Dorm vacancies cost $70,000

ROOMS FOR RENT Vacancies in dorms double normal

By LARRY MOYER Staff reporter

Vacancies in dormitories are double that anticipated when financing was arranged to construct Twin Towers and renovate Hodges and Laidley, Halls, the Parthenon has learned.

Marshall is losing about $70,000 this school year because the rate of room vacancy is approximately 20 per cent of the available dormitory space, according to Warren Myers, assistant dean of students for housing programs.

Bonds sold to finance dormitory construction and improvements took into account an expected 10 per cent vacancy rate.

Although University officials are concerned about the larger than anticipated vacancy rate, Myers said there is no danger this year of defaulting on the bonds because a reserve was set aside when the bonds were financed.

However, when the reserve runs out, and if costs could not be met, the bondholders then could step in and take control of the buildings.

But, University officials would be expected to step in with measures to prevent this.

Effective last fall the University put into effect the requirement that all freshmen and sophomores who do not live with their parents or legal guardians and who commute to and from campus must live in dormitories as long as space is available.

Many students have ignored the rule and the University hasn't made a concerted effort to enforce it. However, Myers said the requirement will be enforced next fall. He said registration could be cancelled if students fall within the category of required dormitory living and do not live there. Another move could be to raise rent, Myers said.

In the four women's and three men's dormitories, there are about 2,300 beds and about 500 of these are now vacant. The vacancies are evenly spread among all the dormitories and t men and women have about the same number of vacancies.

MAC future discussed Marshall given field ownership

By TIM BUCEY Sports editor

Ownership of Fairfield Stadium, home of Marshall football, has been transferred to Marshall's governing board clearing the way for stadium improvements, it was announced Thursday afternoon by Dr. Donald Dedmon, executive vice president.

At a press conference it was announced that the Huntington Board of Park Commissioners and Cabell County Board of Education by unanimous votes would be used as before, permitting high school and other public events still to be held there as well as MU games. Dr. Dedmon said the improvements which will be made to the stadium, provided the Legislature approves the appropriation, could be made for the 1970 football season.

The first priority is to put in a synthetic turf and to improve dressing rooms. He added they would like to dig down 10 feet before laying the turf and adds, 7,800 seats bringing capacity to 17.800.

Wednesday transferred title of the stadium to the West Virginia Board of Regents.

Purpose of the transfer was to aid Marshall in having its $1,088,000 athletic appropriation approved by the Legislature. There was some question as to whether the money, most of which will be used to upgrade the stadium, would be appropriated a school to upgrade a stadium which it did not hold full title too.

Making the announcement with Dr. Dedmon were Dr. J. Bernard Poindexter, president of the park board and stadium committee, and Philip A. Baer, attorney for the board of education.

Unger will issue pamphlets for all university departments

Thirty-eight new pamphlets will soon be published according to Reno C. Unger, assistant director of information and publications.

New pamphlets will concern every department in the university, one pamphlet per department with some departments having two.

Mr. Unger said that this will be the first time every department has had an information pamphlet in the history of the University.

The new pamphlets will be three-fold and illustrated, according to Mr. Umger, and can be produced by his office for under $50.00.

Departments will be able to order the pamphlets through the Office of Information and Publications at the expense of the department.

Mr. Unger also added that he plans to add a new campus map and a four-fold pamphlet on University housing.

The campus map will show an oblique aerial photo of the campus with the buildings labeled and described. Mr. Unger also plans to add an improved version of the outline map.

Volunteers sought for project

By DENISE GIBSON Staff reporter

A Talent Search Pilot Project to induce students to continue education after, high school graduation has been initiated by the Office of Student Personnel Programs.

According to Mr. Pat Cowles, special assistant with the office, 12 to 25 Marshall volunteers are needed to work throughout the semester with high school students in Cabell, Lincoln, Putnam and Wayne Counties.

Statistics show approximately 30 per cent of the nation's high school graduates go on for either collegiate or technical education. In Lincoln county, however, the average is only 10 per cent.

The best way to attack this problem, Cowles believes, is this project, which would allow university students to become acquainted with those students who do not plan to continue their education.

