Student election result announced

By BEV BURGESS
Staff reporter

The March 11 student body election disclosed eight campus housing senators were elected to serve a six-month to a one-year term.

The election information was released Tuesday by Student Body President Pam Slaughter. Margaret Wright, Webster Springs junior, election commissioner, refused to release the totals contending it would be "too embarrassing" to those who had lost.

Write-in candidates for the same positions are Gary Forren, Quinimont junior, and Niki Garnett, Huntington junior, polling 396 votes in their unsuccessful campaign.

Janet Lewis, of Huntington, and Leanne Lett, of South Charleston, are graduate class president and vice president with six and three votes respectively.

Unsuccessful candidates for president were Tom Zerbe, of Akron, Ohio, and Paul Cun-

Sandra Hammat, of Williamstown, and Peggy Morton, of Rainelle, both ISP candidates, are president and vice president of the senior class with 101 and 91 votes respectively.

John Houck, of Pineville, and Raymond Row, not registered, 187 votes on the ISP ticket.

Unsuccessful write-in candidates for president were: Mike Chapman, of Barboursville, 1; Jack Fannin, of Shoals, 2; and Williams, 1, and Spencer, 2.

Unsuccessful candidates for vice president were write-ins:

Town, captured sophomore president and vice president titles with 162 and 217 votes respectively.

Unsuccessful candidates for president were: Charles Clark, ISP, of Huntington, and write-in Egloff, 1, with no other information given.

Dave Black, ISP, and Kent Runyan, both of Huntington, are freshman president and vice president with 209 and 252 votes respectively.

Unsuccessful presidential candidates were: James McCoy, of Huntington, 103, and write-in Kent Runyan, of Huntington, 6.

Polling 6,343 votes collectively, 26 senators were elected from 41 candidates. Senators with the highest number of votes individually were elected to a one-year term, and those with the second highest number of votes will serve a six-month term, to be re-elected in October.

Faculty will discuss pay at meeting

By TOMMIE DENNY
Editor-in-chief

In a special faculty bulletin issued Tuesday by Dr. Roland H. Nelson Jr., information applicable to faculty salary increments for 1970-71 was recorded.

The bulletin, which contained a memorandum sent to the Faculty Personnel Committee by Dr. Nelson, set down the Board of Regent's guidelines to be followed for salary administration as well as excerpts from the Greenbook.

The Board of Regents has allocated $7,022,787 for personal services in the 1970-71 budget. This is $597,548 more than last year, or a 9.3% increase. The following guidelines have been prescribed by the Board:

A. A single across-the-board percentage increase for all faculty or non-professional personnel is not considered desirable.

B. While it is recognized that special situations may exist in some institutions, nevertheless, to the extent feasible, priority should be given to the improvement of salaries of current personnel in lieu of employing additional faculty personnel for the purpose of reducing student-faculty ratios.

An Ad Hoc Committee for the Study of a Faculty Merit System was recently formed, but as of Tuesday no report has been received from the members.

The petition, given to Greg Wallace, Huntington senior and Chief Justice of the Student Court, ask that election figures be released by the election commissioner following each election.

The petition resulted from actions in the recent Student Body Election. According to Smith, Margaret Wright, Webster Springs junior and Election Commission chairman refused to release the election figures because she felt it would be embarrassing to the students who lost.

Filing the petition, Smith said, "The Election Commission had no grounds to decide what would be embarrassing." He feels that if the guideline is set to release the figures after elections, the commission should have enough time to compile the results and give a formal breakdown.

