strong as ever, because they draw players from all parts of the country.

In their first game the Cincy freshmen dropped a 39-6 decision to Kentucky University's freshmen. The Little Wildcats, however, are said to have the best crop of freshman gridders in the school's history.

Cincy's defeat by the Kentucky frosh ended a 19 game winning streak that the Bearcats' first year men had piled up in the three years.

Before their loss to Kentucky, the Bearkittens had defeated Virginia Tech, 7-6; and Dayton, 7-0; giving them a 2-1 mark on the year.

The Baby Herd have a tie and a loss in their two games to date. They drew, 7-7, with the Greenbrier Cadets, and lost to Xavier's frosh, 26-14.

Chambers has made a few minor switches in his starting line-up since the Xavier game. Dick Allen, who missed the last game because of an injury, or Walt Davis is expected to replace Jim O'Conner at tackle, with O'Conner swiching to a starting guard berth. Other than that, Chambers' lineup will stay put.

Danny Frank and Bill Roberti will be at ends. Rudy Columbi will be at tackle along with Allen and Bill Whitt will start at center.

Jim Sindedecker will be quarterbacking, H. K. Smith and Bob Wilson are to be at the halfback posts, and either Paul Adams or Paul Miller will get first call at the fullback slot.

DEBATE TRIP

The debate squad is planning a trip to the University of Pittsburgh December 7 and 8, where they will discuss the national debate question, "Should the United States Discontinue Direct Economic Foreign Aid."

Nobody asked me but:

Tuesday afternoon in the fourth game of the intramural touch football playoffs, which pitted the Varsity M No. 1 against the Pi Ka No. 2, the Varsity M team seemed more intent on hurting someone than winning the football game.

I do not wish to degrade the Varsity M Club, but the team that represented them Tuesday afternoon certainly did not place them in good grace with this editor, and it was no credit to the organization.

From my vantage point on the sidelines I saw illegal blocking, clipping and slugging as well as very poor sportmanship.

I do not wish to name any of the members of the team that were guilty of these infractions of the rules but they know who they are and they are not helping to improve our intramural program with their conduct. It is a disgrace to the organization and to the intramural program.

Redskins And Falcons Meet For MAC Crown

The top attraction in the Mid-American Conference this week-end will pit defending champion Miami against Bowling Green in the game that will decide who will be conference champion.

Both teams are unbeaten in conference play and have met three common foes. Miami beat Toledo 33-14, Bowling Green did the job 34-12. Miami topped Kent State 14-0 and Bowling Green edged them 17-0. Both teams stopped the Big Green, Miami did it 21-44 and Bowling Green 34-12.

The game will pit the two best running teams in the league against each other. The powerful BG running attack has a 347 yard average, paced by Vic DeOrio and Jack Giroux. Miami has Dave Thelen and Tom Dimitroff to head their ground game.

In other league games, Toledo that will decide third place. Ohio U., still without a win, will meet Western Michigan. Marshall has a non-conference date with Youngstown.

In the department of statistics, the Big Green have men leading in rushing, passing, and scoring. Campbell Platt holds first place in receiving seven catches, two more than Bog Geiger of Western Michigan. Bill Zban continued to lead the league in passing with a brilliant effort against Bowling Green. Zban completed nine out of 12 for 120 yards. He now has 20 out of 25.

Marshall's Dave Dunlap scored twice against Bowling Green and moved into a tie with Vic DeOrio for the lead in scoring. The two have scored four TD's apiece for 24 points.

A third question mark on the starting team is the right half-back spot. Royer indicated that Len Hellyer may be ready

Sig Eps, Varsity M, Tekes, Rascals Win First Round

By BOB LYNN

The teeth jarring scramble for the Intramural Championship Football trophy was launched Monday and Tuesday as the eight top squads clashed in four games. Each pre-tournament favorite pulled down wins; the Sig Ep's first team and the first TKE six won in the first day's action and the Rascals and the VM number squad triumphed in the following day's games.

The men with the golden touch, arm and toe, Paul Jones, again rose to the occasion to pilot the first Sig Ep squad to a spine-tingling 9-0 victory over a rugged PKA first team in the playoffs' initial game.

The first 40 seconds proved to be the winning seconds for the victors when they uncorked a surprise, razzle-dazzle pass play. Jones, after returning the opening kickoff to the PKA's 48 yard line, stepped back on the first play from scrimmage and rifled a 30 yard pass to Alex Lawrence near the sideline. Lawrence lateraled back to Kenny Jones and then took a flip back from Jones and raced the last 18 yards to score. The PAT try was missed and the Sig Ep's led 6-0.