Through the project, volunteers would be divided into four groups; one for each county. Within the counties, they would meet those students who have no educational plans for after graduation but who have an ability or talent indicating success in such an endeavor. This ability would be determined by the student's counselor rather than by grades.

Within the next few months, the volunteers could become personally acquainted with each student and understand his problems. It is also hoped, according to Cowles, that the volunteers would be able to go into homes to help parents understand the importance of additional training and the availability of financial aid.

Cowles said many students fear a new environment, have doubts about their abilities, lack funds or lack parental support. Such a program would, ideally, eliminate these difficulties.

In April or May the high school students would visit campuses and business schools of the Kanawha Valley area and Huntington. Plans are also being made to allow the students to spend a weekend at Marshall to see what college living is like

Through this person-to-person project, Cowles believes more West Virginia students will decide to continue education beyond high school, and every attempt will be made to insure these students admission to their chosen institution.

He also said, that the program must have workers who "desire to make a worthwhile contribution in aiding young people deprived of the normal opportunities of our society

Limited work-study funds are available to participating Marshall students who qualify. It is hoped, however, that most of the personnel will be volunteer

By PATTY HEIB Staff reporter

"Your Own Thing," a new rock musical based on Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night," will be presented at the Keith Albee Theatre Thursday, Feb. 19 at 8:30 p.m. by the Student Artists Series.

The authors, Hal Hester and Danny Apolinar, had been performing partners in a night club act before they conceived the idea for "Your Own Thing" with a notion of re-telling part of "Twelfth Night" to rock music.

Since its New York opening in 1968, the play has received acclamation from music critics all over the country. Clive Barnes of the New York Times commented, "Your Own Thing" is cheerful, joyful, and blissfully irreverent to Shakespeare and everything else. Based on Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night", the creators clearly have no Shakespeare hangup. Malvolio, Toby and all the rest of that gang have gone so that only the lovers are left. Of these Orsino (Orson) here runs a rock group and Olivia owns a discotheque. One of the members of the rock group, the Apocalypse, has been drafted, so Viola, shipwrecked in Illyria (a place that has John Lindsay for mayor and looks like New York) fills in for the draftee. Sebastian, Viola's twin brother also saved from the shipwreck, turns up and, with the proper proper Shakespearean complications, and then some, falls in love with Olivia.'

John Wilson, also of the Times, wrote, "By any standard, 'Your Own Thing' is the best musical in town. 'Your Own Thing' had the wise audacity to throw most of its book out of the window and resort to imagination in the conception, direction and production and it has a score that not only fits the circumstances of the plot and setting, but reflects the directional momentum of current popular music."

'Contact' series starts Monday

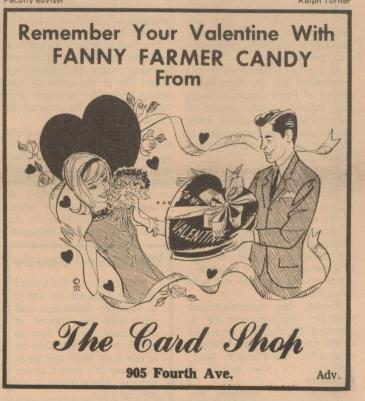

This semester's series of "CONTACT" Group meetings will begin Monday at 5 p.m. and Tuesday at 3 p.m. at the Campus Christian Center. "CONTACT" is "T" (Truth) Groups, meeting for an hour and a half each week and continuing for a ten-week period.

The main purpose of the discussions is to find oneself and learn about other people through meaningful experiences. Topics range anywhere from football to religion, with emphasis on the four characteristics of self-actualization: freedom, and understanding of oneself.

The groups are composed of eight to ten people. There is no designated leader but many faculty members will be participating. The meetings are actually "spontaneous bull-sessions with real meaning", as termed by Joe Lazear, Pittsburgh, Pa., sophomore, coordinator of the groups.