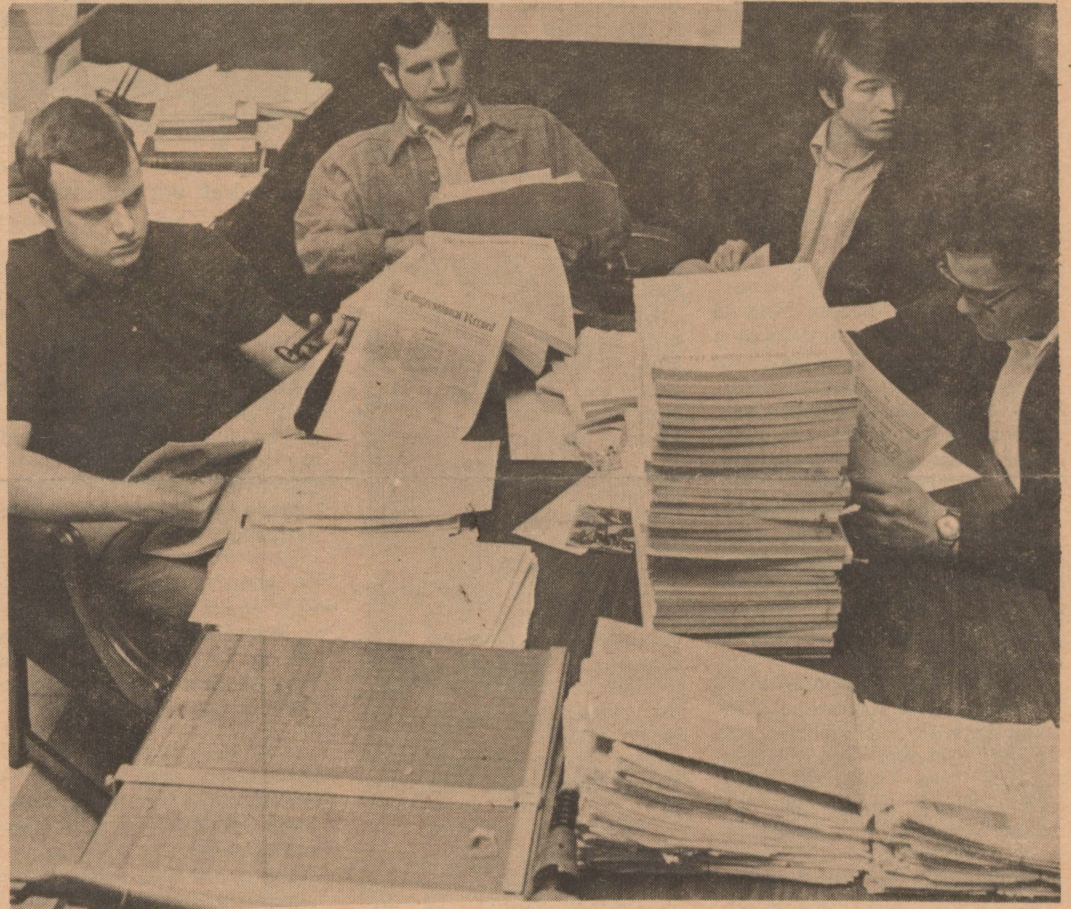

Smith, who received results a week after the election from former Student Body President Pam Slaughter, Dunbar senior, said that a good example of why the figures should be released as soon after the election as possible, is that the recently elected president of the graduate class won by a margin of six votes, and the vice president by a margin of three votes.

Smith said another reason they should be released is that if there is an instance in which a senator resigns, the person who had received the next most number of votes would take office.

According to Chief Justice Greg Wallace, the petition is the only one of its kind ever to be filed with the Student Court.

Opinions on draft to be given today

Students can voice opinions about the nation's Selective Service System at a hearing at 3 p.m. today in Science Hall Auditorium.

The hearing, part of a program initiated by Rep. John Slack, D-W. Va., is designed to give college students a chance to make new draft laws or amendments to the present ones.

Patrick Cowles, Huntington graduate and hearing chairman, said draft laws passed during the last two years will be reviewed at the meeting. In addition, students may make proposals of new laws.

Such proposals will be voted on. Those receiving the greatest support will be sent to Representative Slack, who will present them to the House Armed Forces Committee, of which he is a member.

Cowles said it is hoped all students will attend the meeting to make suggestions and proposals. He said any suggestion will be heard and voted on.

Fund ceiling raised

The goal of the Commitment To Marshall 1970 is $300,000 compared to the $220,000 goal set last year.

The campaign ending June 30, 1969, resulted in a record breaking total of $90,471, of which $43,000 was contributed by alumni.

The 1969 campaign showed a 72% increase over the campaign ending in the 1968 fiscal year, though the 1969 total was only 41.123% of the $220,000 goal.

This year's fund raising drive has been extended from the end of the fiscal year to Dec. 31, 1970.

According to Howard St. Clair, director of Alumni Affairs, changing to a calendar year will create less problems with tax computations.

