To change the present policy (p. 43 of the 1990-91 Graduate Catalog under the heading "General Requirements for Master's Degree") stating:

"A course may be counted toward only one graduate degree."

to read as follows:

"A student who wishes to earn a second master's degree at Marshall University must make formal application to the department in which the second master's degree is sought. A maximum of 9 semester hours from a first degree may be applied toward the second master's degree, with the approval of the department from which the second degree is sought. Such approval must be requested at the time the student begins the second master's program."

RATIONALE: To provide greater flexibility to meet student needs. The policy is consistent with those of other universities in the region.