Duo play, sing at CCC

The appearance of Virge and Roge, the "Sounds of the Age of Reason" will be presented at 9 p.m. today at Campus Christian Center

The singers, Virgil Hanshaw, Lewisburg senior, and Roger Samples, Buzzard Flats, Nev., junior, have been working together for a year and a half. Virge and Roge compose and arrange their own material for the group and this year have added some "extra" techniques, including kazoos and a mouth organ.

Hanshaw, a social studies major, has a minor in speech which has led to his having a regular program of folk music this semester on WMUL-FM Radio. He has had an avid interest in music since he began singing as a child with his parents on their radio program.

Playing for nearly seven years, Samples' music background is also family oriented. He is accomplished not only on the 12-string guitar but a variety of other stringed instruments including banjo, autoharp and Classical guitar.

The duo is available in the coming months for stage appearances, social functions, and other performances. They can be contacted by calling the Christian Center, 523-3538, or 525-0035.

Counseling job important

By JOE FRALEY Feature writer

What is it like being a counselor in residence halls? What jobs are these counselors faced with?

Counselors play an important role in the lives of men and women living in campus dormitories. They are the part of the administration who live with the students in residence halls, and their job is an important one

In interviewing four counselors in Hodges Hall what a counselor's job really is and some thing that have happened to them were discovered.

William O'Connell, Williamstown junior, said "Being a counselor is being a link between the administration and students in the dorms. We are advisors, friends, and confidants to the men of Hodges.

He cited an unusual experience when his wing, threw him in the shower to christen him as a first vear counselor

After graduation O'Connell will enter the army as a Second Lieutenant "I believe that being a counselor has prepared me to deal with people in a leadership position.

Jim Peck, Summersville junior, said "I think the most important thing is to help the men on our floor with any problems they may have and to protect school property.'

Jim said that the funniest thing that ever happened to him was finding a gold fish in the urinal complete with food and a sign saying "Do not flush, Charly the tuna lives here." He also said that being a counselor has helped him meet a lot of people but the most important experience to him is helping other people. Bill Anderson, Williamstown senior, said "A counselor is basically there to help the men with their problems, prevent damage to school property and maintain order in the residence hall.

"I suppose about the best experience I had happened last year in South Hall. Several residents brought in two large boxes of doughnuts and we had a doughnut battle. Fun is fun but when they started throwing jelly doughnuts things got a little messy. However most of the damage was cleaned up before the maids came the next morning.

Bill said he has learned as much from the counselees as they have learned from him. "The money I have earned has helped me pay some college bills also.

Robert Ford, Shady Spring senior, said "By being a counselor and upper classman I have achieved some instances to relieve pressure on lower classmen. They confide in me on such problems as being away from home for the first time and personal problems.'

Because he is a first year counselor he has had no ill experiences.

"The knowledge I have gained in my duties is invaluable. Peer relationship between students and counselor tend to encourage better relations which will serve both in the future.'

Interviews said valuable

Graduating seniors should try to keep their appointments for job interviews, according to Reg Spencer, director of the Career Planning and Placement Office.

"The Placement Office is set up as a service office and the students should fulfill their interview obligations," Mr. Spencer added.

"We encourage and invite businesses, school systems, and government agencies to visit Marshall. If the student does not show up valuable time is wasted."

"A student may call the office and make proper cancellation of his interview," commented Mr. Spencer.

"The cancelled time may be filled by another student and prevent loss of time for the interviewers.'

Mr. Spencer also stated that if a student misses an interview, a letter is sent to him. A student with two or more unexcused absences is denied further opportunity to get an interview.

Mr. Spencer encourages all graduating seniors to use the benefits of the Placement Of-fice. The "Employment Opportunity Bulletin", published weekly by the Placement Office, lists all incoming in-terviews and fields of em-ployment. They may be obtained in the Placement Office.

IFC will vote on hours plan

A proposal concerning visiting hours for women in fraternity houses has been submitted to the Interfraternity Council.

The proppsal submitted by John Wilson, Milton sophomore, will follow almost the same guidelines as set up in the plan for dorm visiting hours. Each house will have the oppprtunity to vote on the number of hours that they wish to have women in their rooms.