As it stands now, "recommendations for salary of current faculty will be made by chairmen of departments after consultation with members of their department. Such recommendations then go to the dean, in turn, to the academic vice president and, in turn, to the President. Any faculty member who feels that he is not justly treated may appeal to the Faculty Personnel Committee," according to the special faculty bulletin.

At the March 12 meeting of the Faculty Personnel Committee Meeting, allocation of funds for faculty personnel for 1970-71 was discussed. The following resolutions were forwarded to Dr. Nelson:

1. That priority be given to provision for a 6% cost of living increment for all members of the faculty.

2. That attention be given to Marshall's rating in the several ranks as compared with the "B" scale of AAUP in providing additional faculty increments.

The resolutions will be presented for discussion at a general faculty meeting to be held 4 p.m. March 24.

The expenditure schedule must reach the office of the Chancellor by April 24. In order to meet this deadline, said Dr. Nelson, all faculty increments must be determined and submitted to the Director of Finance by April 16.

"I look to the meeting as a full and open exchange of views relative to determining faculty salary increments. I am presuming that the basis of the discussion might well be the president's memorandum setting forth the extant policies and procedures for determining raises and the minutes of the Faculty-Personnel Committee of March 12," said Dr. Dedmon.

senators were elected from 13 candidates. Those elected to a one-year term include Theo Wallace, ISP, Vienna junior, 176; Sandy Stewart, ISP, West Columbia junior, 161, and Janet McGinnes, ISP, Flemington, N.J., sophomore, 143.

Elected to six-month terms are: Harry Sullivan, ISP, Milton sophomore, 127; David Borling, ISP, Grafton, Ohio, junior, 126; and Ronald Woodson, ISP, Charleston junior, 121.

Transient students elected 12 senators from 17 candidates. Those elected to a one-year term include: Nora Horton, ISP, Huntington sophomore, 196; William Hutchison, ISP, Huntington sophomore, 184; Jane McComas, ISP, Huntington sophomore, 183; Steve Hinerman, ISP, Huntington junior, 181; Robin Murray, ISP, Huntington freshman, 176 and

Serving a six-month term are: Joe White, ISP, Weston freshman, 195; Emil Ralbusky, Wheeling sophomore, 189; John Fanning, ISP, Kermit sophomore, 185, and Anna Ellenbogen, York, Pa., freshman, 178.

DR. ALAN SIMPSON, president of Vassar College, Poughkeepsie, N.Y., will appear at 11 a.m. today in Old Main Auditorium as guest speaker for Honors Convocation. His topic is "Marks of An Educated Man."

Letter to the editor

To the editor:

Today at 3 p.m. in the Science Hall auditorium student voices on the draft are to be heard.

I've heard a lot of students gripe about the inequities of the draft system. This is their opportunity to air these complaints. It is also a legitimate opportunity for students to change a system that is far from perfect. The best ideas will be incorporated into a draft revision bill being prepared by Marshall students to be introduced into congress by Rep. John Slack.

I whole heartedly agree with Billy Hutchison (for a change) in that potential draftees who fail to attend this session without good reason no longer have a right to complain.

This is your chance to help determine the future of America and your own personal future. Student voices are now being heard!

Come to the Science Hall auditorium today at 3 p.m., if you want to be heard. Do you give a damn?

Fast is planned as war protest

By RICK BANKS
Staff reporter

Another Vietnam moratorium observance is planned for Marshall April 15 in conjunction with a three-day national "peace fast," according to Charles Preston, Huntington junior and coordinator of the October moratorium.

He said Marshall moratorium planners are working with the national committee in Washington in an attempt to get a national speaker here.

The Vietnam Moratorium Committee in Washington is calling for a national "peace fast" April 13-15 to "demonstrate our deep moral commitment against the Vietnam War."

National planners are asking that money usually spent for food those three days be sent to victims of the war.

"After many months of low-key grassroots organizing against the war, we feel it is again time for a dramatic protest. Therefore, on April 13-15 there will be a three-day 'peace fast' to demonstrate our deep moral commitment against the Vietnam War," said national moratorium planners in a news release.

According to the news release "many students already are asking their cafeterias and dormitories for reimbursements for their meals during those three days."