The Pikes came back with their biggest threat of the afternoon on the following kickoff. Lafe Parsley engineered the ball on five plays to the Sig Ep's 6-inch line. On the final down he was stopped at the line of scrimmage.

The second and third periods were played even with no scoring results. In the last two minutes of the ball game Jones completely evaporated the hopes of the Pikes with a 17-yard field goal that just did have the steam to clear the bar.

Jones completed 13 out of 26 aeriels for 177 yards through the air and ran for 30 for a total of 207 yards.

Parsley connected on 13 of 24 passes for 148 yards and lugged the ball for 14 to total 162 yards.

The second game was a 27-0 romp for the TKE's over the Sig Ep number two team. The TKE's threw only eight passes, but of the six completed four were for T.D.'s.

The TKE's bettered the Sig Ep's in quick scoring when John Mayberry took the opening kickoff and tossed a 40 yard pass to Don Oliver, who reeled off the last 23 yards to score. Oliver tallied again in the first quarter on a pass play from Mitch Sadd that covered 64 yards. In the second period Fuzzy Cogar trapped a Sig Ep punter in the end zone for a safety and two points to give the TKE's a 14-0 half time lead.

Sadd pitched his second and third T.D.'s in the second half when he hit Mayberry on a 44-yarder in the third period and Chuck Stinnett on a 5-yarder in the final stanza. Sadd completed four of six tosses in the game to compile 134 yards through the air. Mayberry picked up 40 yards on the ground.

A classy Rascal squad spear-headed by bouncing Hal Greer riddled the VM second team 33-7 in Tuesday's game. Greer was geared for bear as he made good 17 of 25 passes for 225 yards, four for T.D.'s, ran for 40 yards and intercepted four passes, one a 66 yard T.D. return.

Junie Hall gathered in two of Greer's strikes for 16 and 23 yard scores. Charley Chapelle and Tom Paine grobbed the other two on 4 and 6 yard flips. John Darrow had put he VM into a temporary lead in the second quarter on a 14 yard heave to Dave Dingess and a PAT pass to Sonny Allen.

In the following game the Varsity M number one team scored six T.D.'s to the PKA's none in a 38-0 blanking, but the score was no indication of the battle that took place. In winning the big VM squad faced the most rugged and stubborn opponent they have faced this fall.

The VM relied on the arm of Paul Underwood for their scoring punch. He threw 4 touchdown aeriels, completing 8 of 16 passes for a total of 146 yards.

The initial score came just before the first quarter ended when Clarence York grabbed a 13 yard Underwood pass over his shoulder in the corner of the end zone. The VM took a 13-0 lead on the last play of the first half when Underwood drove into the end zone from the 1-yard line.

Two Joe Smiths; Same Name But Different Political Parties

By JOE MAYNOR

The controversial Joe Smith is everywhere.

Even Marshall has two—and what makes them more interesting is the fact that one is a Republican and the other is a Democrat.

The Republican Joe Smith, a Huntington sophomore, is not yet of voting age, but that doesn't stop him from being an Ike supporter.

"I'm a Republican as a result of heredity," he said. "All of my family votes for the GOP."

Joe, who is a Business Management major, doesn't seem to have any complaint about the fact that his name is being kicked around by the political leaders of both parties.

"I realize that Joe Smith is just a symbol," he said, "and I don't think it has any bearing on my political views. As far as my name is concerned, my biggest problem is just getting people to believe me."

The Democrat Joe Smith, a Douglassville, Pennsylvania sophomore, has the advantage over the other Joe Smith—he will be eligible to vote in the coming presidential election.

"I'm a Democrat," he said, "but not because of what happened at the Republican National Convention. I knew how I was going to vote long before before that."

Joe, a political science major, has spent three years in the army, twenty-six months of which were spent in Germany.

"One thing I can say for the Republicans," he said, "they have sure made me famous. In every class I have I get some comment on my name.

When asked if he thought he would enter politics, Joe said, "Well, I have already been nominated for vice-president," then glancing at the other Joe Smith, he added, "Haven't we?"

Cavaliers Choose Seven New Pledges

The Cavaliers, national men's independent organization, pledged seven freshmen and one sophomore recently.

They are Louie Lontakis, Welch sophomore; Phil Caldabaugh, McMechen; Emil Notti, West Hamlin; Gill Terhune, Charleston; Bob Myers, Charleston; Gaylord Bower, Mullens; Eddie Vineyard, Spencer, and Josh Miller, Huntington.

Phil Caldabaugh was chosen as pledge class president.