The final proposal will be voted on in the Monday night meeting of IFC.

JOHN SHORT COORDINATES PLANNING Student heads committee to plan student center

Students shaping plans for new student center

By JILL WILLIAMSON Feature editor

The new student center, soon to take the place of the antiquated Shawkey Student Union built 37 years ago, is beginning to take shape with the help of student ideas.

A group called the Student Center Planning Committee has been working to "make the new center really unique," according to John David Short, chairman of the committee.

"What we want to do is to create a community feeling. We're going to get people together," he said.

The goals of the Student Center Planning Committee will be to do everything with the students in mind, to make the union the focal point on campus and to bring in a hometown type atmosphere.

'We are trying to do what we think the students want," Short added.

The SCPS (Student Center Planning Committee) has about 30 members, two of which are faculty advisors. All students are represented on the committee, including commuters. Eight members of the committee, have recently returned from a tour of other student unions in the Ohio area for the purpose of getting ideas according to Short.

Present plans for the student center include a music listening and browsing room with separate cubicles for individual listening. A game area is planned for the lower level. Provisions have been made for eight bowling lanes, 15 billiard tables, and pinball machines. Off the game area a "Rathskeller" is proposed, which it is hoped will serve to create a coffee house type atmosphere, Short said

A student workshop is planned for the first level. It is hoped that a full time director will be able to assist any students wishing to make posters or signs, and to help in the proposed darkrooms

The cafeteria and snack bar will fill the second level. The third floor includes plans for a multi-purpose room which will be used for films and lectures with a seating capacity of 800. Dances will also be held in the room which is to have a glassed-in terrace overlooking the campus.

'For the first time in Marshall's history the students will get a chance to say what they want and see it happen," said Short. "We need students to participate for programs and activities.

Interested students or any students with suggestions or gripes should contact John Short in the Student Government Office.

MEAL TIME CHANGED

Beginning Sunday, all cafeterias will be open from 11:00 to 1:45 to allow students more time to eat their Sunday meals.

Rehearsals of play are well underway

Take 20 actors, 18 singers and dancers, an acting director, a director music and choreographer, 25 scene changes, a 20 piece orchestra . put them all together and what do you have? Mass confusion? For the present time perhaps, but eventually the Pultizer Prize winning musical comedy, 'How To Succeed In Business Without Really Trying.'

Hectic music rehearsals are well underway in Smith Music Hall under the direction of Dr. Richard Barbour, associate professor of music, music director and choreographer for the show

"Rehearsals are going well, and a lot of good ideas are coming from the students themselves," said Dr. Barbour. It is also his feeling that the people are getting into character and that "How To getting into Succeed" is a good show for the chorus.

Meanwhile, back at Old Main Auditorium, the actors are equally busy working with Dr. Elaine Novak, associate professor of speech, and acting director for the show. She explains the show as "an entertaining musical satire on the Organization Man.'

The story is that of a young man's climb to a position of great power by following the simple rules in a book called

"How To Succeed In Business Without Really Trying." Donald Weed, Chesapeake senior, is cast in the lead of J. Pierreport Finch. The girl who loyally hangs on during his ascent and eventually wins him is played by Gena Brooks, Man senior.

All the way to the top the hero runs into obstacles, including his biggest rival, the boss's nephew, Bud Frump. In this case, it is Benny Key, Kenova senior. There is the dangerous secretary, Anne Woodall, Huntington sophomore, and finally the big boss himself, Mr. J. B. Biggley, played by Jim Lawhorn, Mason senior

Love beads sign of peace at Marshall

Look around campus, and you are bound to see a number of students, men and women, wearing love beads.

Why do students wear these beads?

"I like the way they look," said Cathy Spencer, Huntington freshman. "But there's more to them than just looks. They say something special. When I wear them. I think I'm more conscious of being nice to people."

"Wearing love beads is like carrying a peace sign, except in a more subtle way," said Linda Hatten, Kenova junior. "I think most people wear them because of the peace associated with them, not because it's a fad."

Cathy Gibbs, Huntington sophomore, said, "Many people mistake the love beads for hippie beads. But I feel that the're significant of something good. I wear them because I like them, not because everyone else wears them.