As for Marshall, Preston said some people are expected to

Morearty speaks

Tim Morearty, 25, of the New England Freepress, will speak at 9 p.m. today at the Campus Christian Center. The meeting is sponsored by the local chapter of Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) and is open to all students and townspeople.

Morearty spent two months in Cuba cutting sugar cane and touring the country with the Venceremos Brigade, an SDS sponsored group of college students and other young people, which recently returned to the United States.

He will talk about his visit and explain the reasons many of the 216 young people went to Cuba, according to Tom Woodruff, Charleston senior, local chapter president.

observe the fast and that some people are observing this week's anti-draft fast.

He said the only way to get a national speaker here is to work out travel arrangements.

Impact Week, a Student-Government-sponsored discussion program, is scheduled the week following the moratorium.

"At Impact we're having two speakers who will discuss involvement in Vietnam from the standpoint that we should never have been there and should get out faster than President Nixon is planning," said Preston.

"I feel that this moratorium will be equal to October's if we have a national speaker. This time we will concentrate on a more rapid peace movement, rather than searching both sides.

"There is much more concern on campus this semester than there was last. However, emotions will be much better displayed during Impact week due to the relevance of the speakers.

"We were going to have William Kuntzler, defense attorney for the Chicago Seven for the moratorium, but due to the fact that he is in great demand and appeals to the trial are beginning, his office decided to let another school have the benefit of having a member of the trial."

Do You Want . . .
MONEY FOR FUTURE FAMILY
RESPONSIBILITY?

If you're like most young men marriage will probably be your next big step. And marriage means increased responsibilities. It's a good idea to start building a cash reserve now to provide for those future family responsibilities. A life insurance program started now, when rates are lowest, offers a unique solution to this problem. I'd like to discuss such a program with you at your convenience.

Former golfer is back

A former West Virginia State College all-conference choice has joined the Marshall golf team.

David Roach, Barboursville junior, who won the honor his freshman year at State, sat out last year to regain his eligibility. He will have two years of eligibility left at MU.

At the age of 14 Roach was the JC novelist medalist. In his junior year of high school he was regional JC medalist, state JC medalist, and he participated in the national JC tournament.

He was also Duke Ridgley League co-medalist and high school regional medalist in 1966.

Roach has placed in several statewide tournaments.

The only goal he has this year is to average the same as he did at State.

"I hope to average between 72 and 74 strokes a match," said Roach.

He added, "I think the golf team has a bright future for the reason that this is the first time in many years that it has had depth."

Roach doesn't think the Mid-American Conference ruling expelling Marshall will effect the golf team.

"The MAC ruling won't effect the golf team any, except that we won't be able to prove ourselves in the conference," he said.

"We don't really have to prove ourselves, though," he added, "our past record speaks for itself."

"I think we are as good as any MAC team," Roach said. He continued, "Not being in the MAC won't downgrade our status; the only way it will hurt the individual players is that we won't be able to participate in the NCAA (National Collegiate Athletic Association) tournament for being medalist in the MAC tournament."

The medalist in MAC tourney play is invited to the NCAA tournament each year.

Roach was not pleased with his play in the qualifying rounds completed last week.

"I shot fairly well, but I only got to play nine holes while the others were playing 18," he said.

Roach said the courses he will be playing this year will be tougher than those he has played in the past.

KA's host tournament

The fourth annual Kappa Alpha Invitational Basketball Tournament will be this weekend.

This year's guest list will include Auburn University, Wake Forest, North Carolina, West Virginia Wesleyan, Eastern Kentucky University, Transylvania, West Virginia University and the University of Kentucky.

A tournament will be held at the Huntington High School Gymnasium from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday, March 21. The championship and consolation games will be played Sunday morning at 10:00.

The tournament will be complemented by a Friday afternoon TGIF at the Library for the brothers.

Baseball official is guest speaker

Whitey Hueit, major Mid-western college baseball official for 20 years, will be guest speaker at the annual Marshall University basketball banquet Sunday at 6:30 p.m. at the Owens-Illinois Clubhouse.

In addition to having been an official for the Missouri Valley, Ohio Valley, Big Ten and Mid-American conferences, he has officiated three NCAA regional tournaments and is a veteran "whistler-tooter" in Ohio and Kentucky state high school

Second look at pollution to be today

A campus-wide environmental teach-in will be held today from 3-5 p.m. in Old Main Auditorium, according to Richard T. Jennings, instructor in English.

