RE: Attached Course
DATE: October 30, 1989

By way of explanation the attached course passed all appropriate committees last year and went to the Faculty Senate. The Faculty Senate objected to the title which was "Library Survival Skills," but passed the course on May 25, 1989.

The course was then sent back and we are re-submitting the same course with a new title, i.e., "Introduction to Library Skills." We would like a Senate vote on this new title.

Reason for change or deletion: Present title may lead students to think that a research paper is required, thus causing reluctance to take the course. The new title (approved by the University librarians), more accurately describes the course as it was originally intended--to teach students to make use of the library easily and efficiently.