"I think people wear them because of what they symbolize - peace, which seems to be what our generation stands for," said Vaughan Wallace, Huntington sophomore.

Most students seem to associate their love beads with peace, although there are those who flatly say, "They look tough.

The love beads are strung on elastic thread, so they can be put on by stretching them over one's head. This presents a problem to some people, who stretch the elastic too far, and break them.

There are other problems involved with the love beads. Miss Spencer said that she had a bowl of beads to be strung setting on her dresser, and knocked it off. "It took me a week to get all of the beads off the floor," she said. "And I still find some every now and then."

Many students enjoy making love beads for other people. It takes about a half hour to make a necklace of the beads.

Sparkling play moves Herd

THE PARTHENON

By TIM BUCEY Sports editor

Preparation for a basketball game always begins several days before that tip-off comes. And according to Coach Stewart Way his Thundering Herd began pulling a major upset the day before the game nationally in one poll this week, started

"We had a tremendous practice Tuesday. It wasn't a long practice but we worked, worked, and worked. They were really determined," Way said.

THE BOBCATS, ranked 20th are now 15-4 overall and still lead the Mid-American Conference with a 7-1 record. They are one game ahead of Bowling Green in the loss column, the Herd's foe Saturday night at the Fieldhouse.

For Marshall it was their second upset of the season, the first being the win over previously undefeated LaSalle.

The thought of playing a top notch team like Ohio seemed to have the Herd up for the game right from the start, and even though the Bobcats held a few brief leads the Herd never lost its momentum.

"WE WERE up for it all week," Russell Lee, who was the high point man with 31, said happily. "We play our best against a team like them. It's sometimes hard to set up for a team like Morris Harvey.

And Bob DePathy, who celebrated his birthday with the victory even though he had an offnight scoring wise, agreed.

"We'd been thinking about that one since football season,' DePathy hollered, obviously referring to the football game in which Ohio edged the Herd 38-35 in the final minute of play.

Coach Way, for the first time since Jan. 14 was all smiles again. His team broke the sixgame losing string in unbelievable fashion

"THAT'S A GREAT team we beat," Way said with a sigh of relief. "I'd say it's the best team we've played and it was our best team effort. It took everything we had.

"We've played some games where we looked real good in spurts but tonight we put it all together," the coach added.

The Herd held a one point halftime edge and continued battling on even terms with the Bobcats never leading by more than six points at any time in the second half.

'When we use to play a close game, we'd lose our momentum but tonight we didn't," Way said. "But I don't think this loss is going to hurt the Bobcats - it may have even done them some good.

ANOTHER UNUSUAL event was the fact the Herd had only three personals called against it in the second half, and only 12 in the entire game. The Bobcats had 20 personals whistled against them.

"I didn't even see who was officiating," Way quipped. "That's the kind of officials you want - the one's you can't see. They did a good job."

Standing in the Ohio dressing room, one of the Bobcats assistant coaches, said, "We played real good. We're not disappointed in our team. We've played worse before and won, but Marshall.

Statistically, the Herd came alive in the second half after hitting only 37.5 percent in the first half. They finished with a 48.6 percentage. The second high scorer for the Herd was Joe Taylor with 25 points and Dave Smith was top rebounder with 15

MARSHALL was without the services of Bernard Bradshaw who earlier this week quit the team, reportedly to give more time to his studies. For Ohio Greg McDivitt led the scorers with 27 points and 12 rebounds. Craig Love also grabbed 12 rebounds. The two teams will meet again Wednesday at Athens.

Saturday, though, Marshall, 7-11, will be out to revenge a 94-78 loss to Bowling Green suffered last month when the Falcons came to the Fieldhouse for an 8 p.m. game.

The Falcons are one of three teams with a shot at the MAC title, being one game in the loss column behind Ohio. They are 11-6 on the season after beating Kent 65-56 Wednesday

TOP SCORERS for the Falcons after 16 games are Jim Penix, averaging 18.0 and third in the MAC in scoring, Rich Walker, 17.1 is fourth in the league and Dan McLemore, 16.7 is fifth in the league in scoring. Other starters are Jim Connally, 9.3 and Bob Guayle, 8.4. They have lost only to Toledo and Miami in league play.