Phil Charles, Cape May, N.J., sophomore and chairman of the teach-in, will lead off with a brief introductory talk. The audience will then divide into groups to discuss three areas of pollution - air, water and soil - and population problems.

Jennings said these groups are researching their own problems on pollution in the Tri-State area and will prepare reports and recommend corrective action. Reports are to be submitted for the April 22 nation-wide environmental teach-in involving all states and approximately 700 campuses, he said.

"We want to inform the public and the student body concerning the harmful effects of pollution and over population, and the cost to the individual, his health and his pocketbook," Jennings said.

Way looks for brighter future

By TIM BUCEY
Sports editor

Another of the many steps which had to be taken to put 'Marshall on the Move,' has been completed with the appointment of a head basketball coach.

Now taking over as permanent Head Coach, Stewart Way is looking forward to a brighter future, both in recruiting and scheduling.

Among the opponents on next season's card are Mississippi, Iowa State, Purdue, LaSalle and St. Peters.

Recruiting-wise the staff last weekend signed 6-7 Lyle Monroe of Fort Recovery, Ohio, and Jerome Strittholt, 6-4, of Cincinnati.

"We've really covered this area well," Way said of the recruiting. "Everything we do all season long, we always have recruiting in our minds."

"Those two we signed are real good prospects and we'll get some running mates to go with them. We're really striving to bolster the basketball program."

There were problems last season which contributed to The Herd's disappointing 9-14 season, such as a letter which circulated among the basketball players by an unknown person asking they sign it and present it to the athletic director in hopes former Coach Ellis Johnson would be reinstated.

Other matters which have been covered up by players and coaches occurred during the season adding an ounce of dissension among the players.

"We had a lot of problems this season and in view of the fact we'll be working on a permanent basis, we feel we can establish a solid program," Assistant Coach McKenzie said.

"The future of this program will be run with the utmost regard for the young men involved. It will be run with the integrity, dignity and class that would be a credit to the University, the community and the young men involved."

"I am personally looking forward to working for this truly outstanding person," McKenzie continued. "He is one of the finest gentlemen I've ever been associated with. The young men in the basketball program are always utmost in his mind."

Starters selected

With the baseball team opening its 1970 schedule on March 23, Coach Jack Cook will decide his starting line-up later this week, according to the Athletic Department.

Coach Cook will pitch four men on Monday against West Virginia State College. They are: Carl Hewlett, Huntington senior; Gary Stobart, Middleport, Ohio senior; Rodney May, Barboursville junior; and Gary Leach, Ironton, Ohio senior.

Only two positions have been definitely decided so far, according to Coach Cook. Glenn Verbage, Huntington junior will be playing second base, while Roger Gertz, Logan senior will hold down third.

Jennings wants prior teach-in Richard T. Jennings, instructor of English, has asked that each professor spend one class prior to the April 22 teach-in relating their course to the total environment of man.

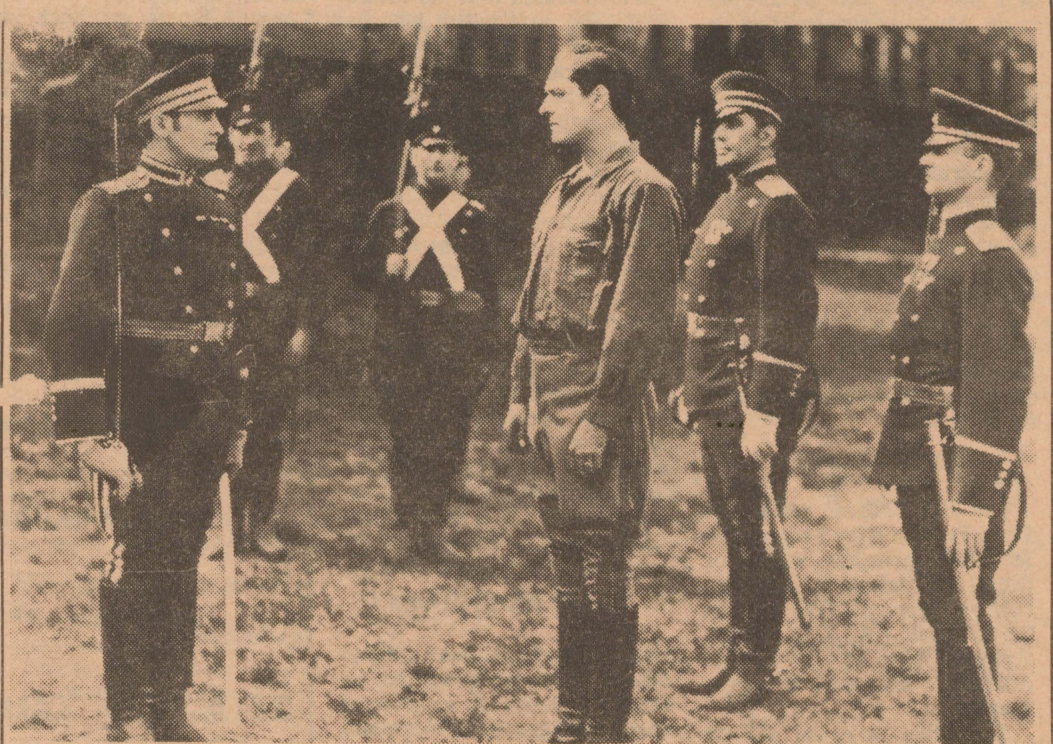

Jennings stated that these class periods would be most helpful if they came on April 20-21, before the teach-in on environment.

YMCA MEMBERSHIP

The Huntington YMCA is offering a college membership to both male and female students at a cost of $10 a semester. The offer is good only at the 6th Ave. building.

The membership includes use of the gym, gameroom, handball court, weight room, and pool.

Interested students should contact the YMCA office or Jack Jones at 525-2095.

Opening should end 'suitcasers'

New union to have more facilities

By WILLIAM O'CONNELL
Staff reporter

Opening of the new student center this fall should keep more students on campus on weekends--perhaps erasing Marshall's reputation as a "suitcase" University, believes the chairman of the Student Center Planning Committee.

"Now we will have the facilities to provide for the students interests," said John Short, Huntington sophomore. "For once we will have a focal point. No longer will Marshall close down on weekends. The new student center will end this."

"A feeling of community" is what Short hopes the center will create on campus. "We want to bring people together, to provide programs for every aspect of the University," he said.

Short feels the potential of the new center is limitless. The major problem as he views it is to gain student participation. Challenging Marshall students he proposed the question, "Are we really in fact running an extension of high school?" He believes the new center can and will change the image of Marshall.

Pointing to the fact the New Student Center will be large (capable of holding up to 8,000 persons) Short feels some of the problems experienced in the old union will disappear in the new one. Because of its size the new center will not be subject to the "territorialism" which now is present in the Shawkey Student Union, said Short. Territorialism is used to describe the gathering of individual groups of students in the present student union rather than a general mixing of students which Short hopes will come about in the new building.

Upon completion of construction, Short sees the major problem for the center as being the creation of an audience. The question will then be to provide a program of interest to the students. This, hopefully, will generate an audience which will in turn provide feedback for the development of further programs, Short said.

The planning committee is involved in investigating which type of center government structure is best suited for Marshall.

"At this time we have to have a program by which the center will be run. We have to decide upon how it is to be administered. This planning is a precedent, we cannot be haphazard in its coordination," said Short.

"Marshall is unique in its uniqueness. We can never be really sure of what will happen here at Marshall with the center," he added.

Commenting on the planning stages of the center Short said his committee has suffered from the immature proposals of Student Senate in the past. "The administration looks at us as immature due to the Student Senate. This is why we are flooded with busy work," said Short.

The idea of self-development has guided the actions of the committee, said Short. He feels college is for developing yourself into a whole person and that the new Student Center will help tremendously in this respect.

"We are going to experiment. I know that's a dirty word to some around here, but that is what we're going to do, experiment," said the chairman. He compared the center to a new baby. "We may fall while learning to walk but in the end we will learn."

Echoing the interest he hopes to generate on campus Short said, "I'm impatient. I can't wait for the building to open."

153 make dean's list

The Dean's List for the School of Business for first semester includes 153 students. The students had an average of 3.00 (B) or better while carrying 12 hours or more.