MU wrestlers meet Ohio team Saturday will also take on Morehead State University today and Defiance College Saturday night.

The victories include beating West Virginia University, 27-7, Duke University, 23-13, and the University of North Carolina, 26-11. The only setbacks of the year were a tie with the University of Cincinnati and a loss to East Carolina University

Frosh topples OU Bobkittens

By JEFF NATHAN Staff reporter

"We were a little stronger under the boards than they were, and we did a better job of rebounding," said Coach Dan D'Antoni Wednesday night, after his MU freshmen had rolled past Ohio University 94-81.

Marshall jumped to a 5-0 lead on goals by Ty Collins and John Sark and a foul shot by Mike D'Antoni. But the Bobkittens, who didn't score until 16:25, cut the lead to 7-5 on a goal by Steve Swisher, and three fouls by Ken Heiby

The Little Herd then began to connect and at the 10 minute mark it was 26-9 Marshall. They stretched the lead to 30-11 with 8:52 to go, but D'Antono got his third foul at 5:00, and two minutes later OU had cut it back to 12. The half ended with Marshall leading 44-31

The second half saw Marshall's lead waiver between 14 and 16 points, until Sark's two foul shots with 13:58 remaining lengthened it to 59-41. With 5:23 to go, MU enjoyed its biggest lead at 83-63 and Coach D'Antoni began to clear the bench.

Marshall sank 39-89 from the field for 46 per cent, while OU shot a poor 39 per cent on 35-92. Collins lead the Little Herd with 30 points, while Sark had 26. Heiby scored 31 for OU and Swisher, who made 12-16 from the floor, had 26 points and 21 rebounds. Marshall also won the rebound battle 55-54.

Mike D'Antoni suffered through his worst night of the year, but still amazed the crowd with his pinpoint passes, which caused one fan to say that he must have eyes in the side of his head D'Antoni said he felt his performance was just one of those nights. In reviewing the game he said, "I feel we were a better ball club. They didn't get back on defense and our guys really hit the boards and made the fast break go. I think we just outplayed them.

OU Coach Phil Roach pointed to his team's bad start as a deciding factor. "The way we started the game killed us," he said. "We got so far behind, we had to play catch up. I think we'll do better when we get them at home.'

promised war collection MU

The Rosanna Blake Civil War Collection has been promised to Marshall University and a room on the third floor of the library has been prepared for it, according to Dr. Charles H. Moffat, chairman of the Department of History.

"It is the largest (collection) in the world and has several important historical documents, Civil War songs, and letters from important people of that period, "Dr. Moffat said.

"Rosanna Blake is a former student of Marshall and a prominent attorney in Washington. She received an honorary doctorate from Mashall and has every intention of giving this important collection to us but no definite date as to when has been established."

According to Dr. A. Mervin Vice-President of Tyson, Academic Affairs, Marshall does not have an archivist at the present time.

"This is a job that needs highly trained personnel," said Dr. Tyson. "No one individual can do all the work involved in displaying documents contained in the Rosanna Blake Collection.'

MU swimmers at BG tonight

The Marshall swim team, 2-5 on the season, may be a little waterlogged after this weekend. They have a meet tonight at Bowling Green, and then on Saturday swim in a dual meet at Kalamazoo, Michigan with Western Michigan and Ball State University Tonight's meet is between two teams who have almost identical records. Marshall is 2-5 on the season, and Bowling Green is 2-6.

Bowling Green will be led by senior, co-captain, Bill Zeeb, who is their freestyler.

For Marshall, Jeff Pratt, who set two records in last weeks meet, will swim the freestyle. In tomorrow's meet the teams have fairly even records. Marshall and Ball State are 2-5 and 2-4 respectively. Western Michigan will be slightly favored with a record of 4-5.

MU's two wins came over Morehead, 61-52, and Northern Illinois, 54-49.