On the list are 22 freshmen, 36 sophomores, 27 juniors, and 68 seniors.

Eight freshmen had 3.5 averages or better. They are Dana C. Stephens, Point Pleasant; Lloyd A. Casto, South Charleston; Mary A. Dahmer, Charleston; David L. Duvall, Huntington; Teresa D. Harman, Wilcoe; Steven M. Adkins, Ravenswood; Deborah A. Garrett, Dunbar; and Sharon R. Legg, Princeton.

Averaging 3.5 or better were 11 sophomores. Included are Stephen M. Casto, St. Albans; Steven B. Payne, Winfield; Edsel K. Burns, Branchland; Mike A. D'Antoni, Wilwood, New Jersey; Richard F. Sudol, Wallington, New Jersey; Robert H. Thorne, Charleston; Bobbie Smith, Huntington; Joseph Sowards, Huntington; Robert W. Leslie, Winfield; Edwin R. Patton, Beckley; and Connie Reavis, Bluefield.

Five juniors averaged 3.5 or better. They are Robert R. Long, Huntington; Nancy Dickens, Rock Creek; David W. McLaughlin, Nitro; Charles M. Polan, San Francisco, Calif.; and Thomas D. Williams, Huntington.

The 20 seniors having averages of 3.5 or better include David M. McComas, Huntington; Herman Edwards, Huntington; Phillip Harless, St. Albans; Charles N. Sigmon, Charleston; Loretta Bailes, Cross Lanes; Charles L. Denney, Huntington; Roger Amick, Huntington; Robert Howell, Chesapeake, Ohio; Willard Cattlett, Huntington; and Peyton Dudley, Huntington.

Lawrence Lowry, Huntington; Stephen Monroe, Cameron; Clarion T. Owen, Beckley; George Stolze, Huntington; Joseph Yingst, Huntington; Michael Hairston, Charleston; Eugene Horvath, Huntington; Carolyn Kounds, Russell, Ky.; Terrance Legg, Lewisburg; and John W. Riccardi, Montgomery.

Library not being used

"Far fewer students are using the University Library this year than did last year," according to H. W. Apel, librarian. He attributes this to the completion of Twin-Towers, which contains convenient study areas and facilities.

Last year male students were housed three in a room at South Hall, until remodeling was completed in Hodges Hall. This caused study problems because of the crowded noisy conditions and the only two desks per room. Students escaped this by using the library.

Apel also said that students don't care enough to visit the library. Other students experience frustration from lack of librarian aid, which is due to the professional shortage on the library staff. Those qualified must devote time to other duties, such as filing and other clerical jobs.

The library's busiest months are April, when freshmen term papers are due; March, with mid-semester exams and finals in May.

TO BE HONORED

The Phi chapter of Kappa Delta Pi, education honorary at Marshall University, will honor dean's list students in Teacher's College today at 7:30 p.m. at Smith Hall 154. Dr. Mervin Tyson, Vice-President of Academic Affairs, will be the speaker.

A musical program will be presented by an instrumental trio consisting of Grace Malcolm, Charles O'Connell and McHenry Ellis.

Director to resign

By JOHN T. POORE
Staff reporter

John Arnold, director of the Logan Branch of Marshall University, has resigned effective June 30, 1970, to resume teaching, probably somewhere in the south.

Arnold stated that his future is rather indefinite, but he definitely will resume his teaching career. "I appreciate the opportunity to have served in this position and I consider it a responsible one, important not only to Marshall, but to our community in general." He said that he was particularly appreciative of the assistance from Paul Collins, director of adult education, who coordinates the programs of the branch colleges of Marshall.

Arnold started as the director of the branch in April of 1967, when the enrollment was 287, and as of this semester the enrollment is 445, with the curriculum substantially increased from 35 to 60 sections.

In Arnold's three years at Logan, the enrollment has increased substantially, but according to him, "we have still to reach our full potential. We have made some commendable strides but there is still a great deal left to be done."

In reflecting his past experience at Logan, Arnold said that he regrets very much leaving the area, but "I feel that I would like to get back into teaching."

"Working in conjunction with the Logan - Marshall Alumni Association, we have managed to increase our program of cultural activities substantially, and I think it is in the best interest of all concerned if we continue in this direction."
